HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes, Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? IN DEATH. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

TWO DROWNED ON ONE DAY.

Joseph Salamsky and David Freeborn Were the Victims in Toronto.

Toronto, May 23.—Sunday added two to the long list of drowning fatalities in Toronto Bay, the victims being a little boy, who went swimming, and a young man, who went out rowing.

The first fatality occurred at about 2 o'clock, off the water works dock, foot of Peter street. The victim was 8-year-old Joseph Salamsky, who, while swimming with two companions, dived in the water works slip and did not come up again. Some hours after the body was recovered by grappling. An inquest will be held.

The Second Fatality.

David Freeborn, an employe of the Massey-Harris Company, who boarded with the Martin family at 14 Macdonnell avenue, Parkdale, was the victim of the second fatality, which occurred at about 6 o'clock, in the lake, between Sunnyside and the Humber. The young man, in company with Fred. and Irvine Martin and Robert Devine, a young man from London, who is visiting the Martins, went to Maw's boat house at Sunnyside early in the afternoon and hired a row boat. The four then rowed to the Humber, where they spent a portion of the afternoon. When on their way back the boat was overturned while the oars were being changed, and the four young men were precipitated into the water. They all clutched for the boat, which would hardly support their combined weight, and Freeborn started to swim to the shore, which was about three-quarters of a mile away. He had only covered a short part of the distance when he became exhausted and sank. The body has not yet been recovered.

HAPPY RELEASE

From a Trio of Afflictions.

Paine's Celery Compound Saves the Life of a Lady in Seamo, Man.

The Terrors of Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Headaches are Banished Forever.

Health and Happiness Bestowed on all who Make Use of Paine's Celery Compound.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,

Gentlemen,—I am very pleased to be able to tell you of the great good that I have derived from the use of your Paine's Celery Compound. Before using your valuable Compound I was so crippled with rheumatism that I had to crawl on my hands and knees from one place to another. I also suffered from neuralgia and dreadful headaches, and could not get more than one or two hours of sleep each night. I often thought it would be better to die than live and endure my terrible agony.

I was happily advised to use Paine's Celery Compound, and after the use of six bottles the neuralgia is banished, and I now eat, rest and sleep well. My present improved state of health is due entirely to the health giving properties of Paine's Celery Compound, which has done wonders for me. My husband is now using it for dyspepsia, and it is doing wonders for him. My neighbours to whom I have recommended Paine's Celery Compounded have been greatly blessed.

Yours truly,
MRS. ANNIE R. COBB,
Seamo, Man.

A STRONG ARGUMENT.

Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, N. A. L., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Please accept my thanks for your cheque just handed to me, for $3,901.98, in settlement of my $3,500 Fifteen Year Endowment Policy in your Company. Such a result as this, after the risk on my life has been carried for fifteen years, beginning from forty-five years of age, argues one thing strongly, namely, that the management of the North American Life must be in competent hands. The other options you have offered me, viz.: a Paid up Life policy for $650.00, or a Life Annuity for $401.90, are, I presume, equally liberal, and it affords me much pleasure to recommend your Company to my friends or any one desiring insurance.

A THRILLING OCCURRENCE.

The Sunbeam Overtakes the Majestic on Clear Lake—The Damage of a Trifling Nature—The Majestic Unable to Catch the Sunbeam.

(From a Corespondent)

Speculation has been rife this spring as to which boat plying on the Stony Lake route, should prove the fastest. The matter was settled on Friday afternoon by an exciting race between the steamers Majestic, of Young's Point, and the Sunbeam, of Lakefield.

The two boats were on a trip to Stony Lake on that day, and on the return trip met just before coming into Clear Lake, the Majestic slightly in the lead. The bells jingled for more steam, and soon the smoke was pouring out of the smokestacks of the two boats, and the puffing of the engines could be heard for miles away. The extraordinary noise drew the attention of a number of rivermen on a block of logs, who gazed with astonishment at the sight of the rapidly disappearing boats.

Before the two steamers had proceeded very far the Sunbeam could be observed slowly but surely creeping up on the Majestic, and the excitement was at fever heat when her bows forged past the Majestic, and when the two boats reached Young's Point, the Sunbeam was about three hundred yards in the lead.

The much discussed question has at last been settled, and the Sunbeam can now be justly termed, the "Queen of the Lakes."

The proprietors of the Sunbeam, Messrs. White & Grylls, have left an order with the Wm. Kennedy & Sons, of Owen Sound, for a wheel of a special pattern, which is guarranteed to drive the boat a mile and a quarter an hour faster than the one now used.

The boys must have had a wet time of it yesterday, but fine weather for the rest of the time will more than make up for one day's discomfort.

A SWING BRIDGE WANTED AT LAKEFIELD.

Otherwise Upper Lake Steamers Can not Come to Peterborough

In an interview Capt. Crandell, of the steamer Crandella, stated his strong objections to the high level bridge over the high level bridge over the Trent Valley Canal at Lakefield. The presence of a bridge of this kind will prevent the passage of his steamer and other steamers of a similar class now plying on the more northern waters from passing down the canal so as to reach Peterborough. With such a bridge there these steamers can come no farther than Lakefield. It would seem to be in the interests of this town, therefore, that a swing should be substituted at Lakefield for the proposed high level bridge. Capt. Crandell has brought the matter to the attention of the town council, and hopes that that body will take action that will result in the erection of a swing bridge at the point named, so that steamers of all kinds can come from the northern lakes to the town. The canal is constructed sprcially for purposes of navigation, and Capt. Crandell thinks it a pity that a bridge should be built that will prove an obstace to the use of the canal for these purposes.

LANSDOWNE LODGE SONS OF ENGLAND.

THE MEMBERS ATTEND DIVINE SERVICE IN A BODY.

Rev. H. Symonds, the Chaplain, Preaches a Practical Sermon on the Eve of the Queen's Birthday in St. John's Church.

The members of Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, marched to St. John's church in a body yesterday afternoon, headed by their efficient band, and attended divine service, being addressed by their chaplain, Rev. H. Symonds.

The speaker took as his text the words "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord; and the people whom he hath chosen for his inheritance.—Psalms xxxiii c, 12 v.

We have met together this afternoon, my brethren, explained Mr. Symonds, in accordance with our annual custom of setting apart that Sunday in the year which is nearest to the birthday of our beloved Queen, to come to church as a body of Englishmen united together for the promotion of certain common objects.

You all know that our constitution rests upon a distinctly religious basis, that our ceremonies are always opened and closed with prayer, and that we often recite our conviction that however neglectful some of us may be as individuals, of our religious duties, we hold that faith in God, the God revealed to us in the Scriptures, has been the true source of our national greatness. We believe in the words of my text that that nation is blessed whose God is the Lord; and that people is blessed whom He hath chosen for His inheritance."

I wish to speak to you a very few words this afternoon upon the

for I hold that these objects are in the widest and best sense of that word, religious objects. They are, at all events, objects which find no infrequent mention in the Bible, and when pursued in the right spirit are full of profit to ourselves and to our neighbours.

We may divide the objects of the society to which we belong into three classes. First, we have some individual ends we hope to advance by joining the society. Secondly, there are benevolent objects, and thirdly, national objects.

First. Personal objects. There are some some people who are averse to societies. Their may be some grounds for their objections, but the astonishing multiplication of societies appears to me conclusive proof that they fill a distinct need in modern society. I have been a member of the Sons of England for about twelve years, and what has impressed me with a sense of the value of these societies, is the opportunity they afford to a young man of enrolling himself in some body wherein, imperceptibly it may be, but none the less truly, he is made to feel something of the responsibility of life. He has a reputation to guard for the good of the society. He learns that no man liveth to himself alone. The next the payment of dues lays the foundation of thrifty habits. It may be years before the man draws from the funds of the order for sick dues, but all the time he is paying into the Order he is really saving up money for the proverbial rainy day. Again he is placed in a society which offers him distinct opportunities of self cultivation. He has the opportunity of expressing his views. He learns something of the conduct of business meetings. He is sure to have the chance of in the lodge. All this does much for the training and education of the citizen, and fits him to properly use those rights and privileges which in a democratic country are offered to all law-abiding people. It may be true that in the narrower sense of the word there is in all this nothing that is distinctively religious. But surely all these are at least the allies of Christianity. For what is the object of Christianity. In briefest terms I should define it as the production of the perfect man in the perfect society. Hence everything that tends to the proper development of character, anything that tends to make better, wiser, stronger men and women, must be at least in alliance with Christianity. He that is not against me, said our Saviour, is with me.

2. I pass on now to consider for a moment the benevolent objects of our society. Here, too, the carping critic, or the cynic may have something to say. He may assert that we all put in, in the hope of getting something out of the treasury, and may ask where the benevolence comes in. It is true we do put in expecting to get something out. It is true that all our dues may be looked upon in the light of insurance. It could not be otherwise. But the cynic who should thereupon jump to the conclusion that therefore there was nothing benevolent in the Order would be making a grave mistake. What is it, brethren, that we crave in hours of sickness when we become depressed, when a sense of isolation and loneliness creeps over us? Is it not sympathy? And does not our Order make provision for the visiting of our sick brethren? Do we not all know of cases where brethren have sat up night after night with sick brothers. We will not try to count up these deeds, or to parade them before the world. What is benevolence? It is something more than giving of money. The word means good will. It is the manifestation of a brotherly spirit. But over and above all this, assistance substantial and liberal is freely given over and above what is due, to a brother bending under the

LOAD OF ADVERSITY.

There is no cause in our lodge which meets so ready and so cheerful a response as the cause of the sick brother who who is also poor.

And here indeed we touch upon the directly religious. He that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen, said St. John. It is Christianity that teaches us that we are brethren. It is Christianity who teaches us to do unto others as we would have others do unto us. It is Christianity which teaches us that the love of man is a part of religion as truly as the love of God. It is Christianity that exalts kindness, self-sacrifice, long suffering, gentleness, to the highest eminence.

We are sometimes told that we live in a sceptical age: that faith is breaking down, and that men are giving up the religion of their fathers. It is possible that there are some things which this generation does not so strongly hold as our fathers did before us. But I do not believe that there ever was an age of greater benevolence, greater good-will than the present. And however appearances may be, I do not for a moment believe that religion will suffer or can suffer when the spirit of benevolence is in the ascendant.

But the Sons of England, have with other societies, the individual advantages and the benevolent aims which I have described. It is their national aims that differentiate and distinguish them from other societies. The society is a society of Englishmen or men of English descent. My third and last point then this afternoon is the relation of our national aims to religion.

There is no doubt that patriotism finds a prominent place in the Bible. Never were there such patriots as the Jews. The first Psalm we repeated this evening is the Psalm of an enthusiastic patriot. "The hill of Zion is a fair place and the joy of the whole earth. Upon the north side lieth the city of the Great King." "Walk about Zion and go round about her; and tell the towers thereof. Mark well her bulwarks, set up her houses, that ye may tell them that come after."

of one who has an ardent love of his country, and seeks to stir up the feelings of others for her.

Never was there a more patriotic and never a more religious people than the Jews. But it may be said, This patriotism is in the Old Testament. Does not the New Testament do away with patriotism? Does it not teach the brotherhood of mankind? Does it not break down all barriers of birth and race and country? Did not Jesus Christ found a Church which was to be all inclusive—wherein there should be neither Jew nor Gentile, barbarian, Scythian, bond or free? This might be a serious objection to some, and I ask your attention, brother Englishman, whilst I say a few words upon it.

It is true that Jesus Christ founded a society that was intended to be universal. It is true that all within that circle were to be brethren, because all were to address God as the common Father. No man who really believes in the Lord's Prayer, can deny the brotherhood of all men. He may regard them as erring brothers, as cutting themselves off from brotherhood by sin, or by malice. But none the less he must acknowledge that it was the intention of Christ to bring together all men into one. But the question is, Does this universal brotherhood of necessity do away with national distinctions or national pride? Am I, because I believe in the brotherhood of mankind, to say that I would just as soon be a Russian or a Spaniard as an Englishman? I feel sure, brother Englishmen, that though you may for a moment say that it seems as though, according to the argument, logically one ought to say so, yet your feeling revolts against it. And in this case feeling is right and corrects the apparent force of logic.

For mark: In the same nation we have families. Every family is a little circle of its own. Do you then say, Because I believe in the brotherhood of all Englishmen, therefore I am just as fond of another man's children as of my own. You know that would be quite wrong; it needs no argument to prove it. The fact is, strange as it may appear, the more devoted we are to our own families, the more likely are we to be devoted to our own towns or our own countries. The cosmopolitan, the man who says all people, all countries, are alike to me, he really cares nothing for any of them, or perhaps for anyone except himself.

The truth here is that the larger circle does not abolish the smaller, but includes it. The family circle is included in the national, and the national circle is included in the universal, or that of the church.

But on the other hand there can be no doubt that the fact of there being not only a national brotherhood with its ties, but a universal brotherhood, does affect our relationship to other people. And it teaches us this, that the true patriot is not the better patriot because he hates other peoples. You can be a genuine and an ardent lover of your own country, and yet desire that that country should be a source of blessing, not of cursing, to other peoples. Do you suppose that the tail-twisting American is the best kind of American, the truest American, the most patriotic American. I trow not. It is not from this class that the men have sprung who have in any respect made America great. They are rather the men who seek to conceal the wretchedness of their own patriotism, by loud and foolish abuse of others, they are men who care at heart but little for their country, and much for the spoils which, unfortunately, can be only too easily gathered in by those who with shallow rhetoric hoodwink the masses.

When the Almighty called Abraham and promised to make of him a great and blessed nation, He further declared that in that nation all the nations should find a blessing. That saying has been fulfilled, for of the seed of Abraham, after the flesh, sprang Jesus Christ and the Christian faith. But those words indicate the attitude of every great nation to other nations.

It is an attitude of blessing, not of cursing; of helping, not of hindering. And may we not say, in no spirit of boasting, and without by any means claiming perfection, that England's rule has been a blessing to the peoples wheresoever her sway has extended. Therefore, my brothers, I say cherish to the uttermost your patriotic sentiments. They are not contradicted but rather affirmed by the Word of God.

OBITUARY.

The Late Mrs. Matthew Smith, of Millbrook.

Yesterday Mrs. Matthew Smith, of Millbrook, who was at one time a resident of Peterborough, died at Millbrook in the 84th year of her age. The cause of her death was paralysis, from which she was a sufferer for some years. Her end was peaceful and painless. The deceased lady was a native of Yorkshire, England, from which place she came to Canada in 1841. She had therefore been a resident of this vicinity nearly sixty years. For a few years she was a resident of Peterborough, but most of her life in Canada has been spent in Millbrook and neighborhood. Her husband died fourteen years ago to a week, his death taking place in June. Mrs. Smith leaves behind her six sons and three daughters. The sons are Messrs. Robert Smith of Lindsay, ex-mayor; John Smith of Winnipeg, Matthew Smith, of Buffalo, Jonathan Smith of North Monaghan, and James C. and William Smith, of the Public school staff town. The daughters are Mrs. Basondi, of Honeyeye, N. Y., and Misses Jennie and Fannie Smith, of Millbrook.

A Test Case.

Sometimes we wonder if the people who make ready-to-wear clothing make money. We don't see how they can sometimes; and it will make you wonder, too, if you notice a test case of it just now at H. LeBrun & Co's. Silver Celebration Sale. Go yourself and ask the prices of a few of their leading well made suits. They sell a good looking suit of tweed for a man for $3.50, fashionable three-button cutaway and newest pattern. You won't be able to see how the maker can make any money at $3.50, and LeBrun & Co. must make a little. Men have been heard to say as they examined a splendid worsted ticketed at $7.50, that they had paid $13 for a suit tha very mate to it. Maybe LeBrun & Co. buy mighty close for cash, but somebody must lose money. dw

THE GRAND OLD MAN AS SEEN FROM THE PULPIT.

SERMONS AND REFERENCES BY LOCAL MINISTERS YESTERDAY.

Eloquent Tributes to His Great Noble Unselfish and Faithful Life.

AT ALL SAINTS',

There was a large congregation at All Saints last night, when Rev. Mr. Armitage preached on the subject of Gladstone. He took his text from II Samuel, chapter iii, verse 38, "Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen in Israel today?" After referring to the death of Abner, the preacher went on to point out how great a man Gladstone was—his death aroused regret and sympathy in the whole world. We had too few such noble men, with such lofty ideas in public and private life. He devoted all the sympathies of his great heart and great mind to the welfare of the world, and with no desire or prospect of personal advantage. He sought for neither wealth nor honours—he even refused distinguished honours at the hand of his sovereign. He preferred to be of the people, for he felt that as one of the great democracy he could do more for the advancement and uplifting of his fellow man. Withal he gave great and devoted service to his sovereign and Empire. He was a great man, and few could evoke the deep sympathy and interest his death has caused. He was not great because he was a great scholar and an unequalled orator. It was the man and his personal work that made him great. His unselfish and successful use of his great ability for the improvement of the condition of mankind was his claim to reverence. In his career as a statesman he he was true to his conscientious convictions, a circumstance which explained his changes of opinion, with new light and changed conditions. He may have made mistakes, but in all his acts be was guided by an honest desire to do right. The man in him was what was most to be admired. Even his great opponent, Lord Salisbury said Gladstone was guided by lofty ideals. Though not always in accord with the Queen in opinions, he won her love and respect. Incidentally the preacher paid an eloquent tribute to Her Majesty, referring to her as a model of noble womanhood, both as a woman and a sovereign. There were three lessons to be drawn from the career of Gladstone. He had a definite and high purpose in life and the young were urged to imitate him by setting for themselves a lofty ideal. Gladstone had great humility; though learned and wise, he recognized that his first allegiance was due to God, and to this all other things were subordinated. He lived as he died, in readiness for death. In closing an eloquent tribute to the Grand Old Man the preacher again emphasized the fact that Gladstone refused honours, because he wished to be of the people and for the people, as Christ was.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

Rev. D. O. Crossley, of the Charlotte street church, last evening in referring to the death of Hon. W. E. Gladstone said. There has been sorrow in the hearts of the civilized world during the past week because of the death of one of England's greatest sons. And yet what could be more beautiful than the peaceful and triumphant death which terminated his long and useful life. As an example, of devotion to principle, of contention for what he believed to be right, of simple faith in the Christ of God, and of fidelity in his service, the life of Mr. Gladstone stands almost without an equal in the world's history. He was a great man among the greatest, and yet was an humble follower of the meek and lowly One. Shall we not walk as far as possible in his footsteps that we may come to a like peaceful death?

GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

Rev. S. J. Shorey last evening in the George street Methodist church spoke from I Heb. xi, 4: "He being dead, yet speaketh." At the close of a short sermon on the almost universal desire and longing of men to perpetuate their influence beyond this life, the different moral qualities of the notions from which such longings rise, and the various methods and means by which this end was sought to be attained, Rev. Mr. Shorey said that in so far as a life was selfish it ended with the individual, and in so far as it was unselfish and altruistic, it continued after the individual was gone, and "he being dead, yet speaketh."

He then took occasion to refer to the death of that man in whose honour, it might be said, the flags of the world are at half mast to-day. He spoke of him, first, as a scholar, and said it was indeed very wonderful that a man so long and actively in public life, much of the time in the most responsible offices and complicated affairs of state, should yet have found time for such a sustained interest in literature, and to make such varied and valuable contributions to it.

2. As an orator. He was the foremost orator in the British House of Commons in this century, and the persuasiveness of his oratory was largely due to the evident sincerity of his speech, and to the conviction wrought upon his listeners that it was "out of the heart" his mouth spoke.

3. As a statesman. He was a real patriot and true statesman. His sympathies were of the broadest and his evident intention so good and so honest as to command respect even when it did not secure agreement.

4. As a Christian. Here the great man was still great. Great in his simplicity and his sincerity. His piety was of the humblest but truest kind. Hawarden church has lost one of its devotest worshippers, and the world one of its greatest men. Gladstone the scholar, the orator, the statesman, are gone, but Gladstone the Christian liveth forever.

REV. MR. SYMONDS

In the course of his remarks addressed to the Sons of England yesterday afternoon referred to the magnaminity exhibited by England towards the United States in regard to the attitude she assumed in the recent war complications and he added: "And this too, I believe, would have been the attitude of England's great commoner who last week passed away, and awaits his last resting place in England's national temple, Westminster Abbey. With much of his policy we may be disposed to differ, but we shall not question the sincerity of his motives, the greatness of his mind or the spotless integrity of his life. As Englishmen to one of the greatest of Englishmen, we pay this brief but sincere tribute. We may be sure that he would have been on the side of the oppressed, and in favour of the cause of freedom."

EXECUTION OF TOM NULTY.

The Brutal Murderer of His Three Sisters and Young Brother Died Like a Stole Disgraceful Scene.

Joliette, Que., May 21.—Tom Nulty, the young man who murdered his three sisters and young brother in November last near Rawdon, was hanged in the yard of the county jail here yesterday morning. The drop fell at 9.01.

Hangman Radcliffe and his apparatus did the work well. Otherwise, however, the execution was a disgrace, so much so that Radcliffe lodged a formal complaint.

The whole thing seemed like a circus. Some three hundred were officially admitted to the execution and, of course, these appreciated the solemnity of the hour, but nearly a thousand laughing, jeering men had secured means of access to the roofs of the jail and jail shods by means of ladders, and then spent the time laughing and shouting, entirely careless of the awfully tragic deed about to take place.

Nulty was stolid and apparently as unconcerned as when on trial. He walked up the high stairs of the scaffold unassisted, and with a firm step. Part of the time yesterday he spent in writing letters, by proxy, of course, Mr. Rivet, a young lawyer, writing them for him. One of these was to his parents, in which he frankly owned up to the murder, and asked their pardon. He said he was crazed with love for Miss L'Heureux, and did not see any other way of being able to marry and bring her home.

Nulty's father was at Rivard Hotel, the most unconcerned man in town, and would have witnessed the execution had he been permitted. He took charge of his son's body at 11 o'clock.

The man with a weight on his leg can't hope to win in the race. A man with a weight on his health can't expect to compete in life and business with those who are not handicapped. If his brain is heavy and his blood sluggish, because of constipation, he will not succeed in doing anything very well. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all sickness. Symptoms of it are sallowness, listlessness, poor appetite, bad taste in the month, dizziness, biliousness and lassitude. Constipation can be cured easily and certainly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are not at all violent in their action, and yet they are more certain than many medicines which are so strong that they put the system all out of order. The great advantage of the "Pleasant Pellets" is that they cure permanently.

Russia Sees an Opening.

St. Petersburg, May 21.—The public and the press here are evincing great interest in the future of the Philippines. Much hostility is manifested towards any scheme by which the United States, Great Britain or Germany, individually or jointly, are to retain possession of the Islands, and some of the newspapers urge the Russian Government to endeavor to obtain from Spain a lease of some of the Philippine Islands in order that they may serve as a Russian food base in the Pacific.

From 15 to 20 Spaniards Killed.

New York, May 21.—The New York and Porto Rico steamer Arkadia, which sailed from St. John, P.R., May 14, arrived yesterday, and reports that she was in that port two days after the recent bombardment by the Rear-Admiral Sampson's fleet. Capt. Lloyd said that from 15 to 20 Spaniards were killed and about 60 wounded; many houses were damaged, one of the forts was destroyed and two guns were dismounted.

A RELIABLE OFFER.

Honest Help Free to Men.

The (Peterborough Examiner) is authorized to state by Mr. D. Graham, Box 133, Hagersville, Ont., that any man who is nervous and debilitated or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from overwork, excesses or abuse, such as nervous debility, exhausted vitality, lost vigor, unnatural drains and losses, lack of development, etc., can write to him in strict confidence and receive free of charge full instructions how to be thoroughly cured.

Mr. Graham himself was for a long time a sufferer from above troubles and after trying in vain many advertised remedies, electric belts, etc., became almost entirely discouraged and hopeless. Finally he confided in an old clergyman, whose kind and honest advice enabled him to speedily obtain a perfect and permanent cure. Knowing to his own sorrow, that so many poor sufferers are being imposed upon by unscrupulous quacks, Mr. Graham considers it his duty as an honest man and a firm believer in Christian sympathy and kindness, to give his fellow-men the benefit of his experience and assist them to a cure. Having nothing to sell, he asks for no money, the proud satisfaction of having done a great service to one in need, he rightly considers an ample reward for his trouble. If you write to Mr. Gradam you can rely upon being cured and upon absolute secrecy as well.

Address as above, enclosing a stamp, and refer to the (PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER). No attention, however, will be given to those writing out of mere curiosity, therefore state that you really need a cure.

EMERGENCY RATION.

SUPPLIES CARRIED BY EACH SOLDIER IN UNCLE SAM'S REGULAR ARMY.

The Food That Is to Serve Him for Five Days Weighs Only Ten Pounds and Takes Up a Surprisingly Small Amount of Space What It Is Composed of.

About two years ago a board of United States army officers was ordered to convene in Washington and get up an "emergency ration" for the army. After many months of hard work the present ration was adopted. The first point the board had to decide was what constituted the "emergency," and it was decided that an emergency was such an occasion as required the troops to subsist on food carried on their persons. After many experiments the following foods were decided upon: Hard bread, coffee or tea, bacon, pea meal, pepper, saccharine, salt and tobacco. After many trials and many disappointments the foods decided upon were put up in such shape as to be palatable and at the same time retain their nourishing qualities.

The ration for one day consists of ten ounces of bacon, 16 ounces of hard bread, four ounces of pea meal, four ounces of coffee, or one half ounce of tea, four grains of saccharine, 64-100 ounces of salt, 4-100 ounces of pepper and one-half ounce of tobacco. The total of the weight for five days is a little over ten pounds. This ration is never used for over five days, the board having decided that such time was the maximum time for which men could live on the ration, still keep up their physical strength and be in good fighting condition. This ration is kept in the commissary storehouse at all military posts ready for immediate use. The illustration given shows how it is put up in small packages. The bacon, cut into a piece weighing 50 ounces, would be wrapped up in a paper prepared for the purpose and kept in stock. The pea meal comes wrapped as shown, and resembles a thick, short Roman candle. A man would carry five, one for each day's ration. The hard bread is not the proverbial "hard tack" of olden times. It comes in the shape of small oyster crackers, one pound to a box. For five days a man would carry five boxes of the size shown.

U. S. EMERGENCY RATION.

Small cotton bags are issued in which to carry the roasted and ground coffee and the salt. The bags shown are half the actual size, as are all the drawings. A small brown paper box, like a pill box, contains the pepper, while the ten saccharine tablets (extra strong) are carried in another small pill box. Each tablet contains two grains, the box holding ten, two for each day. These tablets are so strong that a small piece will sweeten a large cup of coffee or tea. Each man carries in his haversack a folding meat can, with a handle that admits of its use as a kind of sauce pan. With this and the bacon and pea meal fairly good soup can be made, coffee or tea being made in the tin cup. It may seem strange to many in reading the components of this important ration to find tobacco embraced in it. Those habituated to its use suffer acutely when deprived of it, and as it is the object of the emergency ration to keep the powers of the individual at their maximum for the time being on the smallest amount of food to be carried, it was argued that half an ounce of tobacco would conduce more to comfort while on short rations than would the addition of half an ounce of bread or bacon. Hence the tobacco was added. The man who does not use tobacco would find no trouble in "swapping off" his tobacco to some other man who did use it for an equal amount of something to eat. During the past summer several practice marches were made by regular troops throughout the country, on which marches the command lived for five days on this ration, and, while the men would not choose this form of food, by choice, experience proved that men can stand a great deal of hard work living on it.

This ration must not be confused, as it frequently is, with the regular field ration. When a company goes into the field each man is allowed his share of beef, bacon, flour, beans, potatoes, onions, coffee, sugar, candles, soap, salt, pepper and baking powder, but each man does not carry his share. It is issued in bulk to the company, and carried in the wagons and cooked by the company's cooks, each man getting his share at meal times. The weight of the field ration for five days would be over 19 pounds, a little too much to add to the weight already placed on a man carrying his clothing, equipments and ammunition.

Reading and Eye Strain.

The Medical Press points out the fact that the size of the printed characters is a more important factor in the production of visual fatigue than any other, and the conclusion arrived at is that type less than 1.5 millimeters in height should not be employed. The degree of illumination, so far as concerns daylight in fairly lighted rooms, is of much less importance, although deficient illumination, especially when the source is an artificial light, will, under certain circumstances, induce visual fatigue more rapidly even than small type. Whenever artificial light is employed a white light is said to be preferable to a yellow light, contrary to general opinion.

It is economy to profit by the experience of others. Thousands have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, why not you?

Sores Gone. Skin Clear.

Mrs. Philip Mitchell, St. Mary's, Ont., says:—"My little boy, aged 10, was a complete mass of sores, caused by bad blood. We could find nothing to cure him. Finally I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and before half the bottle was gone he began to improve, and by the time the bottle was finished he had not a sore on him."

Hagyard's Yellow Oil cures all pain in man or beast; for sprains, cuts, bruises, callous lumps, swellings, inflammation, rheumatism and neuralgia it is a specific.

OLD SMOKESTACKS.

An Article For Which There Is Always a Demand.

Among the very great variety of things that may be bought at secondhand are smokestacks of iron or of steel. It may be that an establishment puts in a bigger boiler and wants a bigger stack. If it is using a steel or an iron stack, the old one is taken down carefully and a new one set up. The old stack may be sold to a dealer in secondhand boilers and machinery, or the owner may keep it and sell it himself to somebody that wants a secondhand smokestack. If it is sold to a dealer, he may remove it to his own yard, or it may be that the original owner keeps it on his premises until the dealer has sold it. A manufacturer may move from one place to another and sell the old plant, or parts of it. Here would be a secondhand smokestack. Secondhand stacks are bought by various users. It may be that the smokestack of an establishment is worn out and that the boiler is not and that a secondhand stack would last out the life of the boiler. In such a case the user would get a secondhand stack if he could find one suitable. Secondhand stacks may be used with various temporary plants set up by contractors and others. A smokestack may be blown down in a windstorm and the user supply the place of it with one bought secondhand.

A steel or iron stack costs about half as much as a brick stack. A secondhand iron stack costs about half as much as a new one. Stacks of metal are made now usually of steel. The steel used costs now less than wrought iron. There is an increasing use of steel instead of brick stacks. Steel stacks up to 6 and 7 feet in diameter would be classed as portable stacks; larger stacks would be of more or less permanent character. Steel smokestacks are now made up to 18 feet in diameter. Very large smokestacks may be lined with brick.

Secondhand smokestacks up to 2 feet in diameter are likely to be found in stock in the yard of the dealer in secondhand boilers and machinery, and he is likely to have stacks of larger sizes elsewhere. There is always a demand for secondhand smokestacks.—New York Sun.

Many people burn the candle of life at both ends. Some men who never go into vicious dissipation use up their energies just as much by overwork or late hours; and nearly all women are compelled by circumstances to use up their vital powers beyond all reason: It may be in housework; or social demands; or the bearing and rearing of children: At any rate the candle of life is too rapidly consumed.

Some people need to have their natural vigor constantly reinforced in the same proportion that it is used up. They need the fortifying help of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a powerful alterative and invigorant of the digestive functions and lives; it cleanses the blood, and makes fresh blood and healthy flesh. Nervous, debilitated women should take it in conjunction with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription which is specially designed for female weakness and nervous troubles.

Mrs. Sallie Kauffman, of Virgil City, Cedar Co., Mo., writes: "I had suffered from displacement of internal organs and female weakness for one year. Had a bearing down sensation and very disagreeable feeling after my second child was born; I could be on my feet only a few minutes until he was six weeks old, then I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription.' I took seven bottles in all. After taking the first bottle I felt much better. I think I am entirely cured of all my troubles. I can do all my work and am on my feet all day. I am in much better health now than I have been in four years; am fleshy and gaining strength very fast."

By writing to Dr. Pierce who is chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., careful professional advice will be obtained free of cost and specially adapted to the individual case. Dr. Pierce's great 1000-page Medical Adviser will be sent free for 21 cents; the cost of customs and postage.

WHEAT UNSTEADY.

Conflicting Factors at Work Influencing the Price of the Cereal—Toronto's Big Live Stock Market.

Friday Evening, May 20.

"England wants 45,000,000 bushels of wheat in the next ten months. This is more than prospective supplies."

The above cable from London was one of the bullish factors in the wheat market to-day, and others were reports of injuries to European crop, and of an extension of the French wheat duty suspension until Oct. 1. To offset these influences, however, there were the lower cables, an increase in the Argentine shipments, fine crop weather in the United States and finally large receipts in the Northwest, indicating a probable increase in the visible supply for the week. Acting under these influences wheat was erratic on the Chicago board to-day. May fell 5c over night, but closed at yesterday's cash figure. July sold down to $1.05½ and closed at $1.06⅝, 1⅛c higher than yesterday. The September option advanced to 89½c and closed at 89⅝c, representing a gain of ¼c for the day. Little fluctuations were noticeable on the other American boards.

At Liverpool July wheat fell 2¼d, September 1¾d and December ⅝d below yesterday's last quotations. English country markets were easy. At Antwerp wheat was unchanged, and the same may practically be said of the market at Paris, where flour rose 10 to 70 centimes during the day.

At Toronto Ontario wheat was a little firmer, $1.08 middle freights being bid for No. 2 red. A few transactions went through at this figure, but holders as a rule stuck for a cent more. On the St. Lawrence market some hundred bushels of red were disposed of at $1.12 to $1.15½

B. B. Osler Attacked by a Woman.

Toronto, May 21.—Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., had an exciting interview with a former lady client in his office, Freehold building, yesterday afternoon, and the lady made things very unpleasant while she was there. She is Mrs. Sarah Bowen, or Stevens, and some time ago, it is said, Mr. Osler unsuccessfully conducted a case for her. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Bowen, or Stevens, called on Mr. Osler, and after a stormy outburst attacked him with a chair. This was taken from her and she then sailed into the renowned lawyer in a pugilistic manner and struck him a vicious blow on the left eye with her clenched fist. The infuriated woman then dashed from the office, caught the elevator and got a start of the employes of the firm who were pursuing her. She got into a rig in waiting, but at Richmond street it was stopped.

A policeman quietly asked the woman her name. Standing up in the rig the disappointed litigant shrieked, "That man Osler robbed me of $10,000, but I blacked both the nigger's eyes. You'll see the ambulance after him in a minute."

The woman gave her name and said her address was 68 Alexander street. Mr. Osler swore out an information against his assailant charging her with assault.

She Liked Sailing.

The following true tale is a most curious instance of living well on nothing a year without breaking the laws of the land. About twenty years ago a steam packet company of Liverpool wished to buy a piece of land which was owned by a "stay-at-home spinster," as her neighbors described her. She sold her land at a very low price, but insisted upon a clause being inserted in the agreement giving her the right, at any time during her life, to travel with a companion in any of the company's vessels.

When the agreement was closed she sold her furniture and went on board the first outgoing ship belonging to the packet company. For years this wise spinster lived nearly all the time upon one ship or another, frequently accompanied by a companion, according to the agreement. This was always a person who otherwise would have been a regular passenger, but who purchased her ticket at reduced rates by paying the spinster instead of the packet company. The company offered her more than twice the value of the land if she would give up her privilege; but this she would not do. Her reply was: "You got the land cheap, and I like sailing; so we ought both to be satisfied."

AVOIDING "A TOUCH."

One Woman's Cheerful Method of Denying a Polite Request.

Men have something to learn from women in the art of warding off "touches" for coin. Women respond to such requests about once in every thousand times, but they are scientific in their refusals. A Washington woman with a reputation as a borrower turned up at the home of one of her friends the other morning with a much done over story about a persistent and threatening dressmaker and the usual request for the loan—"pay it back tomorrow, certain"—of $5.

"Why, my dear, certainly," was the pleasant response to her carefully rehearsed little yarn. "You poor thing, you! Just wait till I run up stairs and get my purse."

She ran up stairs. The male head of the house happened to be in the room where she kept her purse. He saw her dig the purse out of a chiffonier drawer and deliberately remove a wad of bills from it, leaving about 37 cents in silver and copper in the change receptacle. The man was mean enough to lean over the stair railing when his wife went down stairs to the parlor with her flattened pocketbook in her hand.

"Oh, I'm so sorry, Mrs. X.," he heard her say, "but I really thought I had the money. I find, though, that John, as usual, has been at my purse—I heard him say something about settling a plumber's bill last night when I was half asleep—and the mean thing has only left me enough for car fare. Too bad! Of course, you know, if I had it," etc.—Washington Post.

CANADA LIFE
Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,093.05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3 066, for the sum of $6,185,996, of which, however, 266 for $521,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $373,360 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5,291,636, under 2 609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $798,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,168 43, and Endowment policies for $128,846.92, having matured, these sums, as well as $218,481.29 for profits, $145 411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,953,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,272,486.05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,678,915.67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company. I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, the prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Merritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

UNCLE SOL

Receives a Letter From Jack.

Since the operation performed last week Uncle Sol has been improving rapidly. Under the kind and efficient care of the nurses at the hospital he is now sitting up and receiving callers.

Aunt Maria, his loving, devoted wife, has been his constant companion, except when she went to the post office to enquire for the long-looked-for letter from her boy Jack.

On Friday the Y.M.C.A. Secretary and a few of the local ministers were received, as well as the Mayor, who from the first has so kindly looked after the comfort of this stranger in town.

Uncle Sol, during his illness, has manifested quite a desire for writing letters, and as the secretary was about to leave requested him to drop his letters in the box at the Y.M.C.A.

"Ah! but we have no box," rejoined the secretary.

"No box! Whoever heard of the equal? Why in every large town or city where a Y.M.C.A. exists there is always sure to be a letter box. Well, now, as soon as I get well, mark my word, if I don't raise an agitation for that 'ere box."

The electric storm of Thursday morning had a disquieting effect on Uncle's nerves, not having been used to the like for some years.

Being anxious to know the cause of the great rainfall, he queried of one of the visitors thus:

"Can you tell me why we have had so many showers lately?"

"Yes," returned the stranger, "I think I can. It appears the Y.M.C.A. Outing Club has been going to hold an illuminated bicycle parade; and each night they have chosen has been preceded by a liberal supply of rain and mud."

Well, well, this is strange—Hello, Maria, back again?

Yes, Sol, but I am so tired after such a long walk; they should have three or four post offices in this city. But I have a letter from dear Jack, poor boy. I was in such a hurry to get back to let you see it I didn't take time to open it.

Be quick, Maria, let's hear what my boy has to say:—

TAMPA, April 27th, 1898.

Dear Father and Mother:

We arrived here the third day after leaving Chicago. Had a fine trip, and have good quarters in this town.

I hope you are all settled and well, and liking your new, or, I should say, your old, home.

I met in with a young Cuban since I arrived here, and he and I have become fast friends. It would stir your heart to hear him relate the thrilling experiences he and his mother have come through during the three years of insurrection.

He is a nephew of Maceo, the great leader of the Cuban insurgents.

Being the only boy he was much loved by his father and mother, who endeavoured by the peaceful pursuit of sugar plantation in Santiago de Cuba to learn enough money to leave when he became of age and go to some warless country.

His mother, although a sister of the great belligerent leader, had none of the war-like spirit of his brother, and little wonder that they should innocently suffer at the hands of the insurgents and their American friends.

He tells me that one night his uncle with a whole band of rebels came to his home, and demanded that his father go with them to help land some ammunition and stores brought in by a Yankee ship. His father did not wish to go but they came in the house, called him out, and tied him to a tree, after which they sought him and his mother who were in hiding under the bed, clasped in each other's arms.

The men cruelly dragged them out and putting them in a wagon drove them away.

The poor fellow when he was telling me, burst into tears as he related the untold agonies of his poor dear mother for months while confined in one of their prisons. He has never seen his father since and does not know whether he is dead or alive.

As for himself he escaped from his guards one night and has not seen the face of his mother since.

He told me he was now going to enlist with the American army for the sole reason of rescuing his poor mother from the hands of the heartless insurgents. He said he would rather fight with the Spaniards, but he feared the insurgents might put his mother to death before his face if he were in the Spanish ranks; whereas being on the Yankee side he would be more likely to save her alive.

Kindly excuse me, dear mother, for quitting now, but we have just been ordered to prepare for drill.

I remain,
Your affectionate son,
JACK.

A MOTORMAN'S VICTORY.

Over Diabetes. Gained by the Power of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto, May 23—In a large city like Toronto, there is always much sickness, kidney diseases largely predominating. The street railway employees, exposed as they are to all the inclemencies of the weather are particularly liable to kidney disease. But they all know how to conquer this enemy.

For instance: Mr. T. H. O'Reilly, 27 Niagara Street, motorman, No. 624, was for three years a great sufferer from Diabetes. Every remedy failed to help him, till he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him.

It is cases like this, where the patient and the cure are equally well known, that are the test of a remedy, and Dodd's Kidney Pills have always stood it successfully. They cure all kidney complaints.

IN THE SOUTH.

A Peterborough Boy is Doing Well in Georgia.

Mr. J. C. Douglas, formerly of Peterborough, has secured a position as business manager of the National Monthly in Atlanta, Georgia, a journal devoted to insurance interests. A couple of articles of merit appear over his signature in the current number, one of which is appended:

THE INSURANCE WRITER

Oh, its in the merry spring-time I love to hop around,
Tra-la-la, tra-la-la, tra-la-la!
And collar every person on this green earth to be found—
For my jollity's unbounded, and my style is negligee,
And I write a hundred policies on every blessed day,
And I'll tell you how I do it if you'll listen my lay—
Tra-la-la, tra-la-la, tra-la-lee!

There is money for the agent in it you will say—
And that must be the reason why he feels so very gay—
Tra-la-la tra-la la, tra-la-lee!
But come around the corner and I'll make it very clear
That the reason of my jollity is not so very queer,
For Philanthropy's my mission, and the aim of my career—
Tra-la-la, tra-la-la, tra-la-lee!

Oh, I give a man a tickler when I ask him if he knows—
Tra la-la, tra-la-la, tra-la-lee!
How his family would live if his earthly life should close—
Tra-la-la, tra-la-la, tra-la-lee!
But soon I make him happy as ever man can be,
For in accident or sickness he easily can see
How a policy will benefit in our Societie—
Tra-la la, tra-la-la, tra-la-lee!

Oh, the National-Indemnity's a winner, I'll be bound—
Tra-la-la, tra-la-la, tra-la-lee!
For the surplus stacked behind it proves that it is sound—
Tra-la-la, tra-la-la, tra-la-lee!
And the man who keeps his dues all paid up to the mark,
Need never be afraid of a burglar in the dark,
Or a bunco man or lawyer, or other kind of shark,
For a policy with us makes an accident a lark—
Tra-la-la, tra-la-la, tra-la-lee!

So now you see the reason I love to hop around—
Tra-la-la, tra-la-la, tra-la lee!
For I let the people know where true happiness if found—
Tra-la-la, tra-la-la, tra-la-le!

Oh, it ever is our mission, through all the shining years,
To jollify the orphans and to dry the widow's tears,
Then all will bless the agent as their cloud of trouble clears—
Tra-la-la, tra-la-la, tra-la-lee!

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Miss Billie Stephenson and Mr. Robert Adams.

Christ Church, Omemee, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, when Miss Ellie, second daughter of T. Stephenson, Esq., reeve of Omemee, and Mr. Robt. Adams, were married by Rev. Wilson McCann, a former rector of the parish.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, and the bride looked charming, dressed in pale grey cashmere, trimmed with passementerie, white silk and chiffon. She was attended by her sister, Miss Daisy, becomingly gowned in pale green organdie muslin, with lace and chiffon trimmings.

Prior to her marriage Miss Stephenson was presented with a beautiful ebony and bronze clock and an address by the congregation of Christ church, where she has been a faithful organist for many years. Among the many other handsome and useful presents were a hymn book with music from the Sunday school and a beautiful rocking chair from the Mission Band.

During the ceremony there was a slight shower, but at the conclusion, just as the Wedding March was played by Miss E. Curry the sun burst forth and two rainbows appeared—a happy augury that the many good wishes that followed the newly-wedded couple as they stepped forth from the church into the sunshine, would be fulfilled in their future lives.

MASON'S MODEL GROCERY.

Handsome Interior Furnishings and Well Arranged Fittings—New Stock Opened Out.

E. F. Mason & Co., grocers, whose premises were visited by fire over a month ago, have re-opened with their store completely remodelled. Compared with the old store, which was admitted to be well appointed and well kept, the new interior is far ahead of it, and furnishes a pleasing picture which leaves a favourable impression of the artistic and practical good taste of the whole arrangement.

Those who wish to see an up-to-date modern grocery store, fitted up with the most approved furnishings of the period, should look through these modern premises. There's not a nook or cranny of the store but is full of suggestions. Everything has been made particularly bright and attractive. The fittings are of a new pattern in light oak, and the fixtures are designed after Mr. Mason's own idea for securing scrupulous cleanness in every shelf, drawer and bin. The attractiveness of the interior is heightened by two massive British plate mirrors, which are placed in the centre of the south shelving and in the rear part of the store. The new stock is well assorted and is entirely fresh, being personally selected by Mr. E. F. Mason. Customers can be assured of even better service than before, and with the advantage of greater security for keeping articles of food, teas, etc., in better condition. The public in general are cordially invited to inspect the store, which will be found sufficiently attractive to repay the visit. Having placed the business on a cash basis the firm can assure buyers that prices will be lower than before, while qualities will be kept up to the well known excellent standard always maintained by the house. 2d 1w

Mid-May Extras

FOR

THE WEEK BEFORE THE 24th.

We purpose that no store in Canada shall be more liberal in dealing with customers. Preparations have been going on all over the store for doing more business this week than last. We have arranged to have plenty of extra help to serve the crowds of shoppers, and improvements have been made in the parcel and delivery system. Last Thursday, especially, there were hundreds of disappointed customers. Of course a good many came late, and some of the advertised goods were sold out sooner than expected. It's as well to remember the old adage, "The early bird catches the worm," and to govern yourselves accordingly. Never was the power of low-priced leaders for Spot Cash so thoroughly exemplified as at our last Thursday's sale of "Specials."

This week will be another week of wonderful value-giving and great money-saving opportunities. It seems incredible that we should improve on the Bargain Triumphs we have been offering in Men's and Boys' Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Furnishings, &c., but we mean to do it this week—the preparatory week before Queen's Birthday. These are a few of the trade-winners for every day of this week:

TRIUMPHS IN ORDERED CLOTHING

Here's the bargain that should interest dressy men who prefer to have their garments made to order. In the regular way a suit made to your order from extra choice Tweeds and Cheviots, of the newest designs and colourings, would cost you $16 to $20, but for quick sales this week that will bring us the biggest Ordered Clothing trade we have ever known, we offer you your choice of this Special lot of new fabrics just arrived for $12.70 the Suit

Made to Your Order.

These Suits will be cut and tailored by practical workmen, and perfect fit and satisfaction, or your money back—any day this week.

TRIUMPHS IN FURNISHINGS.

It will certainly not be good form to be out of style on Queen's Birthday. It won't do to be without a new pair of Shoes, a new Hat, a new Shirt and Collar and Cuffs, a new set of Underwear and Hosiery, or any other item of dress that goes to make the well-dressed man. We advise early shopping; many of these items will not last long at these prices:—

Men's $2.50 Fur Felt Soft Hats—newest spring shapes, colours pearl, fawn, drab and black. Special all this week—

$1.45.

Men's $3.50 Boots, Dongola, Kangaroo, Calf, Tan and Chrome, fine smooth linings, newest Toe Shapes, all sizes. Special all this week

$2.25.

Men's Fine Cambric, White or Coloured Shirts, extra heavy material, well laundried. Special all this week 49c.

You will find plenty of bright and attractive chances in every department similar to the above. Every statement of this advertisement will be backed up by the goods.

Clothing for the 24th.

Success follows Success! This is growing time—just watch us grow. The more we grow the cheaper we can afford to sell.

Our 3 Great Special Thursday Bargain Triumphs will be followed for the next 3 days with a great Revolution in the Prices for Queen's Birthday Suits, for Men, Young Men and Boys—all ready to put on.

God Save the Queen!

The early buyer gets the pick of the offerings. Quick sales, is what we are after.

HAVE SQUADRONS MET

Persistent Reports of Heavy Cannonading South of Cuba.

THE WINDWARD NAVAL BATTLE.

Camara's Fleet Yet at Cadiz—Spain's Blind Naval Movement—A Small Fight at Santiago de Cuba—Lively While It Lasted—Some New Declarations of Neutrality—War News.

New York, May 25.—A Port au Prince special dated Monday says: The cannonading heard at Port de Paix is throwing that town into a state of the wildest excitement. Despatches say heavy firing is going on to the northwest in the direction of the Windward Passage. Twenty shots were counted at first; then there was a brief lull, following which the cannonading was resumed. There is no doubt in Port au Paix that the fleets of Sampson and Cervera are engaging in combat, and that full details will soon be learned. It is believed that the shots heard Friday and Saturday were skirmishes between the scout ships of both fleets.

AN UNCONFIRMED RUMOR.

No Information at Washington Regarding the Windward Naval Battle.

Washington, May 25.—Notwithstanding the persistent rumors in circulation to the effect that a great naval engagement has been fought in the Windward Passage, resulting in the destruction of the Spanish fleet, it can be stated positively that the Navy Department has no information that tends, in the slightest, to confirm these rumors.

Quotes Unimpeachable Authority.

New York, May 25.—A Key West despatch to the Evening World, under yesterday's date, says:

I am informed by unimpeachable authority that we will strike the Spanish fleet within seventy-two hours at most, and perhaps even sooner. I am informed by the same authority that the Spanish fleet was at Santiago Monday morning at eleven o'clock, when the scoutship left there to report to the Naval Department here and at Washington. That was sixteen hours ago. Only miscalculation on our part and luck on the Spanish side can save the Capo Verde fleet from annihilation. They will simply be overwhelmed. The naval colony to-night is excited and happy.

DEWEY THREATENED.

American Rear-Admiral Replied in Undaunted Fashion and Would Take No Nonsense From Germans.

New York, May 25.—The Evening Journal has a copyrighted despatch from Manila, May 19, via Shanghai, May 24, which says:

Admiral Dewey has been threatened by the German Consul here, who, after an interview with General Augusti, commander of the Spanish army in the Philippines, tried to land provisions from a German ship. Dewey declined to permit it.

The German Consul thereupon declared that he would force the landing with the aid of two German cruisers.

Dewey declared he would fire upon the cruisers if they attempted to carry out the consul's threat. The provisions have not yet been landed.

The Germans are very friendly with the Spaniards, and hold frequent conferences.

It should be remembered Germany has not yet openly declared her neutrality.

A Shanghai special to the Journal says: Admiral Montejo, who commanded the Spanish fleet which was destroyed by Dewey, is to be court-martialled on the charge of cowardice.

A Key West special to the Sun says: Major Jova of the Cuban army arrived to-day. He reports 300 Spaniards killed by the fire from the American ships at the bombardment of Cardenas. When the Cubans attacked Santa Clara, May 19, they found 1,100 Spanish soldiers in the hospital. All had been injured in the fight with the blockading squadron.

A Terrible Position of Affairs.

New York, May 25.—A copyrighted despatch in the Evening World from Hong Kong, under yesterday's date, reports Manila advices as follows: The situation at Manila is desperate. Food is scarce and meat is exhausted, while all the canned stuff is nearly gone. Two weeks will exhaust the available supply.

The volunteers demand food, but the Spanish Government authorities refuse to give it, and riots are threatened. A delegation is said to be preparing to wait on United States Consul Williams, as the citizens fear an outbreak.

The insurgents control the surrounding country and Chief Aguinaldo, sent by Consul Wildman here, has arrived, and now his staff is organizing the rebels. Foreign residents are moving from Cavite. Spanish reports say that five hundred were killed and seven hundred wounded in the bombardment by Admiral Dewey.

All classes are waiting anxiously the arrival of American troops. There is no sickness on board the United States ships.

CAMARA'S FLEET AT CADIZ.

Report Regarding Its Movements May Be Sent Out as a Blind.

London, May 25.—A despatch to the Evening News from Madrid, published yesterday afternoon, says:

"No news is allowed out of Cadiz, and, although it is announced to-day that Admiral Camara starts hence to-morrow to rejoin the fleet, it would not be surprising to learn that the squadron had already left and that the presence of Admiral Camara, as well as the official announcement anent the fleet shortly sailing westward, have been a blind to cover its departure.

"There is some anxiety here as to whether Admiral Cervera's entire squadron has been able to re-unite in Cuban waters. If the Ministers are aware of the precise whereabouts of Admiral Cervera they are keeping it secret."

Spain's Reserve Fleet.

Madrid, May 25.—The Spanish reserve fleet at Cadiz has received instructions to be prepared to sail at a moment's notice. The fleet consists of the battleship Pelayo, armored cruiser Emperador Carlos V., protected cruiser Alfonso III., the torpedo destroyer Proserpina, the auxiliary cruisers Patria and Rapido, and three large transport ships. Their destination is at present a profound secret.

DEWEY'S EPISTLE.

Scarcity of Provisions at Manila—Strict Blockade Continued—An Outbreak of the Natives Threatened.

Washington, D.C., May 25.—The Navy Department yesterday received a cablegram from Admiral Dewey, as follows:

Manila, May 20, via Hong-Kong, May 24. Secretary Navy, Washington:

Situation unchanged. Strict blockade continued. Great scarcity of provisions in Manila. Foreign subjects fear an outbreak of the Spanish soldiers, and they will be transferred to Cavite by the foreign men-of-war in the harbor. Aguinaldo, the rebel commander-in-chief, who was brought here from Hong-Kong on the McCulloch, is organizing a force of native cavalry, and may render assistance that will be valuable.

LORD WOLSELEY'S IDEA.

British Commander-in-Chief Gives Out Some Wholesome Advice.

London, May 25.—Lord Wolseley, the Commander-in-Chief of the British Army, in conversation with an American yesterday, said:

"The United States would make a mistake in attempting to invade Cuba with volunteers who are not fully drilled and disciplined. If that was done, the United States might expect heavy reverses when those troops encountered the trained Spanish troops on land. It would be a grave error to underestimate the strength of the adversaries of the American troops. It would cause me regret to see the Americans even temporarily beaten, as all my sympathies are with them.

"It is fortunate for the United States that this war is not with a first-class power, for it is evident that in such an encounter they would be badly beaten at the beginning, although I believe the Americans are able to beat any nation in the long run."

The Mangrove Captured.

Key West, May 25.—A report reached here last night that the lighthouse tender Mangrove had been captured by the enemy while trying to cut the Santiago cable, and that her entire complement of officers and men had been butchered. The Navy Department at Washington had also received notification of the Mangrove's capture, but the officials refused to make any statement on the subject. Her crew, all told, numbered thirteen.

Cervera Has Instructions.

Madrid, May 25.—A despatch received here from Havana says: "Secret orders have been given to Admiral Cervera as to what course to pursue in the event of the Americans attempting to cut communications between Cuba and Spain.

"American warships continue to occupy stations outside of Havana, Cienfuegos, Cardenas and Sanitago de Cuba. There are now nineteen American warships before Havana."

A Formal Protest Entered.

Toronto, May 25.—The trainmen employed upon the seventh district of the Grand Trunk have been the first to enter a formal protest against the new rules and regulations which the management intend to enforce upon the employes in the running department throughout the system.

A memorial has been addressed to Mr. W. F. Maclean, M.P., by the dissatisfied trainmen, and the matter will be brought up in the House to-day and enquiry instituted in behalf of the men.

A Fine Offer if True.

Mayor Bennett of Lowell

Heartily Endorses This Testimonial--Hood's Sarsaparilla Triumphant in a Severe Test

The testimonials in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla are worth reading because they tell things worth telling. Just spare a few moments to read this statement below:

No man is more favorably known in and about Epping, N. H., than Mr. Joseph Stokes, the husband of the lady referred to. His word is as good as a U. S. bond, and every statement from him or his family may be most implicitly relied upon. Read this:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen:—For fully twenty years my mother has been seriously troubled by a sore on her nose. For some time we thought it of a cancerous nature, and it was removed three times. A physician in Boston said the sore was not a cancer, but

"A Catarrhal Sore."

It discharged and was, of course, very annoying as well as painful. Sometimes it was as large as a half dollar, and it was necessary to keep it bandaged and protected most of the time. About two years ago the sore seemed to be spreading over her face, and was larger than when the Boston physician removed it. There is no question but that its origin was in

with which my mother has always been troubled. Two years ago she decided to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a faithful trial, also using, as an outward application, Hood's Olive Ointment. It was soon noticed, to the joy of the family, that the sore was diminishing in size and was becoming less troublesome. This encouraged her to continue the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. She took 11 bottles, and now

Her Face is Well.

The sore has entirely disappeared, leaving not a scar, but only a slight mark, which we think may in time totally disappear. It is such a comfort to her and such a joy to the rest of the family that we feel indebted more than we can express, to Hood's Sarsaparilla, that she has been cured after twenty years of suffering." MISS E. A. STOKES, Epping, N. H.

From Mr. Stokes.

"I am glad to say that the cure of my wife is exactly as stated in my daughter's letter above." JOSEPH STOKES.

Hon. J. W. Bennett,

Mayor of Lowell, takes pleasure in voluntarily adding his endorsement to the above testimonial, as follows:

"I know the parties referred to in the letters above, and endorse them as thoroughly reliable. I have known about this case for some time, and am glad this testimonial has been sent to C. I. Hood & Co." J. W. BENNETT, Lowell, Mass.

THE PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

The sixteenth annual report of the Provincial Board of Health of Ontario has been published. From it we learn of the improved conditions of the public health, as manifested in the reports transmitted from the various local boards. The infrequency, as compared with past years, of two painful and fatal affections, smallpox and diphtheria, is very marked; and although scarlatina and typhoid fever have been prevalent in a few localities, they have been by no means general through the country. The satisfactory state of health thus indicated may, with justice, be claimed as due to the vigilance and activity of the boards of health in the several localities, guided and instructed as they are from the Provincial Board and by its active secretary. Consumption, as reported, continues its fatal course, and unless our social and domestic habits change very much, it is feared that from this disease there will always exist much destruction of life. The evil may be said to be thoroughly a house disease, and until there comes to be a general and well settled conviction on this point, a conviction that consumption owes its prevalence to house infection and not to heredity, due means will hardly be taken to prevent its communication. Homes and hospitals for consumptives are good in a measure, but the agents of consumption are so abundant, that such institutions cannot have at once a very appreciable effect in diminishing the extent of the malady. The discipline of the "Hospital for Consumptives" will scarcely be maintained in a private house. Scarlatina has appeared in some localities and the cases have not, in these places, been few, but the disease has not manifested any great malignity. Typhoid fever has also had its subjects but its victims have been comparatively rare. Apart from such suffering as may have been associated with it, there is an interest connected with this malady which should always be kept in view, that is, the necessity of pure water for domestic use, as the best preventive. The malady is "water borne," and if all who communicate with, or live in a neighbourhood having the benefit of pure water, there will be little if any typhoid.

NEWS OF THE MEET.

Some Interesting Squibs about the Big Dominion Day Meet.

At a meeting of the Peterborough and Victoria Bicycle Clubs, of Peterborough, strong committees were appointed to look after the comfort and to afford every possible assistance to visiting bicyclists who attend the meet. The committees include those on Entertainment, Trips, Reception, Riders, Decoration and Excursions. They are planning that all who attend shall have a real good time.

The Athenæum and the Wanderer's bands, of Toronto, which have been such a remarkable and amusing feature of previous Meets, will be out in full force at Peterborough on July 1st and 2nd. The bands are a host as entertainers.

Stony Lake, to the north of Peterborough, is a famous summer resort region. The hundreds of islands in the lake region are clustered with handsome cottages. It is a delightful spot in which to spend a day or two. Cyclists who go to the Meet at Peterborough and who wish to spend Sunday following up the lakes, can have accommodation arranged for by writing the Meet secretary, Mr. F. H. Dobbin, at Peterborough, stating what accommodation they require and for how many.

The Peterborough Wheelmen's Meet Committee found it necessary to build 200 lineal feet more of grand stand to be used in connection with the 200 feet already provided for the accommodation of sightseers at the Meet on July 1st and 2nd.

The secretary of the local club has received copies of the entry sheets for the Ontario Provincial Meet of the C.W.A., which will be held at Peterborough on July 1st and 2nd. All riders who have ambition to excel and to try their speed should enter. Copies of the entry sheet will also be forwarded on application to the Secretary at Peterborough, F. H. Dobbin.

The prize list at the Ontario Provincial Meet of the C. W. A. offers ten events for amateurs and seven for professionals. The Amateur list shows: 1 mile, novice; 1 mile, open; ¼ mile championship, 5 mile championship, 2 mile tandem championship, 2 mile handicap, 1 mile, 2.40 class, ½ mile, open, 1 mile championship, 2 mile team race, 3 men to each team; and the Professional list: 2 mile handicap, ½ mile, open, ½ mile championship, 1 mile championship, 1 mile, open, 5 mile championship, 2 mile tandem championship.

The prize list offered at the Provincial Meet of the C. W. A. at Peterborough on July 1st and 2nd shows values of about $400 are allotted to the amateur classes and about $350 to the professional classes. These amounts are sub-divided into 17 races, which have been judiciously framed to bring out strong fields in all classes of riders.

Some years ago the Williams, Greene & Rome Co., of Berlin, donated a handsome piece of plate as a prize for a club team race at the Meets of the C.W.A. Last year at Chatham the cup was won for a third time in succession by the Montreal club team. The donors of the cup have very generously recognized the interest taken in the events for which the cup was offered, and in order that the club competitions would not cease, have given another very handsome trophy, which will be offered as the prize for the club team race at the Provincial Meet at Peterborough on July 1st and 2nd. It must be won three times in succession to become the property of any club. The trophy will be on exhibition at Peterborough, and a cut of the trophy will be printed in the advance programme of the Meet.

The Orillia Bicycle Club is arranging to join the Lindsay Club at the latter town on June 30th, and on morning of July 1st the combined clubs will wheel to the Peterborough meet—about thirty miles—and make a triumphal entry into the town. A strong contingent of Peterborough riders will go out to meet the visitors, and a brass band will herald their arrival.

Toronto promises to send down a big delegation to the Ontario Provincial Wheelmen's Meet at Peterborough on July 1st and 2nd. The city clubs are arranging for an appearance in full force. Local societies are making plans to hold their annual excursions that day to Peterborough. Not less than 8,000 visitors are expected from the city alone. The carrying capacity of the trains will be taxed, even with specials to relieve the traffic.

This year on July 1st and 2nd, the first of the Provincial Meets of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association will be held for the Province of Ontario in Peterborough. The plan of holding Provincial Meets will, therefore, have had its first trial. The success of this meet rests on the Committee of Management at Peterborough, and equally so on cyclists and members of the Association generally. If the venture prove a success then it will become a fixture, if it be a failure then an effort may be made to revert to the old order of affairs. Peterborough and the Provincial deserve a strong attendance. The prize list will be a generous one, the town is centrally located and easy to reach and at a small expense, so a united effort should be made by all cyclists to get there. The district to the east is full of young men who are riders and who have never been to a meet. Now is their chance and it won't occur again for 10 years at least. The railways will offer very special rates and the day is a holiday anyway, so it can be pleasantly spent at Peterborough. Clubs should make up parties and get to Peterborough and see what a big affair the C. W. A. is after all.

A GREAT ARRAY.

Among the numerous therapeutic candidates for professional recognition none comes with a greater array of sponsors of recognized ability in the profession than does Apenta Water.

When such men as Professors Liebreich, Gerhardt, Liebermann, Pouchet, Bogoslowsky, Tichborne and Althaus, as well as many men of standing in our own country, bear testimony to its constant value in diseases associated with portal congestion there must be something in this water which makes it worthy of our careful consideration.

These Apenta Springs, which are situated near Buda-Pest, on the left bank of the Danube, have a constant composition, an advantage for administration not possessed by all other natural waters.

Their therapeutic value depends upon the presence of sulphate of magnesium, sulphate of sodium, of which the former is greatly in excess, and a small amount of lithia.—Milwaukee Medical Journal.

MRS. GLADSTONE'S CONFIDENCE

It is related that at a reception held in a great hall in England not long ago, Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone were honoured guests. During the evening, it happened that Mr. Gladstone was in the parquet where Mrs. Gladstone was chatting with some ladies. In the course of their conversation a question arose, which the ladies could not settle satisfactorily. Finally one said: "Well, there is One above who knows all things, and some day he will make all things plain to us." "Yes, yes," replied Mrs. Gladstone, "William will be down in a minute and he will tell us all about it."

The light dies out of her eyes, her steps become slow and dragging; she loses flesh; grows sallow, listless, droops like a flower. Then she dies. Her family is left to the cold mercy of the world.

"Mother's dead!" What a pitsous phrase. What sufferings have been endured before it was used. Why should mothers, wives, sisters suffer so? They need not. Dodd's Kidney Pills will quickly and thoroughly cure all cases of Female Weakness. They never fail. GET RID OF RED TAPE

This Is One of the Ideas Mr. Mulock Is Working On.

PROGRESS ON THE ESTIMATES.

The Department Will Step in to Save Careless Letter Writers From the Consequences of Their Folly - Mr. Fisher's Cold Storage for Steamships Bill - House Proceedings.

Ottawa, May 25.—On Monday the Postmaster-General enhanced the intrinsic merits of his post-office bill by getting rid of some of the red tape which has too long encumbered the workings of his department. The suggestion that a postmaster, when the sender of a short paid letter is known, shall communicate with such sender and permit him to affix the necessary stamps is a good one; the proposal to establish a branch dead letter office in Toronto, which will benefit the whole of Western Ontario, should receive hearty endorsation. The House did a good days' work and made splendid progress with the estimates.

Sir J. D. Edgar and Sir John Bourinot were warmly congratulated by members. The attendance in the House, however, was only slim, many members having gone home over the Queen's Birthday.

Mr. Fisher introduced his bill to authorize a scheme of cold storage on steamships.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier announced that he would not make the motion for morning sittings, after Wednesday, of which Sir Richard Cartwright had given notice. He would do so on Wednesday, however, when also he would make a declaration as to the business which the Government intended to put through this session.

The House again went into committee on the Post-Office bill, and made two important amendments. One is to authorize the Postmaster-General to make regulations providing that in cases of letters bearing the name and address of the sender on the envelope, and which may have been mailed without postage, or short of postage, or with a deficient address, the postmaster may notify the sender and accept from him the postage stamps, or allow him to amend the address.

The other change adds Toronto and Montreal to the list of dead-letter offices.

Sir C.H. Tupper said the understanding last week was that only three cities were to be constituted branch dead-letter offices.

Mr. Mulock said that he did not desire to break any agreement arrived at last week, but he was induced to suggest the addition of Toronto and Montreal on the recommendation of the chief of the branch, Major Walsh. He would not press for the third reading of the bill. The amendments were adopted and the bill reported.

The Government bills to amend the Land Titles Act, respecting grants of land to the militia in active service in the Northwest, and to amend the Indian Act were advanced a stage.

The bill to amend the Militia Act by granting the G. O. commanding $2,000 as an allowance was advanced a stage.

In committee on the bill to amend the Inspection Act, Sir Henri Joly consented to the elimination of hides and potash from compulsory inspection, with the understanding that such a clause should be inserted next session.

The penalty for placing upon goods imitations of inspection marks was reduced from $1,000 to $40.

The House then went into Committee of Supply.

On the item of $75,000 for experimental farms, Mr. Fisher explained that he was running the experimental farms as his predecessors had managed them. The only change of policy he had inaugurated was in regard to the Nappan Farm, in Nova Scotia, where he had decided to give more attention to dairying.

The only two incidents worth mentioning in connection with the central experimental farm were, he said, the outbreak of tuberculosis, necessitating the slaughter of 23 out of 55 head of cattle, and the resignation of Prof. Craig, resulting in the promotion of Mr. MacCoun. It was the intention, later, to appoint an agriculturist to take charge of the farming and treatment of the land, and thus relieve Dr. Saunders of much of that duty, and that with Dr. Saunders' approval.

Dr. Montague' congratulated the Minister of Agriculture upon the fact that he had not found time to meddle with the work of his predecessors. He urged that greater attention be given to agriculture by the appointment of an expert. He promised his support to the scheme of demonstration stations.

Mr. Clancy disfavored the demonstration station theory. He thought the money would be better spent in distributing seed and requiring returns from the farmers using it. For the rest, he thought there was not enough money spent on the Central Experimental Farm. The swine department required to be extended and the farm buildings to be enlarged. He hoped that next year the Minister would ask as much more money as this year.

The item passed, and good progress was thereafter made with the estimates.

The House adjourned at 11.45 o'clock until Wednesday afternoon.

TRAGEDY AT WINNIPEG.

An Utterly Degenerate Man Deliberately, Without Motive, Shoots Two Persons One Dead.

Winnipeg, May 25.—A horrible tragedy was enacted on Monday evening close upon 8 o'clock at some houses of illfame on the western outskirts of the city. A negro porter, named Burton, aged about 35, who came from Rat Portage a week ago, was walking along the street with his wife, who was cook at one of the houses, and when about 60 yards away from their destination a man named Paul Brown, an ex-convict, only released on Saturday from the penitentiary on a charge of attempted murder, passed them, and when a few yards in front, turned round and asked Burton if he hadn't some money for a poor man.

Burton made a trifling reply, saying he hadn't, when, without a word, the man pulled out a revolver and shot him through the left temple, the bullet passing clean through his head. He was killed instantly. The murderer then continued his journey, and, seeing two girls sitting outside a house, fired at one of them, but missed, and she escaped without injury. The other girl, named Kitty Carlton, was, however, not so fortunate. The man fired three shots at her, all of which took effect, one in the breast, another hitting a rib, and the third on the leg. It is extremely doubtful whether she will recover, and she refuses to be taken to the hospital. After the shooting Brown walked towards town for a short distance, and then returned to the scene of his crimes, where he was secured by the police, who have him safely in jail. He was not drunk, and the only reason he can give for his crime, which was committed in the most cold-blooded manner, is that he was naturally bad and viciously inclined.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN!

Great Outburst of Patriotism All Over the Country.

THE BELLEVILLE PARK OPENED.

Unique Demonstration at the Falls—Yankees Came Across the Bridge and Joined the Canucks in Honoring the Anniversary — Spectacle Never Before Witnessed — Prayer for Alliance.

Toronto, May 25.—Advices from very many points in the Dominion and from a great majority in Ontario show that the 79th anniversary of the birth of Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria was celebrated with a devotion and eclat seldom witnessed of late years. The Jubilee, and the literature of that epoch, wakened the people to the grand ruler Her Majesty is and has been. The celebrations took the form of popular outdoor sports and pastimes, whereby the people were gaining health and strength as well as enjoying themselves.

AT THE FALLS.

An International Celebration of Her Majesty's Birthday That Is Hardly Less Than a Revolution.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 25.—The anniversary of Queen Victoria's birthday was celebrated yesterday as it has never been before in the history of the Anglo-Saxon race, and the Niagara Falls Athletic Ground Association has placed its name in history in a way that time will never efface. The arrangements were in every particular carried out without a single hitch. The town was covered with gay bunting, and "Old Glory" of the United States and the Union Jack of Old England hung in the breeze from every housetop. The Mayor and Council, with the civic authorities, entered on the bridge at the Canadian end and marched out and met the American visitors. When the two parties met, Mayor Hill of Niagara Falls, Ont., and Mayor Hastings of Niagara Falls, N.Y., exchanged greetings, the American band playing "God Save the Queen" and the Canadian band playing "The Star-Spangled Banner." The enthusiasm was tremendous. Men threw their hats in the air, and the applause was so loud that it completely drowned the roar of the rapids below.

The two contingents merged together, with the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes side by side, in the lead. When the party reached the Canadian end of the bridge they entered 25 carriages, in waiting, profusely decorated, and paraded the principal streets, each individual waving either an American flag or Union Jack. The Americans gave cheer after cheer for the Queen, while the Canadians cheered for President McKinley as the procession proceeded up the street. The thousands of spectators that lined the streets picked up the keynote and cheered alternately for the Queen and President until the enthusiasm became a continuous cheer along the route. Flags of both nations were waved by the thousands above the heads of the spectators, the bands playing "The Maple Leaf Forever" and American airs. Patriotic speeches were then delivered.

A Union of Hearts.

Washington, May 25.—The Senate chaplain's invocation at the opening of the session yesterday was a hymn of thanksgiving for the 79th birthday of "The Beloved Victoria, Queen of Great Britain."

The prayer concluded as follows:

"Knit the hearts of the two people who speak the English tongue more and more strongly together that we may work out the mighty problem of the highest civilization for the whole earth."

Incidental to the Day.

Winona Lake, Ind., May 25.—At the Presbyterian General Assembly yesterday, elder John B. Parsons of New York offered a resolution directing a cablegram to be sent to Queen Victoria, congratulating her upon her birthday. Only one negative vote was heard when the question was put.

Queen Victoria Park Opened.

Belleville, May 25.—Queen Victoria Park was formally opened by Sir Mackenzie Bowell yesterday. Over 50 veterans of '66 paraded, under command of Mayor Johnston, with a guard of honor, consisting of 50 soldiers of the 15th Battalion. A salute of 21 guns was fired under the direction of Corporal Madden, a veteran of Rorke's Drift.

A SISTER SAVED.

Sickness Banished—Health Restored—Peterborough People Speak.

GENTLEMEN,—Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have done my sister so much good that in grateful appreciation I told Mr. Tully, the druggist, I would gladly give a testimonial, unsolicited, as to their merits. My sister, (15 years of age) caught a violent cold—since then she has been in very poor health, lost all colour, was anemic, her blood had no vitality, and she had no physical strength, she became extremely nervous, so much so that she could not stand any exertion or excitement, and it was impossible for her to get restful sleep, she lost her appetite, her heart became very weak, palpitating so violently that she could hardly breathe at the slightest exertion. When she commenced taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills two months ago she was in a state of complete physical and nervous prostration. Her blood was scanty with no more strength than water. Since taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills she has been rapidly mending, her appetite has returned, she sleeps well, her nerves are stronger, and her heart gained strength so that it is able to fulfil its functions. Prior to taking Dr. Ward's Pills she had taken many medicines without any special benefit. Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are certainly the only medicine that has done any good. Before taking them she was getting weaker, her heart and nerves losing strength daily. Since she has began taking them she has daily and continuously gained health and strength.

Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, N. A. L., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Please accept my thanks for your cheque just handed to me, for $3,901.98, in settlement of my $2,500 Fifteen Year Endowment Policy in your Company. Such a result as this, after the risk on my life has been carried for fifteen years, beginning from forty-five years of age, argues one thing strongly, namely, that the management of the North American Life must be in competent hands. The other options you have offered me, viz.: a Paid-up Life policy for $3510.00, or a Life Annuity for $401.90, are, I presume, equally liberal, and it affords me much pleasure to recommend your Company to my friends or any one desiring insurance.

CERVERA CORNERED.

Schley Said to Have Cervera Cornered in Santiago.

UNCLE SAM'S CALL FOR 75,000 MORE

He Finds the Contract of Crushing Spain Bigger Than Expected.

Spanish Insurgents Have Become Loyal.

That Mysterious Spanish Fleet.

London, May 25.—Madrid despatch received at 2 a. m. Wednesday.—Nothing positive is revealed as to the situation. The Minister of War has received advices from General Blanco, saying that American warships are in front of Santiago. The Minister of Marine has received a lengthy despatch from Admiral Cervera, replying in full to instructions. Admiral Cervera has gone to Cadiz with sealed orders. On arrival he will arrange for manoeuvres of his ships at sea. He will, after satisfying himself of the squadron's efficiency, depart for a destination undivulged.

A Dead Set to be Made on Cervera.

New York, May 25—A Washington special says: Advices from Key West convey the information that about everything that can steam, sail or be towed has been forced into the service to assist Sampson and Schley to box up Cervera and force him to give battle if he has not escaped.

No Definite Information re Spanish Fleet.

Washington, May 25—Secretary Long has received an official notification of the arrival of the battleship Oregon in Jupiter Inlet, Florida. Secretary Long said no word had been received regarding the bottling of the Spanish fleet at Santiago De Cuba.

Is Cervera "Cooped Up?"

Washington, May 25th.—While Secretary Long has no official advices he says he credits the press despatches, and has reason to believe that Cervera is "cooped up" in Santiago with Schley on the outside.

Spanish Insurgents Back in the Fold.

Madrid, May 25.—Official despatches from Manilla announce that the majority of the chiefs who took part in the late insurrection have presented themselves to the Spanish Governor-General, and offering their services to Spain.

A Call for 75,000 More Volunteers.

Washington, May 25—The President has issued a proclamation calling for 75,000 volunteers. This will make the total strength of the army 280,000 men.

Cevera's Fleet in Quod at Santiago.

New York, May 25—The Washington correspondent of the Evening World telegraphs that he has the following information from a high source: Admiral Cervera's fleet is held a prisoner in Santiago de Cuba by Commodore Schley's squadron. He will not be forced to fight, but cannot escape without one, in which he would be destroyed. While Schley keeps the Spanish warships in Santiago, Admiral Sampson will concentrate a section of the fleet to co-operate in landing the army of invasion in Cuba.

NORWOOD CELEBRATION.

The Football Tournament was a Great Success.

The Norwood football tournament held there yesterday was very successful, Norwood High School and Gore's Landing teams first took the field, the High School boys winning by 2 to 0.

The match between the Toronto Scots and Norwood village team was one of the best ever played there. Throughout the game the ball was first on one goal and next on the other, but on account of wild shooting and star work by defence men neither could score. Both teams played splendid combination. Following are the names of the players:

Norwood—Goal, D Pettigrew; backs, T. Finlay, J. Breckenridge; half-backs, H. Kidd, H. Andrews, McPherson, forwards, C. Ritchie, D. Fraser, T. H. Hendren, B. Hendren, F. J. Edgar.

Scots—Goal, McGinnis; backs, Mott and Bowman; half-backs, Bradley, McKendrick, Browning; forwards, Murray, Lewis, Grant, Ferguson and Craymer.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH PICNIC.

The Annual Success on the Queen's Birthday.

The annual picnic of St. Paul's Roman Catholic church, Lakefield, held yesterday, added another to the annual successes scored on this occasion. Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, to whose energetic management the success that was accomplished is largely due, is to be congratulated on the manner in which his parishoners showed their loyalty to himself and the interests of the church and the respect which his geniality and good qualities have won from the general public. The picnic was held in the Agricultural Grounds, and though owing to threatening weather the attendance was not as large as last year the receipts were considerably in excess. The ladies of the parish had provided in the skating rink an elaborate repast of excellent quality. Dinner and tea were served to a large number, who were unanimous in their compliments to the excellence of the refreshments provided.

In the afternoon, Mr. Thos. Cahill occupied the chair on the platform erected on the grounds, and patriotic and suitable addresses were delivered by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., Mr. W. H. Meldrum, Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald and Rev. Father McColl, Ennismore; Rev. Father McGuire, Hastings; Ven. Archdeacon Casey and Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, P.P. The latter expressed his thanks to all who had contributed to secure the pleasant success which the occasion was.

Mrs. Phelan, of the Corners, lies at her home seriously injured, as the result of a runaway accident which occurred yesterday.

Mr. Samuel Wallace's team has been working for the corporation at Lakefield recently and Mrs Phelan being up in the village purchasing supplies was offered a ride home by the driver, who was going down the road a piece. The team was watered at Mr. Wallace's and, on being left for a moment while the gate was being fastened, started off suddenly at a gallop. Mrs. Phelan tried to hold them but was unable to check their speed and, on the team making a sudden turn, was thrown out of the wagon and against the fence in such a manner as to sustain a very bad cut across the forehead, which may result seriously. She was driven to her home, where she is now under her physician's care.

FINE FISHING.

Splendid Luck With the Speckled Beauties.

On Monday Messrs. Frank Burdett and Gus Corcoran took a turn at angling for trout near Blezard's, on the Grand Junction line. They had splendid luck and did some skilful fishing, for their creel contained 172 splendid trout at the end of the campaign. They have reason to be proud of their fine record.

This seems to be a good year for fish. Messrs. G. Gutterson and J. Wilson, of the Electric Works, returned this morning from a fishing excursion to the far north. They prefer not to make known the exact locality of the grand trout pocket they struck. In an hour's fishing in a stream about a yard wide and in a length of one hundred feet they captured seventy fine trout. A thunderstorm coming on stopped the sport, but afterwards they took several fine salmon trout in an adjacent lake, and also two fine mountain trout.

THE LACROSSE SEASON OPENED YESTERDAY.

BRAMPTON SCORED FOUR TO PETERBOROUGH'S THREE.

But the Match Was one of Intense Interest and Aroused a Great of Enthusiasm—A Large Number of Ladies Were Present.

It was a thoroughly satisfied crowd which witnessed the opening lacrosse game of the season yesterday on the P. A. A. grounds. The local team was beaten by the close score of 4 goals to 3, but as the game was of a character to hold the interest of the spectators from start to finish, the management is better satisfied than if the visitors had proven to be a second rate team.

Mayor Davis, the honorary president of the Peterboroughs, placed the ball at about ten minutes after three, and from the moment that Referee Dickson Davidson blew the whistle for play to begin until time was called, the game was fast and exciting.

Of the six hundred spectators who witnessed the match the majority were ladies, and the interest which they manifested was most keen and their pleasure was not marred by the least exhibition of rough play.

The visitors are a very fast lot of young players and their style of play is of a nature to popularize the national game in any town which they visit. Their work is clean and their combination as brilliant as any ever seen in Peterborough. The bright particular stars on the home were Lowes and Milner and their running pass game was very effective in bringing the ball down the field in close proximity to the Peterborough flags although the local defence generally when they got into close quarters, so quickly as to prevent a shot being made on the goal. Peaker and McClure did great work on the defence field, and broke up many a nice combination which the Peterborough boys had started working.

The local team missed the services of Dobbin, Rubidge and Phelan more than can be imagined, and their presence on the field in the Orillia match on June 2nd will undoubtedly strengthen the senior twelve, although the team which took the field yesterday was one of which no city in Canada could not but be proud to own, and during the last half hour the rally which they made to win out from the visitors was superb. They were not in shape to play a fast match, and were just two weeks behind the Bramptons in regard to to the length of time they had been practising, yet they played so fast a game at the finish that had they begun with the same style of play, they would have been the victors in the match to a certainty. As it was, it was only the hardest kind of luck which prevented them from pulling out on top. Shot after shot was put in on the Brampton flags, just missing the goal by a hair's breath, and in several instances striking the poles and bounding out again. Individual mention of the local players is not necessary. Every man played his best and the boys are all anxious to again meet the Excelsiors, being confident of being able to regain their lost laurels.

The goal nets were used for the first time in Peterborough and gave great satisfaction. Of course the goalkeeper is at the disadvantage of being unable to turn and run back but the knowledge that every game which is scored counts and no wrongful decision can possibly be given completely overshadows any small objections which can bee raised to the innovation.

The teams lined up on the field in the following order:—

Excelsiors		Peterboroughs.
J H Perrin	goal	E Wasson
Bert Jennings	point	F Lynch
S McClure	cover point	J Brown
R Peaker	1st defence	J Mein
A K Kirkwood	2nd defence	W Borland
H Brown	3rd defence	B Rickey
W Neilly	centre	Jas McCabe
C Irving	3rd home	L King
F Milner	2nd home	R Glover
F Lowes	1st home	W Galley
Whitehead	outside home	J McCabe
Hollis	inside home	G Lipsett
M Marshall	field captain	Bert Dolan
J Douglas	umpire	W Rudkins

Referee Dickson Davidson.

Brampton drew the ball on the start and it travelled down to the Peterborough defence but was quickly passed out to Glover, who passed to Jack McCabe, and the Brampton goal had a narrow escape. Another attack was then made on the Peterborough flags, but the local defence was too quick for the visitors. On the ball being passed out to Jim McCabe he took it down the field and passed it across to Glover. On it being transferred to Lipsett's stick he wheeled and sent it dead through the centre of the Brampton flags, netting first blood for Peterborough in two minutes.

On play being resumed Wasson had to work to defend his goal and stopped a hot one, but the attack on the Peterborough flags was kept up for some time. Finally Jim McCabe and Galley carried the ball between them down the field, and the latter made a close shot on goal. Back again into Peterborough territory travelled the rubber sphere, and after some very pretty combination work Brampton tallied, evening up the score. Time 7 minutes.

In the next game the play was very even and the ball was worked up and down the field a score of times, but again the Excelsiors combination outwitted the Peterborough defence and scored, giving them a lead of one goal. Time 6 minutes.

The Peterborough home men

GOT WORKING BETTER

together and pressed Brampton hard, Lipsett and the two McCabes figuring in some very neat combination work with King. Glover, who had been playing out of his position on the home, was put back to his old place on the defence to strengthen it, and Rickey went to inside home. The change improved the play of the Peterboroughs, but they seemed to run in a streak of bad luck, for although the ball was in the Brampton flags fully three-fourths of the time, the visitors scored the next game. Time 15 minutes; score, 3—1 in favour of Brampton.

At the outset of the next game the neatest combination of the day was witnessed, when by a zig-zag combination, King, the two McCabes, Galley, Rickey and Lipsett brought the ball right to the Brampton flags without allowing it to touch the ground, but the shot which Lipsett made was well stopped by the visitors' goal minder. With but brief cessation the play continued to be all on the Excelsiors' territory. A long relief throw up the field was taken into camp by Mein, who brought the ball down to Jack McCabe, who passed to Jimmy, the latter scoring in 3 minutes. Score, 3—2

When the ball was put into play again it was noticed by all that there was trouble in the air for someone, as the Peterboroughs had fully wakened up to the necessity of making a strenuous effort to tie the score. The shots which were made on the Brampton flags were so straight and true, and came so fast, that it seemed almost incredible when none appeared to score. Biff, bang, biff went the ball against the fence time and again as it went sizzling past the goal, just missing by the narrowest margin. Such a siege could not be withstood forever, after Jim and Jack McCabe had brought the rubber to the flags Rickey gave it a Rugby football touch and the deed was done. Peterborough had tied the score and the crowd went wild with excitement.

King and Jim McCabe started the next game with a running combination in to the visitors' net, but although the former made a close shot he was unable to tally. Lipsett secured the ball a moment later, and sent in a hot one, but it struck the pole and bounded out again. Lowes finally did the trick for the visitors, and time was called before any further tallying was done, thus giving the Excelsiors the victory by 4 goals to 3.

NOTES.

The Bramptons were accompanied by their trainer, genial Charlie Law.

The style of play of the Peterboroughs differed materially in two respects from their game of last year. The defense were prone to get rid of the ball with a long throw instead of passing it out until it reached some of the home men. The other divergence in style lay in the fact that a very wide instead of a close combination was worked. These two defects should be more carefully watched in the future.

The visitors registered at the Oriental Hotel, and remained in town until this morning. Last evening they visited the Y.M.C.A. building and the various town parks.

The Excelsiors want a return match in Brampton.

Peterborough was only defeated once on the home grounds last season. They will have to play hard to show as good a record at the end of this year.

Every goal scored under the new system is a net gain.

AN ACCIDENT ON PIGEON CREEK BRIDGE.

The Parting of the Swing Makes Trouble With a Load of Cheese Boxes.

On Friday Mr. Ernest Mann sent a waggon load of cheese boxes from Mr. R. Arnott's box factory, town, to the Star cheese factory, Verulam.

The waggon, which was in charge of Mr. James Morrison, had reached the Pigeon Creek bridge, and the front wheels of the wagon had safely crossed the space between the swing and the stationary part of the pontoon, but the swing opened enough to let the hind wheels drop into the water. The result was that the rack of boxes was overturned, and the driver states that he and a lad that was with him had considerable difficulty in saving the horses. The wagon and its load were left till Saturday morning, and it took till two o'clock to get things to shore. In the accident three water-proof covers were lost, besides a blacksmith's anvil, which was a part of the load. Mr. Mann enquires where the responsibility for the act lies.

They sell a good looking suit of tweed for a man for $3.50, fashionable three-button cutaway and newest pattern. You won't be able to see how the maker can make any money at $3 50, and LeBrun & Co. must make a little. Men have been heard to say as they examined a splendid worsted ticketed at $7.50, that they had paid $13 for a suit tha very mate to it. Maybe LeBrun & Co. buy mighty close for cash, but somebody must lose money. dw

OBITUARY.

Funeral of the Late Arthur McGarrity This Afternoon.

The funeral took place this afternoon at four o'clock, of the late Arthur McGarrity, from the family residence, No. 286 Edinburg street.

The very sudden death of the deceased from heart trouble has cast a gloom over the entire neighbourhood. That he was universally beloved and esteemed by all his acquaintances is evidenced by the sympathy extended the sorrowing family by friends of every denomination, through whose kindness, in attending to the household duties, the bereaved relatives have been able to mourn with their dead uninterruptedly.

The floral tributes received were indeed profuse, including a pillow from the Iron Moulders Union No. 191, cross and anchor from Mr. John Dwyer, wreath from Mrs. McAuliffe, cross from Mrs. Hammond, cross of cala lilies from the Auburn Mills, cross from Mr. Chas. Wynn and Miss Wynn, cross from Carroll and Harold Hudson, cross from Mr. Geo. McFadden, basket of flowers from Mr. Archie Bate and handsome bouquets from Mrs. Geo. Barry, Mrs. John Shannon, Miss Logan, Mrs. Wm. Long and Mamie and Mira Geary.

Besides a bereaved widow nine children survive, viz.—Mrs. P. McAuliffe, town; Mrs. T. O'Reilly, Eganismore; Mrs. D. Beyan, Rochester; Mrs. John McManus, West Batavia; Mrs. W. Geary town; Misses Lottie and Maggie, who reside at the homestead; Arthur, of Manistiqui, Michigan, and John, of British Columbia.

The deceased was a faithful adherent of the Roman Catholic church and a staunch Reformer. In his death the children of the neighbourhood lose a friend, who was ever watchful of their interests.

ANOTHER PIONEER PASSED AWAY.

The Late James Moher of Douro.

Another old resident of Douro has passed away in the person of Jas. Moher, who died on Saturday, May 21st. The deceased was born in the County of Cork, Ireland, on May 21, 1819, and was exactly 79 years of age on the day of his death, being just three days older than her Majesty Queen Victoria.

Mr. Moher came to this county with his parents in 1831, and with them settled on lot 5, con. 6, Douro, where he resided continuously until the time of his death.

For many years the deceased took an active part in municipal and political life, being an ardent and enthusiastic Liberal. He occupied a seat in the township council for many years.

His funeral on Sunday last was very largely attended, friends from his own and surrounding townships being present to pay their last tribute of respect to one whom they had known and respected for so many years. His widow, to whom he was married in 1841, still survives him. May he rest in peace.

OFF TO THE KLONDIKE.

Something About the Peterborough Klondyke Mining Company.

The following is clipped from the Edmonton Bulletin of April 28th: "This place has been the scene of considerable activity lately, it being the headquarters of the Peterborough Klondyke Mining Co., who are outfitting for the northern trip and will start as soon as the trails are available. The company consists of Albert Nelson, of Fort Saskatchewan, president, and Gavin Breckenridge, of Peterborough, secretary, Wm. (Scotty) Lang, (whose conversational abilities are well-known throughout Alberta) is the manager of horses, and Robert Nelson is wheelmen and chef. Mr. Alex. Monkman, late of Butte, Montana, is the mineral expert. The manager informs us that one of the carts is the one that carried Louis Reil from Batoche to Regina jail, and that another carried the family of Chief Poundmaker on his triumphant march to Battleford. The others date back to prehistoric times—as also the harness and horses. The reconstruction work has been a marvel of the wheelwright's skill, as 400 pounds of wire and six hides of Shagganappi have been used up to date. They left with the best wishes of the whole settlement."

The above will be interesting to the readers of the EXAMINER when it is known that Messrs. Albert and Robert Nelson are sons of Mrs. Nelson, who resides in Norwood, and Mr. Gavin Breckenridge is a nephew of Squire Breckenridge, clerk of the Township of Asphodel.

GAINED 22 POUNDS.

I have more faith in Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills than anything else I have ever used. Since using them I have recommended them to several of my friends who were troubled as I was, and now they are in splendid health. I had been a sufferer, like a great many other women, with a disease peculiar to my sex. I tried everything I could read or think about to help me, but was getting worse instead of better. My condition was terrible—I was losing flesh and color and my friends were alarmed. I consulted a doctor of this town and he said I would never get better; that I would always be sickly and delicate, and that medicines were of little use to me. Hearing what Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills had done for others, I determined to try them myself, and to-day I weigh one hundred and forty pounds, while before I weighed only one hundred and eighteen pounds, and now I have a constitution that is hard to beat. I have not suffered any pain in months, and earnestly hope that Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills will reach every woman suffering as I did. Sincerely yours, MAY COLE, Simcoe, Ont. Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. per box, 5 boxes for $2.00, at druggists, or mailed on receipt of price by THE DR. WARD CO., 71 Victoria St., Toronto. Book of Information free.

RAWHIDED ON THE STREET.

Brothers-in-Law of Goderich Township Had a Serious Falling Out.

Clinton, Ont., May 23. — What promises to be a very serious matter, and probably a murder case, and which has caused a very great amount of excitement in this town, occurred here on Wednesday last between two well-known and high connected residents of Goderich Township, about two miles from this town. A family feud, existing for some months, between Harry Oaks and John Baker, terminated in a serious assault case, when the son-in-law of John Baker, Isaac Jones, meeting Harry Oaks on the road, used a rail and assaulted and seriously injured Oaks, leaving him unconscious by the roadside until found by neighbors. He is at present dangerously ill. The brother, George Oaks, shortly afterwards followed Baker and Jones to town and publicly before a large crowd of citizens of this place, proceeded to assault Jones, and purposed doing the same to Baker, but was unable to meet him till Saturday, when, on the public street, with a rawhide, he assaulted Baker so badly that he is now under the doctor's care and is a horrible sight. A warrant is out for the arrest of Oaks. Nothing for many years has caused so great excitement, owing to both parties being so well known. A much more serious charge may be made against both parties. What makes the matter more singular is that Oaks and Baker are brothers-in-law.

The man with a weight on his leg can't hope to win in the race. A man with a weight on his health can't expect to compete in life and business with those who are not handicapped. If his brain is heavy and his blood sluggish, because of constipation, he will not succeed in doing anything very well. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all sickness. Symptoms of it are sallowness, listlessness, poor appetite, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, biliousness and lassitude. Constipation can be cured easily and certainly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are not at all violent in their action, and yet they are more certain than many medicines which are so strong that they put the system all out of order. The great advantage of the "Pleasant Pellets" is that they cure permanently.

BIG CORNER IN OATS.

J. F. McLaughlin Has Gobbled All in Sight in the West.

Vancouver, May 23.—J. F. McLaughlin, the well-known miller of Chicago, Toronto and Montreal, has cornered oats in British Columbia, and they cannot be obtained in Manitoba or the Northwest. Dealers say they will go to 50c. McLaughlin has been buying for three weeks. An order for 100 tons could not now be filled. Eight years ago oats sold at 50c. The same conditions prevail now. The corner extends from Manitoba to the coast. J. McLean of Manitoba confirms the news of the corner. The oat crop was good here, but light in Manitoba and California, in comparison with other years.

If you are not feeling well, why don't you take Hood's Sarsaparilla? It will purify and enrich your blood and do you wonderful good.

Beheaded Her Two Children.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., May 23.—Mrs. Lena Sporri, widow of John Sporri, who died about a month ago, leaving his widow and two children, a son two years old and a daughter five months old, was on Saturday arrested on a charge of having decapitated her two children. For some time prior to the death of her husband Mrs. Sporri had been acting strangely, and at the time of his death she became very violent. At about 2 o'clock in the morning the little boy was sleeping in the same room with Mrs. Sporri and the baby daughter in a crib in the kitchen. Mrs. Sporri took the children out of their beds, and, laying them on the floor, cut off each of their heads with a bread knife.

THE KING SNAKE.

DOES HARM TO NO ONE, BUT KILLS POISON REPTILES.

Rattlers and Copperheads Are the Prey He Loves to Tackle—He Eats a Mouse or a Toad After Each Battle to Prepare Him For the Next Encounter.

The distant murmur of the waterfall, the hum of the bees among the flowers, made me feel lazy, and, laying aside my fishing rod, I stretched myself on the soft spring grass under a weeping willow and watched the blue, cloud flecked sky. I had almost fallen asleep when I was aroused by a voice inquiring, "Kotched enny fish, mister?"

Looking up, I saw a typical mountaineer and assured him I had not.

"I say, mister, this here is a powerful bad kentry fur snakes. One bit Jim Sloan's bay mare last night, an week afore last another bit Sally Milligan. Some on 'em air powerful pizen, specially the rattlers an coppers, an that 'minds me, ef I wuz yerself, I'd move a little further from that 'ere copper. He ain't zactly perty to look at, an ef ye wuz to rile 'im with yer boot he mout git vicious."

Long before that speech had ended I had turned a somesault backward, which caused the mountaineer a great deal of genuine pleasure to behold. I was about to exterminate the big, sluggish reptile with a stick that I had seized when my companion asked me to wait a few moments, as a king might come along.

Not exactly understanding whether he expected a person of that name and failing to see what that event had to do with my laudable desire to smash the big, ugly thing that had presumed to take my leg for a pillow, I asked him for an explanation.

"Air it possible yer town folks dunno what a king air? Why, a king air the boss snake uv the woods. He don't do no harm to nuthin, 'ceptin snakes, an he don't pester them as hain't pizen. But he do love a copper an a rattler, which is the wurst snakes uv these diggin's, an he's death on 'em.

"T'other day I wus gwine long a old road, an all uv a sudden I heerd a singin as though a camp meetin had just tuck in. I knowed it wuz a rattler, an lookin round I saw him on a knoll, an a powerful big un he wuz. He wus quilled up like a corkscrew, an his rattles wuz a-makin the air jingle. But at first I couldn't 'scoover the cause, an I knowed a rattler never got ready fur business fur nothin. Presently I seed the grass a-swayin an a-bendin, an then the rattler, he gets nervius an skeered, an unquillin hisself he made a break to run.

"But it wuz too late, fur on came the king like a hurricane, an puttin hisself just ahead the rattler showed him his jig wuz up. Seein he couldn't 'scape, the rattler quilled ag'in an showed fight. The king, he commenced to run round his inimy in a wide circle, the rattler watchin, lickin out his tongue an makin his rattle sing like a banjer. Closer an closer the king drawed his circle as he dashed round until he wuzn't more'n three feet from the inimy.

"Then the rattler, thinkin he saw the last show to save his bacon, made a powerful spiteful lunge at the king, an thar is whar he slipped up, fur the king he dodged, an quicker'n gunpowder wuz on to the rattler. Thar wuzn't nothin but a ball uv snakes in sight fur a few minutes as they fought an tussled over the grass, but arter a little I could see the red an black striped king wound round the big rattler just like a grapevine on a tree.

"Then I seed the king hold 'im by the back uv the neck, an I could hear him crushin the rattler as he tightened on him. It wuz all over in half an hour, an the king, unwindin hisself from his victim, got behind an waited fur ten minutes. Then he crept up an put his nose on the rattler a to see if he wuz breathin. Ye see, other snakes know the king an sometimes possum on him by pretendin to be dead.

"But the rattler wuz shore 'nuff gone, an when the king wuz satisfied uv this he crawled in a old stump hole an presently came out with a mouse's tail stickin out his mouf. But he soon swallowed the mouse, an, wipin his nose on the grass, went off sarchin for more trouble. A king allers eats a rat or a toad after a fight to make him strong fur the next un.

"An now, mister, I could tell ye a powerful lot more'n that, fur I knows snakes, I do, but I'll help ye kill the copper, which mout not meet a king until he bites some un ef we didn't, an then I must hurry on after my oxen, what I wuz hustin when I seed that varmint a-tryin to go to sleep with yerself."—Philadelphia Times.

SAVED BY A WINK.

An Unpleasant Experience of a Drummer In Texas.

"Speaking of extraordinary feats reminds me," said Henry Austin, "of an amusing story Colonel W. P. Curtis once told in the old St. Charles hotel. It was a damp evening, and the 'boys' had been bragging about various wonderful doughty deeds they had done in their salad days and frappe nights. When it came his turn to be a gorgeous, circumstantial and statistical liar, the colonel leaned away back and said in his sweet Kentucky voice, for he hailed from that state originally: 'Boys, I can't match any of the feats of strength and active valor you have told, but I can tell you a true tale of endurance that may be worth your attention.

"'Years ago, when Texas was the paradise of stage coaches, I was traveling for a tobacco house a long journey, fully 50 miles. In the coach opposite me sat a mighty pretty girl and a shaggy man with a sombrero and a small arsenal of pistols in full sight. We had journeyed on for about an hour, and not a word had been exchanged or a look between my fellow travelers. The girl was everlastingly pretty, and finally, catching her eye, I was tempted to wink slightly as a sort of preliminary toward breaking the ice and having some pleasant conversation.

"'Instantly, to my horror, she turned to the human arsenal and whispered in his ear. "Did I understand you, stranger, to wink at this young lady?" Only presence of mind, as there couldn't be absence of body, saved me. I replied at once: "Yes, sir, but let me explain. I have a nervous disease of the eyelids. If you had noticed me before, you would have noticed that I winked involuntarily very frequently. Honestly I couldn't help it."

"'"Your explanation is extraordinary, stranger, but I accept it for the present," he answered gruffly. And from that time I think he never took his eyes off me. So, to keep up my part, every moment or two I had to wink one eye or the other, sometimes both. Hour after hour, gentlemen, as I live by champagne, my ocular exercise continued. I believe I am the only man living who ever winked to save his life, and I wunk and wank for at least 40 miles, till we reached our destination. How was that for endurance?'"—New York Press.

Curious Policies.

Accident insurance policies have taken many curious shapes, ranging from the penny in the slot to the coupon in the weekly newspaper, but the limit has been reached in London, where the purchaser of a book of cigarette paper is insured for $50 for a period of 7(days. The annual cost of this amount of insurance is about 75 cents a year, provided the holder of the novel policy is not a cigarette fiend. The amount of insurance is specifically set aside for the defraying of funeral expenses in the event of accidental death.—New York Journal.

Animals are often able to bear very protracted fasting. In the Italian earthquakes of 1795 two hogs were buried in the ruins of a building. They were taken out alive 42 days later, but very lean and weak.

During the last 50 years Great Britain has been at war more frequently than any other nation. The total number of large and small wars waged during that time amounts to about 50, or one a year.

PROF. E. J. O'BRIEN, PHRENODOGIST

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills Cured Him of Nervous Troubles and Sleeplessness---He Recommends Them to Many of His Patrons.

There is no phrenologist in Ontario better known or more favourably spoken of by all classes of the community than E. J. O'Brien, Professor of Phrenology and Scientific Palmistry, 393 Jarvis street, Toronto, Ont.

The Professor is no fortune teller, but an enthusiastic investigator, who has made a scientific study of phrenology and palmistry during the past 25 years, and stands to-day at the head of his profession with members of Parliament, doctors, lawyers, judges, etc., among his patrons.

The close confinement and severe strain on the nervous system which his profession necessarily entails could not help but make inroads even on a constitution as naturally robust as his.

His nervous system became undermined. He could not sleep at night, and was troubled with restlessness and twitching of the muscles.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have completely cured him; he is in the best of health to-day, and wrote us the following letter, which he has kindly allowed to be published for the benefit of suffering humanity:

"Messrs. T. Milburn & Co.:

"Gentlemen,—I have nothing but good words for Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Never before have I publicly endorsed a medicine, and the only reason I do so now is because both my wife and myself have been cured of nervous troubles, and I think it only right that I should give my experience for the benefit of others.

"My business causes a great strain on the nerve forces; and for some time prior to February last I was so nervous that my muscles twitched, and I was so restless at night that I could hardly sleep. Two boxes of these valuable pills cured me, removing every indication of nerve weakness—and what is still more to the point, the cure has proved to be a lasting one!

My wife who has suffered with weak action of the heart, nervousness and lack of strength for some time, knowing that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills had cured me, started taking them also. The effect was remarkable! She has had no heart trouble since; they have strengthened her nerves, built up her system and made her strong and well again.

"I have frequently recommended these pills to my patrons who were suffering from heart and nerve troubles. Many have used them, and in all cases they have been entirely satisfactory.

"E. J. O'BRIEN."

We have proved it time and again through the published testimony of hundreds of reputable citizens of Canada, that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills not only cure such complaints as those with which Prof. O'Brien and his wife were afflicted, but, in addition, are indicated in such diseases as weak, palpitating, irregular beating hearts, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, spinal trouble, twitching, starting, etc. They positively cure sick spells and dizziness, dyspepsia, anaemia, female troubles, after effects of la grippe and general debility. They build up the health and strength after serious sickness, enrich the blood and infuse new nerve energy into weak, worn-out systems.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are sold by all druggists at 50c a box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, or sent by mail on receipt of price. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto, Ont.

The bud is more easily blighted than the full-blown rose. A young girl is more susceptible to weakness and disease that will wreck her in a womanly way than she is after she has attained to healthy womanhood. Thousands of women have their lives wrecked by troubles of this delicate description because of their own ignorance and the prudery of their mothers.

Whenever the wandering demon of ill-health finds a ship adrift upon the sea of ignorance, he steps on board, takes the helm, and steers straight for the maelstrom of death. The young woman who has not been taught the necessity of taking care of her health in a womanly way is a ship adrift upon the sea of ignorance. Diseases that will wreck her future happiness will soon assume command. Young women who suffer from weakness and disease peculiar to their sex live under a terrible nervous tension, and if they escape death are always threatened with insanity. The whole nervous system is affected by the constant drag and drain upon the delicate and feminine organs. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the one perfect and unfailing specific for every derangement and disorder of this description. It fits a woman for wifehood and motherhood. It is the best of all known nerve tonics. It is the discovery of one of the most eminent and skillful specialists in disease of women.

"I was troubled three years with female weakness," writes Miss Ellen Otey, of Bedford City, Bedford Co., Va. "I had two physicians, but neither did me any good. I was troubled with pains in my left side all the time. When it was time for my monthly periods I thought I would die with pains in my back and stomach. I also had chills. I could not get up without fainting. Finally I took three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and two of his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I do not have any pains at all and am in better health now than I ever was in my life."

How to preserve health and beauty are told in Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser. It is free. For a paper-covered copy send 31 one-cent stamps, to cover customs and mailing only; cloth binding, 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

WHEAT STRONGER.

July Rose 7c. and May 15c. at Chicago on Saturday. Liverpool Cables Were Also Stronger—Quotations.

Saturday Evening, May 21.

Wheat developed unexpected strength to-day, and at Chicago May advanced 1½c per bush, and sold at $1.60. July rose about 3½c, and closed at $1.11½, 2¾c higher than yesterday's final figure. September gained 1¾c, and December ¾c for the day. Thus May wheat is 15¼c higher at Chicago than a week ago, July is 7c higher, and September is 1c higher. To-day's advance, though largely speculative, was helped out by fresh reports of European bread riots and higher cables from Liverpool. Leiter seemed to be the chief factor again to-day, purchasing May and July wheat fairly freely. It is interesting to note that the price paid for wheat at Liverpool is nearly 50c per bush above that at Chicago, a much bigger margin than is called for by the freight and ocean charges.

Other American markets responded quickly, and May wheat rose 10c per bush at New York, 5c at Duluth and 12c at Detroit.

At Toronto the market firmed up, and No. 2 red was held at about $1.10, as high as $1.15½ being paid farmers on the street.

At Liverpool July wheat gained a clear 3¼d per cental, September 1⅝d, and December 1½d.

At Paris wheat closed 10 to 20 centimes lower for the day, and at Antwerp steady to 25 centimes lower.

THE BOY WAS DEAD.

Little John Cousins Fell Into a Grain Bin and Was Killed.

Bradford, Ont., May 23.—John Cousins, son of Mr. James Cousins, a young lad about 10 years of age, while looking in the shorts bin in Mr. Samuel Luke's flour mill, lost his balance and fell into the bin. Before he could be caught he had disappeared down the shute and, notwithstanding that it was immediately opened at the bottom, the little lad was dead when he came out. Great sympathy is felt for the father of the boy in this sad calamity.

Was Wasting Away.

"I could not eat, sleep, walk or sit down for any length of time. I was always in pain and was wasting away. I grew very weak and had a bad cough. I tried many different remedies, but did not get relief. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla' however, I am able to attend to my business." Mamie Jaques, Ont.

Reading at Breakfast.

Reading at breakfast is fatal to sociability. In breakfasting alone it is permissible, but not in company. Leigh Hunt wrote in The Indicator: "When we lived alone, we could not help reading at meals, and it is certainly a delicious thing to resume an entertaining book at a particularly interesting passage with a hot cup of tea at one's elbow and a piece of buttered toast in one's hand. The first look at the page, accompanied by a coexistent bite of the toast, comes under the head of intensities." A book at breakfast is no compliment to the cook, but a newspaper is an insult. On the other hand, a newspaper at breakfast is a benefit to the doctor, for it is when one is put off one's guard by the struggle with the folds and the search for items of interest that the way is made easy for the approach of dyspepsia.

In the old days of The Spectator and Tattler, when papers were of a reasonable size and reposeful to boot, they did no harm. Now—well, now the largest circulation in the world may produce the poorest digestion. It has been remarked (by a collector) that the only literature suitable at breakfast is booksellers' catalogues, but since catalogues lead always to telegrams or envy this is doubtful. The line should probably be drawn at private letters.—Cornhill Magazine.

Respectability Defined.

British respectability has been defined in a London police court by a prisoner charged with begging, and the definition seems to have been accepted by the magistrate, for he discharged her. She said: "I'm a respectable woman, a tailoress. Why, I make trousers for Mr. Newton—Mr. Newton, the magistrate. I mean. If I'm respectable enough to make a magistrate's trousers, I'm good enough for anything."

What They Prefer.

Ranting—You often hear of self made men, but never of self made women.

Larkin—Women prefer to be tailor made.—Detroit Free Press.

Lazy and Dirty.

The laziest and dirtiest people in the world have recently been discovered in the Caucasus. They are the Svantians, who live in an inaccessible mountain range between the Black sea and the Caspian sea, and as they were 2,500 years ago so they are today. It is their invariable rule to make four days a week holidays, with saints' days as extras.—New York World.

Some fish exhibit great power of endurance when deprived of access to their native element. Thus it is a common practice in Holland to keep carp alive for three weeks or a month, the fish being placed in wet moss and kept in a cool spot.

HENRY MOORE, Pickering, Ont., says that for Costiveness and Stomach Troubles he never found the beat of Dr. Chase's K.-L. Pills. He suffered many years, tried various remedies, but none gave the same relief as Dr. Chase's.

THE GYPSY QUEEN.

Molly Friar, a Real Romany, Crowned in the State of Kansas.

A queen was recently crowned in Topeka, Kan. She is a real queen, too, the queen of all the gypsies. Her name is Molly Friar, and, upon the death of her mother, who had reigned for sixty-two years, Molly was declared Queen of the Romanies all over the world. Her mother had reigned in Austria, but the Queen-elect has announced her determination to remain in America, and the gypsy capital will consequently be transferred to the United States. Molly Friar is a real Romany. She has travelled in gypsy fashion all over the world, and speaks fourteen different languages. When she was a little girl, in romping around the camp, she fell into a fire, and this has left a scar on her left cheek. She is greatly attached to her mottled Shetland pony, which she rides gracefully, for she herself is of small frame, and lithe. The Romanies are the oldest and the proudest of the gypsy tribes. Over a thousand years ago they made their first appearance in Europe. For many hundred years Austria has been their headquarters, but if Queen Molly remains in America, as she declares she will, the Romanies' capital will be here also.

Any of these signs is proof positive of Kidney Disease. Will you be cured, or will you die? Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only means on earth that will cure you. They never fail.

Rheumatism & Dyspepsia Cured

571 ST. PATRICK STREET,
OTTAWA, July 31st, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Company, Ltd., Ottawa, Ont.

GENTLEMEN,—On the advice of a friend I tried one bottle of your famous rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline, and to my surprise it cured me of rheumatism, from which I have suffered for many years.

It also cured me of dyspepsia, from which I was suffering at the time, so that I feel now like a new man.

I have tried several remedies for rheumatism, some of which did me a certain amount of good, but nothing that I have taken has done so much for me as your Phrenoline, and I have much pleasure in recommending it to other sufferers.

Yours very truly,

MISS ARMSTRONG

Ladies' Furnishing and Fancy Goods House, 190 George Street.

OUR SOLDIER BOYS HAVE A PLEASANT TRIP.

ROYALLY ENTERTAINED IN THE LIMESTONE CITY.

They Fraternize with the American Volunteers and Enjoy Themselves Immensely, Although there was Plenty of Rain

The Rangers returned from Kingston this morning, very much pleased with their outing, although unfortunately it rained a portion of every day they were in the Limestone City.

The Kingston Whig makes the following reference to their arrival and the manner in which Sunday was spent:

While heaven's artillery rattled and flashes of lightning brightened the dark overhanging clouds of the early morn, the gallant men of the 57th batt., Peterborough Rangers, disembarked at the K. & P. station on Sunday morning and formed ranks on Ontario street, prior to marching off to the exhibition grounds to a lively tune played by the fine regimental brass band. The men looked fatigued after their long night jaunt on the cars, but under the stimulating influence of martial music they stepped out smartly, and showed the military spirit they possessed. They kept steady lines as they marched up the street, and were as active in obeying orders in their tired condition as though they had just arisen from a comfortable night's rest.

The train bearing the regiment east left Peterborough at one o'clock Sunday morning and at half-past six o'clock it pulled into the city. At the depot were Col. Drennan, secretary of the Queen's Birthday celebration committee, veterinary surgeon Morgans, three sergeants and a squad of twenty men from the 14th P. W. O. Rifles and numerous citizens. Though thunder rolled and the heavy clouds became more threatening, still it was hoped the downpour of rain would hold off until such time as the visiting soldiers got under shelter. But the fates decreed otherwise, and when about half the distance to the exhibition ground had been covered the flood gates were unloosed and the rain descended in torrents, thoroughly wetting the embryo "Tommy Atkins." Arriving at the battalion headquarters the men took immediate possession of the main building while the officers sought shelter under tents that, fortunately, had been erected the day previous. On account of the falling rain the extra baggage which the officers and men had brought with them could not be transported to the ground for some hours, consequently those who desired to make a change of clothing had to wait for several hours in their wet garments. After a "wash up" the men again assembled in ranks and proceeded to breakfast, the entire battalion being divided among nine hotels—Russell house, Grimason's hotel, City hotel, Oriental, American, Athletic, Collender, Windsor and Algoma house. The officers dined at the British American hotel. Returning again to the grounds all haste was made to clean up preparatory to attending divine service. To make a presentable appearance in a short space of time, after having passed through a heavy rain shower, was no light task. It required considerable brushing, washing, pipe-claying, polishing, etc. They had every excuse to offer for keeping the brigade a trifle late for service.

THE CHURCH PARADE.

At 10:15 o'clock the men of the 14th P.W.O. rifles "fall in" at their headquarters, artillery park. The cadets of the Royal Military College, the men of "A" Field Battery, the veterans of '64-'66, and last, but not least, the St. George's Cathedral Boys' Brigade, arrived sharp on time and took up positions. The 57th Battalion was a little late in arriving, owing to the men having a difficult task to perform in the way of cleaning up. It was after eleven o'clock when the word of command was given, the brigade advancing by way of Montreal street in this manner:

Cadets of the Royal Military College, under command of Capt. Leslie—40.
"A" Field Battery, Col. Drury—65.
57th Batt., Col. Bell—238.
14th P.W.O. Rifles, Col. Skinner—300.
Veterans of '64-'66, Col. Duff—54.
St. George's Cathedral Boys' Brigade, Capt. Clive Betts, 63.
Total on parade—757.

The brigade was in command of Lieut.-Col. Montizambert, who was assisted by Major Ogilvie, "A" Field Battery, as brigade-major, and Sergt-Major Stroud, "A" Field Battery, as brigade-sergeant major.

Lieut.-Col. Drennan, Fifth Field Battery, Capt. Labourne, Princess Louise Dragoon Guards, veterinary surgeon Massie, "A" Field Battery, and veterinary surgeon Morgans, Fifth Field Battery, were also on parade. The different units were thus commanded.

SERMON AT THE CATHEDRAL.

After leaving the artillery park by way of Montreal street, the brigade proceeded down Princess street to King street, then to St. George's Cathedral, where Rev. G. L. Starr preached a sermon from the text, "The glory of a young man is his strength," Prov. xx, 29.

Re-forming in front of the Cathedral, the brigade proceeded by way of William, Wellington, Earl and Clergy streets, where the different corps proceeded to their private parades.

At the Artillery Park Col. Skinner complimented the men of the 14th upon their deportment and steadiness.

Col. Bell also congratulated the men of the 57th upon their good appearance and exemplary conduct.

A large number of the volunteers visited the elevators.

Lieut.-Col. H. C. Rogers accompanied the regiment on its trip to the city.

Rev. J. C. Davidson, M. A., chaplain with the 57th battalion, took luncheon with Mr. E. B. Loucks, hardware merchant.

The Rangers have two good bands that produce excellent military music. The members show the effect of careful training.

Lieut. Lefevre is a gra[illegible]e of the Royal Military college of the cl[illegible] of '94. Captain and Paymaster Dennistoun is also known here, having graduated from Queen's College.

Harold Morrow, captain in the 57th battalion, Peterborough Rangers, was unable to be with his company owing to an injured leg. Capt. Morrow is a graduate of the Royal Military College, and received the injured leg in a football game some years ago. The trouble has broken out again.

On Monday there was no parade, and the men spent the morning in seeing the sights.

After dinner Mayor Livingston of Kingston extended an invitation to the battalion to a trip down the St. Lawrence on one of the large steamers. Needless to say, the excursion was greatly enjoyed by all. In the evening the Rangers and the Kingston Battalion marched to the wharf to meet the steamer which was bringing the 39th Regiment of New York to spend the 24th in Canada. As the steamer drew up to the dock, the American band struck up "God Save the Queen," and the thousands assembled nearly went wild with excitement, the police having to use all their exertion to prevent those in front being pushed into the water. When the strains of the National Anthem died away the 57th band played "The Star Spangled Banner," and then "Dixie," and this time it was the American soldiers who cheered. The scene altogether is described bp those present as being almost unparalleled in Canadian history. The Canadians and Americans fraternized like brothers, and the feeling of anmity was not by any means lessened when it was known that the Deputy Adjutant General had received an official telegram from Ottawa urging him to extend every civility to the visitors.

On the morning of the 24th "A" Battery, the Americans, the 14th and 57th paraded at eleven o'clock, when a feu de joie was fired, and the assembled soldiery marched past in column and quarter column. Afterwards there was a route march through the city, the men being then dismissed for the day. In the evening a grand banquet was given by the city to the visitors in the Frontenac Hotel. After justice had been done to it the 57th entrained at about eleven o'clock, being accompanied to the station by a tremendous crowd of Kingstonians, who cheered the departing forces to the echo.

EXCURSIONS TO STONY LAKE.

Many Pleasure Seekers and Cottage Owners Take a Trip as far as Burleigh.

Three coaches well-laden with excursionists left the G.T.R. station at 8 30 yesterday morning bound for Stony Lake. The steamers Sunbeam and Majestic had both advertised special trips for the 24th, and each boat carried a goodly number of excursion parties, who preferred a day's outing on the lakes rather than any other form of sport or amusement.

Quite a large number of those on board both steamers had summer cottages on Stony Lake and took advantage of the holiday to look in on their domiciles and see how things looked before taking possession next month.

The trip was a most enjoyable one. The excursionists had nearly nine hours enjoyment of the cool invigorating air of Stony Lake, combined with scenery and summer resorts fit for a tourist's paradise. On board the commodious and very comfortable steamer Sunbeam the excursionists experienced such an enjoyment of the varied scenes through the winding zig-zag course in and out among the islands as expels the cares and perplexities of business life, while pleasant panoramic views keep constantly flashing across the mental horizon.

At noon those of the excursionists who had not dropped off on the islands, were brought on to Burleigh. Here they made the acquaintance for the first time of the new proprietors of the Burleigh Falls Hotel, Messrs. Gretton and Hewes. The crowd that ordered dinner rather surprised the hospitable bonifaces, who were not led to expect anything like so large a turn out so early as the 24th of May. But in less than half an hour dinner was on the tables and the luxuries of the bill of fare were indulged in by the guests, who came fortified with keen appetites.

On the return trips the boats called at quite a number of the islands, and took on board several parties who had come up on Saturday and spent the interval very industriously. One party had killed in two hours six quarts of caterpillars on his own little island, and left about as many more to be killed another time.

A call was made at McCracken's Landing, where a visit was made to Mr. Morgan's Victoria House summer resort. Everything here is well advanced and in apple-pie order for the reception of guests, the prospects for the season for a full house being already assured.

The boats arrived in Lakefield about 7 o'clock, and the Peterborough excursionists reached town at 9 o'clock, well satisfied with their outing.

A MOTORMAN'S VICTORY.

Over Diabetes. Gained by the Power of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto, May 23—In a large city like Toronto, there is always much sickness, kidney diseases largely predominating. The street railway employees, exposed as they are to all the inclemencies of the weather are particularly liable to kidney disease. But they all know how to conquer this enemy.

For instance: Mr. T. H. O'Reilly, 27 Niagara Street, motorman, No. 624, was for three years a great sufferer from Diabetes. Every remedy failed to help him, till he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him.

It is cases like this, where the patient and the cure are equally well known, that are the test of a remedy, and Dodd's Kidney Pills have always stood it successfully. They cure all kidney complaints.

NEUTRALITY

Declarations Filed at Washington by Russia, Greece, Venezuela, the Netherland and the Dominion of Canada.

Washington, D.C., May 25.—The Consular representatives yesterday gave notice of the declaration of neutrality by five countries, Russia, Greece, Venezuela, the Netherlands and Canada.

Particular importance attaches to the declaration of Venezuela, because her ports would be of inestimable value to the Spanish fleet as places of refuge and as possible coal bases in the event that the declaration of neutrality were withheld. The notice is dated Caracas, April 29, and expresses Venezuela's position in the one sentence: "The Republic will preserve the strictest neutrality during the contest."

The Dutch proclamation cautions all citizens of the Netherlands from becoming in any way involved in privateering, and against the acceptance of any foreign privateering ships' papers, under penalty of prosecution. This provision may be of value to the United States in the event that Spain should resort to the issue of letters of marque. The same citizens are also enjoined to respect the blockades.

Touching the coal supply, the Dutch regulation is that this shall be supplemented only to the extent necessary to permit the ship to reach the nearest port of the country to which it belongs, or that of one of its allies in the war. Belligerents are forbidden to bring prizes into the Netherland waters.

The Canadian proclamation is in the same terms, mutatis mutandis, as that of Great Britain, except as to the preamble.

The British declaration has one important statement, not usual in such cases, as follows:

"The disagreements which have recently arisen between Spain and the United States of America have induced the Imperial Government to seek, in concert with the others, some means which might prevent an armed conflict between these two countries. Unhappily, our friendly measures are without results, and a state of war now exists between Spain and the United States. It is with keen regret that the Imperial Government witnesses an armed conflict between two states to which it is united by old friendship and deep sympathy. It is firmly resolved to observe, with regard to these two belligerents, a perfect and impartial neutrality."

The Grecian declaration is contained in a line, stating that the strictest neutrality will be maintained.

ALIEN LABORERS.

A Number of Detroit Workmen Bounced From Canada's Baby City.

Windsor, Ont., May 25.—The Canadian Alien Labor Law has been enforced for the first time in this vicinity. Parke, Davis & Co. are building a wing to their Walkerville establishment, and a number of American masons were employed on the job. These persons came to Walkerville in the morning and went to their homes in Detroit after finishing their day's work. The Windsor and Walkerville masons employed on the job objected to the Americans working there, and made a complaint to J. H. Kenning, who is the alien labor agent in Windsor, appointed by the Dominion Government. Mr. Kenning conferred with the manager of the firm and the contractor. He explained that the law was being violated and that he would have to report the matter to the Department of Justice, unless the Americans were discharged. Accordingly, the Detroit masons were discharged Saturday night.

A STRICT BLOCKADE.

Santiago de Cuba and Cardenas Both Hemmed In.

ADMIRAL CERVERA IN A CAGE.

United States Troops Set Sail for Manila, Which, According to the Spanish, Is the Only One Success of the Americans—Philippine Rebels Have Successes —War News.

On board the Associated Press despatch boat Wanda, off Havana, May 24, via Key West, Fla., May 26.—The situation on the blockade from Cardenas, east of Matanzas, to Madrid west of the city of Havana, remains unchanged. The American squadron continues to maintain a strict blockade. For the last five days there has been no fighting at any point.

The light of Morro Castle, which has recently been burning at night, supposedly for the benefit of the Cape Verde squadron under Admiral Cervera, has not been lighted since Monday. The lights of Cardenas are all extinguished. An American gunboat is lying off the entrance of that harbor, and some of the cruisers are patrolling outside Matanzas harbor.

CERVERA UNDER BLOCKADE.

Sampson and Schley Have Him Trapped at Santiago.

London, May 26.—The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail says:

"Official telegrams from Cuba confirm the report that Rear-Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley, with their combined squadrons, are now in front of Santiago de Cuba, blockading Admiral Cervera. Ministers consider that Santiago possesses sufficient defences to meet any aggressive action the enemy may take.

"The position of the American squadron will cause the Government to take immediate action, though it is unknown, as yet, what form this action will assume. Rumors that a battle has already occurred are officially denied.

"Great importance is attributed to the latest news from the Philippines, respecting the Spanish plan of mobilization."

CERVERA COOPED.

The Spanish Admiral in a Bad Fix in Santiago de Cuba—Dare Not Come Out and Will Starve.

Washington, May 26.—There seems to be no longer any doubt that the Spanish fleet now in Santiago harbor is hemmed in by Commodore Schley's squadron and that their escape is quite impossible. Members of the Cabinet are exultant over yesterday's news and, although they are not willing to make public the source of their information, they regard it as perfectly trustworthy. They are not willing to state the exact position of Sampson's fleet, but do say that it is acting in concert with Schley and can come to his relief at any time should the situation require it. The published report that another and more formidable fleet is en route from Cadiz to the relief of the imprisoned squadron is not credited by members of the Administration, but should this prove to be the fact, the move would be welcomed by American naval authorities, as it would certainly result, it is said, in the destruction of the two fleets, instead of one. It is authoritatively stated that the situation of the Santiago harbor is such that the American gunboats which are available for the purpose could successfully prevent the escape of the Spaniards, thus relieving a considerable part of both Sampson's and Schley's fleets for operations elsewhere.

A study of the defences of the harbor and the topographical features, however, has convinced the experts that to undertake to carry the place by storm from the sea and to attack the fleet while it is under the protection of the forts would involve so great a loss of life on the part of the United States as to be entirely unwarranted under the existing conditions. The harbor is known to be mined and these mines are so well protected by judiciously placed shore batteries that the usual methods of countermining could be practised only with the utmost peril to the sailors of the fleet. Morro Castle, one of the principal defences of the harbor, is perched upon a very high elevation. Its guns, if served with anything like fair gunnery, could rain a most destructive fire down upon the ships and not even the battleships and monitors are designed to resist a plunging fire of this kind. The effort probably will be made to keep Cervera inside Santiago harbor until starvation causes the surrender of the Spanish squadron and the forts of Santiago. That this can be done is not doubted by naval experts, as the narrow channel connecting the inner harbor with the sea, requiring any Spanish ships to emerge singly, would expose them to almost certain destruction at the hands of a couple of armoured vessels or monitors commanding the entrance. Of course there is always the danger of these watch dogs being themselves attacked and destroyed by some of the torpedo gunboat destroyers attached to Cervera's squadron, provided their commanders are desperate enough to face the tremendous primary and secondary batteries of the American warships. There is also some risk of an attack on the blockading vessels from without.

The news has reached the Navy Department yesterday that the Spanish torpedo gunboat Terror had cleared out of the harbor of Port de France, after having taken coal from the Alicante.

"I give the Spanish squadron a three-months' lease of life if they are in Santiago harbor," said a prominent naval officer yesterday. He explained that he based his calculation on the length of time that the supplies of the fleet would hold out. Long before that time expired the town of Santiago, which probably would be cut off entirely by the insurgents and perhaps by United States troops, will be practically starved, but following the Spanish practice elsewhere, Havana and Manila for instance, the military and naval forces appropriating all the food supplies, would hold out longer. The long wait involved in this calculation, the officer explained, would have a very substantial compensation in the probable acquirement by the United States of the splendid vessels that go to make up the Spanish squadron through their surrender. They represent in money value alone about $15,000,000, and have an additional value to the United States at this juncture that cannot be expressed in figures.

On the whole members of the Administration regard the present situation as most favorable for the American cause and do not doubt that in a very short time active operations will begin against Havana and Cuba by both the military and naval forces.

TROOPS OFF FOR MANILA.

Twenty-Five Hundred Have Sailed From San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., May 26.—The start was made for Manila late yesterday afternoon, and the first American army to sail for a foreign shore is now on the broad Pacific.

The three transports carried about 2,500 men. The expedition, which is under command of Brigadier-General Anderson, consists of four companies of regulars under command of Major Rolfe, the first regiment California volunteers, Col. Smith; the first regiment Oregon volunteers, Col. Summers; a battalion of 50 heavy artillery, Major Eary; about 100 sailors and eleven naval officers.

The fleet is loaded with supplies to last a year and carries a big cargo of ammunition and navy stores for Admiral Dewey's fleet.

Only One Success.

London, May 26.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says:

"The Spanish Embassy to-day (Wednesday) issued the following statement: The truth is the Americans have only achieved one success, which led to nothing—Manila. All the rest is false. They also relied on disturbances, which might occur in Spain. There were some troubles, owing to the dearness of bread, but these completely disappeared as soon as the Government forbade the exportation of corn.

The French Government is carefully pursuing its neutral policy, but public opinion is as warmly enlisted as ever on the side of Spain.

TRANQUILITY AT MANILA.

Concerted Measures for the Protection of Foreigners Agreed On.

London May 26.—A despatch to the Times from Hong-Kong yesterday says: Manila is tranquil. The foreign cruisers have agreed upon concerted action for the protection of foreigners in any emergency.

Aguinaldo, the insurgent leader, landed at Cavite on May 19. The insurgents being without firearms is delaying the proposed attack on the garrison of Manila.

A despatch received here yesterday from Lloyd's agents at Manila, via Hong-Kong, says the American bark Saranac, Captain Barnaby, from Newcastle, N. S. W., on Feb. 26 for Iloilo, Island of Panay, Philippine Islands, which was captured shortly after the outbreak of the war by the Spanish gunboat El Cano, has been released. The Saranac took about 1,640 tons of coal to Iloilo, which is said to have been unloaded before she was captured. The coal was released some time ago. The Saranac is owned by William Sipmson, jr., of New York.

REBEL SUCCESSES.

Victory Over Spanish Troops as Regards Subig Beaten at Manila.

New York, May 26.—Manila cable to the Herald via Hong-Kong, says one English, one French, two German and two Japanese warships are anchored off the city. The rebels have been very successful lately over the Spanish troops, and are now in possession of Subig. A few days ago they attacked the outposts of Manila, but were forced to retreat by the fire from the shore batteries, the guns of which were turned landwards.

More Volunteers Called For.

Washington, May 26.—The President has issued a proclamation calling for 75,000 more volunteers. This will make the total army strength, regular and volunteer, 280,000.

The First Pension Voucher.

Chicago, May 2.—Col. Jonathan Merriam, the United States pension agent at Chicago, issued yesterday the first pension voucher of the war with Spain

MONEY LOST ON ARCHDUKE II.

A Representative Canadian Throng at the O. J. C. Races at Toronto, Who Spent Money for the Bookmakers—The Day's Winners in Summarized Form—The Baseball Field.

Epsom, May 26.—Derby Day opened fine and pleasantly cool. There were the usual scenes on road and rail, and immense crowds of people gathered on the Downs. The remarkable number of runners, eighteen, unequalled in the last 13 years, coupled with the openness of the result, added greatly to the interest in the event. The result in detail follows:

J. W. Larnach's ch. colt Jeddah, by Janissary, out of Pilgrimage, won; Duke of Westminster's br. colt Batt, by Sheen, out of Vampire, second, and the Prince of Wales' bay colt Dunlop, by Ayrshire, out of Fortuna, third.

Prior to the race the chief interest appeared to center in J. W. Rogers' American bay colt Archduke II., by Luke Blackburn, out of Duchess (by King Fisher), a half brother of Clifford, a horse of which the public knew little except by reports of big trials, including a supposed phenomenal performance against History, the winner of the great Metropolitan stakes. The Americans were said to be supporting Archduke II. heavily, and it was recalled that it is just a century since Archduke I. won the Derby.

The other American runners were the Lorillard-Beresford stables entry Elfin, and Mr. August Belmont's chestnut colt Bridegroom II.

The Prince of Wales, accompanied by a large party, was present at the races.

HAMMOND'S THIRD TRIAL.

The Bracebridge Assizes Opens With an Interesting Criminal Docket—Murder, Shooting, Perjury and Assault.

Bracebridge, May 26.—The Spring Assizes opened here at 5 p.m. yesterday, Chief Justice Meredith presiding, and adjourned until 9.30 to-day. The docket consists of one murder trial, one case of shooting and killing, three cases of perjury and one of assault.

The shooting case is of a character which sometimes happens in the back woods. A man named James Rankin of Stisted was shot and killed by his nephew. A boy named Frankum and a Mrs. Stevens, his mother, were driving along a bush road when they came to a place where deceased, Rankin, had a load of tan, which so obstructed the road as to render it impossible to pass. A quarrel ensued. Mrs. Stevens sent the boy home for a shotgun. He came back with it and shot his uncle, who died from the effects a few days thereafter in the Huntsville hospital.

The Hammond Case.

But the chief interest in the Assizes centres in the trial of William James Hammond for the murder of his wife, Katie Tough, on the sixth of March, 1896. For this crime Hammond has already been twice tried. On the first occasion the jury disagreed. In December last the second trial took place, when the jury returned a verdict of guilty, and the prisoner was sentenced to be hanged on the 18th of February last. But Mr. Johnston, Q.C., was successful in his application for a new trial. At the first trial the evidence given by the prisoner at the Coroner's inquest was not admitted by Mr. Justice McMahon. At the second trial Mr. Justice Meredith admitted this evidence, but under the decision of the Court of Appeal it will now be excluded. Mrs. Hammond died from the effects of taking prussic acid. Her husband, the prisoner, purchased a sealed bottle of prussic acid the same day and does not account for what he did with it, except to say he threw the bottle away. They were married under an assumed name; their marriage was kept a secret and deceased's life was insured in prisoner's favor.

THE DRUMMOND RAILWAY INVESTIGATION.

It will be well remembered with what a flourish of trumpets the Conservative organs of the baser sort, heralded their version of the corruption of the Laurier Government in connection with what is known as the "Drummond County Railway Deal," but the result of the investigation that was so strenuously demanded has been a great disappointment to those who desired to convict the present government of methods similar to those which distinguished the late Conservative government.

The net result of the investigation, as summarized by the Montreal Herald, is that nothing whatever has been proved against the Laurier Administration, but that very grave suspicion has been aroused against its Conservative predecessor. Mr. Haggart and Mr. Foster have both yielded so much as to say that no charges of corruption had ever been made except by a section of the press, for which they did not hold themselves responsible; and so the matter rests.

It would be unfair to the Government to allow the subject to drop without a word of protest against the attitude of those newspapers which have for the last year been hounding the Government with all manner of abuse based upon their own concoctions about what they were pleased to call the "Drummond County Deal." Knowing well the horror of corruption that is entertained by every Liberal voter, it has been the policy of these papers to state and to insinuate that the present Administration differed in no wise from its predecessors in such matters. We cannot well conceive of anything worse for the country than a return to the feeling which prepailed a few years ago that political corruption permeated the whole organism, from members of the Cabinet to letter-carriers. Happily, the result of this investigation has been to the contrary. It has indeed furnished us with an echo of those former investigations which revealed a degree of political immorality that shocked and startled the community. It is only the echo, however; and, happily for the country, there is absolutely no tittle of evidence that the Government led by Sir Wilfrid Laurier is upheld by such props as those its predecessors leaned on so long.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is estimated that the total amount of British capital invested in the United States is the enormous sum of twenty-five hundred millions. At, say, an average rate of interest of four per cent. the annual interest bill is one hundred millions of dollars.

An exchange remarks that the Anglo-Saxon alliance would be an alliance between a people who are confident that they can "lick creation" and a nation whose fleets and armies have been unostentatiously doing that same for a century and a half.

The imports of wheat from British North America into Great Britain for the first four months of 1898 were 482,500 cwt., as against 130,300 cwt. in the four months of 1897, and the value £205,286, as compared with £40,210. The imports from the Argentine Republic were trebled in the same period, while those from the United States and most other sources fell off. Canada in this portion of 1898 passed Turkey and Roumania, which were ahead of her in the same period of 1897. On the whole Great Britain imported 2,000,000 cwt. less and paid £700,000 more for it.

In undertaking the contract of crushing Spain, Uncle Sam has, to use the vernacular of some of his children, "bit of more than he can chaw." It was on the cards to make a sort of a holiday excursion of taking Cuba, and it was at first thought that 125,000 volunteers would be all that would be needed, but the latest despatches indicate that the United States is recognizing the gravity of the task she has set herself, and a call for 75,000 more troops is made. With the republic spending three millions of dollars a day, and with an added draft of militia that will represent almost an addition of another million, our good American cousins have learned that indulgence in the humanity luxury is rather a dear diversion. Uncle Sam's heart may be in the right place in relation to Cuba, and all good-feeling people will sympathize with his aims, but what strikes one as odd is that the battle of liberty has, at this late day, to be fought again and at such a terrible expense of treasure and blood, for though the "war" so far has been bloodless, the destruction of life will come all too soon.

CANADA'S DEFENCES.

In reply to a correspondent the Globe says that the establishment of the Canadian permanent force is 802, all ranks. The actual strength is rather below this figure, and varies from week to week. There are no volunteers in Canada. The establishment of the active militia is 35,386, all ranks. The actual strength is less than this. Canada is not a naval power; she ranks fifth from the standpoint of merchant marine tonnage. The British North American squadron comprises a first-class battleship, three new second-class cruisers, one third-class cruiser, two sloops, one coast-defence ship, one gunboat, two very modern torpedo-boat destroyers and one old cruiser. The North American squadron is now chiefly in the West Indies. The North Pacific squadron, which has Esquimalt for its chief base and one of its stopping points, is composed of an armoured cruiser, three second class cruisers, (sister ships), two sloops, a first-class gunboat and a thirty-knot torpedo-boat destroyer. The Dominion Government makes no appropriation for naval defence, beyond the paying a proportion of the cost of a garrison at Esquimalt.

THE BALANCE OF TRADE.

The Daily Graphic, of London, England, says: "In the four months from January to April there has been a decrease of exports of £3,795,000, as compared with the same period last year. On the other hand, our imports continue to increase, the added value for the past four months being £6,550,000. If this contrast were an isolated phenomenon it might be sufficiently explained by the ups and downs of trade. Every year sees the margin between our imports and exports growing greater. In other words the country is receiving back, to an increasing extent, more than it gives out. The only possible explanation is that we are largely supported by tributa from abroad. British capital has been sent out to the uttermost ends of the earth, and the annual interest upon it now enormously exceeds the additional capital which we every year still export. Great Britain is, in fact, gradually becoming a residential island, the playground of the plutocrat rather than the workshop of the world. Whether the change is wholly for the good is rather a moral than an economic question. There is no danger that the change, in the shape it is taking, will reduce us to poverty, as the Protectionists are fond of fancying. The real danger is that by growing too rich we may as a nation in time lose those robust qualities which are stimulated by hard work, and only obtain in their stead the timid virtues and vices of the rentier."

Seekers after gold are often disappointed. Seekers after health take Hood's Sarsaparilla and find it meets every exqectation.

The 24th of May celebration here was a success in every respect, owing mostly to the efforts of pupils and staff of the High School. The pupils have been hard at work for the past three weeks making preparations for the athletic games and concert. In the early forenoon a football contest took place between Gore's Landing and High School teams, which, after an hour's playing, resulted in a score of two to nothing in favour of the latter team. The Caledonian games were then participated in, after which the Scotts of Toronto and the town team played a fast game of Association football. The game was well contested. The score after an hour and a half's play resulted in a tie, neither scoring. The teams line up as follows:

Scotts		Norwood

THE END NOW IN SIGHT

The Premier Announces the Only Legislation Remaining.

PROROGATION LIKELY JUNE 4.

The New Regulations of the Grand Trunk Railway Discussed—Statement by Mr. Blair—Some Important Questions Asked and Answered by Ministers—Prohibition Plebiscite Bill Passed.

Ottawa, May 26.—After making the announcement that he would not but that Sir Richard Cartwright would today move that hereafter morning sessions of the House would be held, Sir Wilfrid Laurier further said: "The Government has no further legislation of any importance to bring to the attention of Parliament this session. The only legislation which will be brought up is upon the following subjects, respecting the issue of bonds by the Montreal Harbor Commissioners; to give effect to a judgment of the Exchequer Court in reference to the Dominion Atlantic Company; to rectify an error in connection with the settlement of the accounts between the Government of Manitoba and Canada; to confirm an Act of agreement in reference to the boundaries in Canada and Quebec and one or two purely departmental matters affecting customs and inland revenue."

Ministers said yesterday that the House will prorogue a week from Saturday, which date, in the absence of further Yukon legislation, may be regarded as correct. The Cabinet meets again to-day at 2 o'clock to conclude arrangements for the closing legislation.

These New Regulations.

Mr. Wallace called attention to the new regulations which were to go into effect on the G.T.R. on July 1. The regulations had been approved by the Governor-in Council and some of them were of a dangerous character. For instance, one provided that the brakeman must remain on the top of the box cars on all upgrades. This he thought would be a very poor arrangement in winter. The regulations had been imported from the United States and would result in the Americanizing of one of our Canadian railways.

Mr. Blair said his attention had not been specially called to this matter until the other day. The regulations had been approved by an Order-in-Council in the usual way, having gone through the regular routine. Neither the Premier nor himself recollected giving a pledge that the employes should see the regulations before they were approved and personally he was quite unaware of the nature of the objections which the railway men took to the regulations. He promised to give the matter his immediate attention, and if there had been anything done calculated to injure the employes he would see that proper steps were taken in order that the grievances might be redressed.

After some desultory discussion by members, Mr. Blair said that if it was possible to re-open the question he would be pleased to do so. The subject then dropped.

Question and Answer.

Mr. Sifton told Mr. Monk that up to March 30, 7,977 placer mining claims in the Yukon territory had been reported to the Interior Department.

Dr. Borden informed Mr. Brodeur that H. N. Bate & Sons of Ottawa had received contracts for supplies for the Yukon militia contingent to the value, approximately, of $30,000. There was no understanding as to where the goods should be purchased. "I am not able," said the Minister, "to give the proportion purchased in the United States. If any goods were purchased in a foreign country duty would have to be paid upon them. There was not a general call for tenders for these supplies, that is, no advertisements were published in the newspapers, but tenders were asked for and received from several firms."

Mr. Blair, answering Mr. Maclean, said it was confidently expected that the 14 foot navigation between Lake Ontario and Montreal would be sufficiently completed to open for traffic at the commencement of navigation next year.

Dr. Borden informed Mr. Trowbridge that thirteen officers had been appointed to the permanent force since July 10. Of this number only one, Mr. Bennett, was a graduate of the Royal Military College.

Mr. Fisher informed Mr. Clarke that Mr. John Sheridan of Toronto had not been appointed Inspector of Live Stock, but in November of last year he was appointed honorary commissioner to facilitate arrangements in connection with the shipment of live stock for export. He did not receive any salary.

Mr. Paterson informed Mr. Mills that the Lafrance steam fire engine, purchased by the corporation of Ottawa, was entered at customs by the shippers at $3,550, but the value was raised on appraisement to $4,200, and duty paid accordingly. The Lafrance engine for the city of Montreal was provisionally entered at $5,000, pending adjustment for valuation, which was finally fixed at $4,500, and duty levied accordingly.

The Premier, in answer to a question, said that the Government had no further information regarding the incarceration in Puerto Rico of the Canadian newspaper correspondent, Halstead. The Government would neglect no opportunity of securing satisfaction on this matter.

Sir Charles Tupper was informed that the Government at present had no intention of dropping any of its measures now on the order paper.

Mr. J. Ross Robertson—Has the Government taken any action on the petition of the Bell Telephone Company for permission to increase rates?

Sir Wilfrid Laurier—No action has been taken.

Mr. Foster was informed by Dr. Borden that he would take up the question of the charges against Col. Domville as commanding officer of the 8th Hussars immediately after the session.

Mr. Davin called attention to the alleged unfair treatment of Galician immigrants in the Northwest.

The Premier said it was not fair to quote an anonymous newspaper statement. If Mr. Davin would father these statements the Government would take immediate action. The Galicians were a most valuable class of immigrants.

Plebiscite Bill Passed.

On the motion for the third reading of the Plebiscite bill, Mr. Foster once more urged that the Government should state when the vote would take place. He thought the electorate should not be taken by surprise. He asked this in the interests of the temperance people, who felt that ample notice should be given.

Mr. Fisher replied that the Government would give notice, so that there might be no surprise or uncertainty. Speaking generally, he understood that the former announcement that the vote would take place as early in the fall as would meet the convenience of the people consistent with their harvesting operations was satisfactory. He thought either six weeks or two months' notice should be given before bringing on the vote.

Mr. Foster—At least two months.

Mr. Fisher—I think so myself.

Sir Charles Tupper asked the Government to state how far they proposed to override the powers of the provinces to pass prohibition and how far the opinion of the whole of Canada would override the opinion of particular provinces in the event of an affirmative vote. He desired to know under what conditions the Government proposed to give effect to the opinion of the people as expressed by the plebiscite, and whether a bare majority or a preponderating majority would be required before action was taken.

The Premier replied that Sir Charles' questions were most unreasonable.

He did not know that Sir Charles belonged to any temperance organization, but evidently he was more a Catholic than the Pope and more prohibitionist than the prohibitionists. Not a single temperance organization, at whose instigation the plebiscite had been brought forward, had asked the questions, and all had agreed that the consequences of this vote should be left until after the vote had taken place.

Messrs. Craig, Flint and Kaulback having spoken, the bill was read the third time and passed.

On resuming after the dinner recess, the order of the committee stage of the Sons of England Incorporation bill was called, and after some discussion the House divided on the question. Eighty-five members voted to go into committee and 44 against.

The hour for private bills having expired, the measure went over until Friday.

The remainder of the sitting was spent in Committee of Supply, the dredging items being put through in the Public Works estimates.

The Gladstone resolution will be taken up to-day, after which announcement the House adjourned at 1.10 a.m.

To Sign the Treaty.

Paris, May 26.—The Cabinet met yesterday and filed some appointments, indicating that M. Meline's Ministry will not leave office and that M. Lebon, the Minister for the Colonies, who failed of re-election to the Chamber of Deputies on the re-balloting last Sunday, will not retire until the Niger convention is signed, which is imminent.

MR. GLADSTONE'S BODY

Is Uncoffined as Yet—Lies on a Couch in the "Temple of Peace."

Hawarden, May 25.—The body of Mr. Gladstone, uncoffined, is lying on a couch in the library of Hawarden Castle, the room called the Temple of Peace. Yesterday it was viewed by the parishioners. The coffin will be placed in the centre of the nave of Hawarden Church to-day and lie there in state until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when a procession will be formed and the bier carried to Broughton Railway Station, where it will be placed upon the train for London.

The family, servants, friends, tenantry and local officials will walk behind the bier, which will be borne by relays of colliers, workmen on the estate, tenants and neighbors.

The remains will arrive in London about midnight and will be immediately conveyed to Westminster Hall to avoid the crowds.

The Queen Assented.

London, May 25.—In the House of Lords on Monday Lord Salisbury announced that the Queen had assented to the addresses of the House of Lords and House of Commons praying Her Majesty to grant a public funeral to Mr. Gladstone and sanction the erection of a monument in his honor in Westminster Abbey.

COULDN'T GO NEAR THE STOVE.

Treated by Different Doctors.

The most intractable and distressing skin diseases which defy all manner of treatment—even the best medical skill—are readily cured by Dr Chase's Ointment.

On hearing of Dr. Chase's Ointment, she got some, and was delighted to find the first application do her good. She used two more boxes of the Ointment, is now free from disease, can do her own cooking, and would not begrudge $200 for the good it has done her.

A MOTORMAN'S VICTORY.

Over Diabetes. Gained by the Power of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto, May 23—In a large city like Toronto, there is always much sickness, kidney diseases largely predominating. The street railway employees, exposed as they are to all the inclemencies of the weather are particularly liable to kidney disease. But they all know how to conquer this enemy.

For instance: Mr. T. H. O'Reilly, 27 Niagara Street, motorman, No. 624, was for three years a great sufferer from Diabetes. Every remedy failed to help him, till he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him.

It is cases like this, where the patient and the cure are equally well known, that are the test of a remedy, and Dodd's Kidney Pills have always stood it successfully. They cure all kidney complaints.

Sores Gone. Skin Clear.

Mrs Philip Mitchell, St. Mary's, Ont., says:—"My little boy, aged 10, was a complete mass of sores, caused by bad blood. We could find nothing to cure him. Finally I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and before half the bottle was gone he began to improve, and by the time the bottle was finished he had not a sore on him."

Piles! Piles! Itchin Piles.

Symptoms—Moisture intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumour. All druggists or by mail, for 50 cents. The Coin Came Back.

"I have once or twice read how small the world was," said a young fellow, "and once or twice I have seen stories of the same kind I am going to tell. I confess I never believed them, but now I know better. Last summer, when in New York on my annual visit, I was struck with a sudden whim and scratched my initials on a 25 cent piece, cutting into the silver deep enough to make a lasting impression. I paid for a cigar in the Hoffman House with the coin and guyed myself with being foolish. I had forgotten all about the quarter when I entered a Carrollton car and gave a half dollar to the conductor. Imagine my surprise when he handed me in change the 25 cent piece I spent in the Hoffman House! I think I will keep the coin now and ever more as a curiosity," and the speaker pulled the money from his pocket and showed it in verification of his story.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Free Health Lecture.

Last night the reaction after the holiday excitement caused a small attendance at the lecture given in the Y.M.C.A. hall by Mrs. N. M. Walkinshaw, of Toronto, in the interests of the Gunagathon (woman-beautiful) Company. The speaker was a pleasant talker, and was listened to with much attention while she reasoned of health for women, and the means to gain it. Mrs. Walkinshaw in answer to a question denounces wheeling as physically injurious to riders of either sex.

Hong Kong, May 26.—Capt Concha, of the ill-fated Spanish cruiser Don Juan De Austria, destroyed at the battle of Manila, says that the Spanish commanders were aware that fighting was hopeless, but were forced to it by state of public opinion at Manila. He says that the Spanish fleet was in a disgraceful condition.

France Anxious for a Settlement.

London, May 26—The Star claims to have information that the French Minister for Foreign Affairs M. Hanotaux is making great efforts to stop the war. He says that Russia, Austria and France are endeavouring to induce Germany and Italy to join in a representation to President McKinley, declaring that the powers will induce Spain to grant the independence of Cuba. The Pall Mall Gazette says: All the talk of assistance from Europe is moonshine, and neither France nor any other power is likely to burn its fingers with the Spanish chestnut.

London, May 26—There are renewed sinister predictions of an impending revolution in Spain contained in a special despatch from Madrid to-day. Emperor Francis Joseph is said to have strongly advised the Queen Regent to prepare to fly, and her mother, who is now at Madrid, is reported to have given her the same advice, but the Queen Regent is determined to remain. Continuing, the despatch says: The defeat of the Spanish fleet, which the best informed people regard as only a question of a few days, is bound to precipitate an outbreak.

CIVIC NEWS.

What is Going on Around the Town Buildings These Days.

At the meeting of the Street and Bridge Committee last evening the street inspector submitted a report of the work done so far this year on the streets. The question of acting on the legislation respecting the adoption of wide tires, which was referred to the committee by the council, will be turned over to the Joint Committee with instructions to consult the county council.

The Market Committee decided to recommend the cleaning of the hog pen on the market and deferred the consideration of asphalting it until this work begins on the streets.

The Legal Committee instructed the town clerk to write the Street Railway Co. respecting the letter received from Deanistoun, Peck & Stevenson, in the matter of damages sustained by Robt. Gibbs' hack on account of the condition of the tracks.

A snubbing post has been placed in front of the town clerk's office. It is jocularly proposed to place another in the centre of the street.

An estimate has been prepared by Street Inspector Ranney regarding the cost of doing away with the present public staircase leading to the Police Court, and transforming the women's cell and spare room occupied by the stairs into a private office for the Chief of Police. An outside staircase would have to be built to give the public access to the Police Court. Mr. Ranney's estimated cost is $88, but Councillor Langford thinks the expense involved would necessitate an outlay of twice as much money.

Rooms upstairs will be fitted up for the Town Engineer and Street Inspector.

OBITUARY.

Demise of Miss Carrie Fair.

A sad death occurred on Wednesday morning in the demise of Miss Carrie Fair at the residence of her sister, Mrs. W. J. Hall, Brock street.

Miss Fair received her primary education in Peterborough, and also held a position afterwards on the Public School staff here. Resigning she took a course in Toronto University, from which she graduated with honours in 1887, leaving then for a year's trip to Europe. On her return she held positions on the staffs of various Collegiate Institutes in Western Ontario, being latterly connected with the Woodstock Collegiate, where she was the valued teacher of modern languages. Ill health compelled her to resign, however, and she has since then been residing with her sister. Her old pupils in town, who have since grown up, will cherish her memory with loving reverence.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon from the homestead, "Linden Hall," south half of lot 20, concession 4, Cavan, to St. Paul's burying ground.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—A few days ago the grocers of Peterborough signed an agreement to close their stores at a certain hour. Last night, Wednesday, May 25th, I counted three grocers on one street who were opened long after the hour. I would ask these grocers, if they signed the agreement, to kindly act like gentlemen and give some reason why they sign an agreement and then break it within a week. If it is because some obstinate concern won't sign, and keeps open, I would ask them to say so, name the grocer who refuses, and let us clerks know who he is, and we will certainly advertise it to the customers of the town, so that all will know. Hoping that some of those grocers who sign an agreement and then won't keep it will be manly enough to put their reasons in print and openly name the grocer who is preventing us from having an hour to ourselves like other clerks, and thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am,

Yours, etc.,
A GROCER'S CLERK.

AN OBJECTIONABLE CONDITION.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I wish to enquire who is responsible for the extremely untidy, not to say unhealthy and extremely objectionable condition of the market square. Particularly objectionable is the hog pen, which, while it may be a convenience to those who have to use it, is undeniably filthy, and yields a stench that pollutes the air of the vicinity and penetrates even to the adjacent shops and dwellings. I submit that the town authorities, and especially the Board of Health, in whose province lies the responsibility, in one sense, of remedying the evil complained of, should take or concert measures to remove what may, without exaggeration, be properly denominated a nuisance.

Yours, etc.,
CIVIS.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

The Iron Moulders' Union Sympathise With the Family of the Late Arthur McGarrity.

At a meeting of the Iron Moulders' Union held last evening the following resolution of condolence was passed respecting the death of the last Arthur McGarrity, of Edinburgh street:

Moved by Edward Carr, seconded by Charles Grant,—

"Whereas it has pleased Almighty God in his inscrutable wisdom to remove suddenly from our midst our esteemed brother, Arthur McGarrity, therefore be it

Resolved:—That we, the members of the Iron Moulders' Union No. 191, I.M.U. of N.A., express to the afflicted wife and family of our late brother our heartfelt sympathy in this great tribulation by which they have been bereft of one who was near and dear to them, and we pray that the God of all consolation will comfort and sustain them in their affliction.

Resolved:—That we place on record our deep sense of the great loss we, as a Union, have sustained by the death of Bro. McGarrity, who was a charter member thereof, and for nearly a quarter of a century took an active interest in everything pertaining to its welfare. An earnest and zealous worker, honest in principle and of a generous nature, he enjoyed the respect and esteem of his fellow members who bear unanimous testimony to his memory.

Resolved:—That the charter be draped in mourning for ninety days and a copy of this resolution be sent to the family of our deceased brother.

J. L. O'BRIEN, President. ROBT. MULLIGAN, Secretary.

[The foregoing resolution with its earnest tribute to Mr. McGarrity's worth, speaks the sentiments not only of the Union but of all who had the privilege of acquaintance and association with the deceased gentleman who possessed qualities heart of and character which entitled him in the fullest sense to the very high esteem he enjoyed.—ED. EXAMINER.]

NEW BUILDING FOR KING STREET WEST, TORONTO.

The Dominion Building and Loan Association's New Offices and the Offices of the Trust and Guarantee Company.

Toronto World,

Contracts have been executed and work of construction actively commenced on the almost entire re-modelling of the old Crowther building, at 12 and 16 King street west, near the corner of Yonge street, now the property of the John L. Lawlor estate. The plans have been prepared so that one-half of the ground floor will be occupied by the offices of the Dominion Building and Loan Association and the other half of the offices by the Trust and Guarantee Company, of which Mr. F. M. Holland and Mr. T. P. Coffee are the respective managers, Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., being the President. The latter company will erect what will be when finished the largest and most costly safe depost vaults in the Dominion, and the general offices of both companies will be fitted up in an elaborate and artistic manner with every convenience for the carrying on of their large and increasing business. The general entrance for access to the offices on the upper floors will be through a new stone and marble vestibule to the west of the company's premises. The question of lighting such a deep building has been satisfactorily overcome by the use of the Luxfer Prisims to both the front and rear windows, thus dispensing with the large centre well at first contemplated by the owners, effecting a saving in the rentable space on all the floors, an item of no small importance when revenue is considered. It is intended to lay out the upper floors in suitable suites of offices with new elevator and vault accommodation, with a thorough steam-heating plant and sanitary and electric arrangements of modern design. Mr. F. H. Herbert, architect, will have entire charge of the work of both lessees and owners, whose attorneys are Messrs. Foy & Kelly, barristers, of Church street. The entire building will be ready by November 1st, and the outlay will probably exceed $35,000. The re-constructed buildings will be most handsome premises and very conveniently situated.

A Test Case.

Sometimes we wonder if the people who make ready-to-wear clothing make money. We don't see how they can sometimes; and it will make you wonder, too, if you notice a test case of it just now at H. LeBrun & Co's. Silver Celebration Sale. Go yourself and ask the prices of a few of their leading well made suits. They sell a good looking suit of tweed for a man for $3.50, fashionable three-button cutaway and newest pattern. You won't be able to see how the maker can make any money at $3.50, and LeBrun & Co. must make a little. Men have been heard to say as they examined a splendid worsted ticketed at $7.50, that they had paid $13 for a suit the very mate to it. Maybe LeBrun & Co. buy mighty close for cash, but somebody must lose money. dw

TWO PRISONERS HAVE BROKEN GAOL.

They Force Their Way Out at Midnight.

BOLTS AND BARS GIVE WAY.

McDonald, the Man Committed For Trial in Connection With the Burglary of the Norwood Post Office Escapes, Accompanied by Young Fobes, of Town.

The town is all excitement this morning through the fact that two prisoners escaped from the county gaol last night and are still at large.

The men were James McDonald, the man who is awaiting trial on the charge of having burglarized the Norwood post office, and George Fobes, a young fellow from town who is serving a short sentence for thieving.

The escape was made at about twelve o'clock at night, according to the story of the other prisoners, who, although they acknowledge knowing what was in the wind, did not raise any alarm. The method of breaking out which was adopted shows that the plan had been carefully considered beforehand. Fobes appears to be directly responsible for the escape of the more important prisoner, as, without his co-operation, McDonald could not have in the first place gotten from his cell

INTO THE CORRIDOR.

Forbes, being a quiet young fellow, and not having a long sentence to serve, was allowed some liberty and did the cooking for the prisoners. This allowed him free range of the interior premises. At night, so great was the trust reposed in him, that to him fell the lot of being the particular prisoner whose cell door was left open in order that some one might be at liberty to ring the bell in case of fire, sickness or any other emergency. At about midnight he was noticed by some of the other prisoners to come out of his cell and pass hastily down the corridor to the one occupied by McDonald, with whom he returned. Just how he liberated him will probably never be known, as the lock on the cell door which is embedded in solid masonry, does not appear to have been injured in any way. A skeleton key, however, probably did the business or else the lock was cleverly picked from the outside by Fobes. The pair then proceeded to the iron barred door leading into the outer corridor. Iron plates cover the door completely with the exception of spaces about fifteen inches wide across the top and bottom,

WHICH ARE BARRED.

One of the bars across the bottom space was filed through at the top and a heavy two-inch oak plank, wrenched from a table, was used as a lever to twist the bar to one side in order that time might not be lost in also filing it through at the bottom.

The two prisoners having thus gained access to the outer corridor, proceeded upstairs, and by means of a wrench removed the heavy steel lock from the iron studded oak door. The companion double door just on the other side, which was locked with a hasp on the outer side was opened by the glass being broken in the fanlight over it, which though thoroughly barred, did not prevent one of the prisoners reaching down with a broom handle and releasing the hasp.

The two men were now in the second story of the gaol, being in the passage way leading from the gaol into the court room, guarded at the end by a heavy door. This they did not try to force, but into strips, removed the lower sash of a small window and letting themselves down to the ground by means of the blankets, were in the outer portion of the court yard, not surrounded by the wall, and free again.

The theory is that McDonald, realizing that a heavy sentence was in store for him if he was ever brought to trial, won over young Forbes and made him his dupe in assisting in the gaol breaking. The latter would hardly have resorted to such measures to gain his freedom, when he was serving such a short sentence. Tommy Coursey, who is serving a term in the gaol, states that he saw a curious instrument, like a silver knife with teeth, in the possession of McDonald yesterday. The tool was fitted with an oval handle to fit the hand and was probably used to saw through the iron bar in the door. It is surmised that Fobes, having so much liberty, established communication with outside parties who supplied him with this tool, as well as with the means to open the cell door and liberate McDonald. The wrench used to open the first door upstairs must also have been procured from the same source, as it was left behind and is not recognized as being gaol property. It would for any instrument to saw through the inch bar which was cut in the corridor door and as the prisoners were all out in the yard yesterday working on the wood pile, with the exception of McDonald, it is thought that he took advantage of being left alone to do a good deal of work on the door.

Gaoler Nesbitt states that he exercised particular care in keeping an eye on McDonald's movements. He was never even allowed out in the gaol yard, being confined to the inner men's corridor in the day time and locked in his cell at night. Permission to see him was granted no one, except his lawyer Mr. D. O'Connell and when papers came addressed to him each thoroughly scrutinized before it passed into his hands. No man before was ever so closely watched with the exception of Greenfields and strange to say he tried to escape by the same means, having cut quite deeply into one of the lower bars of the identical corridor door with a three cornered file before he was discovered. In consequence of this fact whenever he has an important prisoner in charge Mr. Nesbitt has been in the habit of running the blade of his knife up and down these bars every morning to ascertain if any attempt had been made to cut them. All were intact yesterday morning which lends strength to the argument that McDonald did the major part of the work while left alone

IN THE AFTERNOON.

The prisoners were locked up at seven o'clock last night in their separate cells and were not visited until this morning, when the turnkey received the astounding information that two of those confined had broken jail and flown.

It is surmised that parties were waiting outside to lend the prisoners aid in getting away after obtaining their liberty, but although they have obtained a big start on the police every effort will be made to recapture them. The matter has been placed in the hands of Chief Reesel, and he has telegraphed to all points along the line as well as to the Dominion Police, to be on the look out for the two men.

When the prisoners made their escape McDonald wore a dark worsted suit. He is a stoutly built man with dark hair, lightish brown whiskers and blue eyes. Fobes is about 21 years of age, medium height and weight, and wore his prison garb. If, as is suspected, friends were awaiting the men outside they were doubtless speedily changed in appearance in order to aid them in eluding the authorities.

McDonald will be remembered as the desperado who was suspected of burglarizing the Norwood post office, and was captured by Warden Pearce at Havelock.

THE CATERPILLAR SCOURGE.

The Battle not yet Over—Thousands of Egg Bracelets Escaped—We Have Millions of Caterpillars Yet—Their Ravages and the Necessity for their Destruction—McKee's "Instant Death" Spraying Mixture.

"Pest" is too mild a name—"scourge" better fits later developments.

Circumstances entirely justify the action taken by the town council to destroy the egg bracelets of the tent caterpillars. With all the care exercised, and it seems that pains was taken to make the destruction of the bracelets thorough, it was inevitable that some should be missed, and here and there on the street shade trees the caterpillars are out in strong force. It is, perhaps, not too much to say that if the work of destruction of the egg bracelets had not been undertaken the majority of our street shade trees would have been leafless, for the caterpillar works with great rapidity and thoroughness. On a lawn on Reid street three large apple trees stand to-day leafless that were in full feather a few hours ago. The work of destruction was performed in a very short time.

But it is on private premises that the scourge is most in evidence. While the town was destroying the egg bands on the street trees, citizens, it would now appear by the condition of the trees on private grounds, evidently felt that there was nothing to do but for them to look on. But now they have to look sharp or there will not be left a leaf on the trees in some private grounds.

The town should take active measures yet to destroy the pest. In vacant lots and on premises occupied by careless tenants, especially on apple and choke cherry trees, the worms cluster in millions. On a lot on King street there is an apple tree upon which on Sunday there were half a dozen bunches of worms, almost the size of a swarm of bees. The tree was worthless, and no loss would result if it were cut down and burned. This would be the most effective way to destroy the worms. The same applies to cluster of worms on valuable trees. There should be no hesitation in cutting even a large limb, for if the caterpillars are undisturbed, the whole tree is sure to go. It will be noticed at certain times the worms gather in a cluster. This is the time to destroy them wholesale.

M'KEE'S SURE DEATH CATERPILLAR SPRAY.

After the worms are hatched spraying is perhaps the most convenient and effective means of destruction. The difficulty of getting a mixture that would kill instantly included all the known vermicide and insecticide spraying mixtures recommended by the Agricultural College and Experimental Farm authorities. A mixture strong enough to destroy the worms would destroy the foliage also.

Mr. John McKee, druggist, has been experimenting the past three months and the result of his investigations is a spraying mixture that meets all the required conditions—sure and instant death, no injury to the foliage and comparatively inexpensive. Several tests have been made with perfect success. One notable one was on a large maple owned by Mr. A. Hall, which was literally alive with worms lined up on the limbs and at work on the leaves. The spray was applied last night and as the spray struck the worms they curled up writhing and dropped dead. Worms that escaped direct contact with the spraying liquid died as they ate the leaves on which it fell, and this morning the ground under the tree was carpeted with dead worms, no worms could be seen on the trees and the leaves were uninjured by the spray.

This discovery of a certain destroyer is important for the caterpiller clusters that escape destruction are on high limbs, and cannot be got at by any other means as easily as by a spray with a common spraying pump.

The campaign against the caterpillers must be waged earnestly. Every citizen that has a tree should be on the watch every moment, and kill and spare not. Vacant lots and grounds occupied by careless tenants should be taken in charge by the town. Martial law in regard to caterpillars should be declared. Isolated destruction will not do. One property may be cleared of the scourge, but if the worms are allowed free course in an adjoining lot as soon as the foliage is destroyed in one place the army of leaf-eaters moves to where there is the most food. Some apple trees are destroyed on Judge Weller's lawn. The food supply being consumed the worms are departing. They let themselves down by paying out a filament like that composing the web, as Rahab let down the spies, and then they march in procession to another field of destruction with the regularity of an army, and they are far more destructive than either the Spanish or American armies have been so far.

Everybody—the town and the citizens—should be on the alert. Prompt and vigorous action is called for. Our trees are our glory, and without prompt and concerted effort they will be destroyed.

The man with a weight on his leg can't hope to win in the race. A man with a weight on his health can't expect to compete in life and business with those who are not handicapped. If his brain is heavy and his blood sluggish, because of constipation, he will not succeed in doing anything very well. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all sickness. Symptoms of it are sallowness, listlessness, poor appetite, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, biliousness and lassitude. Constipation can be cured easily and certainly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are not at all violent in their action, and yet they are more certain than many medicines which are so strong that they put the system all out of order. The great advantage of the "Pleasant Pellets" is that they cure permanently.

The Adjective.

A writer in Longman's Magazine says that everybody nowadays in prose or poetry claps on an adjective to every noun. It degrades the adjective and enervates the noun.

Then, too, there are a host of vulgar, overdressed people introduced into our company, whom we, the old fashioned adjectives, hardly recognize—"strenuous," "intense," "weird," "fiery," "sympathetic," "splendid," "secure," "naive," "impressive," "poignant"—mostly attached, too, to the wrong nouns.

There are too many adjectives, and they carry too much sail, like Delilah, bedecked, ornate and gay.

I noticed, as an instance, the other way, a criticism in a French review of the academician sea captain who calls himself Pierre Loti, whose style is so defecated that he seldom or never uses an adjective more startling than "good," "bad," "green," "red," "dark," "light," and so on, and yet so orders his sentence that the adjective shines out like a rose on a brier bush.

In the Name of Economy.

"A good many folks is economical like my Uncle Dan'l."

"How was that, Ira?"

"Paid $18 for a machine that would split matches."—Indianapolis Journal.

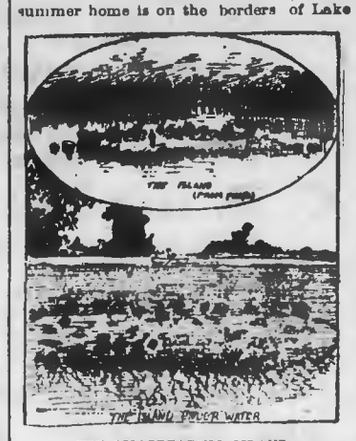
A SINKING ISLAND.

A Mysterious Body of Land Which Sinks Below Water in Winter.

It will soon be time again for the reappearance of the State of Michigan's mysterious island. During the winter it lies at the bottom of Lake Orion. When summer arrives it rises to the surface, becomes a resort for picnic parties, fishermen or whoever chooses to visit it.

There are stumps of trees upon it, and vegetation flourishes. The soil is no different from that along the borders of the lake. It is a full acre in area, and the topography shows the surface to be of a rolling nature.

Dr. H. C. Leonard of Detroit, whose summer home is on the borders of Lake



THE DISAPPEARING ISLAND.

Orion, has studied this island problem and believes he has found a probable solution. This is the result of his observations:

"In the centre of the island," he says, "a half dozen or more large stumps are growing, a clump of three being in the centre of the mass. I think these stumps are in a great measure responsible for the phenomena attending its annual sinking and rising. That is, I am of the opinion that a collection of these originally formed the nucleus for the growth of this strange freak among the islands of our fresh water lakes.

"The flora of the lake is something marvellous in its richness and variety. These stumps have drifted out to the centre of this portion of the lake, and taken with them some of the strands of the long, snakelike plants that grow there to a length of nearly ten feet, with the lily, fronds, mosses and various others of the aquatic plants.

"These floating growths have formed there, with the earth attached to the stump roots, an island garden all to themselves. They grew luxuriantly, and the underbrush cleared away from the shores and other islands thereabouts gradually drifted into them, and so increased the size of the mass; then, as the wood of the brush and of the stumps decayed, the mass became waterlogged, and the whole gradually sunk beneath the surface.

"But how comes it to rise again, as it does each succeeding year? This is the point that has puzzled wiser heads than mine, but I have a theory for it, which seems to answer all the requirements. As the flora ripen during the hot months of summer, for the island is a thick mass of vegetation, the stems enlarge, become buoyant, and, as the season advances toward September, undergo the first stages of decay; that is, the stems become filled with the gases attendant upon fuller ripeness and commencing decay.

"This large mass of gas-enclosing vegetation overcomes the natural weight of the mass, the specific gravity being only a little heavier than the water, and so the whole mass gradually rises above the water's surface; it stays in this condition above the surface till the heavy frosts of the fall occur, when, the plants having been destroyed, and decay measurably completed, the whole mass being heavier than the water again, it gradually sinks to the bottom of the lake, which is about thirty feet deep at this point, to arise again the following year, when spring and summer have brought the lake's flora into life and full vigor once more."

The venerated Baron Munchausen is the reputed discoverer of the first floating island. The stories that sailors have told of these moving oases of verdure in the ocean have always been incredulously received. But here quite close to us is the fact. Seeing is believing.

MR. WILLIS, WOODSTOCK,

Escaped a Deadly Enemy by the Aid of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Woodstock, May 9—(Special)—This city is deeply agitated, with joyful excitement, because another popular resident has estaped from the fatal grip of Kidney disease by the aid of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Everyone knows Mr. H. A. Willis, the genial proprietor of the "Buckingham" hotel. He tells his story thus: "For two years past I have suffered intensely from Lame Back and Kidney Disease. Nothing I ever used helped me.

"My sufferings grew worse daily. I heard so much of Dodd's Kidney Pills that I decided to try them. I got relief from the first box. Three boxes cured me entirely."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure.

Sick Headache Subsides.

"I had been troubled with Sick Headache for over a year. Lately I used Laxa-Liver Pills and find they help me more than any other medicine I have ever taken. They do not gripe, and leave no ill effects."

WHEAT PRICES DOWN.

European Shortage Met by Large World's Shipments—Futures Declined All Day—The Latest Prices.

Tuesday Evening, May 24.

The wheat markets of the world showed further declines to-day. The ruling high prices have brought out such heavy shipments from exporting countries of late that the European shortage seems to have been largely made good, and consequently the back of the market is for the time being, at any rate, broken.

On the Chicago board, the cereal opened below yesterday's close, and the final figures showed the following losses for to-day's session: July 1⅝c, Sept. 1⅞c, Dec. 1⅛c.

At Liverpool, spot declined 3d, July 1d, Sept. 2d and Dec. 1⅛d.

At Paris, the close was 10 to 15 centimes lower than yesterday, and at Antwerp 25 centimes lower.

According to Bradstreet's, the world's visible supply of wheat last week increased 2,300,000 bush, while corn decreased 2,486,000 bush, and oats 679,000 bush.

Toronto Live Stock.

The run of live stock at the Cattle Market to-day was not large, compared with last week's receipts—55 carloads, composed of 1200 cattle, 94 sheep, 1400 hogs and 35 calves. There was a large number of exporters offered; trade slow; prices lower, selling at $4 to $4.35, and only two loads brought the latter price, the bulk going at $4.12½ to $4.25 per cwt.

Butchers' cattle were not so plentiful; buyers from Montreal being on the market, as well as the local dealers, caused prices to be firm at Friday's quotations.

Loads of good butchers' and exporters mixed, sold at $3.90 to $4.12½; choice picked lots of butchers' sold at $4 to $4.12½; loads of good, $3.80 to $3.90; medium, $3.65 to $3.75; common, $3.50 to $3.70; inferior, $3.12½ to $3.40; very inferior small bulls and rough cows at $3 to $3.20.

The demand for Buffalo stockers was as good, and prices still continue high, selling at $3.75 to $4 per cwt.

Heavy feeders are also in good demand, selling at $3.90 to $4.12½.

Milk cows sold at $25 to $40 each; offerings light.

East Buffalo Live Stock.

East Buffalo, N.Y., May 24.—The market closed very dull and weak yesterday, especially for the heavy kind of steer cattle, and it was long after dark before the best heavy steers were sold. The fresh receipts to-day were light and there was a slow trade.

Stockers and Feeders—Receipts were heavy this week and included a large number of Canadians. Market was 15c to 25c lower. Good to best stock steers, $4.25 to $4.50; common to fair, $3.90 to $4.10; good to best feeders, $4.15 to $4.40, fair to good, $3.90 to $4.10; yearlings and stock calves, $4.50 to $4.85.

Hogs—Receipts light and the market barely steady. Good to choice yorkers, $4.25 to $4.30; fair to good light yorkers, $4.45 to $4.50; mixed packers' grades, $4.35 to $4.45; medium weights, $4.45 to $4.50; heavy hogs, nominal; roughs, $3.85 to $4; pigs, $3.65 to $3.90.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts light. Market nominally unchanged, there being no very good to choice handy grades on sale. Native clipped lambs, choice to extra, $5.05 to $5.15; fair to good, $4.65 to $5; culls and common, $4.25 to $4.50; yearlings, fair mixed to choice wethers, $4 to $4.30. Native clipped sheep, choice to selected wethers, $4.25 to $4.30; good mixed sheep, $4 to $4.20; common to fair, $3.90 to $3.90; culls to common sheep, $3.25 to $3.50.

Lindsay In Line

Many People in That Town Being Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Word has been received from Lindsay that Doan's Kidney Pills are curing people in that town of Backache, Kidney Disease, Bladder Weakness and Urinary Troubles.

Mr. Christopher Oryell, 4 William street, Lindsay, Ont., the well known proprietor of the handsome barber shop and bathrooms, and for over twenty years a resident in Lindsay says:

"For six years I have had serious kidney and urinary troubles with a great deal of pain over my hips, in the small of my back and in my shoulders. I was sometimes so sore that I could scarcely bear to touch myself, and felt tired and worn-out nearly all the time. My sleep was disturbed and did not rest me.

"Hearing DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS highly spoken of as a good medicine for kidney disease, I thought I would try them and got a box. That box gave me so much relief that I bought two more which I have taken, with the result that I now have no pain or urinary trouble of any kind. I sleep well and feel rested, the tired feeling is all gone, and I am very much stronger. I recommend them, not only as a cure for all kidney troubles, but as an excellent tonic and invigorator."

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c a box, or 2 boxes for $1.25. The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto.

Remember the name DOAN'S and refuse all others.

A STRONG ARGUMENT.

Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, N. A. L., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Please accept my thanks for your cheque just handed to me, for $3,901.98, in settlement of my $3,500 Fifteen Year Endowment Policy in your Company. Such a result as this, after the risk on my life has been carried for fifteen years, beginning from forty-five years of age, argues one thing strongly, namely, that the management of the North American Life must be in competent hands. The other options you have offered me, viz.: a Paid-up Life policy for $3510.00, or a Life Annuity for $401.90, are, I presume, equally liberal, and it affords me much pleasure to recommend your Company to my friends or any one desiring insurance.

The Miser.

Many a man with his whole soul immersed in business and money-getting is like the miser whose spring door shut to and locked him in forever. Men work and slave and worry and get sick and broken down, forgetting all the time that health is worth more than gold, and that a happy, cheerful home is rather to be chosen than great riches, until they hear the trap-door of disease spring to and shut them off from all the bright hopes they labored for.

A sick man cannot be happy; he cannot accomplish the work he has to do in this world; he loses the very money he is striving for; his ambition defeats itself. Any man who discovers that his strength and energy are giving way has an unfailing means of regaining his physical health and stamina in the simple yet all-potent restorative power of that wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" originated by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., the world-famous specialist in diseases of the nutritive organism.

Among the thousands who have consulted him by mail the case of Mr Newton B. Blake, of Tiplersville, Tippah Co., Miss., as shown in the following letter indicates the remarkable efficacy of his treatment: "In December 1895 my health began to fail. I tried many different kinds of medicines and the more I took the worse the disease grew. Finally in April when I was busy with the farm work my health got so bad that I could not hold out to work one hour. My breath became short and I was weak and nervous, and oftentimes would spit blood. I was unable to work. I tried one of the doctors in the vicinity but failed to obtain relief. I seemed to grow worse. My father received a book from Dr. Pierce in which I read of a case similar to mine, and decided to write to Dr. Pierce. He recommended me to take his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After taking six bottles of this remedy I can recommend it as one of the best medicines to build up the system. I am now enjoying good health."

Torpid liver and constipation are surely and speedily cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They never gripe. They regulate, tone up and invigorate the liver, stomach and bowels. No substitute urged by mercenary dealers is as good.

ARCTIC LOVERS.

Southward the ice and snow have come,
Strange lovers hand in hand,
Far wandering from their native home
To seek a sunny land.

Deserted haunts of bird and bee,
On branches gaunt and bare,
They turn with arctic alchemy
To gardens of the air.

For weirdly now the ice and snow
Beneath a golden flood
Of sunshine make the branches glow
With polar fruit and bud.

And yet their witchery is vain,
For swift as orient night
The sunshine brings these lovers twain
A tragedy of light!

—Harper's Bazar.

HIS LOST LOVE.

"Why did I never marry? Well, I'll tell you."

The little crowd of listeners looked interested as Colonel Wiley, the handsome white haired bachelor, said these words and then settled back in his chair as if to more comfortably relate the story of his escape from matrimony.

"I was very much in love, but you would know that when I tell you that she was as fair and lovely a girl as these Virginia skies ever looked down upon. A true southerner, she was loyal to her state and was proud to say that her ancestors were among the F. F. V.'s, which I will explain for the benefit of our northern guests means first families of Virginia. While a slender little creature, she was a splendid horsewoman and knew every inch of our rugged mountain roads. I've seen her galloping away in a cloud of dust many a time just as the sun was peeping up over our glorious old Alleghany hills and the mist arising from the pine grown valleys. Of course that was just before the war, and I was a young chap then—in my early twenties, I reckon. Her name was Lucy, a good, old fashioned name that we southerners still cherish and do not change to the more airy Lucile, as do our northern neighbors. It doesn't matter about her surname. You'd all recognize it were I to divulge, so I shall be silent concerning it. She was the daughter of the house and had two large brothers, who looked upon Lucy as a mere baby and guarded her quite as zealously. I first had to win their friendship before getting anywhere near being even a mere acquaintance with Lucy.

"When the war broke out, both brothers were filled with the enthusiasm of the battlefield, and by constant allusions to their bravery and adroit, carefully worded remarks concerning their excellent appearance in the uniforms of the Confederate gray I soon won them completely over. As for Lucy, she regarded me with suspicion for some time, but suffice to say that when I marched away into the fire and thunder of Shiloh a little golden curl, a locket inclosing the photograph of a pretty girl and a Bible—her gifts—were snugly and carefully tucked away in the lining of my coat.

"Lucy's brothers and I were enlisted in the same regiment, and in that way I frequently heard from her. Their father, a strong minded, stubborn, aristocratic old fellow, had positively forbidden an engagement or even communication of any sort. She was too young, he said, to have her mind turned topsy turvy with love nonsense. She made no effort to disobey, but when she gave me the curl and locket and looked at me through tears that were just falling from her great blue eyes I felt that in the battle of hearts I had not lost and that in due course of time I'd claim the indemnity of war and call little Lucy my own.

"I was powerfully in love with her, and the vision of her sweet little face was ever with me. Many a time as I lay on the ground, wrapped in the poor shreds of my army blanket, I've looked up at the stars and mused about how happy our meeting would be or else built air castles that rose majestically from out the chaos of our future. I planned our house, and in the planning gave it wide, leaf girdled porches which were to be graced by Lucy in her dainty gown and wide brimmed hat. This blissful condition continued for six months or a year. Then came the usual uncertainties, suspicions and jealousies that so frequently disturb love's young dream and bring despair to youthful lovers.

"It was this way: Our first lieutenant was a dashing young officer, as fearless as a young lion and so handsome that the privates soon dubbed him 'Master Prettyboy.' We were cleaning our muskets one day preparatory to the morrow's fight, when Master Prettyboy came strolling along and paused near us, saying to Jim, Lucy's brother: 'I received a charming letter from your sister today. She sent her love to you two boys and asked me to tell her how far you both ran at the first fight.'

"The boys laughed, made some ordinary reply, and Prettyboy passed on. The serpent had entered my paradise. I felt my cheeks flush and my heart beat as I realized that my right hand was on my pistol pocket and that I longed to kill that feminine faced cad who had been getting letters from the one woman whom I had idealized until she had become the vision of an angel to me.

"That night I went to Jim and asked him if the first lieutenant and his sister had long been friends.

"'They played together when babies,' he answered. 'Sis thinks a heap of him.'

"That was enough. From that hour my visions of sweet Lucy were blurred with the mist of insincerity and faithlessness. To be sure, we were not engaged, but we understood, and our eyes had asked and answered the questions which our lips were forbidden to speak. And this lieutenant—I asked myself why should she be writing to him, the handsome scoundrel! Again and again I longed to grip my strong fingers around his throat and throttle the breath of life out of him. He seemed by instinct to feel my enmity and made several efforts to draw me into friendly chats as we were gathered around the campfire after a fatiguing march. But I would have none of him. Had he not stolen my bride, my wife, my future from me? I answered him gruffly and got out of his way. He looked surprised at my rudeness and indifference and soon gave up his endeavors to draw me into any sort of a friendly comradeship.

"In my intense hatred for him and my wild infatuation for her I failed either to think or to reason. That is the way with headstrong youth. A grown man, with a full grown mind, will walk slowly and carefully to his conclusions, weighing evidence and considering circumstances, while a boy of 20 will go helter skelter, like an untamed colt, arriving at his convictions about as a kangaroo crosses an Australian garden patch. My love life—as Ibsen, that great philosopher of philosophers, calls it—died one day when the first lieutenant, beaming and smiling, hailed Lucy's brother with: 'Congratulate me, old boy. She says she'll have me.'

"I tried to forget my faithless sweetheart. I almost believed I tried to hate her, but of course I could not do that. Being young and romantic, I thought of myself as a martyred lover, but for all the romanticism I was deep in my heart sorely and sadly wounded. I was an emotional fellow, given to ideals, and the only love of my life was not easily cast off.

"Well, the war ended, as you all have perhaps heard ere this, although some of our mossbacks here in the mountains refuse to believe it. When Lee surrendered, I was the superior officer of the handsome first lieutenant whom I hated and envied with equal passion. I came out of the army with a cruel wound in my shoulder, and it was months before I came to this part of the country, where I had found and loved and won my pretty Lucy.

"The old time scenes and associations, although the war had brought many grievous changes, seemed to open my emotions anew, and one Sunday I decided to go to her. I had no idea what I should say or how I would meet her, but there was a despair of domestic happiness in my heart that was so overpowering that I yielded and started off. It was but a short journey, and I thought I'd walk down the railroad track as a nearer route to her home. I had gone perhaps half the way when I came to a switch on which stood a dilapidated locomotive. An engineer and his assistant were endeavoring to polish its rusty wheels and boiler. Something in their talk impelled me to stop, and I sat down on the grassy bank as if to rest. They were discussing the pros and cons of matrimony.

"'There's no use in talking,' said one, 'there's mighty little sincerity in women.'

"'That's true,' reiterated the other. 'I went to the war engaged to the sweetest girl you ever clapped eyes on, but when I came back she was married to a cowardly cur that never saw the smoke of a musket.'

"So I was not the only one, I thought. I felt again the emotions of an insulted, rejected man. It was impossible then for me to follow my plans and go on. I retraced my steps, boarded a train and a month later was digging in a gold mine in the Grand canyon of the Colorado.

"I was gradually forgetting the disappointing heart affair of my youth when, years later, I was in the depot at Denver awaiting a train to take me back east and was much surprised to find myself face to face with Lucy's brother Jim. He was delighted to see me, and, what was pleasanter still, he, too, was going east after a ten year's sojourn in southern California.

"That night we talked over old times as we smoked our cigars and let memory drift back to the exciting days of 1864. I thought of the dashing first lieutenant and casually asked:

"And whatever became of Prettyboy?"

"Why, didn't you know?" he replied. 'He married my sister Katherine'—

"'Your—sister—Katherine?' I gasped. 'I—I never knew you had any other sister but Lucy.'

"She's a half sister. My father was married twice and Katherine always lived with her grandparents. Say, by the way,' he added, 'we thought at one time that you were rather smitten with Lucy.'

"I mumbled something, I don't know what, and left him. That night I suffered the agonies known only to those who realize that a life mistake had been committed and that perhaps it could never be set right. When I again saw Jim, I excused my strange behavior by saying that I had felt faint and ill and gone for water.

"You can imagine my eagerness to reach once more dear old Virginia. The train seemed to crawl, and my nerves were tighter strung as the time lessened and the distance between Grand canyon and my native home grew shorter. How beautiful the dusty old town looked as Jim and I sprang from the train and almost ran down the street toward his old home! As we neared the place I was seized with a feeling of desolation and grief. It may have been the closed shutters or the general cheerless condition of the immense mansion that was now crumbling and fast going to decay. Our footsteps sounded loud and drear as we walked across the porch and Jim opened the door. There was a peculiar odor, as if of medicines. Jim did not share my forebodings, for he tramped along the hall, shouting and laughing and asking if the place was deserted. Then his mother, bent and gray and her once beautiful face furrowed with lines, came softly toward us. She fell into Jim's arms, sobbing as she did so.

"'It was thoughtless of me to come without telling you beforehand,' he said. 'I might have known it would upset you.'

"She but sobbed the more and could not speak. Then she took Jim's hand and, I following, led us to an up stairs room and gently pushed the door ajar. A shiver of awful foreboding came over me, and just then I heard Jim give a hoarse cry and spring toward the bed, where he fell upon his knees and cried for the first time in his life.

"'She died but an hour ago,' the mother said, but I heard as if in a dream. Then, going to a table, she took up some letters, and, trembling and sobbing, handed them to me, saying as she did so: 'Lucy left these. She said there was one for you.'

"My chilled, nervous fingers fumbled awkwardly with the envelopes until I found the one which bore my name. Hastily and with a beating heart I tore it open. There was but one sheet and on it but a line or two—simply: 'I did not forget and Love waited patiently. I love you, dear.'

"It is a sad story, is it not?" the colonel asked as he brushed his eyes with his hands. Then he added: "Solomon says 'With all thy getting get understanding.' I did not understand, I did not try to. And I lost everything that goes to make a man's domestic happiness."—Providence Journal

Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,093 05.

NEW BUSINESS

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3,066, for the sum of $6,185,996, of which, however, 266 for $521,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $373,360 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5,291,636, under 2,609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 578 policies for $798,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,409 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,168 45, and Endowment policies for $128,846 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $218,481.29 for profits, $145,411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,953,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,272,486 05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,678,915.67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company. I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, the prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compliation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Merritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

The Look-Out Committee Take Charge of the Meeting.

St. Andrew's Y. P. S. C. E. meeting on Monday night on account of the dampness of the night, was not so well attended as it would otherwise have been.

The meeting was led by the Look Out Committee, and throughout it proved very successful. Miss H. Smith read an interesting paper on "Christ our Model," bringing out different ways in which we should take Christ as our Model. He is indeed our model in everything but we do not always take Him as such. We are too apt to look at our neighbour, and forget that Christ's command is "Follow Me." We have a wonderful example of Christ our Model in obedience. When entering upon His public ministry He was subject to His parents. His highest ambition was to do the will of His Father who sent Him. It has been said that no one can rule who cannot obey. A gentleman who has had much to do with criminals once said that Obedience ought to be written in letters of fire in every home, which is the first step in the life of virtue.

A solo and a duet was sung by Miss Johnston and Misses Vaneyery and King, which added to the interest of the meeting. Three members were received, two associate and one active.

Honest Help Free to Men.

The (Peterborough Examiner) is authorized to state by Mr. D. Graham, Box 133, Hagersville, Ont., that any man who is nervous and debilitated or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from overwork, excesses or abuse, such as nervous debility, exhausted vitality, lost vigor, unnatural drains and losses, lack of development, etc., can write to him in strict confidence and receive free of charge full instructions how to be thoroughly cured.

Mr. Graham himself was for a long time a sufferer from above troubles and after trying in vain many advertised remedies, electric belts, etc., became almost entirely discouraged and hopeless. Finally he confided in an old clergyman, whose kind and honest advice enabled him to speedily obtain a perfect and permanent cure. Knowing to his own sorrow, that so many poor sufferers are being imposed upon by unscrupulous quacks, Mr. Graham considers it his duty as an honest man and a firm believer in Christian sympathy and kindness, to give his fellow-men the benefit of his experience and assist them to a cure. Having nothing to sell, he asks for no money, the proud satisfaction of having done a great service to one in need, he rightly considers an ample reward for his trouble. If you write to Mr. Graham you can rely upon being cured and upon absolute secrecy as well.

Address as above, enclosing a stamp, and refer to the (PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER). No attention, however, will be given to those writing out of mere curiosity, therefore state that you really need a cure.

LACROSSE.

The members of the senior lacrosse team are urged to turn out every evening between now and June 2nd in order to be in the best possible shape for the league game with Orillia a week from to-day. When the grounds are being used by the Y.M.C.A. members the lacrosse boys can do some running and perfect their wind.

The Orillias have not been as strong for years as they are this season. They are reinforced by Churchill and Tudhope, of last year's Stouffville's, Micky O'Connor, of the Toronto's, Bunty Armstrong, of the Markham's, and other good men who have made reputations for themselves on the lacrosse team. The game will be a fast one from start to finish, as every point will count this year when such strong teams have been placed in this district of the C.L.A.

The Juniors go to Jubilee Point on Wednesday next to play Hastings for a silver cup, offered by Commodore Calcutt.

THE TURF.

Two of Mr. F. E. Jones' horses won money for him on the Queen's Birthday. Master Fred took second money at Kingston, and Princess May 1st money at Campbellford.

WRESTLING.

Wrestler Thos. Doyle writes: "I have not yet seen any answer to my challenge to Harrison though I read that he is going on with Yousouf, the Turk. I don't know if I can throw the Turk, but I am satisfied I can throw Harrison, and he ought to look for something easier. I am willing to give all kinds of weights and wrestle out of my own style if I can get a match on with him. At any rate I would like to have him say definitely whether he means to wrestle or not, so that I may know where I stand.

TO ENFORCE NEUTRALITY.

Officers Instructed to Keep a Lookout on Canadian Coasts.

Ottawa, May 26.—Recent English newspapers announce that customs officers and Lloyd's agents on the west coast have been asked to keep a lookout for Spanish and American ships. It is thought probable that American traders especially will make for the west of Scotland and creep down to the various ports of arrival for coal and supplies of different kinds. Similarly Canadian registrars of shipping and agents of the Marine Department have been notified by a Government circular that attempts may be made by agents of belligerents to purchase Canadian coal-laden ships and send them to sea for war purposes. Registrars and agents must therefore report any suspicious movements in that direction and changes in registered ownership of vessels at any Canadian port.

LOST HIS LIFE.

A Most Distressing Accident That Occurred Near Eastwood, Ont.

Eastwood, Ont., May 26.—Anthony Hurley was returning home with a team, wagon and cultivator owned by J. Maloney, which he had been using during the day. As the 5.50 express came rushing along the horses took fright and ran away, throwing the old man off the wagon, only to be caught by the teeth of the cultivator, which was attached behind. He was dragged 15 or 20 rods along the hard ground, and when found some minutes after by Rev. A. B. Miller, life was extinct. He leaves a widow and two sons, both grown up.

A Further Reduction.

Toronto, May 26.—There are no new developments in the rate war, and from present talk around the Union Station it looks as though it will last all summer. The Grand Trunk has reduced the rates to the towns as far east as Cobourg to meet the rates of the steamer Garden City. Following are the new rates: To Cobourg, $1.75; Port Hope, $1.65; Newcastle, $1.25; Bowmanville, $1.15; Darlington, $1.05; Oshawa, Whitby Junction and Pickering, $1.

THEY MET WAR BOYS.

Details of the Massacre of Rev. Mr. Cain and Party in Africa.

London, May 26.—A letter received in this city from Sierra Leone, west coast of Africa, says that a Mendi native, who was with the American missionaries at Rotufunk when they were massacred by the insurgents engaged in the uprising against the imposition of the hut tax, but who made his escape by resuming his native garb, furnishes the following account of the tragedy:

"We started to walk to Sierra Leone, but had only gone half a mile when we next met war boys, who blocked the way. Rev. Mr. Cain tried to frighten them by firing a revolver over their heads, but seeing they were determined to do mischief, he cast his revolver away and said he would not have anybody's blood on his hands. The war boys then seized the party and Misses Hatfield, Archer and Kent, stripped them of their clothing, dragged them back to the mission home, in front of which the war boys cut down the Rev. Mr. Cain and hacked him to his death and treated Miss Archer and Miss Kent in the same way. Miss Hatfield, who was very ill, was thrown on a barbed wire netting, and finally her throat was cut. Mrs. Cain escaped to the bush with a native girl, but the war boys went out seeking them, and they were afterwards killed."

Linseed and Turpentine are not only popular remedies, but are also the best known to medical science for the treatment of the nervous membrane of respiratory organs. Dr. Chase compounds this valuable Syrup so as to take away the unpleasant tastes of turpentine and linseed. Mothers will find this medicine invaluable for children, it is so pleasant to take, and will positively cure croup, whooping cough and chest troubles.

For internal or external use Hagyard's Yellow Oil cannot be excelled as a pain relieving and soothing remedy for all pain.

TRIBUTE OF CANADA.

One of the Greatest Orations of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Life.

THE GRAND OLD MAN EULOGIZED

The Premier's Speech Not Only Eloquent But Just to the Statesman Whose Name Is a Household Word Wherever English Is Spoken —Hon. John Costigan's Feeling Speech.

Ottawa, May 27.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's orations read well, as well as enthral his audience, consequently readers will be pleased to peruse one of the grandest orations of his life, delivered yesterday in the House of Commons of Canada. The subject was the recently deceased Grand Old Man of England, and now as Sir Wilfrid proves, of the whole civilized world, and although his words were praise laden they were critically so, and will be universally regarded as but just to the great departed. Sir Charles Tupper formally seconded the resolution of condolence, and Hon. Mr. Costigan paid a brief tribute on behalf of Canadian Irishmen.

SIR WILFRID'S SPEECH.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said: I beg leave to lay upon the table the report of the committee which was appointed a few days ago to prepare resolutions of condolence on the death of the Right Hon. Mr. Gladstone. The report is in these terms:

The committee appointed to prepare a resolution of condolence on the death of the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone have to submit the following resolution to the House:

Resolved, That the House of Commons of Canada desire to record the profound sense of the loss the Empire has sustained in the death of the Right Hon. William Ewart Gladstone.

For a period of more than half a century Mr. Gladstone has been one of the most conspicuous figures in the Parliament of Great Britain. Four times Premier of the United Kingdom, his tenure of office was distinguished by the inauguration of sound fiscal and political reforms of the greatest and most far-reaching character, and he passed away, full of years and honors, among a nation's tears, the most illustrious man of his generation.

The People His Mourners.

The people of the Empire are his mourners and the House of Commons of Canada lays reverently on his bier this tribute in testimony of the respect and affection with which they regard the great statesman who has departed.

I beg to move, seconded by Sir Charles Tupper, that the report be now adopted.

Mr. Speaker, everybody in this House will, I think, agree that it is eminently fitting and proper that in this universal expression of regret which ascends towards heaven from all parts of the civilized world, we also should join our voice and testify to the very high sense of respect, admiration and veneration which the entire people of Canada, irrespective of creed or race or party, entertain for the memory of the great man who has just closed his earthly career. England has lost the most illustrious of her sons, but the loss is not England's alone, nor is it confined to the great Empire which acknowledges England's suzerainty, nor even to the proud race which claims kinship with it, the people of the United States.

The Loss to Mankind.

The loss is the loss of mankind. Mr. Gladstone gave his whole life to his country, for the work which he did for his country was conceived and carried out on principles of such high elevation, for purposes so noble and aims so lofty, that it was not his country alone, but the whole of mankind that benefited by his work. It is no exaggeration to say that he has raised the standard of civilization, and the world to-day is undoubtedly better for both the precept and the example of his life. His death is mourned, not only by England, the land of his birth, nor by Scotland, the land of his ancestors, nor by Ireland, for whom he did so much, and attempted to do so much more, but his death is mourned by the people of the two Sicilies, for whose outraged rights he once roused the conscience of Europe; by the people of the Ionian Islands, whose independence he secured; by the people of Bulgaria, and the Danubian Provinces, in whose cause he enlisted the sympathy of his own native country. Indeed, since the days of Napoleon, no man has lived whose name has traveled so far and so wide over the surface of the earth; no man has lived whose name alone so deeply moved the hearts of so many millions of men. But, whereas Napoleon impressed his tremendous personality upon peoples far and near by the strange fascination with which the genius of war has always impressed the imaginations of men in all lands and in all ages, the name of Gladstone had come to be in the minds of all civilized nations the living incarnation of right against might, as the champion, the dauntless, the tireless champion, of the oppressed against the oppressor. It is, I believe, equally true, to say that he was the most marvelous mental incarnation which the world has seen since Napoleon—certainly the most compact, the most active and the most universal

A Great Quartette.

This last half century in which we live has produced many able and strong men, who, in different walks of life, have attracted the attention of the world at large, but of the men who have illustrated this age, it seems to me that in the eyes of posterity four will outlive and outshine all others—Cavour, Lincoln, Bismarck and Gladstone. If we look simply at the magnitude of the results obtained, compared with the resources at command, if we remember that out of the small kingdom of Sardinia grew united Italy, we must come to the conclusion that Count Cavour was undoubtedly a statesman of marvellous skill and prescience.

Abraham Lincoln, unknown to fame when he was elected to the Presidency, exhibited a power for the government of men which has scarcely been surpassed in any age. He saved the American union, he enfranchised the black race, and for the task he had to perform he was endowed in some respects almost miraculously. No man ever displayed a greater insight into the motives, the complex motives, which shape the public opinion of a free country, and he possessed almost to the degree of Gladstone, the supreme quality in a statesman of taking the right decision at the right moment, and expressing it in language of incomparable felicity.

Prince Bismarck was the embodiment of resolute common sense, unflinching determination, relentless strength, moving onward to his ends, crushing everything in his way, as unconcerned as fate itself.

Gladstone Was Greatest.

Mr. Gladstone undoubtedly excelled every one of them. He had in his person a combination of varied powers of the human intellect rarely to be found in one single individual. He had the imaginative fancy, the poetic conception of things in which Count Cavour was deficient. He had the aptitude for business the financial ability which Cavour never exhibited. He had the lofty impulse, the generous inspiration, which Prince Bismarck also discarded, even if he did not treat them with scorn. He was at the same time an orator, statesman, a poet and a man of business. As an orator he stands certainly in the very front rank of orators of his own country or any country, of his age or any age. I remember when Louis Blanc was in England, in the days of the second Empire, he used to write to the press of Paris, and in one of his letters to Le Temps he states that Mr. Gladstone would undoubtedly have been the foremost orator of England if it were not for the existence of Mr. Bright. I think it is admitted generally, that on some occasions Mr. Bright reached heights of grandeur and pathos which even Mr. Gladstone did not attain, but Mr. Gladstone had a business training, an ability, a vigor, a fluency which no man in his age or any age ever realized, or even approached. That is not all. To his marvelous mental powers, he added no less physical gifts. He had the eye of a god, the voice of a silver bell, and the very fire of his eye, the very music of his voice, swept the hearts of men, even before they had been dazzled by the torrents of his eloquence

As a Statesman.

As a statesman, it was the good fortune of Mr. Gladstone that his career was not associated with war. The reforms which he effected, the triumphs he achieved, were not won by the supreme arbitrament of the sword. The reforms he effected and the triumphs he achieved were the result of his power and influence over his fellowmen. The reforms which he achieved in many ways amounted to revolution. They changed in many particulars the face of the realm. After Sir Robert Peel had adopted the great principle which eventually carried England from protection to free trade, it was Mr. Gladstone who created the financial system which has been admitted ever since by all students of finance as the basis of Britain's success. He enforced the extension of suffrage to the masses of the nation, and practically thereby made the Government of monarchial England as democratic as the government of any republic. He disestablished the Irish Church, introduced reform into the land tenure, and brought hope into the breasts of those tillers of the soil who had been the peasants of Ireland for so many generations, and had labored in despair. And, all this he did, not by force or violence, but simply by the power of his eloquence and the strength of his personality.

Great, however, as may be the acts of the man, after all he was one of the human flesh, and for him, as for everybody else, there were trivial and low duties to be performed. It is no exaggeration to say that even in those low and trivial duties he was great, he ennobled the common realities of life. His was above all things a religious mind—essentially religious, in the highest sense of the term.

His Religious Nature.

And the religious sentiment which dominated his public life and his speeches, that same sentiment, according to the testimony of those who knew him best, also permeated all his actions from the highest to the humblest. He was a man of strong and pure affections, of long and lasting friendship, and of his domestic life no words of praise can be added to it. It was simply ideally beautiful and

KATIE TOUGH'S DEATH

W. J. Hammond Arraigned for the Third Time for Causing It.

PRISONER IS IN GOOD HEALTH.

Evidence Given That Prisoner and His Deceased Wife Were Out Walking Together on the Night of Her Death—A Medical Witness Reprimanded for Having Been Forgetful.

Bracebridge, May 27.—Chief Justice Sir William Meredith is on the bench for the Assizes here. William James Hammond was brought into court at the opening yesterday morning to stand his trial for the third time, charged with murdering his young wife, Katie Tough Hammond. The prisoner is pale and thin, but apparently enjoys fairly good health. The opposing counsel are B. B. Osler, Q.C., and E. F. B. Johnston, Q.C., and Mr. J. A. Ashworth, for the defence.

Considerable time was taken up in selecting a jury, many challenges being made. The gentlemen finally selected are: Daniel Bain, John Calderwood, James Cox, D. Crawford, J. Canning, E. Waterhouse, William Gall, Daniel Grey, H. Bushnell, Thomas Ward, Charles Tingey and H. M. Delafosse.

Mr. Osler outlined the case and warned the jury not to be influenced by slight discrepancies in the evidence, or by the lapse of time since the crime was committed.

Yesterday afternoon Witnesses Dawson, Brodie, Rosina Russell, Charles Oakes, Elizabeth Tough, Fred Tough, Frank Tough, McNabb, Nealon, Bowles and Dr. Campbell were examined.

There is no material difference in the evidence so far from that given at the former trials, except as to the evidence of Dr. Campbell, who sold prisoner the bottle of prussic acid. The doctor gave some fresh evidence. He said that he saw prisoner and Katie Tough on the evening of her death walking for a short distance in front of him. When they reached Mr. Tough's shop he passed them. He believes Miss Tough went in. For withholding this evidence at former trials the doctor came in for severe criticism from Mr. Johnston. However, the doctor was very positive, and he is not a gentleman whose word would be doubted.

David Nealon was a new witness. He corroborated the evidence of Oakes, as to seeing a man and woman walking arm in arm at about 9 o'clock on the night of March 6 near the Hammond house.

THE SPANIARDS IN CUBA

Have Made Extraordinary Preparations for Receiving the Americans—125,000 Trained Acclimatised Troops.

Key West, May 27.—Word comes here that Spaniards in Cuba have been making extraordinary preparations of late to resist invasion by United States forces. Large quantities of smokeless powder have been manufactured for use by masked batteries. There are about 125,000 trained acclimatized Spanish troops in the western provinces of Cuba, who, owing to the excellent telegraph system established by Blanco, can be concentrated at any point within a short time. They have abundance of provisions. German, English and French artillerymen of experience are in charge of the Havana defences, and the marksmanship is likely to be better than the Americans have been led to expect.

BUT THERE ARE DANGERS.

American Ships Could Do a Good Deal if Spaniards Did Nothing.

New York, May 27.—A special to the World from Key West says: With the Spanish fleet caught in the harbor of Santiago de Cuba an interesting question arises as to what fortifications the American ships will have to encounter if they start in after the Spaniards. The entrance to the harbor is not over 200 yards wide. It is even narrower than that of Havana. Across the entrance the Spaniards have planted three rows of mines. Castle Point, the eastern entrance of the harbor, has the more ancient fortifications.

Inside of Castle Point is a battery of 8-inch mortars. The St. Louis and Wampatuck silenced the battery on the shore, but when they withdrew the mortar battery was still firing.

The American ships would have no difficulty in silencing all the batteries now known, including the mortar battery, if they could get around the point where they could reach them. There is plenty of water in the channel, but only one ship could go in at a time. The mines could be exploded by countermines, thus clearing the channel.

Once inside the harbor there is room enough to manoeuvre several ships, but the danger would be that the Spanish ships might defeat the American vessels in detail. The best plan seems to be to sink at the entrance of the harbor one or two large vessels and leave the Spaniards unable to move.

ADMIRAL SAMPSON KILLED.

A Report From Spanish Sources Has the Americans Whipped.

City of Mexico, May 27.—Telegrams have been received here by Spaniards, announcing a naval battle, in which the Spanish fleet won, and the Americans lost every ship, and Admiral Sampson was killed.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Powerful Austrian Warships Coming to Cuban Waters.

Vienna, May 27.—The sailing from Gibraltar to-morrow of the powerful Austrian warships Franz Joseph and Maria Theresa for Cuban waters have strengthened the suspicion in well-informed circles that a clash is imminent between Austria and the United States. The Austrian Government is incensed with the United States for refusing reparation for the death of 23 Austro-Hungarian subjects, shot down at Lattimer, Pa., and this may be magnified into a pretext for hostile action.

A STRONG ARGUMENT.

Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, N. A. L., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Please accept my thanks for your cheque just handed to me, for $3,901.92, in settlement of my $3,500 Fifteen Year Endowment Policy in your Company. Such a result as this, after the risk on my life has been carried for fifteen years, beginning from forty-five years of age, argues one thing strongly, namely, that the management of the North American Life must be in competent hands. The other options you have offered me, viz.: a Paid-up Life policy for $6510.00, or a Life Annuity for $401.20, are, I presume, equally liberal, and it affords me much pleasure to recommend your Company to my friends or any one desiring insurance.

BRITISH WHEAT IMPORTS.

The following table, showing the imports of wheat, wheat meal and flour into the Mother Country for the year ending 31st December, 1897, will be read with interest:

WHEAT.

From Russia		£5,432,052
" Germany		479,343
" Turkey		866,897
" Roumania		425,030
" United States:
	On the Atlantic	9,630,110
	On the Pacific	5,484,660
" Argentine Republic		218,871
" British East Indies		241,447
" British North America		1,875,109
" Other countries		422,153
		£23,368,608

WHEAT MEAL AND FLOUR.

" Germany	£	80,933
" France		834,292
" Austrian Territories		739,514
" United States		7,089,094
" British North America		803,389
" Other countries		102,434
	£	9,599,654

There is a falling off in the quantity of wheat imported, bnt it has been more than compensated for by the increased price. The imports from Canada show a gratifying increase, though they represent but a very small proportion of the whole. But we are getting on. The quantity of wheat we export is growing greater every year and by the present outlook we shall have more to send abroad than ever.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THERE'S not much difference between the American and Spanish fleets now "cavorting" around Santiago. The former is Schley and the latter is sly.

ALTHOUGH Toronto has made heroic attempts at economy in drafting the civic estimates, including the cutting of $25,000 from the Public School Board demand, it is necessary to fix the rate at 18 mills on the dollar. That's one thing in which Toronto's ahead of Peterborough.

THE Dominion is all right and well managed, but it can't pay the dividends the Dominion Bank does. Last year this bank paid four dividends of 3 per cent. equivalent of course to 12 per cent. per annum, besides reserving over $32,000 as loose change.

AT the beginning of the Spanish-American war—if one can indeed say that it has begun—sanguine Yankees predicted that it would be over in ten days. A month has now elapsed since the capture of fishing smacks began and it is doubtful if ten months will see the pacification of Cuba. Neither side was prepared for war and with the exception of the naval forces the United States is not in a position to land more than a corporal's guard in Cuba, if Cervera would let them.

GLADSTONE OBSEQUIES.

75,000 Persons of All Sorts and Conditions Passed the Coffin in a Day.

London, May 27.—Remarkably impressive scenes have been witnessed at Westminster since 2 o'clock yesterday morning, when the arrival commenced of those anxious to view the remains of Mr. Gladstone. The line formed was continually augmented by all classes of people, from Peers, Peeresses, Cabinet Ministers, members of the House of Commons, military and naval officers and clergymen to costermongers, old and young, until 6 o'clock. When the doors were opened the procession commenced to stream past the catafalque. The latter had lighted candles at each corner and a large gilt cross at its head. At 10 o'clock it was computed that 100 persons to the minute were passing the body, and at noon over 40,000 people had already taken a last glance at the remains of the great statesman.

As the afternoon advanced the unending stream lengthened. About 2,000 policemen were engaged in guarding the people, and by 5 o'clock 75,000 persons had passed the coffin.

ANOTHER ENEMY TO SHADE TREES.

THE RAVAGES AND EXTENT OF THE SPRUCE GALL-LOUSE.

The Hardy Evergreen Does not Escape—The Spruce Gall-Louse and its Remedies.

Mr. William Brodie of Toronto, has prepared the following article for the Ontario Bureau of Forestry:

In the spring of 1897 many spruce trees in and around Toronto were found to be more or less injured by a pseudo gall insect. The galls were enlarged by deformed buds of the previous year, usually towards the tips of the twigs. Investigation showed that these galls were formed by a small insect popularly called the spruce gall-louse, the Chermes abietis of entomologists. A short account of this destructive pest as then known in Ontario appeared in the annual report of the Clerk of Forestry for the Province of Ontario for 1897. Since then it has spread with astonishing rapidity, and has been detected at many points from Peterborough to the County of Bruce, where it was lately detected by Dr. Hunter on native spruce trees in a swamp in the township of Culross. It has also been found on native spruces in Muskoka, near Utterson station. So far it would appear that unless this insect is checked by some artificial means it will soon destroy our ornamental fruit trees and hedges and, extending northward, do immense injury to our spruce forests.

THE TREES ALREADY ATTACKED

by this spruce gall-louse in Ontario are the European spruce, Picea excelsa, the double spruce or black spruce, Picea nigra, the white spruce, Picea alba, and the balsam fir, Abies balsamea, and it may also be found on the hemlock, Tsuga Canadensis. This insect is a native of Northern Europe and was introduced into the United States on imported spruce trees and thence into Ontario, or it may have been introduced here direct from Europe, as for many years there has been an annual importation of young European spruce trees into Ontario.

At Toronto the full grown insects—the producers—emerge from the galls, the scales of which open to give them exit, about August 1st. On emerging they are slightly imperfect, but in one day ample wings are developed which enable them to fly long distances. After distribution the female settles on a spruce leaf and lays—under herself—about thirty-five eggs and then dies, resting on the eggs. In about a week the young six-footed larvae are hatched. They crawl about and find immature buds into which they burrow and of course

REMAIN QUIESCENT DURING THE WINTER.

But in the following spring their presence in the bud causes it to develop into a "gall" instead of a normal twig. The lice in the galls give birth to other living lice so that about thirty individuals are found under each scale of the gall. The galls are usually irregularly spherical and often more than a half inch in diameter. When growing they are of a yellowish green colour, but during the winter they assume a reddish brown tint, which they retain until the end of May, when they usually fall from the tree. This is the usual form of this gall but there is another form, not a gall, in which the injury is done in the leaf axils. As these insects in the feeding stage are within the gall, and the gall is perfectly water tight, so that no fluid can penetrate, poisoning is out of the question, and as in the migrating larval stage, they do not eat, poison is equally useless. Of course in this larval stage soap emulsions might be of some use, if applied abundantly at the proper time. But without any doubt as yet tried in Ontario is to clip off the galls as soon as they are noticed—say in June—and always before the first of August, while the producers are in the galls, and immediately burn them up. When a tree is too much infested to be dealt with in this way it should be cut down and burnt at once. Of course there is no use in doing this after the producers are out of the galls. Several cases are known where this plan was carried out with very satisfactory results, and it is respectfully recommended that all those having spruce trees in charge should carefully see to the clearing of their trees and the extermination of this formidable insect pest. As some of our nurseries are affected, buyers of evergreen nursery stock should be very careful to see that the young trees are perfectly free from this insect pest.

THE CHEAPEST AND BEST PLAN

Mr. Thomas Southworth, Clerk of Forestry for Ontario, particularly requests that whoever finds these galls on their trees should communicate the fact and all particulars, so far as possible, to the Bureau of Forestry, Toronto. A copy of the illustrated bulletin on the subject will be sent on application.

The man with a weight on his leg can't hope to win in the race. A man with a weight on his health can't expect to compete in life and business with those who are not handicapped. If his brain is heavy and his blood sluggish, because of constipation, he will not succeed in doing anything very well. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all sickness. Symptoms of it are sallowness, listlessness, poor appetite, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, biliousness and lassitude. Constipation can be cured easily and certainly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are not at all violent in their action, and yet they are more certain than many medicines which are so strong that they put the system all out of order. The great advantage of the "Pleasant Pellets" is that they cure permanently.

ONTARIO'S PLACER GOLD.

Rich Discoveries Along the Vermillion River in the Wahnapitae Gold-Mining Region.

Mr. Arthur H. Gracie, of Gananoque, has been sent by the Ontario Government to examine the alleged placer deposits along the vermillion River. The deposits are thought to be of considerable value. Letters received by the Bureau of Mines yesterday stated that about 200 miners had gone from Sudbury and the vicinity and that those who had returned gave most promising results of their finds. It is said that many single pannings yield from thirty to forty colours. This would indicate that the deposits are very valuable.

The deposits so far reported are along the banks of the Vermillion close to Lake Wahnapitae in the townships of Hamner, Capreal, Norman and Wisner, and the unsurveyed territory to the north.

With a view to prevent claim grabbing the Government has determined to restrict the granting of applications as follows: No individual can obtain more than one claim of forty acres within anyone township or within any six square miles of the unorganized territory. Syndicates cannot obtain more than two 40 acre claims under the same conditions.

A Canny Scot.

An amusing scene took place in the Glasgow sheriff court during a board of trade inquiry into the circumstances attending the loss of the West Highland "puffer," or coasting steamer, the Helen MacGregor. One of the witnesses was Captain Fletcher, a previous master of the craft, and the sheriff asked him if in his opinion the vessel was seaworthy.

"Well," said the witness, leaning his arm on the rail of the witness box, "the engines behaved no sae bad and worked middlin weel."

His Lordship—You are a very cautious man. "No sae bad" and "middlin weel" may be very good Scotch, but they do not convey much information. Was she seaworthy?

Witness—Well, yes, in a way.

The Sheriff—What kind of a way? The proper way?

Witness—Ou, juist in a middlin, ordinary way.

"But that is as vague as the other. Had you any fault to find with her?"

Witness (cautiously)—Well, she wass maybe gettin old.

The Sheriff—Did you think she was seaworthy when you saw her in the Crinan canal in November last?

Witness—It would be accordin to the weather.

"But a vessel to be seaworthy must be seaworthy in all reasonable weather, must she not?"

Witness—Well, it would depend upon the day.

Captain Fletcher's departure from the witness box caused much regret in court, and it was some time before due solemnity prevailed.—Westminster Gazette.

Two Drug Clerks Drowned.

Guelph, Ont., May 27.—John Ovens, employed in Petrie's drug store, and Tom Wallace, drug clerk in Alex Stewart's, were both drowned on the river, near Victoria Park, last evening about 9 o'clock. They had started down the river in a canoe in company with a fellow-druggist named Clendenning, when the canoe capsized. Clendenning hung on to the side of the canoe and was rescued. The other two boys sank almost immediately. Neither of them could swim. Both boys were well known and were general favorites. Wallace's home is near Acton, and Ovens comes from Mount Forest.

Roosevelt's Rough Riders.

San Antonio, May 25.—Late yesterday Colonel Wood, commanding Roosevelt's rough riders, received a telegram from the Adjutant-General, asking when the regiment could move towards Cuba. He replied that they could move at once, and it is stated that the "Gilded Gang" will leave for the front on Wednesday.

TRIBUTE OF CANADA.

in the latter years of his life as touching as it was beautiful.

May I be permitted without any impropriety to recall that it was my privilege to experience and to appreciate that courtesy and grace, made up of dignity, which was famous all over the world, but which no one could appreciate thoroughly unless he had been the recipient of it. In a character so complicated and diversified, one may be asked what was the dominant feature, what was the supreme quality, the one characteristic which marked the nature of the man. Was it his incomparable genius for finance? Was it his splendid oratorical powers? Was it his marvelous precoundity of mind? In my estimation, it was not any one of those qualities. Great as they were, there was one still more marked, and if I have to give my own impression, I would say the one trait which was prominent in his nature, which marked the man more distinctively than any other, was his intense humanity, his paramount sense of right, and intolerance of injustice, wrong and oppression wherever found, or in whatever shape they might show themselves. Injustice, wrong, oppression, acted upon him as it were mechanically, aroused every fibre of his being, and from that moment to the repairage of the injustice, the undoing of the wrong and the destruction of the oppression, he gave his mind, his heart, his soul, his whole life, with an energy, intensity and vigor paralleled in no man, unless it be the first Napoleon.

Many Evidences.

There are many evidences of this in his life. When he was traveling in Southern Italy as a tourist for pleasure and for the benefit of the health of his family, he became aware of the abominable system which was there prevailing under the name of constitutional government. He left everything else aside, even the object which brought him to Italy, and applied himself to investigate and to report, and then denounced the abominable system in a trumpet blast of such power that it shook to the very foundation the throne of King Ferdinand, and sent it tottering to its fate. Again, when he was sent as High Commissioner to the Ionian Islands, the injustice of keeping this Hellenic population separated from the rest of Greece, separated from the kingdom to which they were adjacent, and towards which all their aspirations were raised, struck his generous soul with such force that he became practically their advocate and secured their independence. Again, when he had withdrawn from public life, and when, in the language of Thiers, he had returned to ses outres etudes, the atrocities perpetrated by the Turks on the people of Roumania brought him back to public life with a vehemence and intensity and a torrent of fierce indignation that swept everything before it.

No Inconsistencies.

If this be, as I think it is, the one distinctive feature of his character, it seems to explain away what are called the inconsistencies of his life. Inconsistencies there were none in his life. He had been brought up in the most unbending school of Toryism. He became the most active Reformer of our own times; but, whilst he became the leader of the Liberal party, and an active Reformer, it is only due to him to say that in his complex mind there was still a vast space for what is known as Conservatism. His mind was not only Liberal but Conservative as well, and he clung to the affections of his youth so long as, in questions of practical moment, he did not find them clash with that sense of right and abhorence of injustice of which I have spoken. But the moment he found his Conservative affections clash with what he thought right and just, he did not hesitate to abandon his former convictions and go to the whole length of the reform demanded. Thus he was always devotedly, filially, lovingly attached to the Church of England. He loved it, and he said himself in many of his speeches he adhered to it as an establishment in England, but the very reasons and arguments, which, in his mind, justified the establishment of the Church of England, compelled him to a different course as far as that church was concerned in Ireland. In England the church was the church of the majority, of almost the unanimity, of the nation. In Ireland it was the church of the minority, and therefore he did not hesitate. His course was clear. He removed the one church and maintained the other.

As to Home Rule.

So it was with Home Rule. But coming to this subject of Home Rule, though there may be much to say, perhaps this is neither the occasion nor the place to say it. The Irish problem is dormant, but not solved, and the policy proposed by Mr. Gladstone for the solution of this question provoked too much bitterness, too deep division, even on the floor of this House, to make it advisable to say anything about it on this occasion. I notice it, however, simply because it is the last and everlasting monument of that high sense of justice which above all things characterized him when he became convinced that Home Rule was the only method whereby the insolvable problem could be solved, whereby the long-open wound could be healed, he did not hesitate one moment, even though he were to sacrifice friends, power, popularity. And he sacrificed friends, power, popularity in order to give that supreme measure of justice to a long-suffering people. Whatever may be the views which men entertain upon the policy of Home Rule, whether they favor his policy or whether they oppose it, every man, whether friend or foe of that measure, must say that it was not only a bold, but it was a noble thought, that of attempting to quell discontent in Ireland by trusting to Irish honor and Irish generosity. Now, sir, he is no more. England is to-day in tears, but fortunate is the nation which has produced such a man. His work is not done, his work is still going on. The example which he gave to the world will live forever, and the seeds which he has sown with such copious hands shall still germinate and bear fruit under the full light of heaven. (Loud cheers.)

Sir Charles Tupper's Remarks.

Sir Charles Tupper—Mr. Speaker, I do not rise for the purpose of speaking on the resolution which has just been submitted to the House in terms so admirable and so eloquent by the leader of the House, as on a recent occasion I had an opportunity of making reference to the sad event which has plunged the civilized world in mourning. I only rise for the purpose of formally seconding the resolution, and making way for the representative of Victoria (Mr. Costigan), who, I am sure, will only be too glad to avail himself of this opportunity of expressing the gratitude of the race to which he belongs for the great services that the eminent departed statesman rendered them.

Mr. Costigan's Speech.

Mr. Costigan—Mr. Speaker, it is particularly because of a reference made to myself by the leader of the Opposition that I venture to say a word on this occasion. Mr. Gladstone's efforts in the sacred cause of Home Rule for Ireland endeared him to the Irish people. His sympathy and his efforts gave to the Home Rule cause the dignity and the strength and the safety of a great constitutional movement, and this not only in the United Kingdom, but wherever Irishmen and their descendants work for the Mother Land. That grand measure of reform has been delayed, it is true, but only delayed, and in the struggle that Ireland will continue unto a glorious victory, no moral force will help more, probably, than the memory that Ireland's cause has had the sincere approval and generous advocacy of a man so great and so good. (Applause.)

The motion was agreed to.

The Prime Minister moved, seconded by Sir Charles Tupper, that the resolution of condolence on the death of the Right Hon. William Ewart Gladstone be communicated to Mrs. Gladstone, on behalf of this House, by Mr. Speaker.

The motion was adopted.

Morning Sessions Hereafter.

It was decided to begin holding morning sittings of the House next Monday. Toronto and Montreal were added to the dead letter offices provided for in Mr. Mulock's bill. The House went into committee on the resolution increasing the number and salaries of judges, and passed the resolution after a long debate. The additional salaries will amount to $27,400 per annum.

The House went into supply and after passing one item adjoured at 1.10 a.m.

French Superstitions.

The French superstitions regarding deaths and funerals are all but numberless. "If you meet a funeral while driving, you will have an accident before your drive is over unless you turn back," they say. Many a gambler en route for Monte Carlo will not gamble that day if he meets a funeral. Others will bet only at rouge et noir and persistently on the black. The peasants have at least a hundred superstitions about bees. They believe (and did not Virgil, too, or did he but chronicle it of his contemporaries?) that bees are bred of dead men's bones and flesh. This seems to be one of the oldest of the current French superstitions, for on a very old tomb at Arles (found in the world famous Alyscamp) is this inscription: "This has become the home of unhallowed bees."—London Answers.

Cheap Fun.

He—You talk about men playing poker. It is no worse a vice than the shopping habit of the women.

She—Perhaps not, morally speaking, but then it takes money to play poker, whereas a woman can shop all day without it costing her a cent except what she pays for car fare.—Boston Transcript.

In proportion to its population, the United Kingdom has a greater number of women workers than any country, and among them no fewer than 616,000 are set down as dressmakers.

The Baby Boy Covered With Eczema and Cured by Dr. Chase.

Mrs. Jas. Brown of Molesworth, Ont., tells how her boy (eight months old) was cured of torturing eczema. Mothers whose children are afflicted can write her regarding the great cure, Dr. Chase's Ointment. Her child was afflicted from birth and three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured him.

Sores Gone. Skin Clear.

Mrs. Philip Mitchell, St. Mary's, Ont., says:—"My little boy, aged 10, was a complete mass of sores, caused by bad blood. We could find nothing to cure him. Finally I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and before half the bottle was gone he began to improve, and by the time the bottle was finished he had not a sore on him."

QUICK MOBILIZATION.

British Troops the World's Model for Celerity.

HALIFAX'S RAPID ARMY MUSTER

The Gibraltar of British North America Stirred to Its Core by the War Office's Cable "Mobilize" Rumors of War Rampant — Finally Settled as a Test of Readiness.

Halifax, May 27.—Nothing can stir the Garrison City of Halifax, the Gibraltar of British North America, as will a military or a naval sensation. Yesterday it had a sensation of the military order in the details of which its inhabitants could fairly revel. One of the most unexpected army movements ever witnessed here startled the whole city shortly after 1 o'clock. It was a sudden mobilization of the entire force in the garrison. The order for it came by cable from the War Office in London. The cablegram translated from the secret cipher read: "Mobilize." The message caused intense surprise, the commanding officers having not the slightest intimation of what was coming, but the garrison was equal to the emergency. In an extraordinarily brief space of time every branch of the service was in motion. The Royal Artillery men, 350 in number, and the Royal Engineers, 200 strong, jumped from the dinner table, donned their field uniforms and hurried to the parade grounds. At Wellington Barracks the 1st Battalion of the Leinster force of 850 men were equally expeditious in the movement, and in five minutes were waiting for orders. The orders were read, 350 of the Leinsters were detached and started at once for the Queen's Wharf, being joined on the way down by most of the artillery and engineers. At the wharf they embarked immediately for various fortifications on both sides of the harbor. The mobilization order meant to man every defensive point about the city and harbor.

The rapidity with which the command was executed filled with astonishment the large crowds which quickly gathered about the military quarters and followed the marching soldiers. Those who did not go to forts by steamer were despatched on foot to the batteries at Point Pleasant. Everything necessary for active operations was conveyed along with the force to their various points of destination. Nearly 100 men worked at the magazines, transferring powder, shot, shells and all kinds of munitions to wagons alongside, by which they were conveyed to the Queen's Wharf for transportation. The mystified populace was unable to satisfactorily explain the cause of the sudden movement. The wildest war rumors gained circulation.

Finally, it was stated that the whole thing was an experiment designed to ascertain how long it would take to place the garrison on the defensive, as the troops had taken provisions for one day, and orders had been given for another day's supply to be sent down the harbor to-day, and, as the forces had gone "to the front" completely equipped and armed to meet an enemy, this explanation was finally accepted.

A MOTORMAN'S VICTORY.

Over Diabetes. Gained by the Power of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto, May 23—In a large city like Toronto, there is always much sickness, kidney diseases largely predominating. The street railway employees, exposed as they are to all the inclemencies of the weather are particularly liable to kidney disease. But they all know how to conquer this enemy.

For instance: Mr. T. H. O'Reilly, 27 Niagara Street, motorman, No. 624, was for three years a great sufferer from Diabetes. Every remedy failed to help him, till he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him.

It is cases like this, where the patient and the cure are equally well known, that are the test of a remedy, and Dodd's Kidney Pills have always stood it successfully. They cure all kidney complaints.

New York, May 27.—A Washington special says: General Schofield, who is giving the President the benefit of his experience, and advising him upon military operations, holds that Porto Rico is the key of the West Indian situation for the present. He says Porto Rico must be taken before Cuba falls. Secretary Alger is opposed to attacking Porto Rico at present.

Key West, May 27—Sergeant W. Richards, Battery "B," First Artillery, on duty at a mortar battery near Fort Taylor, was fired upon early this morning by three unknown men, whom he says he knows to be Spaniards. The fire was promptly returned. Sergt. Richards was wounded in the arm.

Washington, May 27—Secretary Long said to-day that he has not received any official information of the report that the Spanish fleet was in Santiago harbour, and that Commodore Schley was lying in wait at the entrance. No Tidings of Them Received, as yet, at Police Headquarters.

The chief of police has received no word as yet in response to his telegram warning all officers along the line to be on the look out for the escaped gaol birds.

Between twelve and one o'clock yesterday morning a citizen observed a man running west out Hunter street at a high rate of speed, but it is hardly probable that this could be one of the gaol breakers, as the risk of coming into so thickly a populated portion of the town would be very great.

The Chief of Police received word last night as to the identity of McDonald. He is recognized in Elyria, Ohio, as one of the members of the famous Nellie Lowry, or Blinkie Morgan gang, the chief of whom was recently hung out west for the murder of a detective. McLean, who recently escaped from the Toronto cells, is a member of the same gang.

OBITUARY.

The Late Alex. Jameson.

This morning Mr. Alex. Jameson passed at the residence of his son, Mr. John Jameson, 85 Aylmer street, at the age of 61 years. The deceased came to Canada from Edinburgh about 37 years ago, and settled at Cobourg, where he remained till about four months ago, when he came to Peterborough. The remains will be interred in Cobourg. The funeral will take place to the Grand Trunk station at 11 45 to-morrow.

Death of John Gallagher, of Belmont, Last Week.

On Monday morning, May 16th inst, Mr. John Gallagher, of Belmont, breathed his last. Deceased was 28 years of age and was greatly respected by all who knew him. His demise occurred at Stirling, where he went to avoid taking measles, which were prevalent in Belmont, but with which, however, he was stricken three weeks ago and succumbed to the malady. The funeral took place on Wednesday to the Roman Catholic cemetery, Marmora, where the remains were interred. Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Murtagh.

Death of Mrs. Richard F. Phelan in Hayward, Wisconsin, Last Week.

The Hayward Republican, Wisconsin, of of May 19th, contains the following reference to the death of Mrs. Richard F, Phelan, a former resident of Peterborough, whose early death will be greatly regretted by her many friends here :

"Death is the most solemn event in the history of the human race. All are alike subject to the cruel conqueror. In death the rich and the poor must meet together for "the Lord is the maker of them all." The old, gray-headed fathers and mothers, the men and women in the strength and vigor of manhood and womanhood, and the tender infant, rudely torn from the mother's embrace, are daily falling victims to the unerring darts of the dark angel, and all must sooner or later yield up their spirits into the hands of Him who gave them.

"We are led to these reflections by the early demise of Mrs. Richard F. Phelan, which occurred at her late home Tuesday, May 17, 1898.

"Mrs. Phelan had been confined to her bed for several weeks with a complication of diseases which baffled the skill of the physicians and her death was not unexpected.

"A striking evidence of the high regard and esteem entertained by the entire community for the departed is the large number who are making preparations to attend the funeral this afternoon. Mrs. Phelan was prominently identified with the Catholic church, and other enterprises for the good of her fellow beings.

"The mother is expected to arrive from St. Louis this afternoon when she will will proceed to the death bed of her daughter. After the funeral services the remains will be conveyed to Lake Court Oreilles and interred in the Catholic cemetery.

"Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to the bereaved husband and mother in this day of sorrow and bitter grief. May he who holds the universe in the hollow of His hands console and comfort the afflicted."

A FAKE HORSE BUYER.

He is Doing up People all Over the Province—The Police Are Looking For Him.

The police all over Ontario are looking for a man who gives his name as J. E. Wilson and pretends to be buying horses. He gets his board free, is shown every attention, borrows small sums of money and issues bogus cheques on which he realizes all the way from 50 cents to $7. He started in at Windsor and his first victim seems to have been Detective Wheeler, from whom he bought a horse for $6 50, giving a $7 cheque in payment. He got $10 ahead of the Detroit Exchange Hotel and then he went to Amherstburg, where he did up J. D. Stokes, butcher, for $3. He is believed to have swindled numbers of persons in other places. The provincial police sent out a circular describing him as a man of fifty-five or sixty years of age, 5 feet 7 inches in height, weighs 145 pounds, has a moustache and chin whisker, defect in right foot, very neatly dressed and always talking about the war.

THE TRIP DOWN THE ST. LAWRENCE RIVER.

THE 57TH ENJOY THE HOSPITALITY OF KINGSTON'S MAYOR.

They View the Beauties of the Thousand Isles From the Deck of the Steamer Hero—A Few Toasts and Speeches.

The Kingston News gives the following account of the pleasant excursion down the St. Lawrence, participated in by the 57th Battalion when in Kingston :

A pleasing feature of the attention paid visitors to the city by the Mayor was his complimentary excursion to the officers and men of the 57th Battalion, Peterborough, which took place Monday afternoon. The officers of the 14th Battalion and members of the City Council comprised the other guests. The steamer Hero, on which the trip down the river was taken, left Swift's dock shortly after two o'clock. As the steamer with its red coats on board passed the islands the people living there came to the banks and cheered lustily. The Peterborough lads and answered with a vim. The steamer turned out opposite the Gananoque dock but went close enough to the place so that the faces of the people on the dock could be easily discerned. Hearty cheers went up from this quarter. Refreshments were served in abundance and all were made to enjoy themselves. On approaching Milton Island the Mayor called for order and the was drunk, and the way the National Anthem was sung showed that true British feeling existed in the military men present. His Worship then proposed the health of Col. Bell and officers of the 47th Battalion, Peterborough. The company sang "For they are jolly good fellows," and this brought Col. Bell to his feet, who, in response, said that the kind and delightful entertainment of Mayor Livingston was highly appreciated by himself, his officers and men. For the past nine years the battalion had been making annual trips. Kingston was the only place they had visited twice, which showed the regard felt for the Limestone City by his men. The Mayor's hospitality had been extensive and it was greatly appreciated by them.

Col. Bell proposed the toast, "The Mayor and Council of the City of Kingston," and in response His Worship stated his pleasure in being able to win the appreciation of the gathering for his humble efforts in their behalf.

Paymaster Dennistoun, of the 57th Battalion, proposed the toast of the officers of the 14th Battalion of Kingston, and stated that the 57th Battalion had met the 14th at Kingston once before, at Peterborough, at Picton and last year at Montreal. The longer the officers of the 57th knew them the better they liked them.

Major Galloway, being the senior officer present, responded. It had always been a pleasure to him to meet the officers of the 57th, as he knew it had also been a pleasure for his fellow officers of the 14th Battalion to do the same thing. He had made the arrangements in Peterborough for the visit of the 14th Battalion there some time ago, and he knew something of the metal of which the officers of the 57th were made. He had wondered how the 57th Battalion could manage to get away for three days, but it seemed that the employers had to some extent borne the responsibility of keeping some of the men at home. The 57th Battalion had made a record. There was not a single regiment in the country that had a better record at the rifle matches than they had. He was sorry he could not say the same for the 14th Battalion. While the regiment had a few good marksmen it was not a shooting regiment. He hoped the 14th Battalion would have the privilege of returning the trip of the 57th Battalion.

Paymaster Dennistoun was called upon for a song and gave the old popular one "Drill ye Terriers, Drill," in the best style that it has ever been heard around Kingston. Major Galloway gave "The Days of the Light Brigade," which was very appropriate to the occasion and was well sung.

CATERPILLERIANA.

Details of the Ravages of, and Suggested Remedies for, This Tree Destroying Scourge—The Necessity of Prompt Civic and Citizen Action—Why Doesn't the Town Authorities Act ?

They have been warned, importuned and begged to do something to destroy the clustering caterpillars that blacken the trunks and are riddling the leaves of isolated shade trees on the streets. Some of these trees are doomed to destruction unless prompt action is taken. A large bassswood on the south-east corner of Bethune and Hunter streets has a space equivalent to a yard square of solid worms, in some places two deep, on the limbs and trunks. A man in a few minutes could collect and burn these clusters; but nothing has been done.

Mr. Robert Holland, employed by Mr. Richard Hall, shows a public spirit that older citizens, with larger interests, might well follow. He called this afternoon to say that he had noticed that the worms come down from the tree and cluster on the trunk every morning between 10 and 12 o'clock. Then they can be brushed off and crushed.

CAUTION! Don't use coal oil on trees; it means certain death. Last year several persons surrounded the trunks of beautiful young maples with bandages of cotton batting, saturated with coal oil, to prevent the ascent of the worms. The consequence was that every tree died. Don't risk your tree by applying coal oil. The batting being entirely a mechanical obstacle, coal oil does not make it any more effective, and is sure death to the tree if applied to the trunk in any quantity.

Won't the town authorities and citizens wake up? A regular and persistent crusade to kill the worms by every conceivable means will avail to prevent the destruction of our trees.

The town should look after the street trees, and pass a bylaw to compel private citizens to destroy the worms on their premises.

CATERPILLARS IN ASHBURNHAM.

Ashburnham is now reaping the penalty of neglect to destroy the caterpillar egg bands. The citizens would now willingly pay ten times the addition that would have been made to their taxes by a crusade against the eggs if they could only get rid of the present plague. The caterpillars are very thick now. One morning lately a lady opened an upstairs window to air a bedroom, near which grew an apple tree. Returning later to "make" the bed she found the caterpillars had taken possession and were hidden away in the bed clothes and among the clothing hanging in the room. She had a special job of housecleaning in this particular room. It always pays to look ahead. If the village fathers had destroyed the egg bands they would have had a few million caterpillars less than they have now.

Several of the local cricketers were in Port Hope last week and met the professional coach, who is coming to Peterborough next week. They considered him superior to any coach ever taking the cricketers in hand.

FOR WEAKNESS AND DEBILITY.

Consumption is often caused by a weak state of the blood, permitting the germs to obtain a foothold. That Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills cure disease and make the system safe, the following evidence amply proves:

I suffered for two years with what the family doctor claimed was an incurable case of consumption and debility, telling me that my life was but for a few months at the best. As I was about to give up, I picked up your advertisement and resolved thereupon to give Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills a trial. The first box of them worked such a wonderful change I felt that at last I had struck a medicine that would help me. I continued the use of the Pills, receiving from them day by day flesh, strength and vigor, in fact friends of mine that had not seen me for some time hardly knew me, so great was the change that Dr. Ward's Pills worked. Out of the fullness of my heart in the joy of my being rescued from the grave, comes this testimonial. I shall, as long as God permits me to live, herald forth their usefulness and life-saving power to all afflicted by that monster of disease that almost claimed me for its victim, thereby repaying you in a small measure for the grand, new lease of life Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have given me. Yours truly, JOHN P. THORP, Cork St., Guelph, Ont. Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. per box, 5 boxes for $2.00, at druggists, or mailed on receipt of price by THE DR. WARD CO., 71 Victoria St., Toronto. Book of Information free.

FISHING AMONG HEELS.

The Badly Embarrassed Youth Caught Something at Each Dive.

A modest Cleveland youth, an Adelbert undergraduate, boarded a south side car a few evenings ago, and when he seated himself carelessly dropped his small gripsack on the floor behind his feet. Presently the car began to fill up. Most of the new passengers were girls, and as they came in one by one the Adelbert man crowded along a little and so got away from his gripsack. There were at least half a dozen girls at his left, and it was in that direction that his grip was located.

Pretty soon the car neared his stopping place, and the Adelbert man bethought himself of his baggage. He put his hand to the floor—it wasn't there—that is, the grip wasn't there. He felt a little way to the left; he couldn't reach it.

Then he straightened up.

"Pardon me," he said, with a somewhat inflamed countenance, "but I have a grip somewhere under here." And he dove down again.

All he could feel was dainty boot heels, two of them badly run down. He reached a little farther. Another boot heel. The girls began to wriggle unsasily.

Up came the young man again.

His countenance was still more inflamed. This time he arose to his feet.

"It's here somewhere," he murmured. "If you don't object, I'll try again." Down he went and clawed along still farther to the left.

"I've got it," he muttered.

He pulled, but it didn't come.

"One moment," he said, "here it is."

"No, it isn't," piped a shrill soprano.

There was a brief struggle, and then the bashful youth realized that he had hold of the young woman's foot.

He stood up at this with a despairing glare.

Perhaps the girls were moved to pity by his hopeless look; perhaps they didn't like the way the other passengers were giggling. Anyway they shuffled around and soon produced the missing bag. And the youth with the scarlet face scooted from the car.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Impure Blood in Spring

This is the almost universal experience. Diminished prespiratoon during winter, rich foods and close confinement indoors are some of the causes. A good Spring Medicine, like Hood's Sarsadarilla, is absoltely necessary to purify the blood and put the system in a healthy condition at this season.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver tonic. Gentle, reliable, sure.

Cleanliness.

One of the most important factors in maintaining health in good order is cleanliness. It is comprised in measures that tend to keep the organs clean and in proper order to perform all their functions. The cleanliness of the skin and the air (purity of the air) that we breathe in are essential for the proper keeping of one's health. Any impurities that are taken in breathing find their way to the blood, and thus serve so many centers of disease and are the cause of many infectious diseases. Again, if the skin is not kept clean the impurities that are to be secreted are unduly accumulated in the blood and tend to give rise to severe and often dangerous disorders, such as skin diseases and blood poisoning.—New York Ledger.

Two Warnings.

Losing flesh is one and a hacking cough is another. If they come together the warning is a loud and hard one. Scott's Emulsion does some of its best work in just these cases. It prevents consumption.

Constipation Cured.

It's important you should have natural action of the bowels. Purging and griping do violence to the system. Laxa Liver Pills are nature's own medicine for all disorders of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Cure Constipation by toning the bowel wall and stimulating the secretions. Leave no bad after effects.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil cures all pain in man or beast; for sprains, cuts, bruises, callous lumps, swellings, inflammation, rheumatism and neuralgia it is a specific.

ALL HEADACHES from whatever cause cured in half an hour by HOFFMAN'S HEADACHE POWDERS 10 cents and 25 cents at all druggists.

NO STATE PAGEANT.

Funeral of the Late Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone Will Be Simple.

London, May 26.—In accordance with the wishes of Mr. Gladstone and the family, expressed in Mr. Herbert Gladstone's letter to Lord Salisbury accepting a public funeral, the ceremony will be the simplest possible. There will be no state pageant or flowers; only mourning dress will be worn, and the chief feature will be a representative gathering in Westminster Abbey of all classes and institutions in the kingdom. The pall-bearers will be the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the Marquis of Salisbury, the Earl of Kimberley, the Earl of Rosebery, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Mr. A. J. Balfour and Sir William Vernon Harcourt. The Duke of Connaught, the Duke of Cambridge and Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg will precede the coffin. Political associations will not be represented, but the members of Parliament will attend in procession, headed by the Speaker of the House of Commons, the Right Hon. William Court Gully.

THE WHEAT MARKET.

Wheat Advanced at Chicago and Liverpool, But Declined in Continental Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Wednesday Evening, May 25.

Firm cables caused the Chicago wheat market to open at an advance this morning over last night's closing. The lack of speculative demand and reports that the growing crops promise extraordinary yields, brought about a reaction. Later the decline in Western receipts, the large clearances, and a Broomhall advice that Russia's shipments will be small for two months to come, and that English wheat will be scarce until late in August, combined with other factors to strengthen the situation, and all lines of wheat closed the day at higher prices than those ruling at the close on Tuesday. The rise in May was 5c, in July 2⅜c, in Sept. 1½c, and in Dec. 1c.

On some other United States markets May wheat slumped: 7c in New York, 9c in Toledo and 12c in Detroit. There was no change at Duluth.

On the Liverpool market, July wheat rose 1d, Sept. ⅜d and Dec. ¾d for the day, while at Paris the cereal declined 5 to 10 centimes, and 75 centimes at Antwerp. This continued weakness of the Continental markets makes the strength at Liverpool appear somewhat speculative.

At Toronto there is no change in wheat. No. 2 red is still offered at $1.10, with $1.08 bid, and nothing doing. No. 1 Manitoba hard remains at $1.30, Goderich, equal to about $1.43 on track, Toronto.

TO SETTLE DIFFERENCES.

The Negotiations to Settle Differences Between Canada and the U. S. Begun.

Washington, D.C., May 26.—About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Sir Julian Pauncefote and Sir Louis Davies called upon the President at the Executive Mansion. After a brief exchange of courtesies, Sir Julian and Sir Louis proceeded to the State Department and made a foramI official call upon Secretary Day.

Immediately afterwards the first formal conference between the representatives of Great Britain and Canada and those of the United States, General John W. Foster and Hon. John A. Kasson, reciprocity commissioners, was held in General Foster's office at the State Department. An informal exchange of views as to the extent and duration of the conferences to be held was had, but no actual business was transacted in the brief time the conferees were together. They adjourned to meet the same time to-day at 2.30 p.m.

Sessions will be held daily until a conclusion of the negotiations has been reached. Until a conclusion shall have been arrived at, General Foster announced last night, the confrees it has been agreed will make public nothing concerning their work.

The artist who is in search of attitudes descriptive of torture, and poses depicting suffering, need not go to the Christian martyrs of old. If he could only see through the walls into tens of thousands of homes all over this land, he would see women undergoing tortures in silence without complaining, before which the brief ordeals of the martyrs pale into nothingness.

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangement of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. One of the worst effects of troubles of this kind is upon the nervous system. The tortures so bravely endured completely and effectually shatter the nerves. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is an unfailing cure for all weakness and disease of the feminine organism. It makes it strong and healthy. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It checks exhausting drains and tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Good medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing "just as good."

"Since my last child was born, thirteen years ago, I have suffered from uterine trouble," writes Mrs. Paul Devraine, of Jellico, Campbell Co., Tenn. "I consulted several doctors and took much medicine, but found no relief. I had very bad health for twelve years. Every month I was in bed a week before the monthly period and a week after. I was obliged to keep in bed for four months last summer. I was just like a corpse. I lost twenty-six pounds in four months. I was coughing so much I was considered in consumption. I suffered severely from pains in my back, bearing down pains in the womb, chills and cold sweats. After taking four bottles of Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery my coughing stopped, and after six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription my periods became regular and were passed without pain. Now I am fleshy, more so than ever before. My neighbors are surprised to see me in such good health after having seen me so low."

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is speedily cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

CANNY INSECT WORKERS.

They Fertilize Flowers For Strictly Utilitarian Reasons.

A correspondent writes: "The theory of the origin of flowers by the selection of insects is one which has attracted much attention both in scientific circles and from the general public. Set forth by Darwin in the 'Origin of Species,' it has been largely developed in a series of interesting publications by Sir John Lubbock and Mr. Grant Allen. Some fresh and interesting light has now been thrown on it by a series of experiments recently carried out by Professor Plateau of the University of Ghent. Professor Plateau has arrived at the conclusion that insects are indifferent to the colors of the flowers they visit, and that they are guided to them in a very subordinate way by sight. The experiments on which the Belgian professor bases his farreaching conclusions are briefly these: Having covered the brightly colored flowers of single dahlias in his garden with bits of green leaf, he found that they were still visited by insects. This seemed so much at variance with the generally received view that insects are attracted to flowers chiefly by their color that Professor Plateau instituted a prolonged series of experiments and observations to put the matter still further to the proof. The result has been to confirm and strengthen the conclusions drawn from the first experiments. Cutting off the brightly colored corollas of such flowers as lobelia, evening primrose, foxglove, etc., he found the remaining green parts were still visited. Again there are some brightly colored flowers which are seldom or never visited by insects owing to their lack of honey. Notable among these is the scarlet geranium of our garden. But when a little honey was placed on geranium flowers bees came to them at once, those blossoms which had not received honey being passed over.

"Other conspicuous flowers were tried in a similar way with like results. The experiment of removing the honey bearing parts of a flower and leaving the brightly colored part, which was supposed to be attractive, was also tried with the single dahlia. Its inner florets were removed, leaving the conspicuous outer ones, a piece of yellow leaf being placed in the center. No insects went to these honeyless flowers. But as soon as a drop of nectar was placed on them they visited them as freely as before. Again, Professor Plateau made artificial flowers with pieces of green leaf, each furnished with a little honey. These were freely visited by insects. But artificial flowers made of colored material were neglected, even when supplied with honey.

"In further support of his views Professor Plateau is able to bring forward the following facts as to the habits of insects in visiting flowers: They will pass freely and with apparent indifference from one color to another of varieties of the same species growing together in our gardens; they visit a great number of green and greenish colored flowers; there are many small and inconspicuous flowers which are also freely visited. Such is a brief outline of Professor Plateau's observations and experiments, from which he believes himself justified in drawing the conclusion that sight plays a very subordinate part in attracting insects to flowers. Their bearing on the theory of the insect origin of flowers is obvious."—London Times.

THE ONLY HOPE!

For Victims of Bright's Disease is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Not a day passes on which the newspapers do not record the death of one or more persons from Bright's Disease. Already its victims number hundreds of thousands. Day by day the awful total grows larger. No class is safe from this destroyer.

War and intemperance, with all their miseries and fatalities, are not responsible for as many deaths as have been caused by Bright's Disease. Yet, there is a way of resisting it; of drawing its poisoned fangs, and making it as harmless as a summer breeze. That great medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills, has cured thousands of the worst cases. It never fails to cure, hopeless as the case may seem.

Would you safely shield your loved ones from the fatal grip of this curse of mankind—Bright's Disease? Then use Dodd's Kidney Pills, the only cure on earth for this disease.

The Old Man Was Cured.

"Talk about curing people of bad habits, one of the funniest cases I ever knew occurred on the south side some years ago," said Detective Thomas McQuaine. "There was an old fellow over there who would insist on fussing with his wife, who would invariably give him the worst of it. Then he would run up stairs and hang out of the second story window, holding to the ledge, shouting like wildfire that he was going to drop and kill himself. Of course the wife would relent and set up a noise that would bring out the neighbors for blocks, and the man would be pulled in the window by friends.

"This got to be coming too frequently, and some of the boys who lived near, and who had loosened several joints in their spines at different times pulling him in, decided to stop it. One fine day it came again. The old fellow hung out of the window, shouting that he would surely jump and end it all; the wife came rushing into the street in hysterics, and the neighbors ran as before to pull him up. The first man who got there bit the man's fingers with a stick, making him loosen his hold, and, to the horror of all, he dropped to the hard pavement with a howl that was pitiful. He was not badly hurt, but it cured him of that bad habit."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Queen Wilhelmina's Oath.

The coronation of the young queen of Holland will take place, according to a recently published decree, on Sept. 6. On that day the young woman, with right hand raised, in the presence of the states general, will pledge herself to the following formula, which is a strange contrast to the oaths administered to the Russian and German emperors:

"I swear to the people of the Netherlands to observe and always maintain the fundamental law. I pledge myself to defend and to preserve with all my power the independence of the kingdom, to protect public and private liberty and the rights of all my subjects and to employ for the preservation and advancement of individual and general prosperity all the means which the laws place at my disposal as the due of an upright queen. And may God aid me in my work."

Still They Tramp.

All but four states in the Union have tramp laws. England sends the tramp to the workhouse. France makes him do convict labor. Germany and Belgium put him on penal farms. But in all countries and in all states the tramp goes marching on.—Boston Globe.

The Pipe Face.

The constant habit of smoking pipes has a perceptible effect upon the face. The pressure of the lips to hold the pipe in position increases the curvature of the lips round the stem and the muscles become more rigid here than in other parts. Thus the lips at a certain point become stronger, and the pipe is unconsciously held in the same habitual position. After long continuation of the habit small circular wrinkles form parallel with the curvature of the lips around the stem. These are crossed by finer lines caused by the pressure of the lips to retain the stem in position.

In the case of old men who have smoked a pipe for years the effect upon the lips is very marked, not only altering the form of the lips, but of one entire side of the face, causing the wrinkles that are the result of age to deepen, and instead of following the natural course of facial wrinkles to change their course so as to radiate from the part of the mouth where the pipe is habitually carried. Furthermore, one or both lips often protrude, just like the lips of people who used to suck their thumbs when children. The effects of pipe smoking upon the teeth and lower jaws are even more apparent than in the case of the lips. If any man who has smoked a pipe for a considerable length of time will take the trouble to examine his teeth he will find that at the point where he usually holds the stem between his teeth the latter have become worn.—Medical Record.

A Moral Deficit.

A Cleveland youth who is bookkeeper and cashier for his father in the latter's large mercantile concern was for some unaccountable reason short $10 not long ago. He hunted high and low for it, and his father helped him look. For two weeks they kept up the search, and still the books remained unbalanced.

Finally a bright idea occurred to the youth.

"I'll fix that, father," he said.

"What's that, my boy?"

"That $10."

"Good," said the fond parent. "Go ahead."

The young man bent over his books.

"It's fixed," he said.

The father smiled approvingly.

"And how did you fix it, my boy?"

"I charged it up as contributed to the church, father."

"Very good idea, my boy."

And the father rubbed his hands with pleasure. He admired the young man's ingenuous ingenuity.

And the story of this highly moral attempt at forcing a balance comes from him.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE PRETTY GIRL MILKING HER COW.

(Colleen Dhas Cruidthe-na-mo.)

The dewdrops were gray on the clover,
The gray mists of night were withdrawn,
The blackbird sang clear from the cover,
The hills wore the rose of the dawn.
But sweeter than blackbirds and thrushes
Her song, whom the graces endow,
And pinker than dawn her soft blushes—
The pretty girl milking her cow.

She sang, and the milk, sweet and scented,
Spurted white as the breast of my dear.
She sang, and the cow, grown contented,
Gave over her kicking to hear.
Oh, wildest of little black Kerries,
You will come at her call, I know how,
Since my heart at her voice leaps and scurries—
The pretty girl milking her cow.

As she sang I drew nearer each minute,
A captive in love's rosy chain,
And my heart every second was in it,
Grew fuller of joy and of pain
Till I cried out behind her: My storeen,
Pray guess who is holding you now!
And I felt the heart beats of my Noreen,
The pretty girl milking her cow.

I kissed her sweet eyelids to blind her,
I kissed her gold head like the silk,
The cow—who was going to bind her—
With one kick kicked over the milk,
And then, growing bolder and bolder,
I kissed from the chin to the brow.
She was mine ere the day was much older,
The pretty girl milking her cow.

Getting Eggs Without Hens.

At a country fete a conjurer was performing the old trick of producing eggs from a pocket handkerchief, when he remarked to a boy in front, "I say, my boy, your mother can't get eggs without hens, can she?"

"Of course she can," was the reply.

"Why, how's that?" asked the conjurer.

"She keeps ducks," replied the boy, amid roars of applause.—London Tit-Bits.

CANADA LIFE
Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,093.05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3,066, for the sum of $6,185,996, of which, however, 266 for $521,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $373,300 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5 291,636, under 2 609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $798,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,168 45, and Endowment policies for $128,840 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $218,481.29 for profits, $145,411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,963,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,272,486 05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,678,915.67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company. I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, he prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Merritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

FROM LAKE TAGISH.

An Interesting Letter From Mr. John C. Strickland to his Father, at Lakefield, Written on his Way to the Klondike.

The following is an extract from a letter written by Mr. J. C. Strickland, who left Lakefield about a month ago for the Klondike, to his father, Mr. R. C. Strickland. It will be of interest to his many friends here:—

Lake Tagish, April 28th, '98.

DEAR FATHER,—I have arrived at Tagish Lake after about a month of great experiences. I left Victoria, B.C., on the 15th and arrived at Skaguay on the 20th. We left Skaguay next day, Willie Baptie and I, with about thirty pounds on my back and Baptie with about fifty pounds. We arrived at the summit about five hours later. We didn't stop until we got to Rescue Camp and stayed there all night. Left next morning for Lake Bennett, fifty miles. Next day went on to Gillis Stone's camp and stayed with them for three days. Roland walked in just as we were leaving for Tagish, and he then went on back to Bennet, Baptie waited at Stone's Camp until Roland returned and I went on by myself to Tagish to see D'Arcy and get Roland's sled to bring our stuff in with from Lake Bennet. I left Stone's camp early in the morning and walked to Tagish, 50 miles, arriving there at 11 o'clock at night. On my way I was the only one on Tagish Lake that night. I saw a pack of wolves on the ice. Roland had told me to stop all night at Caribou but I thought I would risk it and make Tagish. However, I got there all right and saw D'Arcy and his family and found them very well and surprised to see me. Next day I drove to Stone's Camp, and now we are all at Tagish, and I am staying with Roland and Willie Baptie at their log shack. I am going down to Dawson with Roland for the summer and probably for next winter. Will write next mail, about a months time. Shot 22 ducks yesterday. Love to all at home.

JOHN C. STRICKLAND.

TO THE KLONDYKE.

An Interesting Letter from Mr. Thos. J. Kearney, Formerly of Young's Point, while on the Way to the Klondyke.

LAKE MARSH, N. W. T.
April 26, 1898.

My last letter was written at Lake Tagish about two weeks ago, and was sent out to Skaguay by a traveller, and if he did not go that far he was to mail it at Bennett, as I put both an American and a Canadian stamp on it. I told you in my letter that I would post it at Tagish, but when we reached there the sergeant of police said the mail only went out monthly, and I said, "When does it go?" and he said, "Yesterday!" My heart dropped a foot, so I decided not to mail the letter there but send it out.

Mr. Strickland has charge of the station there, but was not in when I called to get my clearance, though I saw his wife and little boy. That morning we broke camp about 5.30 and arrived at the post at 2.30, and it was about 3.30 when we had dinner, and perhaps we were not hungry! The next morning we left about 6 o'clock and at first the trail was fine, but about 9 o'clock it got soft, and at 10 30 we took cooking material and built an open fire to cook dinner which consisted of oatmeal, ham, hot cakes and coffee. After eating we continued for about two hours, and as the trail was very soft, we made camp. We got up at 3 30 the next morning and that day had dinner here, which is the foot of the lake, where Billings and Russell got caught with the ice last fall, and we are now living in the cabin they built to live in during winter. I suppose you understand they came in this far last fall and then returned to Seattle in January.

During the past week we have been sawing lumber and building a boat, and about two days will finish her. She is 24 feet long, 5 feet wide and 3 feet deep, and she is to be named the 999, after the fast engine on the New York Central Railway.

To-morrow Russell is going to Tagish post, and I will send this letter with him—the last, probably, that you will receive till I write from Dawson.

About Monday we will start down the river, but cannot go very far on account of the ice. However, we might as well go as far as we can.

With the exception of a snow storm on Sunday evening, we have had delightful weather—frost every night and bright days.

We are living well and enjoying good health. We had beefsteak for breakfast yesterday morning, but as the venerable beast had hauled a sled on the trail for many weeks, it was tough eating. This evening we had cornmeal mush, beef stew, potatoes browned to a turn, bread peach cobblers and stewed apricots. For breakfast we usually have mush and hot cakes.

I have not seen a paper later than the date we left Seattle.

THE KLONDYKE GOLD OUTPUT.

Spring Clean Up. It is Said, Will be Equal to $25,000,000.

Reports received at Montreal show that the output from the Klondyke gold fields this season will be very large. Despatches received state that J. G. Wilson of Seattle, and James Wesley of Tacoma have just arrived at the coast on their return from Dawson City, bringing with them eight hundred letters and more them $10,000 in gold dust. Mr. Wilson has stated that according to his opinion the amount of gold that will be washed out in the spring clean up and brought down from St. Michael's alone will be equal to $25 000,000. The bulk of this wealth, Mr. Wilson is reported to have said, will be owned by between 100 and 125 man.

—A committee of the whole council will meet at 8 o'clock to-night, and the council assembles at 9.

—The Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist church will meet at Lindsay on Wednesday, 1st June.

—The Belleville Street Railway Co. propose extending their lines to the cemetery, and also fitting up a park in that locality.

—Mrs. Benj. Pashley, who was killed in a runaway accident at Tweed last week, is the mother of Mrs. Jas. Borland of this county.

—Court Chemong 530, I.O.F., meets to-night. The General Deputy of the Eastern High Court is expected, and the meeting promises to be otherwise interesting.

Madoc has been suffering from an epidemic of measles, and at times several of the departments of the public school had to be closed. A majority of the families in the village were visited by the disease.

—It has been the remark of scores of farmers that they never at any time in their history saw growth in the month of May like what it is at present. Everything in every locality is looking as vigourous and promising as anything that could be wished for, and an abundant harvest may be said to be already assured.

—Owing to the continued rush of grain over the G.T.R. from Midland to Belleville, orders have been issued to divide the trains at Lindsay instead of running a heavy train with two engines from that point. Large vessels are arriving at and en route to Midland from Chicago, laden with corn.

—On Friday last Victo Duego, of Ferguson's Falls, nearly ended his life by his thirst for amusement. He took the roller towel and twisted it fairly tight, leaving a hole at the bottom to put in his head. He raised his feet and enjoyed the sensation of being whirled as the towel unwound. But his weight and the impetus caused the towel to wind the other way, and the lad was speedily choked before he knew it. Blood spirted from his nose and ears before he could be extricated. It took two hours to revive the twelve-year-old lad.

MR. WILLIS, WOODSTOCK,

Escaped a Deadly Enemy by the Aid of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Woodstock, May 9—(Special)—This city is deeply agitated, with joyful excitement, because another popular resident has estaped from the fatal grip of Kidney disease by the aid of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Everyone knows Mr. H. A. Willis, the genial proprietor of the "Buckingham" hotel. He tells his story thus: "For two years past I have suffered intensely from Lame Back and Kidney Disease. Nothing I ever used helped me.

"My sufferings grew worse daily. I heard so much of Dodd's Kidney Pills that I decided to try them. I got relief from the first box. Three boxes cured me entirely."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure.

For internal or external use Hagyard's Yellow Oil cannot be excelled as a pain relieving and soothing remedy for all pain.

Sick Headache Subsides.

"I had been troubled with Sick Headache for over a year. Lately I used Laxa-Liver Pills and find they help me more than any other medicine I have ever taken. They do not gripe, and leave no ill effects."

HE CALLED IT "A RAG!"

Former Philippine Capt.-General Insults Stars and Stripes.

WILL NEVER WAVE OVER MANILA

Schley Has an Idea—He Gives Cervera the Opportunity, Under a Flag of Truce, to Come Out and Fight or Starve—President McKinley Cautious—Germany War Status.

Madrid, May 28.—In the Senate yesterday Marshal Primo de Rivera, former Captain-General of the Philippines, defended his administration of the colony. He said he could not believe his ears when he was told of the disaster at Cavite, adding: "That rag called the American flag shall never float over the walls of Manila." The Philippines, he continued, had not had adequate means of defence. He appealed to the Government to supply them.

SCHLEY'S SQUADRON.

Part of It Has Sailed for the West End of the Isle of Cuba.

Key West, Fla., May 28.—Part of Commodore Schley's squadron sailed for the west end of Cuba about noon Thursday, May 19. It consisted of the Brooklyn, Texas, Massachusetts and Scorpion. The Iowa sailed several hours later. The advance part of Commodore Schley's fleet was at Cienfuegos on Sunday, May 22, where it was joined by the Iowa, Maple and Vixen, and later by the Marblehead.

Commodore Schley had an idea that Admiral Cervera's squadron, which is carrying guns and ammunition for Havana, would slip into Cienfuegos, which has railroad communication with the Cuban capital. Officers who have arrived here on the despatch boats from Commodore Schley's squadron say there was disappointment in the fleet when it was found that the Spaniards were not there.

On Sunday the Scorpion was sent scouting in the direction of Santiago de Cuba, and on Tuesday of this week, about dusk, Commodore Schley's squadron steamed toward that port, the torpedo boat Dupont leaving for Key West with despatches.

The Dupont's officers and men say there was no firing at Cienfuegos, or while they were there with the fleet, which was up to the hour of its departure. The only unusual incident was a slight injury to the Dupont while coaling form the Iowa in a heavy sea.

Fight or Starve.

The Herald's correspondent at Key West telegraphs: "Schley is master of the situation at Santiago, and is seeking to make the Spanish fleet come out and give battle. Soon after arriving at the harbor Schley, it is reported, sent a boat with a white flag into the harbor with the message: 'The Spanish fleet has the alternative of coming out and fighting or remaining in and starving.'"

President McKinley Cautious.

New York, May 28.—A Washington special to the Journal says: Plans for an aggressive campaign in Cuba and Porto Rico are at a standstill. The delay will last just so long as Admiral Cervera's warships are afloat and manned by Spanish crews. The President has taken this stand firmly, because he lacks positive information as to the whereabouts of the Cape Verde fleet, and until this is settled no radical move will be made in the game of war. He calculates there are not enough warships to convey troops to Cuba, bombard Havana and the batteries at smaller places, besiege San Juan, keep up the blockade, and at the same time spare four big vessels to take care of Cervera. Reports of Spanish warships off Key West have also caused officials here some uneasiness.

Germany Must Declare Herself.

A Washington special to the Sun says the State Department has demanded from Germany an immediate declaration of her neutrality, or to be considered an ally of Spain.

Running Down Spanish Spies.

Detectives employed by the Government Secret Service Bureau have been actively employed in running down several alleged Spanish spies in this and other cities during the past two days.

Knight Is Now at Cabanas.

Keys West, Fla., May 28.—Mr. E. P. Knight, the correspondent of the London Times, who on Sunday night, when seven miles off Havana, was lowered over the bow of a despatch boat and rowed ashore in a ten-foot skiff, was heard from today. He has been thrown into prison, and is now in the Cabanas fortress.

The British Consul at Havana has instituted proceedings for his release.

Spain's Policy Is to Protract.

London, May 28.—The weekly newspapers agree that the policy of Spain is to protract the war.

The Prisoners Exchanged.

Washington, D.C, May 28.—The State Department has been notified by British Consul Gollan at Havana that the exchange of prisoners has been effected and the Maple, with Charles Thrall and Hayden Jones, the American correspondents, on board, has sailed for Key West.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

A Kind of Off Day in the House—The Alien Labor Law Again—In Committee of Supply.

Ottawa, May 28.—The House began business yesterday afternoon by postponing morning sittings until Tuesday, owing to the committees not having completed their labors.

Mr. Dobell, on the second reading, explained that the Quebec harbor bill was to enable the commissioners to borrow $350,000 wherewith to improve the harbor, so as to accommodate ships of 10,000 tons burden. The gross revenue of the harbor last year was $70,000, and the net revenue $35,000. By this bill interest on the amount borrowed would be a first lien on harbor revenues.

Mr. Bennett said it would be desirable to appoint an officer to enforce the Alien Labor Act on the north shore of Georgian Bay. He had the best of reasons for believing that a large number of Americans were at present being employed there. He suggested the appointment of an officer at Parry Sound.

The Premier replied: "I shall be glad to adopt the suggestion of my hon. friend. I see no reason why it should not be done."

Mr. Richardson said he had heard a rumor that the C.P.R. had abandoned the intention of constructing the last 50 miles of the Crow's Nest Railway, but would place a line of boats on Kootenay Lake instead. He asked if the Government had any information on the subject.

Mr. Blair said he had not heard the rumor, and he was sure the C.P.R. had no intention of abandoning this portion of the line. When the subsidy bill was before Parliament last session it was understood the last portion of the line, which would be very heavy work, could not be constructed until 1899. Hence it was understood the company would put on a vessel service until the line was built. The company's preparations in this regard probably had led to the inference mentioned by Mr. Richardson.

In committee of supply, Mr. Davin said there were suspicious circumstances in connection with the Edmonton bridge contract, which had been awarded to Mr. Lemoine of Montreal. The piers and abutments were to be built of stone, but concrete was substituted at the prices for Ashlar masonry, although concrete, he understood, would cost about one-half.

Mr. Tarte said the stone, the same of which was sent to the department, turned out to be bad, and it was not possible to get a suitable stone near Edmonton or Calgary. The estimated cost of the stone was to be $17.16 per cubic yard laid, while for concrete the chief engineer estimated the cost at $17.80 per cubic yard, or about the same. This price was due to the heavy cost of cement in Edmonton, which was $6 per barrel. It was, therefore, decided to substitute concrete work for the masonry, and the undertaking had been so far carried out in a satisfactory manner.

Mr. Oliver said that the people of Edmonton were quite satisfied.

The first hour after recess was taken up with the consideration of private bills. The Sons of England Incorporation bill passed the committee stage without opposition, but on motion for the third reading Mr. Blair objected to another stage being given the measure in the absence of Mr. Fielding. Accordingly the bill stands over until Monday.

The bill granting a divorce to James Pearson of Toronto was passed.

The Senate amendments to the Toronto & Hudson Bay Railway bill were concurred in.

The Edmonton bridge item was passed at midnight, and, after a few other Public Works votes had passed, the committee rose.

The House adjourned at 12.20 a.m.

ALFRED HUNT'S FAILURE.

Bracebridge Private Banker Says He Will Absolutely Assign.

Bracebridge, May 28.—Alfred Hunt, the private banker who closed up on Wednesday, admits liabilities of $50,000, and it is feared by outsiders they may be much more. Mr. Hunt says he will make an absolute assignment, without an offer to settle. In the meantime, it is feared that many of the depositors, of the poorer classes, will suffer. Most of the merchants in Bracebridge did business with Hunt. There are some 50 Bracebridge creditors alone. Many of the farmers of the surrounding townships banked with Hunt. The claims are all the way from a few dollars to $3,000 in size.

Mr. Hunt is said to have lost heavily in Toronto real estate. Some $8,000 went down recently by the failure of a Bracebridge contractor, and the smash of a sawmill business at Burk's Falls occurred about the same time, with heavy loss to Hunt.

Hunt was formerly Mayor of Bracebridge and is still a member of the Town Council. There is $175 of the corporation's money in his bank. It is said that on Monday last he received in deposits over $1,000, mostly from Bracebridge merchants.

TO DIE SEPTEMBER 15

W. J. Hammond Found Guilty of Murder for the Third Time.

VICTIM'S DEATH MEANT $5,000.

Mr. Osler's Three Damning Points—Hammond Bought Prussic Acid—Katie Tough Died of Prussic Acid—"Her Death Meant $5,000 to That Man," Said Mr. Osler.

Bracebridge, May 28.—On the opening of the court yesterday Mr. Osler stated that the prisoner, Hammond's counsel and he had come to an understanding by which the trial would be very much shortened.

It was agreed by counsel, with prisoner's consent, that the evidence of 12 witnesses given at the last trial be admitted.

The chief damaging evidence of Constable William Sloan of Gravenhurst was in relating a conversation he had with the prisoner.

Witness Rosina Russell said that during the evening of March 6, between 8 and 9 o'clock, she saw a man and woman walking the street near Hammond's house.

The prisoner told Sloan that Miss Russell was right, as he saw her standing on a doorstep. She had been standing on her sister's doorstep waiting for the door to be opened, when she saw the two walking.

Constable Archie Sloan of Gravenhurst was one of the chief Crown witnesses. It was he who searched the prisoner after his arrest, and obtained the key of the trunk which contained letters and insurance papers. These and other letters found in the prisoner's possession were read.

The evidence of Lansing Morse of New York, taken on commission, was also read, and that of Mr. Armburst of the P.P.I. Co., showed that deceased's life was insured in the prisoner's favor for $3,000.

At 2 p.m. the evidence for the Crown in the Hammond trial was all in. Mr. Johnston called no witnesses for the defence, but at once commenced his address to the jury. He spoke for two hours and 50 minutes and did all that it was possible for him to do in order to give the jury a favorable impression of the prisoner and his connection with the case, but he was laboring under a great disadvantage. He had to rely altogether upon his ability to discredit Crown witnesses, and his ability to influence the jury in order to secure prisoner's acquittal. However, the evidence was materially stronger than at former trials, and the impression seemed to pervade the court room that even Mr. Johnston himself did not see much hope of succeeding.

Mr. Osler spoke for an hour and a quarter. Every word was to the point. He put three facts to the jury at the commencement of his address. Said he: Prisoner bought a bottle of prussic acid on the morning of March 6. On the evening of the same day Katie, his wife, died from the effects of poison by prussic acid. "Her death meant $5,000 for that man," said Mr. Osler, as he pointed to the prisoner.

Mr. Osler's address was immeasurably stronger than the address delivered by him at former trials.

The court adjourned at the close of Mr. Osler's address until 7.30 p.m.

At the opening of the court, the room was crowded with citizens, anxious to hear the closing words in the trial. His Lordship commenced his address at once. He asked the jury to free their minds from everything outside of the court room. He then reviewed all the facts which had been brought out in evidence, and when he had finished gave the case to the jury. There did not seem to be a ray of hope for the prisoner.

The jury retired at about a quarter to 4 o'clock.

At 10 o'clock the jury returned to the court room, and, having been asked if they had agreed upon a verdict and the nature of it, the foreman said: "Guilty." There was no recommendation for mercy.

The judge then asked the prisoner if he had anything to say why the sentence of the court should not be passed upon him. He said:

"Nothing, my Lord."

The judge then addressed the prisoner, pointing out to him the heinousness of the crime, and sentenced him to be hanged on Sept. 15.

Heartily Endorses This Testimonial--Hood's Sarsaparilla Triumphant in a Severe Test

The testimonials in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla are worth reading because they tell things worth telling. Just spare a few moments to read this statement below:

No man is more favorably known in and about Epping, N. H., than Mr. Joseph Stokes, the husband of the lady referred to. His word is as good as a U. S. bond, and every statement from him or his family may be most implicitly relied upon. Read this:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen:—For fully twenty years my mother has been seriously troubled by a sore on her nose. For some time we thought it of a cancerous nature, and it was removed three times. A physician in Boston said the sore was not a cancer, but

"A Catarrhal Sore."

It discharged and was, of course, very annoying as well as painful. Sometimes it was as large as a half dollar, and it was necessary to keep it bandaged and protected most of the time. About two years ago the sore seemed to be spreading over her face, and was larger than when the Boston physician removed it. There is no question but that its origin was in

The Scrofulous Humor

with which my mother has always been troubled. Two years ago she decided to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a faithful trial, also using, as an outward application, Hood's Olive Ointment. It was soon noticed, to the joy of the family, that the sore was diminishing in size and was becoming less troublesome. This encouraged her to continue the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. She took 11 bottles, and now

Her Face is Well.

The sore has entirely disappeared, leaving not a scar, but only a slight mark, which we think may in time totally disappear. It is such a comfort to her and such a joy to the rest of the family that we feel indebted more than we can express, to Hood's Sarsaparilla, that she has been cured after twenty years of suffering." MISS E. A. STOKES, Epping, N. H.

From Mr. Stokes.

"I am glad to say that the cure of my wife is exactly as stated in my daughter's letter above." JOSEPH STOKES.

Hon. J. W. Bennett,

Mayor of Lowell, takes pleasure in voluntarily adding his endorsement to the above testimonial, as follows:

"I know the parties referred to in the letters above, and endorse them as thoroughly reliable. I have known about this case for some time, and am glad this testimonial has been sent to C. I. Hood & Co." J. W. BENNETT, Lowell, Mass.

THE WHITE PLAGUE.

The century now drawing to a close has been conspicuous for advancement in arts and sciences, and the science of medicine, or at least the science of disease, has shared in the forward movement. In no department has greater progress been made than in tracing the causation of disease. This in turn involves improvement in treatment, for the great desideratum in practical medicine is exact diagnosis. Once a disease is definitely and correctly diagnosed, treatment is a matter of secondary difficulty. Old theories that have long been matters of implicit belief by the best of the profession, have been proven unfounded. In no respect have former theories been so much shaken, perhaps, as in the matter of the heredity of consumption. It is now held that consumption is less a hereditary than a simply contagious disease. The fact that consumption often goes through a family is regarded as, not so much due to hereditary taint, as to the disease being communicated directly through daily association and personal contact of the members of a family. The Provincial Board of Health has issued a bulletin which lays special emphasis upon the prevalence of the "white plague," as consumption is not inaptly called. The bulletin in question declares that while other infectious and contagious diseases are diminishing in virulence and frequency, "consumption continues its fatal course, and unless our social and domestic habits change very much, it is feared that from this disease there will always exist much destruction of life. The evil may be said to be thoroughly a house disease, and until there comes to be a general and well settled conviction on this point, a conviction that consumption owes its prevalence to house infection and not to heredity, due means will hardly be taken to prevent its communication." This, of course, justifies insistence on the most perfect possible isolation of consumptive patients. But such a course is impossible in thousands of homes, where to isolate one member of a family residing in a one or two-roomed dwelling, would be to turn the patient or the rest of the family out of doors; and the expense of entering a Home for Consumptives is prohibitory in cases where the means at command do not suffice for the bare necessities of existence. It is just as reasonable to advise such persons to enter a Home for Consumptives, as it is for a doctor to advise a sick widow, with a family of six children, who lives by her wash tub, to take a liberal dose of champagne or to spend a few weeks at Murray Bay or Tadousac. What can be done, however, is to educate the people upon the importance of taking care of their health and thus prevent the disease and attacking them. Once consumption is developed in a family, that next to means of cure the greatest effort should be in the direction of securing isolation and thus avoiding or reducing the risk of others becoming infested. We have in Ontario a glorious and healthful climate, but if we disregard the laws of health and ignore the laws of cleanliness in person and personal habits and premises, we must expect to reap what we sow. Care of the health will, if thorough, prevent consumption, and once the disease develops isolation will do much to prevent its spread by contact. The use of absolutely pure water and food making typhoid practically impossible, so care of health will operate to prevent the communicable and [illegible] of consumption.

GLADSTONE AND LAURIER.

It is a proud moment for Canada that the names of two great men can be thus be bracketted without any feeling of inconsistency in the juxta position. We have by no means heard the last of Sir Wilfred Laurier's great tribute to the great Gladstone delivered in the House of Commons on Thursday. It was an example of perfect oratory, good taste, keen analytical acumen, worthy of the great subject and occasion. Even political opponents of Sir Wilfrid are moved to warm praise of his great oration. The Montreal Star, one of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's most pronounced political journalistic opponents, has this tribute to the tribute:

"Distinguished orators the world over have found in the death of Mr. Gladstone a theme worthy of their greatest efforts. From thousands of pulpits sermons have been preached, having for their subject the life of a statesman and a Christian gentleman whose sincerity and pureness of motive nobody ever questioned. Thousands of journalists distributed all over the world have tried to do justice to the memory of England's great dead. And the ablest of them all have confessed their inability to do justice to their subject. It has remained for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Prime Minister of Canada to deliver what we firmly believe to be the most eloquent and most appreciative panegyric on Mr. Gladstone that has yet been uttered. The effort and the subject were alike worthy of the orator, and the orator was equal to the occasion."

The Montreal Witness, Independent, thus refers to the great speech of Canada's Prime Minister:

We have heard the remark much repeated that Britain cannot be said to be decadent while she continues to bring forth great men. Indeed, the man who, like Gladstone, outshines a strenuous generation like this in so doing outshines all the generations of the past, and proves that up to his century at least Britain grew in virility as she grew in power. But the time is long past which went to the making of her greatest man, and under the influence of an illusion which overpowers the judgment of each successive generation, men have been inclined to speak of him as the last. That he has left great men behind him is proved by the noble tribute to him to which we give fitting prominence to-day. It is, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself points out, one evidence of greatness that it does not fail at the right moment to rise to the height of a great occasion. Like another of Gladstone's official eulogists, Sir Wilfrid rose from the prostration caused by parliamentary over-strain to undertake a task which would have cost most men protracted application. The clearness and sympathetic appreciation with which he has singles out the great men of the century and places them each on a fitting pedestal, is another evidence of kinship with these. Not of Britain's immediate race, though come of the self-same blood which gave that race its great qualities and nursed under the aegis of the British constitution, he the more fittingly takes his place as the representative and spokesman of that greater Britain, which is showing such power to include and give scope to what is strong and generous in all manhood.

BRITAIN, FRANCE AND WEST AFRICA.

The doctrine of "effective occupation," which the French set up in West Africa, is being pushed to an extreme by the forces of both nations. The other day the French force stationed at Kishi, in the Lagos hinterland, withdrew, whether temporarily was not known, but a British force immediately occupied the place. Kishi is the military post furthest south in the Lagos hinterland held by the French, and its occupation by the British completes a chain of military posts stretched right across the Lagos hinterland along the ninth parallel, thus effectively closing the French from an advance south of that parallel to the Niger. It is not improbable that the withdrawal of the French is one of the symptoms of weakness which have been becoming very apparent in the too extended position of the French in the Soudan. They have undoubtedly bitten off more than they can chew, just as they did in America two centuries ago.

MEN AND THINGS.

Gibraltar witnesses the first overt manifestation of the hostility of the Spaniards to England. It grows, of course, out of British sympathy with the United States in this war. The Rock is a truly accurate description of the pied a terre which Great Britain has at the entrance to the straits. There is no flat or level land near it except the neutral belt. At the base of the Rock there stretches towards Spain a narrow neck of low land for about half a mile. It is formed evidently by the washing up of sand around the huge mass of granite which thrusts itself up to rival the peaks on the African side. On this neck of land there is marked off a neutral belt, stretching about a quarter of a mile, and washed on one side by the waters of the Mediterranean and on the other by those of the Bay of Algesiras. The British sentries pace up and down all the time under the shadow of the rock, while just a quarter of a mile across the Spanish sentries keep up a like watch and ward. On the Spanish side of this neutral zone, and across from water to water, stretches a close net wire fence designed to prevent dogs laden with smuggled goods from entering Spain. The British troops are forbidden to enter Spain except by the travelled road which leads from the Rock, and on which the Spanish custom house stands. It was the forbidden entry on Spanish soil by water beyond this neutral zone that caused the shooting of the English soldier. It was justified by existing regulations, and cannot be properly objected to by the British Government. Apart from its immense importance as a military station, Gibralter is interesting as a gigantic landmark in an otherwise rather tame coast line. The south of Spain, westward from Gibralter, is flat, and even Cape Trafalgar, conspicuous in history as it is, is merely a low, sandy cliff scarcely 30 feet high. Across the Straits Africa presents a more imposing appearance, but Gibraltar is the only pillar of Hercules on the side of Spain.

THE Premier has decided to have a straight vote taken on the prohibition question. This should secure the sympathy of the man most bitterly opposed to prohibition—the man that takes his straight.

A READER'S THANKS

Are Tendered to "The Doctor" for His Good Advice.

Which Led the Reader to Use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—They Cured Him of Dyspepsia, Although Every Other Remedy Failed.

Toronto, May 27—(To the Editor.)

Can you give me the name of "Doctor," whose opinions and advice on the treatment of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, and all other stomach troubles, have been quoted so frequently in your paper lately?

I have read his talks with much interest having been for ten years a sufferer from Dyspepsia of the severest type, and having been unable to get relief, till I took your doctor's advice. In one of his talks, he said Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets were the only medicine on earth that can cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion, etc. His explanation of the cause of the disease was so clear and reasonable, that I was induced to try the remedy he recommended—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

I give you my solemn word of honour that three boxes cured me completely, at a cost of $1 50, after I had spent hundreds of dollars for other medicines, that gave me not the slightest relief.

I would be obliged if you would give me the doctor's name, I owe him sincere thanks for my cure.

Permit me to say that any of your other readers who suffer the tortures of Dyspepsia will find a simple, speedy, positive cure in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. C. SCHRYVER.

THEIR INTEREST ONE.

Grand Trunk Railway Corporation and Their Employes.

THIS IS CLAIMED BY OFFICIALS.

The Company's Side Concerning the New Rules and Regulations—Uniformity, Instead of Three Different Methods on the Same Number of Sections, Aimed at—Employes' New Field.

Toronto, May 28.—Superintendent Fitzhugh stated yesterday that he had heard nothing officially of any grievances among the trainmen employed on the Grand Trunk Railway. He could not understand why the men objected to the new rules and regulations, since their introduction will result advantageously both to the company and the employes.

The reporter had a statement of the Grand Trunk's position from an official in the operating department, who does not interest himself greatly about grievances, but is thoroughly posted on railroad affairs. When asked if the Grand Trunk's new rules and regulations had been introduced from the United States, he replied: "Yes, but not in their entirety," and, in explaining why it was necessary to adopt the American code of railway rules, he said that the system in use in Canada was not only different from that employed in the United States, but was not uniform throughout the Grand Trunk. In the matter of train orders, he said, the method of despatching a train differs on three branches of the system. On the Great Western branch the duplicate telegraph order was employed; on the Grand Trunk proper the red and white rear flag and lamp signals were used, while on the Northern the old "Smith and Brown" system was adhered to that had been preserved from the days of pioneer railroading. Under the "Smith and Brown" system, trains were named after the conductor who had charge of them, instead of by numbers. The new train order system, which has been adopted from the American Railroad Association, provides absolute security to passengers, as the engineers and conductors on each train are provided with a copy of the running orders issued, which is a much better method than trusting to an engineer to stand still until the despatcher gives him orders to move.

The difference between the railroad rules in vogue in Canada and in the United States was a great source of inconvenience to the Grand Trunk management. A Canadian train crew could not pass over Suspension Bridge and take a train into the yards on the American side, because they did not understand the signals. The Grand Trunk, therefore, had to keep a crew of men on the Canadian side who understood the American rules, and placed them in charge of every train crossing the line. The same state of affairs existed at Fort Erie, though on the C. & G. T. the Canadian rules are in force.

It is confessed that the alteration in the hand-lamp signalling is most material, but the Grand Trunk officials say the change would have to be made some time, and the men had better buckle to and learn the new procedure. In this department of signalling, the American code has superseded the Canadian.

The objection taken by the men, that the signal to be given from the top of a freight train to let the engineer know it has parted, involves danger in its execution, is flatly contradicted by the officials, who say the signal was specially contrived that it might be executed while sitting down, in which position a brakeman is safe from being pitched to the ground.

Rule No. 86 on page 14 of the new book of instructions has been the chief cause of complaint among the dissatisfied men. The rule is herewith copied; it refers to brakemen and conductors in charge of freight trains:

"They must ride on top of the trains as much as possible where they can apply the brakes, if necessary, and see that their brakemen do their duty; they must require all of their brakemen to be on top of the train at least one-half mile before arriving at, and while passing all stations and stopping places, descending or ascending grades, or at any point or time when extra precaution is necessary to ensure safety."

This rule, said the official, merely requires of brakemen and conductors to do their duty. They cannot attend to their train while lounging in the cab of the caboose, and so long as brakehandlers are on the roofs of cars, men must get out in the cold to twist them up. A sarcastic official remarked that when the company introduced air brakes on their freight cars they would not trouble the brakemen any longer.

In conclusion, the Grand Trunk officials state that they think the dissatisfied employes are most dull not to see that if they become acquainted with and used to working under the American Railroad Association rules they will have a new field of enterprise open to them.

CLINE SENT TO THE ASSIZES.

He Will Have to Stand Trial for Shooting With Intent to Kill.

Hamilton, May 28.—Yesterday George W. Cline of Winona was arraigned before Magistrate Forbes at Grimsby on a charge of shooting his wife and son, Vance Cline, on May 16, with intent to kill. The prosecution was conducted by Crown Attorney Brennan, and E. A. Lancaster defended the prisoner. Vance Cline, who was shot in the chest, was the principal witness. He said his mother and father had a disagreement on the afternoon of the shooting. His mother called him in from the field, and his father then accused him and his mother of robbing him last summer. Vance Cline told his father to modify his language, and the father pulled a revolver and fired two shots—one at his mother and one at him. Two more shots were fired from the revolver, but it was not made clear who these were fired at, if they were fired at anyone.

Cline was committed for trial at the assizes. He is a fruit farmer.

A NEW MAN.

Paine's Celery Compound Gave Him a Fresh Existence.

He Had Endured Years of Misery and Agony.

Had Given Up All Hope and Expected to Die.

It is the Medicine for You, Poor Sufferer.

You Cannot be Disappointed if You Use Paine's Celery Compound.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.:

DEAR SIRS,—I can conscientiously recommend Paine's Celery Compound to all who may be suffering from dyspepsia and liver trouble. For years, while living in Black Brook, I suffered from a complication of troubles, and was so bad with dyspepsia that I could not touch a morsel of food. I found it difficult to sleep, and what little I did get was often broken with horrid dreams. Intense sufferings from liver complaint added to my load of agony; I also had dizziness, pains in the back, and was pale, haggard and despondent.

I kept doctoring and dosing without deriving the slightest benefit, and finally gave up all hope of getting well. One day my daughter, who had read of a wonderful cure by Paine's Celery Compound, begged me to try one bottle of the medicine. I told her it was no use to throw away money, but she pleaded so hard that to please her I bought a bottle, and before it was used up I felt better. Encouraged so much I continued with the medicine and improved every day.

I am now cured, thanks to Paine's Celery Compound. You cannot wonder that I consider Paine's Celery Compound the greatest medical discovery in the world. I urge all who are suffering to try this grand medicine and test its virtues.

Yours very truly,
CHARLES COMEAU,
Neguac, N.B.

A Famous Old Printing House.

Thanks to the purchase of the house (Musee Plantin) and its contents by the city authorities, and through their enlightened policy, aided by loving hands by which the whole has been arranged and cared for, we have now before us in the Musee Plantin not only the actual picture of a mediæval printing house, but an epitome of the literary history of three centuries. To pass the doorway is to surround oneself with the same familiar objects which artists and men of letters saw and handled 200 or 300 years ago.

Here are their chairs and tables, their books and candlesticks and other accessories of everyday office and domestic life; portraits of Plantin, his wife, daughters and friends, the printing presses used for many generations, the punches of the great type of the "polyglot," and blocks of its initial letters, first editions and fine copies from the presses of famous early printers, bought, not for show or as rarities, but as texts to be compared, collated or referred to for some new manuscript about to be put into the compositors' hands.—Pall Mall Magazine.

Sores Gone. Skin Clear.

Mrs. Philip Mitchell, St. Mary's, Ont., says:—"My little boy, aged 16, was a complete mass of sores, caused by bad blood. We could find nothing to cure him. Finally I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and before half the bottle was gone he began to improve, and by the time the bottle was finished he had not a sore on him."

Any of these signs is proof positive of Kidney Disease. Will you be cured, or will you die? Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only means on earth that will cure you. They never fail.

A PRESSMAN'S STORY.

Mr. John H. Parnham of "The Globe," Tells His Experience

With Dodd's Kidney Pills in a Case of of Lumbago—They Cured Him, when Doctors' Remedies Failed.

Toronto, May 27.—Trust a newspaper man to find out a good thing. Everybody admits that the men on the staffs of our city dailies are shrewd, sharp, brainy men, who know and make use of a "good thing" when they run across it. It is not surprising, then, that among the fraternity of the pencil in Toronto, Dodd's Kidney Pills are universally used.

What the newspaper brotherhood thinks of this world famed remedy is indicated in this letter, written without solicitation, by Mr. John H. Parnham of the Toronto "Globe" press room staff:

"It gives me exceedingly great pleasure to testify to the wonderful efficacy of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Eight months ago I was attacked by severe pains in the back. An eminent physician said I had Lumbago and prescribed Turkish bathe. These did me no good. A friend advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I did so, and they cured me completely—thoroughly. I have not been troubled by the pains since, and I would not be without Dodd's Kidney Pills for any money."

Thus is one more proof given that Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to cure Lumbago. They are equally as speedy and positive in curing Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Diseases of Women, and every other phase of Kidney Disease.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists, at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or sent, on receipt of price, by The Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Death of John Hendrie.

Hamilton, May 28.—John Hendrie, the well-known horseman, died here last evening at his home on Bay street south. He was 57 years of age and leaves a widow to mourn his death. His death was due to gangrene. He had gone under three operations. At first his toe was cut off and then his foot was amputated, and about a week ago his leg was cut off at the knee. His life slowly ebbed away. He was a brother to William Hendrie, this city, and George Hendrie, Detroit, the well-known cartage agents. He came to Canada in 1857 and was Toronto manager for the Hendrie Company. Later he purchased horses for the English army and the Hendrie Company and was said to be a very good judge of horses. The funeral will take place on Sunday, and will be private.

Log, Mo., U. S. A.

On looking at a late map of Missouri one will find the name "Log" as a post-office at the extreme western end of Newton county and about eight miles southwest of Grand Falls. A few days ago Deputy United States Marshal Short had occasion to serve papers from the Oklahoma federal court on several persons residing in that direction, and he was given their postoffice address as Log. As it was not a familiar name in this vicinity he wandered about the hills until he came to the end of a log house extending from the brush and concluded that it was the place he was searching for. He asked for the postmaster, and a woman replied that she was the official, and upon inquiry as to her name the officer also learned that she was one of the parties to be subpœnaed. She was also asked why her office was called Log and stated that she didn't know exactly, but that when the office was first established it was called "Loghouse," which the postoffice department considered too lengthy, so it dropped the "house."—Kansas City Journal.

Aunt Maria—What! Mary, cannot you comb your own hair yet?

BABY'S SKIN

Freed from all Eruptions, Made Pure and White by DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Mothers take a pride in having their Infants' skin of that delicate pink and white—soft as velvet. When torturing and disfiguring eruptions seize upon the little body, they want a remedy that will not disappoint nor fail. Time and again Dr Chase's Ointment has proven itself a specific for all skin diseases to which babies are peculiarly subject.

MRS. CHAS. E. MOSS, of Berlin, Ont., had a little baby 8 months old, with itching sores on her body. Dr Chase's Ointment cured her when everything else failed.

Another mother who holds Dr. Chase's Ointment in high esteem is MRS. JAS. BROWN, Molesworth, Ont. Her baby boy was covered all over the face, sides and hips with Eczema. The first application of the Ointment stopped the itching, and 3 boxes effected a complete cure.

These are but samples of the hundreds of mothers who are delighted with Dr. Chase's Ointment.

The Rage for Hats at Fairweather's.

There has seldom been any such offering in good stiff and soft felt hats as at Fairweather's during the past three days. For some reason, in no wise connected with the war or any other unusual cause, this firm is selling guaranteed fur felt hats, of the most reliable English and American makes, in summer weights and fashionable shades, for $1.25, the usual price being from $2.00 to $2.75. The light-coloured soft felt hats for men are the rage in large cities this season, and the selling ratio at Fairweather's is in favour of the light shades. The demand is likely to continue as the warm weather approaches; because the light coloured light-weight soft hat is essentially the seasonable, as well as the correct, hot weather headwear for men. The sale will likely be of the liveliest kind to-night.

SPANISH FLEET GHOST STORIES

A SPANISH FLEET LEAVING CADIZ.

Rumoured Battle in Cuba, 300 Men Reported Killed—Nothing New From Manilla—Spain Expects Nothing From the Intervention of the Powers.

Special 3 p. m. dispatch to the Examiner.

That Elusive Spanish Fleet.

London, May 28.—A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Kingston says:—Despite the most energetic search the whereabouts of the Spanish Cape Verde squadron remain unknown to the American authorities. On Thursday last Cervera was reported to be at Santiago De Cuba and Schley left Key West for that port. It appears the Spanish fleet has completely out-manoeuvred the American commanders and has succeeded in concealing its movements, though the Americans have some seventy war vessels patrolling the West Indian waters. It is reported that severe fighting took place between the Insurgents and Spaniards near Cienfuegos on Sunday, in which the Spaniards lost 300 killed and wounded.

All Quiet in the Carribean.

St. Thomas, Danish West Indies, May 28.—All is quiet in this vicinity. No news of the movements of the American or Spanish fleets.

No Hope From the Powers.

London, May 28—Madrid correspondence of the Standard says: The Spanish press bitterly laments the selfish motives underlying the reluctance of the powers to intervene. It is now seen that Spain is isolated and the idea is growing that better terms may be obtained by a direct understanding with President McKinley.

A Warship Entering Kingston.

Kingston, Jamaica, May 28, 9 a.m.—The marine observer at Port Royal reports an American war ship heading for this port.

A Startling Announcement.

Key West, May 28—The United States gunboat Woodbury arrived this morning bringing Hayden Jones and Chas. Thrall, the newspaper correspondents captured by the Spaniards in Cuba, and exchanged for Spanish prisoners.

Spanish Reserve Squadron Leaves Cadiz.

Madrid, May 28—It is officially announced that the Spanish reserve squadron has left Cadiz. This squadron is understood to be composed of ten or twelve vessels. Their destination is unknown.

Nothing New From Manilla.

Washington, May 28—Navy Department officials confirmed the news that the auxiliary gunboat Seafiero arrived at Hong Kong from Manilla. Any advices received from Admiral Dewey could not be made public last night, but it is unofficially understood that the despatches contain nothing of a startling nature.

Riotous Celestials.

Seattle, W. T., May 28—News has been received of an anti European riot at Shae Shil, China, in which the British consulate, custom house and stores of Jardine Matheson & Co., and two other buildings, were burned.

A Persistent Rumour.

New York, May 28—A Kingston, Jamaica, despatch to the Evening Telegram says there is a persistent rumour that Commodore Schley's fleet forced the channel at Santiago and sunk the Spanish squadron.

They sell a good looking suit of tweed for a man for $3.50, fashionable three-button cutaway and newest pattern. You won't be able to see how the maker can make any money at $3.50, and LeBrun & Co. must make a little. Men have been heard to say as they examined a splendid worsted ticketed at $7.50, that they had paid $13 for a suit the very mate to it. Maybe LeBrun & Co. buy mighty close for cash, but somebody must lose money. dw

GLADSTONE'S DUST IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

It Lies Alongside that of his Old-Time Adversary, Disraeli.

(Special to the Examiner.)

London, May 28.—In Westminster Abbey, where England's greatest dead rest, the body of the late William Gladstone was entombed to day with the mourning of the nation he had served and the ceremonies of the Church he had loved. His grave is beside that of his life-long adversary, Disraeli, (Lord Beaconsfield) whose marble effigy looks down upon it decked with the regalia which Gladstone had refused. Two future kings of Great Britain walked beside the great Commoner's coffin, and all the nobility and learning of the state surrounded it, though the wish of the deceased had been for simplicity.

OBITUARY.

Death of a Former Resident of Peterborough in Rochester.

Word was received in town yesterday of the death of William Hoban, formerly of town, who learned his trade as a printer with the EXAMINER back in the sixties. He has been a resident of Rochester for over twenty years, and leaves a wife and family to mourn his demise. The deceased was a brother of Mrs. James Lynch of town, who has gone to attend the funeral. Interment will take place in Rochester.

FUNERAL OF MISS FAIR.

Interment Took Place Yesterday in St. Paul's Burying Ground.

The funeral of the late Miss Carrie Fair, B. A., took place yesterday from Linden Villa, her old home, in Cavan, to St. Paul's burying ground. A very large concourse of people attended. Addresses were delivered by Ven. Archdeacon Allen, of Millbrook, and by Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of Peterborough, the father of whom attended Miss Fair during her last illness. Rev. W. C. Allen also assisted in the services. The deepest regret is expressed on all sides at the early culmination of Miss Fair's useful life. She was possessed of unusual abilities and held a high place in the first rank of the High School teachers of Ontario. Two representatives of the Woodstock Collegiate Institute were sent by the Board of Education of that town as a tribute of honour to one of their most beloved teachers.

BROKE HIS LEG.

Fell From a Wood Wagon and Sustained Serious Injuries.

The little six year old son of Mr. Wm. Taylor, of the Canadian General Electric Works gate house. Thursday afternoon met with an accident, the seriousness of which cannot at present be estimated.

The little chap had just come out of school and seeing a wood wagon passing, attempted to steal a ride. Climbing up on the load of slabs he had just reached the top when he slipped and fell between the load and one of the rear wheels. His foot catching in the spokes was given a bad twist, resulting in the compound fracture of the leg. Grady's back was called into requisition and the lad was removed to the Nicholls Hospital, where a large piece of bone had to be taken from the leg.

The little fellow is resting easily to-day.

McGill and Lieut. Matthews, with the object of ascertaining if the sanction of both the Canadian and American Governments could be obtained to the proposition. If the necessary permission can be secured, it is proposed to select two companies of picked men, numbering about forty each, and to take along a bugle band of eighteen members. A special train would leave Peterborough on Saturday evening, July 2nd, returning on the morning of the 5th.

Huckleberry Crop.

A person who came from the neighbourhood of the huckleberry patches in the north country states that the outlook is good for a big crop. The bushes in every locality have been covered with blossom, and there has been no late frost to blight them. The berry began to form a week ago and they are now rapidly developing, giving assurance of the fruit coming to maturity early. There are new "burns" in some places which will produce berries, where there were none last year.

$10,000 NEEDED FOR BRIDGES AND A ROLLER.

THE PROPERTY OWNERS TO VOTE ON THE BY-LAW.

The Council Decides to Take Stringent Measures to Abate the Caterpillar Pest—Town Trees to be Sprayed.

A special meeting of the town council was held last evening for the purpose of discussing the matter of referring a bylaw to the people to raise the sum of $7,000 for the erection and repair of bridges and the additional sum of $3,000 for the purchase of a steam roller.

Mayor Davis presided, the other members present being Councillors Best, W. H. White, Robertson, Denne, Allen, Dawson, Cobb, McWilliams, J. M. White and Langford.

Mr. Sylvanus, representing the Sawyer-Massey Co., was present and addressed the members in the interests of his firm. After enumerating the advantages which his roller possessed over others, he stated that a steam roller in a day of ten hours would consume from 500 pounds to a half ton of coal. The weight of the rollers ranged from ten to fifteen tons, and the price from $3,250 to $3 650. On being asked the price of a twelve and a half ton roller, such as the town would require, he placed the cost at $3,400.

AN ADVANTAGE POSSESSED

by such a roller, he stated, was that it could be fitted out with 5½ inch spikes and used to run over a road way which could be afterwards harrowed and then rolled.

Such a course of treatment recommended itself to the councillors.

Councillor Langford stated that he supposed the councillors were unanimous in the opinion that the bridges in question were much needed and therefore the only matter under discussion would be the purchase of the steam roller. He had been in Kingston during the last week and ascertained that the expenditure on streets there was only $9,000 annually, although the place was more than twice as large as Peterborough. The city possessed a steam roller and the streets were so well drained that after a very heavy rainstorm they had completely dried off in four hours. The cost of running a steam roller was only half of what it cost Peterborough to operate the one it used here at present and it covered fully four times as much ground in a day.

Mayor Davis mentioned the fact that the Mayor of Ingersoll had been in town during the day and had spoken of five blocks which had been perfectly done by a heavy roller under contract. They were trying to do the rest of the streets in the same manner, but their horse roller was too light.

Councillor Dawson suggested that expense might be lessened if the present roller was weighted down and a traction engine hired to draw it. He urged that the bridges in question be built and that the ratepayers be then asked to vote on a bylaw for the defraying of the cost.

IF THEY REFUSED

their support to such a bylaw then the amount would have to be added to next year's taxes.

The Mayor thought this would be rather an arbitrary way of dealing with the matter. He did not think it would be advisable to go ahead with the work and then tell the people they must pay for it. It would be better to ask the opinion of the property owners before incurring the expenditure.

Councillor Best pointed out that there might be trouble in getting the banks to advance money for the work if it was not first sanctioned by the property owners.

Councillors Robertson and W. H. White also advised that the opinion of the people be asked before any expense was incurred.

Councillor Denne then took the chair, and the opinion of the council was called for as to the advisability of submitting the bylaw to the people, the vote stood:

Yeas—Councillors Best, W. H. White, Robertson, Denne, Allen, McWilliams, J. M. White, Langford and the Mayor—9.

Nays—Councillors Dawson and Cobb.—2.

Councillors Dawson then brought up the matter of

THE CATERPILLAR PEST.

He stated that he understood Mr. John McKee had a mixture prepared which was sure death to the caterpillars when applied with a spraying apparatus.

Councillor Denne thought that four pumps should be purchased at once, and men sent out to spray the trees.

Councillor W. H. White expressed the opinion that each citizen should look after his own trees and thus save the town expense.

The mayor was of the opinion that the citizens could be compelled to attend to the catterpillars on their own premises. While speaking he made an explanation as to the reason why the matter of preparing a bylaw for the erection of bridges and purchase of the roller had been brought to the attention of the council so suddenly at the last meeting. He had been busy all week getting the property holders on George street to sign a petition for the laying of permanent pavements, and while up and down the street had spoken to a number of the councillors on the matter of the bylaw. He had then asked Town Engineer Belcher to prepare an estimate of the cost of erecting the bridges, and when the estimate was submitted to him had thought it too high. Councillor Langford was at this juncture asked to co-operate with the engineer in and the estimate had been cut down to $7,000. As he considered it only a matter of time when a steam roller would be required for the construction of the permanent roadways which were contemplated, he thought the bylaw authorizing its purchase might as well be submitted at the same cost, thus avoiding the expense of submitting two bylaws. This was the whole matter in a nutshell.

The council then went into session and the bylaw passed its second reading.

It will be submitted to a vote of the property holders on June 29th, the polling places being arranged as follows:

Ward 1—Eynes' butcher shop, Jos. Lundy, Returning Officer.

Ward 2—Council Chamber, Charles Cameron, Returning Officer.

Ward 3—Metherall's blacksmith shop, John Irwin, Returning Officer.

Ward 4—Wm. Lee's shop, Geo. Powell, Returning Officer.

The Mayor then called for the opinion of the council regarding the submitting of a bylaw to the ratepayers concerning the election of a council by a popular vote of the ratepayers and abolishing the ward system.

Councillor Dawson asked who wanted such a change?

Councillor Robertson surmised that the Board of Trade was at the bottom of it.

Councillor Best explained that three questions would be put

TO THE RATEPAYERS:

(1) Whether the council would remain as it was at present; (2) Whether it should be composed of two members for each ward, or (3) Whether a member should be elected for each 1000 inhabitants, and the ward system abolished.

Councillor Langford supported the popular vote system. He thought that a man might be thrown down by one ward for some action which, while it might operate against one ward, would yet tend to the benefit of the whole town. Any councillor who voted against submitting this bylaw to the people must be afraid of not being returned by the new system.

Councillor Best expressed the opinion that a council elected by the ratepayers as a whole would be the most independent.

Councillor Robertson stated that the scheme would result in the council being composed of a lot of dudes, who were afraid to run under the present system.

Councillor W. H. White advised letting the matter lay over until January next.

The Mayor was not particular about submitting the bylaw unless the council were almost unanimous on the question.

Councillor McWilliams differed with the Mayor on this point. He thought it was a matter in which the councillors should have no say. The decision ought to rest with the ratepayers.

The question was dropped at this point, and the matter of dealing with the caterpillars taken up. On motion of Councillors McWilliams and Denne, a committee to deal with the matter will be composed of Councillors Best, Allen, Cobb and Langford. They are authorized to take such action as they deem necessary to preserve the trees on the streets and in the parks. In the meantime the Mayor will consult the Town Solicitor to ascertain if there is a way of compelling the citizens to exterminate the caterpillars on their own premises, and a special meeting of the council will be held on Monday evening to pass a bylaw putting in operation the statute which will enforce the ratepayers to attend to the matter.

It is purposed that waggons patrol the streets containing barrels of the exterminating fluid, and that every tree on the town streets and in the parks be sprayed.

[NOTE.—The council will not be in a position to compel the property holders to spray their trees in an effort to exterminate the caterpillars. Town Solicitor Edwards was seen this morning and stated that there was no legislation which would enable the council to adopt such measures.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Thos. Gemmell, who recently underwent an operation at the Nicholls Hospital, is greatly improved.

Mr. A. D. Griffin, acting-Principal of the Woodstock Collegiate Institute, and Mr. Malcolm Cameron, a student, have been in town attending the funeral of the late Miss C. Fair, B.A., Modern Language teacher of that school, who was buried at Millbrook Friday.

The Lindsay Post says: Mr. "Monty" Montgomery, Peterborough, accompanied the Oratorio party to town last evening, and was warmly welcomed by many old friends. He is booked for a pleasant holiday at Sturgeon Point this summer.

Mr. W. C. McCrea, principal of the Peterborough Business College, has, owing to the close confinement and application during a very busy winter season of the college, which has been so liberally patronized, been compelled to leave town for a rest of six or eight weeks. His medical attendant advised such a rest as necessary. During Mr. McCrea's absence his classes in shorthand will be taken by Miss Detcher.

Rev. W. Leslie Armitage of All Saints' leaves on Monday evening for a month's holidays, which his earnest application to his ministerial and parochial duties well entitles him. His holidays will be spent in London, his former parish, and in Kincardine his former home. Rev. Mr. Armitage will take both services at All Saints to-morrow. On Sunday next he will take the sermon in All Saints and Memorial church, London, at the morning and evening services respectively.

WOMAN.

THE HEALTH OF A NATION DEPENDS ON THE HEALTH OF ITS WOMEN.

22 POUNDS GAINED.

I had been a sufferer like a great many other women with a disease peculiar to my sex. I tried every thing I could read or think about to help me, but was getting worse instead of better. My condition was terrible—I was losing flesh and color, and my friends were alarmed. I consulted a doctor of this town and he said I would never get better; that I would always be sickly and delicate, and that medicines were of little use to me. Hearing what Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills had done for others I determined to try them myself, and to-day I weigh one hundred and forty pounds, while before I weighed only one hundred and eighteen pounds, and I now have a constitution that is hard to beat. I have not suffered any pain in months, and earnestly hope that Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills will reach every woman suffering as I did. Sincerely yours.

McGILL WON THE CASE.

A Bank Manager the Hero of an Extraordinary Tale of Banking Life.

Whitby, Ont., May 28.—Three days' trial of the Western Bank v. McGill at the Spring Assizes, now in progress here, Mr. Justice Robertson presiding, resulted yesterday in the jury finding for the defence. The issue was the amount of a promissory note for $10,000, made by William McGill, then manager of the Western Bank's branch at Port Perry, and endorsed by three prominent business men of that town—Messrs. J. W. Curts, James Carnegie and William Ross. Mr. McGill's story was that seven years ago he was terrified by threats from Mr. T. H. McMillan, cashier of the bank, into giving a demand note of $9,200 to make up part of the loss the bank has sustained in carrying the account of Paxton, Tate & Co., foundrymen. McGill swore that McMillan threatened to have him arrested for criminal negligence, although he had never exceeded the cashier's instructions in extending that firm a line of credit. This strange state of affairs, freely characterized by court and counsel during the course of the trial as hypnotism, was continued until March a year ago, when McMillan, the cashier, coerced his manager, McGill, into securing the endorsation to a new note for $10,000 of the three responsible citizens named, who, with McGill, were defendants in this extraordinary case. McGill told his three friends that he wanted the note for a private deal, and only for a few weeks, possibly not to be used at all, and that he had ample security. When they found out their note had been turned over to the bank, and that it had gone into the maelstrom of the bankrupt foundry, they charged McGill with the deception, when he confessed to the almost incredible story of his years of terrorism by the cashier. For the first time McGill then learned his true position and was advised of his freedom from responsibility under the Banking Act from losses incurred while under the constant advice from the cashier. McGill had, while under this terrible influence, become personal security for upwards of $23,000 of the bank's losses at Port Perry.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

THE HEALTH OF THEIR DAUGHTERS SHOULD BE CAREFULLY WATCHED.

Young Girls Susceptible to Trouble That May Result in Decline—Pale Faces, Headaches and Fickle Appetite the Symptoms of Early Decay.

From the Sun, Orangeville, Ont.

Some months ago Maggie, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sweeney, of John street, of this town, began to fail both in health and spirits. Her face was almost as white as chalk, her appetite very fickle and her limbs began to swell. Notwithstanding her growing weakness she persisted in attending school until one day her teacher advised her to go home, and not to return until she felt better. At the same time the teacher, who knew the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in such cases, advised her to take them. The advice was followed, and Mrs. Sweeney told our reporter that almost from the outset there was an improvement in her daughter's condition. Her appetite became better, the colour returned to her face, and the severe headaches that had made her so miserable vanished, and she is now feeling better than she has done for many months.

It is quite evident that this young maiden was suffering from a lack of blood, as do so many young girls who are just at a critical point in life, and it is quite as apparent that there is no other remedy the equal of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in such cases. They enrich the blood, stimulate the nerves and build up the entire system, and mothers will act prudently if they insist upon their daughters taking an occasional box. We know from experience that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done great good in Orangeville and vicinity, and there is scarcely a day that our reporter does not come in contact with some one who has a good word to say for this wonderful medicine.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. Avoid imitations by insisting that every box you purchase is enclosed in a wrapping bearing the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

FAMOUS GUNMAKERS

THE THREE KRUPPS AND THEIR WONDERFUL WORKS AT ESSEN.

Twenty Thousand Men Are Employed Constantly in the Main Establishment—History of the Great Enterprise—Something About the City of Essen in Which It Is Situated.

The city of Essen, Germany, is located in the center of a hilly valley, which abounds in coal and iron ore, and the digging for both and the melting of the ore and casting of the metal into ingots and rolling it into bars have been the occupations of the inhabitants for centuries past. Friederick Krupp, the founder of the great works bearing his name, was born in 1787, and when crucible cast steel was first being introduced in England, and its importation from there into Germany had been made impossible through the edict of Napoleon, called "the continental sperre," F. Krupp began to produce crucible cast steel, first in small quantities for files, stamps, rolls for coins and shears, but only slowly could he convince and persuade German manufacturers to use his cast steel, and after a life full of disappointments and hardships, he died in 1826, after a long and severe illness, leaving his son Alfred little else than the old homestead, which still stands in the midst of the great works, and the secret of his invention.

Alfred Krupp's energy and enterprise soon conquered. His first success was to be able to furnish a cast steel of a varying degree of hardness, thereby increasing its adaptability for many new purposes. Next came the invention of the weldless car wheel tires, which were patented in 1853 in all countries, and furnished him capital for enlarging his plant. In 1865 he interested himself in coal mines, iron ore mines and furnaces, which should furnish the material for his own works, and in 1867 he began to reap the harvest from his experients inaugurated long since with steel cannons, and the great Franco-Prussian war of 1870-71 proved beyond doubt their superiority as against the old bronze cannons. Since then the success of these works and their growth have been phenomenal, and when Alfred Krupp closed the busy and successful and philanthropic work of his life in 1887 at Villa Huegel, his princely home on the side hills of the valley of the Ruhe, the city of Essen, in recognition of his great work, erected in his memory a beautiful monument on the most prominent square of the city, and deputations from many nations mourned at his grave.

Essen is a city of 96,000 inhabitants, and over 30,000 of this population are employed in the works of the able and energetic son of Alfred Krupp—Friedrich Alfred. Over 1,200 acres of ground are covered with buildings and machinery. Many coal mines furnish fuel for the works, over 400 iron ore mines furnish the metal, and large iron ore deposits in Spain, near Bilbao, have been purchased in addition, and a special fleet of steamers have been built which bring over 800,000 tons of this Spanish ore from Spain to the German coast and up the Rhine. Twenty furnaces at Duisburg and Neuwied-on-the-Rhine are reducing this ore for the Krupp works and are owned or controlled by them.

The main street of Essen divides the Krupp works into two parts, connected overhead with innumerable mammoth steam pipes and bridges, and parallel with it, running east and west, the tracks of the Rhenish railway pass the works in the north, while in the south the railroad leading from Dusseldorf to Bremen, Hamburg and Berlin skirts the mills. Innumerable tracks connect these two main lines of railroad, surrounding in an inextricable network the buildings and crossing the street leading to Muelheim below its level. Powerful locomotives bring train loads of raw material into the yards and leave the works with valuable products, finished and ready for shipment to all parts of the globe. Miniature engines and cars move about between the buildings on narrow gauge tracks, bringing material of smaller size from one building to another until it is finished and ready for the market.

Schopenhauer on Women.

Schopenhauer's mother, Joanna, was a singular woman, with whom he was perpetually at war. She was lively, he was grim. She was a sentimentalist, he detested sentiment. She was devoted to society, to gossip, to the convenances of life. He lived for ideas; and, with an almost savage moroseness, poured scorn on the round of "at homes" and aesthetic tea parties. Both were selfish and quarrelsome. We may judge, therefore, that Schopenhauer took his notions of women partly from his mother. It goes without saying that these notions were violent in the extreme, yet not without some aspect of truth.

The "new woman" would rave at this satire on her pretensions; and yet it would do her good to read what Schopenhauer has to say with as much calmness as she can command. Woman is here depicted as emphatically "a lesser man,"—indeed, so far below man as to be fit only for the role of the old-fashioned German Hausfrau.

A MOTORMAN'S VICTORY.

Over Diabetes. Gained by the Power of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto, May 23—In a large city like Toronto, there is always much sickness, kidney diseases largely predominating. The street railway employees, exposed as they are to all the inclemencies of the weather are particularly liable to kidney disease. But they all know how to conquer this enemy.

For instance: Mr. T. H. O'Reilly, 27 Niagara Street, motorman, No. 624, was for three years a great sufferer from Diabetes. Every remedy failed to help him, till he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him.

It is cases like this, where the patient and the cure are equally well known, that are the test of a remedy, and Dodd's Kidney Pills have always stood it successfully. They cure all kidney complaints.

HOW THEY WOULD SPEND IT.

Novel Experiment as to What Boys and Girls Would Do With $5.

A very interesting experiment with school children was recently made in Springfield, Mass., by Dr. George E. Dawson. He persuaded 1,307 of them, nearly equally divided as to sex, to write an answer to the query, "If you had $5, all your own, what would you do with it?" Nearly one-half of them (44 per cent) answered that they would deposit the money in a bank, 13.8 per cent would buy clothing, 9.2 per cent would buy something to eat, 15.3 per cent would buy toys and other means of amusement, 2.1 per cent would buy jewelry and finery, nine-tenths of 1 per cent would buy firearms, 1.7 per cent would spend it for travel, 14 per cent would spend it for others and 6 per cent would buy books, etc.

The disposition to save shown by so many of the children is attributed by Dr. Dawson largely to their susceptibility to suggestion. While the children do not realize the full significance of saving, the idea has been engrafted upon their minds and is bound to have its influence. In noting the percentage of those who would buy clothing it should be remembered, he says, that many of the children were in urgent need of something better to wear. Those who voted for something to eat were mostly under 7 years of age. In regard to travel, the figures show that as children grow older the desire to go out into the world increases rapidly, reaching its height at about the beginning of adolescence.

The desire shown by the boys for firearms is an expression of the hunting instinct that awakens when they are 10 or 12 years of age. At that age boys like to get hold of books of hunting and adventure. The tendency to buy books increases steadily as the children grow older. This class numbers about twice as many girls as boys. The class which manifests a feeling of altruism also numbers more girls than boys, showing that the greater generosity of women is strikingly manifest even at an early age.—New York Post.

A STRONG ARGUMENT.

Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, N. A. L., Toronto:

Dear Sir,—Please accept my thanks for your cheque just handed to me, for $3,901.82, in settlement of my $3,000 Fifteen Year Endowment Policy in your Company. Such a result as this, after the risk on my life has been carried for fifteen years, beginning from forty-five years of age, argues one thing strongly, namely, that the management of the North American Life must be in competent hands. The other options you have offered me, viz.: a Paid-up Life policy for $6510.00, or a Life Annuity for $401.90, are, I presume, equally liberal, and it affords me much pleasure to recommend your Company to my friends or any o ? desiring insurance.

A wreck at sea is not the only place where a life line is of importance.

There is a life line for the sick, as well as for the drowning man. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is not a cure-all, but it is a scientific medicine that goes to the fountain head of a number of serious and fatal diseases. When a man gets seriously sick, he can generally be cured by the right course of treatment. The treatment that cures many obstinate chronic diseases consists of pure air, good food, rational exercise, and the use of a remedy that will strengthen the weak stomach, correct the impaired digestion, invigorate the liver and promote the assimilation of the live-giving elements of the food. The "Golden Medical Discovery" accomplishes all these things.

"A young man lay pale and motionless upon (what neighbors called) his dying bed. Disease of the lungs, liver complaint, kidney trouble, and pleurisy were fast hastening him to the grave. The doctors had given him up to die. The neighbors said, 'he cannot live.' 'Oh, I would not care to die,' he said, 'were it not for leaving my dear wife and little child, but I know that I must die.' A brother had presented him with three bottles of medicine, but he had no faith in 'patent medicines'; but, after the doctors had given him up to die and he had banished every hope of recovery, he said to his wife, 'dear wife, I am going to die, there can be no harm now in taking that medicine. I will begin its use at once.' He did begin to use it and at first he grew worse, but soon there came a change. Slowly but surely he got better. To-day that man is strong and healthy and he owes his life to that medicine. What was the medicine? It was Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and I, Luther Martin, am the cured man. Dr. Pierce, I thank you from the very depth of my heart, for rescuing me from the grave." The foregoing is from Luther Martin, Esq., a prominent citizen of Lubec, Wood Co., W. Va.

WHEAT FUTURES.

A Decline at Chicago and Liverpool—The Export Demand Falls Off at Toronto—Quotations.

Thursday Evening, May 26.

Wheat was erratic at Chicago to-day. It opened strong, but declined sharply on the absence of buying orders and the failure of Liverpool and the Continent to respond to yesterday's American advance. July wheat early sold up to $1.14¾, then fell to $1.09⅝ and finally closed at $1.10, a decline of 2½c for the day. September sold up to 80c and closed at 80⅝c, 2⅝c below the previous final figure. The December option lost 1c, while the May put on 3c more per bushel and closed at $1.75.

Other American markets showed reactions, and at Toronto the cereal was weaker, with considerable Ontario red offering freely around $1.09 middle freights, and no takers.

At Liverpool July wheat gained 1d, but the September and December options declined ¼d and ½d per cental respectively. At Paris wheat closed 20 to 30 centimes lower for the day and 25 centimes lower at Antwerp.

At Paris flour to-day fell 30 centimes to 1 franc and 45 centimes.

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes, Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? IN DEATH. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

Market to-day was 45 car loads, composed of 1100 cattle, 225 sheep, 1400 hogs and 25 calves.

Trade in export cattle was dull, prices going still lower on account of advices received from English markets. Export cattle sold at $4 to $4.25 for the general run; two loads only of choice shippers reached $4.30.

The market for butcher cattle was firm, at Tuesday's quotations, although there was not a heavy trade done, many dealers holding off for Friday's market.

Prices for milk cows, Buffalo feeders and heavy feeders remain unchanged, with an active market for the two other classes.

Large deliveries of sheep and yearling lambs caused prices to go lower, ewes selling at $3.50 to $3.60, bucks at $2.75 to $3 and yearling lambs $5 to $5.50 per cwt. for unclipped sheep.

Trade in spring lambs and calves was active, lambs selling at $3.50 to $4.50 each and calves at $3 to $5 each for general run, with extra choice veals going at $6 to $7 each.

Deliveries of hogs were fair; prices unchanged. Choice selections sold at $4.90 to $5.10, but it must be remembered that only choice picked lots reached the latter price and only a few get it.

Trade in cattle was dull, as the drovers were asking higher prices for anything good, besides the milder weather is not favorable for keeping fresh meat. Mr. S. W. Reynolds of Bowmanville sold a pair of choice steers to Mr. Martel for $95, or about 4½c per lb.; several other prime beeves were sold at from 4½c to 4⅝c do.; pretty good animals sold at from 3¾c to 4¼c, and the common stock at from 2½c to 3½c per lb. Large bulls sold at from 3½c to 3¾c per lb. Calves were rather lower in price, pretty good lots selling at from $2.50 to $3.25 each, and a few choice ones at from $4 to $5 each. Sheep sold at from 3½c to nearly 4c per lb. Shippers 3½c per lb. for good large sheep. Fat hogs sell at about 5c per lb; store hogs sell at about $7 each, and the small pigs at from $1.50 to $2 each.

East Buffalo, May 24.—Cattle—There were no fresh cattle on offer here to-day and the market was easy for the few on offer. Veals run in fair supply; steady and firm.

A RELIABLE OFFER.

Honest Help Free to Men.

The (Peterborough Examiner) is authorized to state by Mr. D. Graham, Box 133, Hagersville, Ont., that any man who is nervous and debilitated or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from overwork, excesses or abuse, such as nervous debility, exhausted vitality, lost vigor, unnatural drains and losses, lack of development, etc., can write to him in strict confidence and receive free of charge full instructions how to be thoroughly cured.

Mr. Graham himself was for a long time a sufferer from above troubles and after trying in vain many advertised remedies, electric belts, etc., became almost entirely discouraged and hopeless. Finally he confided in an old clergyman, whose kind and honest advice enabled him to speedily obtain a perfect and permanent cure. Knowing to his own sorrow, that so many poor sufferers are being imposed upon by unscrupulous quacks, Mr. Graham considers it his duty as an honest man and a firm believer in Christian sympathy and kindness, to give his fellow-men the benefit of his experience and assist them to a cure. Having nothing to sell, he asks for no money, the proud satisfaction of having done a great service to one in need, he rightly considers an ample reward for his trouble. If you write to Mr. Gradam you can rely upon being cured and upon absolute secrecy as well.

Address as above, enclosing a stamp, and refer to the (PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER). No attention, however, will be given to those writing out of mere curiosity, therefore state that you really need a cure.

THE UMBRELLA ON THE SEA.

Never Raised Aboard Ship, but Used When the Ship Is In Port.

No man before the mast ever carries an umbrella as a part of his outfit, but the officers of deep water ships usually do carry them. The umbrella thus carried is never raised aboard ship; but, arrived in port, it may be brought into use at once. The captain of a ship anchored in harbor in a tropical region and going ashore in an open boat, perhaps without an awning, to be carried for a considerable distance exposed to the sun, would be very likely to carry his umbrella along and to raise it for his comfort and protection. In such a port an officer of a ship whose duties called him along the shore would be very likely to carry his umbrella.

Umbrellas would not be likely to be carried for protection from the sun in such a place as New York, but even here one might meet a sea captain, a stalwart, bronzed man, who looked as though he had been exposed to the sun and the wind all his life and as though he could stand any exposure, as very probably he could, carrying a yellow sun umbrella. It may be that he carries the umbrella for his greater comfort here or that he is a captain who spends the greater part of his time, or a large part of it, in tropical waters, and that he carries his umbrella ashore here because he is accustomed to carrying it.

The umbrella that the officer of a ship carries most commonly is silk, just such as would be carried ashore, and which would be suitable for protection either from the sun or the rain. He might need this umbrella in any port he visited for the purposes of a rain umbrella. If his ship were tied up here, for instance, to a wharf in South street, and he should come ashore and go up town on a rainy day, he would not appear in Broadway in sea togs. His apparel would be just like that of the men he met, and he would be quite as likely as they to carry an umbrella, which he would do on going ashore under like circumstances in any port round the world.—New York Sun.

FRENCH EXPRESS TRAINS.

Their Speed Not Great, but They Have One Record Breaking Run.

Express trains in France do not, as a rule, attain such speed as is common in England or the United States, but French engineers are beginning to claim that they are in the race, if not winners.

The distance from Paris to Amiens is 131 kilometers, and the Mediterranean-Calais does the distance in 1 hour 25 minutes. The French claim that this and the Empire State express are the two fastest regular trains in the world.

They have evidently not heard of the Atlantic City express, which runs daily from Camden in summer at the actual rate after crossing the ferry of better than a mile a minute—58 miles in 52 minutes. This is probably the fastest regular run in the world. The regular run of the Empire State express, New York to Buffalo, averages 53.98 miles an hour, but it is a much longer distance, with steeper grades.

A kilometer is 0.62137 of a mile. The distance traversed by the French train in 1 hour 25 minutes is, therefore, only 81.40 miles, which is covered at the rate of 57.41 miles an hour—faster than the Empire State express makes for a much greater distance, but far slower than the famous Atlantic City run.

Very few French expresses pass 80 kilometers (49.70 miles) an hour, and the longest run without a stop is 186 kilometers, from Courtelain-Thouars, in the summer only. The average speed of the finest French expresses is 49.88.

The great English regular run, over the Great Western, is done at a speed of 52.6 miles an hour for 3 hours 45 minutes actual running time. So that the French have some right to "crow over" neighbors nearer than we are.—New York World.

Animal Paradises.

The animals which are lucky enough to live in Holland are fortunate creatures. Cows and pigs dot the landscape in every direction and roam with the sheep and horses in the pastures bordered by the canals, which they cannot cross. In Switzerland, on the other hand, the cattle are kept shut up most of the time in dark, stifling little stables because there are no fences, and otherwise the animals would stray.

The happiest dogs live in The Hague, for muzzles are not compelled and every one seems to take his dog along when he goes for an airing. A touching story connected with the history of William the Silent, prince of Orange, may have had an influence in disposing the Dutch people to a general regard and love for dogs. On the monument of this prince in a church at Delft is an inscription referring to a favorite dog of his. On one occasion when he was in great danger from Spanish assassins, who were about to enter the tent where he lay asleep, the dog jumped on his bed and by barking loudly awoke him in time to make his escape. Afterward when he was assassinated the same dog is said to have pined away and died of grief. The fine statue of William at The Hague also has the dog at his feet, looking affectionately up to the face of his master. —Chicago News.

A Clever Advertiser.

The Kansas City Journal says: "A flour merchant at Edgar let the story get out that while he was stooping over his flour bin a $150 diamond ring had slipped off his finger into the flour. He appeared to be greatly exercised over the loss, got a notice in the local paper, but finally announced with a sigh that he would have to give it up; that the ring was in the flour somewhere; that he supposed it would turn up in a sack of flour, but he had no idea what one. Well, you ought to have seen the boom that guileless man had in the flour trade. For the next week he had to hire extra help to fill sacks out of that bin. One man who never bought a sack from him before came in and laid in a winter's supply. And the smooth merchant whistled softly as he filled the sacks and winked his other eye."

Rheumatism & Dyspepsia Cured

571 ST. PATRICK STREET,
OTTAWA, July 31st, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Company, Ltd., Ottawa, Ont.

GENTLEMEN,—On the advice of a friend I tried one bottle of your famous rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline, and to my surprise it cured me of rheumatism, from which I have suffered for many years.

It also cured me of dyspepsia, from which I was suffering at the time, so that I feel now like a new man.

I have tried several remedies for rheumatism, some of which did me a certain amount of good, but nothing that I have taken has done so much for me as your Phrenoline, and I have much pleasure in recommending it to other sufferers.

Yours very truly,

CANADA LIFE
Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,093 05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3 066, for the sum of $6,185,996, of which, however, 266 for $521,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $373,369 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5 291,636, under 2 609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $798,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,168 45, and Endowment policies for $128,846 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $218,481.29 for profits, $145 411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,907.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,953,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1 272,486 05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,678.915.67.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company. I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, the prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Merritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

MR. WILL H. CROWE WRITES SOME INTERESTING FACTS.

Business is Entirely Overdone and the Professions are Overcrowded—The Gold Mining Industry is Dead and the Country is Suffering.

Appended will be found a most interesting letter written by Mr. W. H. Crowe, of Johannesburg, formerly of Peterborough, to the EXAMINER. The letter was written on Christmas day, but though delayed on the way, it is well worth perusal :

JOHANNESBURG, Xmas, 1897.

To the Editor of The Examiner :

DEAR SIR,—This being a day generally observed as a day of joy throughout the land of Christendom, one would naturally think that a city like Johannesburg, composed of people from all nations, would indeed enjoy themselves, but such is very far from the mark. I believe you could not find a more depressed people on the face of the earth than there is at present here. We are now passing through a crisis such as this country never before experienced, and how long it is to continue nobody knows, although some venture to say that business will pick up after the beginning of the new year. I have my doubts about it, and I candidly think that we will see worse times yet than what we are experiencing at present. Why, everything is nearly at a standstill and there will be no change for the better until the gold mining industry is relieved of some of its heavy burdens in the way of taxes and concessions. You will understand that this is not an agricultural producing state, nor either is it a manufacturing and exporting state, but is, on the contrary an importing state, and the only export we have is "gold." Therefore it is the bone and sinew of this country, and when that is in a sense being strangled or being slowly tortured or put to death, then we have to suffer or get out of the country. Now it is my opinion that as long as "Oom Paul" (the President of State) is at the head of affairs times will not mend, and what is needed is a more enlighted and progressive parliament. There is, it is true, a few enlightened members of parliament, but they are so few that their voices do not take any effect. The presidental election is now on and one of those progressive members of parliament has been chosen to represent the mining industry in contesting for the seat of President of the State. He has two opponents, in the persons of "Oom Paul" and General Joubert, and it is my opinion that "Oom Paul" will again be elected by a large majority, and he may then grant a few reforms, and he may not. If not trade will see a lower ebb than what it is at to-day. You will understand when I tell you that everything that is manufactured in the Transvaal is consumed by the people of the Transvaal, and we export nothing but gold. Now, I often say that every business in Johannesburg is overdone, and I will give you my reason for it. For instance take our line of business. We manufacture builders supplies, such as doors, sash, blinds, mouldings and office fittings. There is at present in this city, with a population of a greatly reduced number from the time of the census last year, which gave the city a population of and I doubt very much if we have any more than half that number to-day, 13 factories like ours, and when I tell you that one factory would not be busy if all the others closed I would not be exaggerating one iota. Now take other trades and you will find the same holds good. Take the professional line of business. Drug stores for instance, how many do you think would be the number that would suffice for a population of 100,000? and you will say about 50 drug stores would be enough, but when I tell you that we have 113 drug stores you will think I am about right in saying that this profession is overdone. Now it is difficult to see what special circumstances exist here to justify this really remarkable difference. We find that this condition does not apply to drug stores alone, for in the medical profession a like state of affairs exists. In America about every 800 people require their own doctor, and according to the general rule we would expect here about 50 doctors, but when I tell you we have over 150 of them (of course some of them with rather mysterious qualifications it is true) but nevertheless practicing, are calculated to cause some astonishment.

Now we will take the legal profession, and we find matters about the same, but it is probable that Johannesburg does require more legal professional assistance than a more settled community. It would be tedious to go through the whole list of trades and professions, but it is a fact that the same rule applies everywhere in the city. For another instance, it is somewhat difficult to realize that Johannesburg can support 310 tailor shops, but such is the number at present endeavouring to do business. Again we find this city well supplied with restaurants and eating houses and refreshment stands or stores, numbering as they do considerably over 800, surely a very liberal allowance. But we find the most remarkable example in the liquor trade, and here I may be justified in making an actual comparison with the city of London, Eng. Of late a great deal has been written and said concerning the alarming drink bill of the great city, and I notice by some English papers recent statistics certainly calculated to cause the uninitiated to open their eyes somewhat widely London's daily beer barrel holds 485,000 gals. and is 76 feet high and 36 feet in diameter. The daily consumption of wine alone would take a decanter holding 5 500 gallons, while the other odd drinks for one day would take a demijohn 20 feet high by 13 feet in diameter, and containing 16,000 gallons. Yet alarming as the figures may seem, Johannesburg in comparison is well able to compete with them, for while London spends its $280 000 per day, or in round numbers $95,000,000 per annum on its drink, Johannesburg spends its $13,000 a day, or roughly speaking $4,750,000 per annum in what it consumes in intoxicating liquors. Thus it will be noticed when comparing the two places, London and Johannesburg, that proportionately to population Johannesburg spends 5 times as much as London does. It must be clearly understood that the figures given do not include what liquor is sold in the smuggling trade or that consumed by private persons from their own cellars. It is considered a remarkable fact that the licensed houses for selling intoxicating drinks in London would, if put in a row, reach 130 miles. This is certainly of a very tall order, but when we learn that those of Johannesburg would reach, at the very least, 7 miles there is still more cause for astonishment. However big the liquor business in this place is, we find in this trade also that there are quite enough people engaged in it to meet all requirements. London has just about and we might therefore in a comparison expect to find about 150 here, but instead of that number a few months ago we had a little over 600 of them, so there can be little doubt that competition is as keen in the liquor trade as in any other, notwithstanding the fact that Johannesburg spends nearly six times as much as the Londoner does on his alcoholic refreshment. Of course this is accounted for in a great degree by the enormous difference in the price of drink.

It may hurt the pride of a few of us to learn that in regard to churches, schools and newspapers we are greatly overcome in our boasting of having more of everything than other cities of same size, but when we look at our places of learning we are out of it (as the saying is.) Now in England it is supposed that 10.000 people can support a daily paper, and in the land of the Stars and Stripes the average is one daily paper to every 3,000 persons, but here in Johannesburg, with at least 75,000 of a population, we have only three daily papers, and as for churches, a person to find one has to hunt around a little, and possibly be surprised if he finds one little building used as a school and a church. The figures and information here are as true as possible, and may be considered reliable. It is not in a pessimistic spirit that the remarks upon them have been made but with the intention of conveying to those who think of coming here, the condition of trade in this country and in Johannesburg especially. There is little doubt that unless the mining industry secure the reforms asked for, worse times are in store, and if business does not revive, the theory of the survival of the fittest will be put to a practical test. It is hoped that during the coming year the clouds of depression will pass away from Johnnesburg, and the sun of prosperity again shine on the place, enabling all to live and live well.

I may say I have never seen so much destitution in any one place as I have seen here. You will meet all classes, from the bank clerk to the labourer, asking you for help. They have a very plausible story to relate, but we soon get hardened to these stories and turn a deaf ear to them. Out of every hundred that solicit probably seventy-five of them need it, who have seen better days. The other twenty-five, when they get assistance, make for the first barroom and spend it in drink. I have watched them several times, and no doubt others have done the same. Consequently those in need have to suffer for those who crave assistance and do not need it. There is one thing in their favour here. They can always sleep out in the fields or in the parks, as it is never too cold for them.

I often think how nice it will be to get into a snowdrift again. It does not seem like Xmas times here at all. Here I am with my room windows open and in my shirt sleeves, roasting with the great heat of the sun writing this letter and you people at home enjoying real Christmas weather. How I envy you! However, I hope to enjoy a few winters in old Peterborough yet. Well, I cannot think of any more to write that would interest you, so I will draw my letter to a close. Hoping I have not taken up too much space in your valuable paper, I remain as ever,

RAILWAY NOTES.

Sparks From the Wheels—Cinders for the Eye.

On Tuesday of last week the C.P.R. broke the Ontario Division freight record by moving 15,000 tons of freight from the yards in one day. There were about fifteen trains, each carrying 1,000 tons, and drawn by one of the new Richmond consolidated compound locomotives. The new engines, although great freight carriers, have been found a little to slow for the O. & Q. division, and will be transferred to the Rocky Mountain division, where their immense strength will be utilized on the heavy grades. Their places will be taken by fifteen new Richmond engines ordered last week. The engines now under construction will be of exactly the same type of those now on this division, but will be equipped with five-foot driving wheels, which will materially increase the speed.

TWO WARSHIPS SUNK

Both Belonged to the United States Navy in Cuban Waters.

ONE SPANISH SHIP DISABLED.

The Report of These Results From Sampson's Alleged Naval Battle With Cervera Regarded as Fishy—Madrid and London Say Possible But Improbable—U. S. Says Positively Untrue.

Madrid, May 30.—El Progresso publishes despatches purporting to come from Paris, giving details of an alleged battle near Jamaica, in which, it is said, two American warships were destroyed and one Spanish warship injured. Although the account is very circumstantial as to time, place, incidents and results, it is received here with suspicion.

The story is that Commodore Schley's squadron parted from Rear-Admiral Sampson's off Cape Mayal, the eastern point of Cuba, and steered toward the Yucatan Passage, followed closely by Sampson's ships. Both were sighted from the watch towers of Santiago de Cuba. Rear-Admiral Sampson arrived off the Province of Puerto Principe. Continuing thence in the direction of Jamaica, Admiral Cervera left Santiago, Thursday, May 26, at midnight, all his lights being extinguished, with the Vizcaya and Almirante Oquendo, preceded by the torpedo boat destroyer Furor. He took up a position in proximity to Jamaica. Two hours later the remainder of Admiral Cervera's squadron withdrew from the harbor of Santiago and proceeded in a southerly direction.

A Hurried Alarm.

On the morning of Friday the Furor came up rapidly to the Vizcaya and the Almirante Oquendo, advising Admiral Cervera of the approach of the enemy. Rear-Admiral Sampson's fleet steamed at full speed toward the Spanish vessels, which accepted combat, but moved in a southerly direction, to effect a juncture with the remainder of the Spanish squadron. Presently the battle raged furiously on both sides. The Americans detached three cruisers and three smaller ships to surround the Vizcaya and the Almirante Oquendo. The Furor, between the cross-fire of the enemy, made for the American flagship, notwithstanding the fire of the heavy ships.

The outcome of the contest was that two American warships were sunk and one Spanish warship disabled in its steering gear.

The remaining vessels of the American squadron were so much damaged that they were compelled to take refuge in Haytian waters. It is reported that the Cristobal Colon captured one American ship, which had been disabled from a shot by the Viscaya perforating her side.

The Viscaya risked destruction from an American destroyer. It is believed that after the combat the Spaniards sailed for Havana, or, if the conditions of the vessels or the presence of a superior force of the enemy required, took refuge at Cardenas or Matanzas.

The Story Is Fishy.

London, May 30.—The circumstances in which El Pregresso's remarkable story appear seem to discredit it. Apparently the Paris correspondent of that paper is the sole possessor of the information he pretends to have. The most reliable Paris news agencies have received nothing on the subject. Possibly the story has been given a Paris date in Madrid for some undiscernible reason, though if it emanates from official sources, it is inconceivable that the Government should be unwilling to give out favorable news on its own responsibility.

Washington Don't Believe It.

Washington, May 30.—Officials of the Navy Department not only utterly discredit the reported naval engagement near Jamaica on Friday, but declare with the utmost positiveness that it did not occur. Advices from Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley clearly indicate that the statements contained in the Madrid story are without the slightest foundation in fact.

Word From Schley.

Washington, D.C., May 30.—The Navy Department has just received, at 12.30 o'clock this morning, a despatch from Commodore Schley, stating that the Spanish fleet is in the Bay of Santiago de Cuba and that he has seen and recognized the vessels.

Cervera Is Imprisoned.

Key West, Fla., May 30.—Admiral Cervera is imprisoned at Santiago de Cuba. Advices to this effect were brought here Saturday afternoon by an auxiliary gunboat which arrived from Cienfuegos, presumably with dispatches for Washington.

SITUATION AT PORTO RICO.

Business Is Dead and the People Are in Terror, Fearing Hostilities.

St. Thomas, Danish West Indies, May 30.—The days following the bombardment of Porto Rico's capital by Admiral Sampson's fleet have been trying indeed for the inhabitants of the Spanish Island. Business is dead, there is no movement of vessels, and San Juan and all coast towns await with fear and trepidation a recommencement of hostilities.

Many people left the capital several weeks ago, and of those who still remain all are leaving who can possibly do so. There are many whose business required their daily presence in San Juan. Many of these have moved their families to improvised camps in the country where they will be out of range of American guns, but still near enough for the men to come daily to San Juan.

San Juan papers are agitating the immediate erection of relief houses near San Juan where the poor and homeless men and women of the city can be sheltered out of harm's way in case of another bombardment.

The utmost military and naval vigilance pertains throughout the island. Anxious eyes look seaward by day and by night seeking the enemy's vessels, as well as the long-expected Spanish fleet. The story that Admiral Sampson's fleet approached San Juan on the twelfth, showing the Spanish flag, and that crowds of enthusiastic Porto Ricans crowded the city to cheer the fleet from the mother country is believed in the island, and the coast patrol fear a repetition of the same trick. But the Porto Ricans are thoroughly familiar with one American ship, and that is the Yale. This big liner has been doing patrol duty around Porto Rico for some weeks, sometimes coming close in shore. Whenever she is sighted the troops are ordered out, guns are trained, the red cross prepares for emergencies, and this vigilance and preparations are maintained until the Yale disappears.

There is much smallpox here, as well as on other parts of the island, and if nothing is done to remedy the situation the misery and suffering will soon be beyond words.

During the days immediately following the bombardment food prices advanced greatly in San Juan.

If there are no immediate warlike steps taken against Porto Rico, the prevailing perturbation will probably soon cease, and confidence will be partially restored. But Porto Rico is always threatened with disorders arising among the people themselves, and the growing scarcity of food, if the blockade is maintained, will only add to this danger.

HAVE DESERTED SANTIAGO.

United States Vessels Reported to Have Abandoned Cervera.

Madrid, May 30.—It was announced here yesterday, in a despatch from Havana, that the warships of the United States navy which have been blockading Santiago de Cuba have disappeared off that port. Their destination is unknown to Spanish authorities.

Advices received here yesterday from Havana say that a big sailing ship from Barcelona, having on board a cargo of provisions and arms, arrived Saturday at Neuvitas, the northern port of the city of Porto Principe, capital of the Cuban province of that name, after running the blockade.

Spaniards Off Jamaica.

Kingston, Jamaica, May 30.—A despatch from Port Antonio says the lookout on H.M.S. Indefatigable, which is in that port, reported seeing three vessels, which he thought were Spanish ships, several miles off the coast, steaming in a westerly direction. This announcement has caused Americans here to feel concerned for the safety of the United States gunboat Eagle, now in port.

The Adula at Kingston.

Kingston, May 30.—The British steamer Adula arrived from Cienfuegos Saturday morning with 85 refugees, including several prominent and wealthy persons.

The Terror Evaded U. S. Ships.

Madrid, May 30.—It is announced that the Spanish torpedo destroyer Terror has arrived at San Juan de Porto Rico, having evaded the American warships which were watching her.

ANOTHER MASSACRE.

Rev. Mr. McGrew and His Wife Victims of Sierra Leone Savages.

London, May 30.—The Governor of Sierra Leone cables the Colonial Office here that the Rev. and Mrs. McGrew, the American missionaries, were massacred about May 8 at Talama, near the scene of the other massacres. The Governor's information comes from Col. Woodgate, the commander of a British West African force which has just captured Talama, with the loss of three men killed and five wounded.

An English Dozen.

I was in a well known lampshop with a friend the other day. He was seeking some of those stubby candles of generous diameter which are used as night lights in sickrooms. The price was 50 cents a box. "A dozen in a box?" he asked. "No, 11." "But why not a dozen?" "Box isn't big enough," said the shopkeeper. "But why don't they make the box big enough?" asked my friend. "Because they're English." That was all.—Time and the Hour.

AUSTRIA'S TURN NOW

If Not Explained Satisfactorily Result May Be Serious.

WORLD-WIDE BATTLE MAY RAGE

Spanish Spies Are Said to Have Had Efficient Aid and Information From Austria's Minister at Washington—A Situation Full of Interest and Danger—The Possible Outcome.

Washington, May 30.—The rumor is current here that diplomatic relations with Austria have become strained and that the Austrian Minister will be given his passports unless he is recalled. Correspondents of the larger papers have sent out stories to the effect that the Austrian Minister has been aiding the Government of Spain by gathering information of a most important nature and forwarding it by message to the Canadian headquarters of the Spanish spy system.

Denials of the accuracy of the rumor have been made by high officials, yet there seems to be no readiness on the part of anyone to believe the denials in preference to the original rumor. The topic is the chief one in the corridors of the hotels, almost to the exclusion of the speculation as to the whereabouts of the Spanish fleet under Cervera.

Operating Spy System.

Chicago, May 30.—The following despatch is sent from Washington under the signature of Charles H. Peele, former managing editor of the Chicago Journal:

Diplomatic relations between the United States and Austria may be severed within a few days. There is even a possibility that war will be declared against Emperor Francis Joseph and the country over which he rules.

It is almost certain that when all the facts are known President McKinley will give Ladislaus Hengelmuller von Hengevar, the Austrian Minister to Washington, his passports and order him to leave the United States. Direct information is ready for the State Department to the effect that the Austrian Minister is operating a spy system in the interests of Spain. Proof that the Austrian Legation is the headquarters of a number of Spanish sympathizers who are engaged in accumulating information for Spain, and that they are working under the management of the Austrian Minister, is obtainable. This not only means that Hengelmuller has rendered himself persona non grata to the United States, but that the despicable work he is engaged in is countenanced and encouraged by his Government. There can be but one result. The United States will be compelled to take cognizance of the facts when presented and withdraw Hengelmuller's exequatur.

Tower May Be Recalled.

At the same time our Minister to Vienna, Charlemagne Tower, will be recalled. A wider breach will follow unless Austria makes a satisfactory explanation and completely disavows connection with Hengelmuller's machinations in the interests of the throne of Spain and against a friendly nation.

The matter is so serious that the gravest apprehensions are entertained as to what the eventualities will be. Austria's embroilment with the United States might precipitate a war of such magnitude that no nation on the face of the earth would escape participation.

Hengelmuller did not learn until yesterday that his conduct would be known to the State Department, and that publicity had been given his pernicious activity in behalf of Spain. He at once sent every influence he possessed at work to prevent the publication of the details of the story.

Hengelmuller Frantic.

Being told that the story was beyond control, he became frantic and openly denied the specific complaint that may be made against him by the United States. He expects complaints for his Government, and is understood to have cabled Vienna a full account of the business.

He may be withdrawn before Secretary Day gets a chance to act, as was De Lome, and it is probable that the Austrian Government is already prepared to deal with the question when it comes up in an official way.

TWO OTTAWA BOYS DROWNED.

Edgar Eggleson Found Dead in a Swimming Bath.

Ottawa, May 30.—Edgar Eggleson, 19 years old, was drowned in the Young Men's Christian Association swimming bath Saturday afternoon. He was seen passing into the baths about 5 o'clock. He was alone, and about half an hour afterwards, when someone went in to have a bath, he was found with his bathing suit on in the water dead. Just how it happened is not known, but it is likely that he took a fit in the water. Heart disease might be the cause of death. Young Eggleson is a brother of John Eggleson, who was at one time president of the Y.M.C.A., and was attending the Collegiate. He was going to write on his matriculation examinations next month.

A lad named Hogan, about 12 years of age, fell into the Ottawa River and was drowned the same afternoon.

OAKES SENT TO TRIAL.

The Rawhiding Case at Clinton Will Be Further Tried.

Clinton, Ont., May 30.—George Oakes, who assaulted Isaac Jones on the public street a week ago, whipping him severely with a rawhide, was examined before Mayor Holmes and Justice of the Peace McGarva on a charge of grievous assault, with intent to do bodily harm, and committed for trial at Goderich, bail in $650 being accepted. Both parties are well-known and highly connected residents of Goderich Township, and the assault was the result of a long-standing family feud, in which several relatives are mixed up.

GLADSTONE'S RESTING PLACE.

On Saturday Gladstone's dust was laid amongst that of England's greatest, himself the greatest of them all in the precincts of Westminster Abbey. For nearly half a score of centuries Britain's great dead have been laid in Britain's "Cave of Machphelah." Siebert's chapel, in which his bones were laid, was the beginning of the great abbey. Many of Britain's sovereigns, statesmen, warriors, heroes, men of letters, philosophers, poets and ecclesiastics have hallowed the place with their remains. Among those who have have had a place in this mortuary shrine are Edward the Confessor, the great Queen Elizabeth, Mary, her sister, Mary Queen of Scots, Pitt, Fox, Wilberforce, Canning, Peel, Palmerston, Chaucer, Spencer, Ben Johnson, Dryden, Milton, and even private citizens like Geo. Stephenson and David Livingstone, the missionary who have all found their last resting place in Westminster Abbey. The bones of the tender and graceful Tennyson, one of Gladstone's college associates, and his close friend of maturer years, have a place in the great Abbey. It is therefore most meet that Gladstone should find a resting place there, for their is no more worthy, by virtue of grand intellectual gifts, of grand intellectual services, singleness of devoted purpose to the good of his country, and of magnificent solicitude and services for the oppressed of all lands, than William Ewart Gladstone.

THE UNITED STATES AND SPAIN.

It is questionable whether or not the United States has been tactically wise in the management of its war problem with Spain. Without questioning the wisdom of her interference with Spain's relations to Cuba, it seems that the difficulties and hostilities which such interference aroused have been complicated by bringing Spain's possessions in the east within the sphere of international controversy that is sure to arise over the conditions of peace, when the war is over. In case the United States is successful, and of this in the long run, at least, there does not seem to be much doubt, there will remain both Cuba and the Philippines as bones of contention, whereas, if the latter had been left alone the Cuban question alone would have been in contention. The United States says it does not want Cuba, and if Spain is evicted, that island may be able in a certain way to govern itself; and if it should be necessary for the United States to take possession of the island in the interests of stable government, there would not he the extent of hostility aroused on the part of the European powers that would result in an attempt by the United States to hold the Philippines in case they should gain possession of them. For reasons of situation in the western world and of juxtaposition to the United States, European opposition to the retention of Cuba would not be so pronounced, though it might complicate the problem of peaceful possession. But an attempt on the part of the United States to grab a rich possession in eastern waters, which carries on a trade of between sixteen and eighteen millions with European powers, would be met with more than moral remonstrance by the jealous nations which even now exhibit a decided, if covert, hostility to the United States. By making a raid on the Philippines the United States has two white elephants on its hands, besides, it has imperilled its chances of speedy success by serious division of its forces and dispersion of its energies. The force of comparatively seasoned troops that are now on their way to the Eastern islands could have been used to effect an invasion of Cuba, which must be postponed till the raw levies that are now slowly being trained and equipped are in a condition of approximate fitness to warrant agressive operations upon Cuban soil. The war, eventless and so far farcial, as it has been, has taught the United States the lesson that it needed, when a year or two ago their eagle screamed defiance to Great Britain over the Venezuelan question. If at that time Great Britain had accepted the challenge which she was great enough to ignore without loss of prestige, the reproof of the folly of vainglorious boasts of ability to "lick creation" would have been of a much more practical and convincing character than Spain, even in her condition of national emasculation, is giving with no inconsiderable emphasis.

THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

The commerce of the Philippines has become quite an interesting topic since Dewey's victory at Manilla. Last year, according to the Advertiser, the trade of the Islands, was distributed as follows:

	Imports.	Exports.
Great Britain	$3,467,090	$7,467,500
Germany	744,928	223,700
France	1,794,900	1,967,900
Belgium	272,340	45,660
United States	162,446	4,962,867
China	109,680	13,770
Japan	98,783	1,387,909

Great Britain, it will be seen, has the bulk of the business with the islands. If they fall into other hands than those of Spain, which seems now to be the conclusion, will the British maintain their prestige in the Islands? That is a live question. But it is overshadowed by the further question of whether or not the United States will remain masters of the islands, or sell them to the highest bidder. Then the question would arise would there not be a row over the delivery of the goods?

THE BRITISH NAVY.

Lord Brassey Gives Some Comparative Figures and Speaks of an Anglo-American Alliance.

The twelfth issue of Brassey's Naval Annual is now published, and as usual, contains a mass of valuable information.

Lord Brassey, the founder of the annual, contributes an instructive article on the position of the British navy in 1898. This acknowledged navy authority shows that the position of Great Britain compared with that of France and Russia is not unsatisfactory. A carefully prepared tabular statement gives Britain sixty-five battleships built or building, as against thirty-six to the credit of the French and twenty-two to the credit of Russia; while in the matter of cruisers the preponderence is still more apparent, the figures for the respective countries being—Great Britain, 136; France, 49, and Russia 14. The imposing naval display at the Spithead review last year is duly noticed, Lord Brassey describing it as a truly magnificent record of the work recently accomplished in the reinforcement of the fleet. His Lordship concludes his article with a plea for a league of the English speaking peoples. "If in the process of time," he says, we can bring about a close union between ourselves and the United States, if we can establish a perpetual league of all English speaking peoples for settling differences by arbitration, nay more, for mutual defence, if threatened by external foes, our latent resources will be too overwhelming to be challenged or contested. Let us cherish the hope that a consummation so happy will some day be reached by the sagacity of statesmen and the growing wisdom and goodwill of kindred people."

CANADA'S TRADE DEVELOPMENT.

The report of the Canadian High Commissioner at London, just to hand, makes valuable reading for business men. It shows the remarkable development of our trade with the motherland in recent years. In 1895 our exports thither were £12,798,409, in 1806 they wera £16,047,263, and last year £18,730,332, and this figure does not include any Canadian produce sent via United States ports. The commissioner draws attention to various desirable improvements either in the quality, packing or handling of produce. Canadian wood pulp is not of uniform quality, for example, and therefore cannot compete successfuly with Scandinavia. Our soft leathers are not "smart" enough and too full of oil. Canadian bacon and hams are in high favour in England, and this is probably due to the fact that most of it has been pea-fed, in contradistinction to the corn-fed pork of the United States. With regard to cattle, all hope is now abandoned of securing the old privilege of landing and fattening live cattle. The excuse of pleuro-pneumonia was never more thau an excuse to conceal the protective spirit in the embargo. The commissioner claims that protection has failed to protect, the competition of Canadian beef under present conditions being even more keenly felt than when the cattle were slaughtered only as the requirements of trade demanded. Canadian cheese last year formed three-fifths of the total supply to Great Britain. It is complained that it is too lightly boxed, and often damaged in consequence. It is also suggested that in addition to the present branding, the month of manufacture be branded also on the cheese. The trade in Canadian horses is large and satisfactory, particularly in omnibus and van horses.

MOTORMAN O'REILLY CASE.

He was Cured of Diabetes by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Everything Else Failed.

Toronto, May 30—(By telegraph) With reference to his experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills, and Diabetes, Mr. T. H. O'Reilly, Toronto Street Railway motorman No. 624, writes corroborating the report of his cures.

Mr. O'Reilly says: "For three years I suffered horribly, in spite of all the medicines I tried. Not one of them gave the least relief. I endured the torture of scalding pains while urinating, and all the other agonies of Diabetes.

"Finally I was induced to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. The first dose did me good and I got better and better with each succeeding dose. Three boxes worked a thorough and complete cure."

GREAT BRITAIN'S GREATEST DEAD

Public Funeral of the Right Hon. William Ewart Gladstone.

GRAND OLD ABBEY THRONGED.

Royalty and the Nobility Present, While Hundreds of Thousands of the People He Served and Loved so Well Looked on With Deep Reverence—An Impressive Scene.

London, May 30.—In Westminster Abbey, in the northern transept, where England's greatest dead rest, the body of the late William Ewart Gladstone was entombed on Saturday, with the ceremonies of the nation he had served and of the church he had loved. His grave is beside that of his life-long adversary, Disraeli (Lord Beaconsfield), whose effigy looks down upon it decked with the regalia which Gladstone had refused. But two future kings of Great Britain walked beside the great commoner's coffin, and all the nobility and learning of the state surrounded it, though the wish of the deceased had been for simplicity.

An Imposing Spectacle.

This official funeral, the first since that of Lord Palmerston, was rendered an imposing spectacle by the magnificence of the building in which it was solemnized. The coffin rested on an elevated bier, before the altar, its plainness hidden beneath a pall of white and gold, embroidered with the text, "Requiescat In Pace." Six tall candles burned beside it, and on either side stood the supporters of the pall. The Prince of Wales and the Duke of York were at the head of the coffin, and ranging behind them were the Marquis of Salisbury, the Earl of Kimberley, the Liberal leader in the House of Lords; Mr. A. J. Balfour, the Government leader in the House of Commons; Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the Liberal leader in the House of Commons; the Duke of Rutland, Lord Rosebery and Mr. Gladstone's two old-time friends, Baron Rendel and Mr. George Armistead.

The Clergy and Mourners.

Within the chancel stood the Dean of Westminster, and behind him were gathered the cathedral clergy, the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the scarlet and white surpliced choir, filling the chapel. The mourners, who sat in the stalls nearest to the bier, were Mrs. Gladstone, her sons Herbert and Stephen and other members of the family, with little Dorothy Drew, Mr. Gladstone's favorite grandchild.

The Princess of Wales and the Duchess of York occupied the Dean's pew, opposite. In tiers of temporary seats in the north and south transepts were assembled the members of the House of Lords and the House of Commons, the mayors of the principal cities, delegates from Liberal organizations and representatives of other civic and political organizations; while the long nave was crowded with thousands of men and women, among them being most of the celebrities in all branches of English life, and every gallery, balcony and niche high up among the rafters even—held a cluster of deeply-interested spectators.

2,500 People in the Abbey.

In all, 2,500 persons were assembled in the Abbey, all clothed in the deepest black, save a few officials, whose regalia gleamed brilliantly from this sombre background. Thousands thronged the square outside in order to witness the passage of the funeral procession from Westminster Hall. Numerous fakirs mingled with the crowd, hawking Gladstone souvenirs, refreshments and toys. A double line of 500 policemen kept an open passage for the funeral cortege.

The chief officials had assembled in Westminster Hall at 10 o'clock in the morning. The Bishop of London, the Right Rev. Mandell Creighton, D.D., read a brief prayer there, and at 10.30 o'clock the procession was formed and slowly passed through the uncovered crowds and along a short pathway, a distance of three hundred yards, to the western entrance of the Abbey, between two ranks of the Eton volunteers in their buff uniforms.

The Procession.

The procession moved in the following order:

Four heralds in court dress, bearing the arms.

The Speaker, the Right Hon. William Court Gully.

Clerks and officers of the House of Commons, in robes and wigs, carrying the mace in their midst.

Four hundred members of the House of Commons, marching four abreast and wearing frock coats and high hats, with the solitary and conspicuous exception of Mr. John Burns, the labor leader, who wore his usual Derby hat and short coat.

Four heralds, escorting half a dozen Privy Councillors, not members of Parliament.

More heralds, ushering the officers of the House of Lords.

The Lord Chancellors in their robes, with a mace bearer.

Two hundred members of the House of Lords, attired like the members of the House of Commons, with the exception of the bishops, who were robed.

Gladstone's Last Ministry.

Then came a group of members of Mr. Gladstone's last Ministry, followed by representatives of various royal families and the foreign Ambassadors, including Colonel John Hay, the United States Ambassador. After them came the Duke of Cambridge and the Duke of Connaught, escorted by equerries and the Earl of Pembroke, representing the Queen.

Then came the funeral car, plainly draped with black, and drawn by two horses, preceded by the Earl Marshal of the Kingdom, the Duke of Norfolk, with the supporters of the pall walking beside the car.

After the car walked Stephen Gladstone, the chief mourner, and the near relatives and friends.

"God Give Ye Rest, Old Man!"

The only sound that broke the silence while the cortege passed was a broken voice, which shouted: "God give ye rest, old man!"

In the meanwhile the tolling of the Abbey bell had notified the waiting assemblage within the edifice that the procession was approaching.

The weird, dismal strains of a quartette of trombones playing Beethoven's funeral hymn in a recess high above the heads of the congregation swept through all the recesses of the Abbey. When these had finally died away, the great organ took up Schubert's funeral march, booming sonorously, and then changed to Beethoven's funeral march, with a clash of cymbals in the orchestral accompaniment. A choir of 100 male singers, which had awaited the coffin at the entrance of the Abbey, preceded it along the nave, chanting, "I am the Resurrection and the Life."

When the coffin was laid on the bier Purcell's funeral chant, "Lord, Thou Hast Been Our Refuge," was sung, and the dean and the whole vast assemblage sang "Rock of Ages," and, again, while the coffin was being borne along the aisle to the grave, sang Mr. Gladstone's favorite hymn, "Praise to the Holiest in the Height."

Mrs. Gladstone and Family.

Mrs. Gladstone, supported on the arms of her sons, Herbert and Stephen, and other members of the family were grouped about the grave. The dean read the appointed sentence committing the body to the earth, and the Archbishop of Canterbury pronounced the benediction.

Mrs. Gladstone stood bravely, with great composure, throughout the service. Her face was lifted upward and her lips were moving. She also kept standing during the only official feature of the service, "The proclamation by Garter of the style of the deceased," as the official programme had it. The Garter enumerated the various offices which Mr. Gladstone had held in his lifetime, beginning with "some time Privy Councillor" and ending "envoy extraordinary to the Ionian Islands."

The organ then played the "Dead March" in Saul.

Finally, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and other pall-bearers shook hands with Mrs. Gladstone, the mourners defiled past the grave, taking a last view of the coffin, and, when they had been escorted down the nave to the entrance the people slowly departed.

Memorial services in honor of Mr. Gladstone were held the same day all over England.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

WITH COURTLY GRACE

The Prince of Wales Kissed Mrs. Gladstone's Hand—The Earl Marshal Receives the Remains.

New York, May 30.—In referring to the funeral of Mr. Gladstone on Saturday, Mr. Ford, in his London letter to the Tribune yesterday, says:

"The entire assemblage rose when Mrs. Gladstone took her seat under the lantern. Strong men wept when she knelt beside the grave, and when the Prince of Wales, with courtly grace, kissed her hand, as though she had been the wife of a king, Gladstone's unique personality seemed opened and softened to all hearts."

Mr. Harold Frederic, cabling to the Times, says:

"Perhaps the most solemn function of all, witnessed by none but the Gladstone family and the officials, was when the casket was opened, shortly after midnight on Thursday, to allow the Earl Marshal to verify with his own eyes that it really contained the remains of the dead statesman. I am told that the old man's face, seen for the last time by the Duke of Norfolk, who is responsible to England for this sacred charge, was more peaceful and younger looking than it had seemed for years. At the very last moment a small gold Armenian cross, a memento of that nation for which the great statesman worked so zealously, was placed by his side. Then all was sealed."

A 10-FOOT HOLE IN HER.

U.S. Cruiser Columbia Ran Into a British Vessel and Was Damaged—The Britisher Sank.

New York, May 30.—The United States cruiser Columbia arrived at St. George, Staten Island, to-day, and anchored off Tompkinsville. She has a big hole in her starboard side abreast the mainmast. The captain reports as follows:

"At 7.38 o'clock last night, off Fire Island, during a thick fog, was run into by the steamer Foscolia (British), hence for Bordeaux, grain laden. The Foscolia struck the Columbia on the starboard quarter just forward of the after barbette, cutting clean into the hull, making a hole about ten feet, filling the compartment with water. The Foscolia sank almost immediately after, but the Columbia succeeded in rescuing all of her crew and landing them at St. George, S.I."

ANGLO-AMERICAN ALLIANCE.

Preliminary Steps Said to Have Been Already Taken in the Matter.

London, May 30.—The Washington correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, telegraphing Sunday, says: "I have just learned from a high authority in the State Department that most important preliminary steps toward an Anglo-American alliance have already been taken. How far these negotiations, if they can yet be called that, have proceeded, it is not easy to ascertain, for naturally strict secrecy is maintained, but my information is that the preliminary suggestions have been made, and that the subject of such an alliance is practically before the two Governments in some shape.

"Great Britain is to recognize the Monroe doctrine, to attempt no increase of her territorial possessions in the western hemisphere, and to endorse the American construction of the doctrine. The United States is to build the Nicaragua Canal; Great Britain is to have the use of it in time of war. The United States is to have all the territory taken from Spain in the present war, and Great Britain is to protect the United States in the possession of this, should they be threatened. The United States is to stand by England in her policy in China and the East, and all the British ports in the East to be opened to the United States under the most-favored nation clause."

Henry Doering Is Dead.

Milverton, Ont., May 30.—While Henry Doering, who lived about a mile west of this place, was driving home on Saturday evening his team ran away, throwing him out and breaking his arm, as well as bruising and cutting his head to such an extent that he died about three hours afterwards. He was over 70 years old, and leaves a family, all grown up, several of whom are in Philadelphia. He was a progressive, up-to-date farmer, and a member of the Swedenborgian Church.

ALMOST A MIRACLE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9th, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Co., Ltd., Ottawa:—

GENTLEMEN,—I hardly know how best to express my appreciation of your valuable rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline. My son Gordon, who is 9 years old, has been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for the past two years; was so bad at times that he had to be carried about on a mattress; was attended by two city doctors apparently without the slightest benefit; spent 10 days at Caledonia Springs, came home with no marked improvement; took three bottles of a Homeopathic remedy now being extensively advertised, which did not relieve him in the least. I was beginning to give up all hope of his recovery, when by chance I mentioned the case to a friend who strongly advised me to give Phrenoline a trial.

I did so, with the result that when my boy had taken only half a bottle he was able to get on his bicycle and ride like any other boy around the block.

I certainly feel that I cannot say too much in praise of your medicine, and shall do all I can to make known its value to others.

Yours very sincerely,

A Test Case.

Sometimes we wonder if the people who make ready-to-wear clothing make money. We don't see how they can sometimes; and it will make you wonder, too, if you notice a test case of it just now at H. LeBrun & Co's. Silver Celebration Sale. Go yourself and ask the prices of a few of their leading well made suits. They sell a good looking suit of tweed for a man for $3.50, fashionable three-button cutaway and newest pattern. You won't be able to see how the maker can make any money at $3.50, and LeBrun & Co. must make a little. Men have been heard to say as they examined a splendid worsted ticketed at $7.50, that they had paid $13 for a suit the very mate to it. Maybe LeBrun & Co. buy mighty close for cash, but somebody must lose money. dw

Grafton & Co.'s hand-cut and tailor made suits are winning new friends every season, and more this year than ever. The garments are carefully made, of reliable material, correct in style and cut and perfect fitting. See Grafton & Co.'s $10.00 suits.

SPANISH FLEET FOUND AT LAST

Bottled in Santiago With Schley Doing "Sentry Go."

THE RESERVE SQUADRON STILL AT CADIZ.

Starvation Said to be the Condition in Santiago.

Spain Said to be Anxious For Peace.

Special 3 p. m. dispatch to the Examiner.

Starvation in Santiago.

Port Au Prince, Hayti, May 30.—Two Italians who set out from Santiago De Cuba in a small boat on Thursday, May 19th, and landed near Mole St. Nicholas, on the 22nd, arrived here Sunday, bringing information as to the situation at Santiago. The state of affairs there is critical, particularly so because of the lack of food, many dying of starvation. The whole population is keenly desirious of peace. The arrival of Cerveras' squadron without food supplies for the city deepened the general despondency. The squadron has disembarked 800 men and landed 20,000 rifles and a quantity of ammunition and four big guns for the fortifications. Many cases of yellow fever among the Spanish troops.

Spanish Fleet Bottled in Santiago.

Mole St. Nicholas, Hayti, May 30—There is no longer any doubt that the Spanish fleet is bottled up in the harbour of Santiago De Cuba.

Spain Said to be Anxious for Peace.

Madrid, May 30—The papers still continue to talk of the possibilities of peace. The Globe publishes an article supposed to be inspired by Senor Morel, the late Minister of Colonies, advocating peace, which has attracted great attention, but the discussions show as yet no tangible results.

Spanish Reserve Squadron Still at Cadiz.

New York, May 30th—Herald's Gibraltar despatch says that it may be positively stated that there has been no movement from Cadiz of the Spanish reserve squadron.

All Quiet at Manilla.

Hong Kong, May 30—A British cruiser has arrived from Manilla and reports all quiet. Supplies are reaching there from the surrounding country.

Schley has the Spanish Fleet Bottled.

Mole St. Nicholas, Hayti, May 30.—The following despatch has been received here from the correspondent of the Associated Press with the American fleet off Santiago de Cuba, May 29:—"Commodore Schley and the flying squadron have the Spanish fleet bottled up in the harbour of Santiago de Cuba. By the most clever manœuvreing the commodore allowed the Spaniards to think he had left in disgust. They took the bait and ran into the harbour. Commodore Schley moved down this morning and at six o'clock, going close to the harbour saw four ships. He believes the entire fleet is there. The officers and men of the flying squadron are jubilant over the fact that the location of the Spanish fleet has definitely been established.

Cervera and the Fleet.

New York, May 30.—A despatch to the World from Kingston, Jamaica, says:—Cervera depends upon the Cadiz squadron to uncork the bottle into which he is shut. He is believed to know of the coming of that fleet. The cable is censored rigidly and no ships are allowed to leave the harbour.

U. S. Decoration Day.

New York, May 30.—The celebration of Decoration Day in this vicinity charged, as it is this year with added significance, is the most notable since the nation has had graves to decorate.

SEWER CAVE IN.

The Crossing on the Corner of George and McDonel streets Takes a Drop.

Yesterday afternoon as Mr. A. E. Mosley was turning west on McDonel street from George the block crossing suddenly gave away beneath his horse's feet, throwing the animal to the ground, and skinning its legs badly, also breaking a shaft and portions of the harness.

The crossing had been undermined when the sewer had been excavated, and as the blocks were never packed afterwards, they had no support when the earth settled down beneath them and suddenly gave way as stated.

A lantern was placed at the hole during the evening.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Bert Cox, of Toronto, is the guest of Mr. A. L. Davis.

Mrs. Jas. Skinner is visiting her mother, Mrs. Londerville, in Hastings.

Miss Thornton, of Omemee, has been visiting friends in town during the last week.

Mrs. Chidwick (nee Miss M. Riley), of New York, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Riley, Stewart street.

Mrs. Frank Jones, of Kingston, is spending a few weeks in town, as the guest of her daughter, Mrs. D. W. Little.

Mr. W. J. Merrill, of Malita, Manitoba, Mrs. Ford, of Brandon, and Master Goldwin Smith, also of Brandon, have been guests at the residence of Mr. W. S. Merrill during the past week.

The munificent offer of Hon. Geo. A. Cox, to furnish the funds to procure a building to be used as the permanent home of the central institution at Ottawa in connection with Lady Aberdeen's great scheme, the Victorian Order of Nurses, is only another of the many splendid benefactions of that gentleman, who has so liberally used his great means for the benefit of charitable and humane objects. Next to the pleasure of the possession of money is, one would think, the pleasure of seeing what great good can be done by its liberal and judicious expenditure.

Mr. Will Potter, C.E., partner in the firm of A. Cunningham & Co., photographers, will leave this week, if business matters can be arranged, for Kingston, and from there intends going to the States. Mr. Potter has spent about two years in Peterborough with his brother, Rev. Mr. Potter, of St. Andrew's, and previous to coming here was employed for about five years in the capacity of civil engineer in several of the Western and Southern States, having in that time been superintendent of several large municipal contracts. Mr. Potter has made many warm friends outside of St. Andrew's church, who will greatly regret to hear of his departure from town

A BLASTING ACCIDENT AND NARROW ESCAPE.

UNEXPECTED EXPLOSION OF A BLAST IN NICHOLLS PARK.

Mr. John Pillar Knocked Down and Somewhat Injured—His Narrow Escape from Instant Death.

This morning an unexpected explosion occurred of a charge of powder in a rock drilling in Nicholls Park. On Saturday Mr. John Pillar and others were engaged in drilling a large boulder on the south-western portion, near Mr. Goldie's residence. The hole had been drilled and charged, but there was no proper explosion when the light was applied, only a fizz. This morning Mr. Pillar and A. Furber (who was so seriously injured at the Park by a bicyle accident last summer) resumed work at the boulder, deepening the drill hole. Mr. Furber retired, leaving Mr. Pillar to continue the work. Suddenly there was a tremendous explosion, the charge that failed to explode on Saturday being evidently intact, and set off by the action of the drill. Mr. Pillar was knocked insensible, but fortunately the force of the explosion was on the side opposite to where he stood, the portion of the boulder on his side being intact. The opposite side of the boulder, or the side where Mr. Furber had been standing, was blown into fragments, the drill bar and hammer were found fifty yards away and the deep impression they made in the soil showed that they must have been driven a great height. Mr. Edward Courtney, who was passing, heard the noise of the explosion and saw the man fall. He procured assistance at once, Mr. D. Kernegan's delivery wagon, which was opportunely passing, being willingly given for the purpose of removing Mr. Pillar to his home on Argyle street. He soon recovered consciousness and did not receive any injuries which will be serious or lasting—his hand were somewhat lascerated and his eyes made bloodshot, but nothing was suffered from which he will not in a few days, it is hoped, recover. If he had been standing on the opposite side of the boulder when the blast exploded he would have been blown into fragments. His escape was a narrow one; he was indeed face to face with death.

Where Specialists Failed Dr. Chase Cured Catarrh.

James Spence, Clachan, Ont., writes:—"I had been a sufferer from Catarh for 15 years. It became chronic and I had given up hopes of ever being cured when advised by a friend to try Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. I at once started and am pleased to state three boxes effected a complete cure, and I heartily recommend it to anyone suffering from catarrh."

A PETERBOROUGH BOY

Who is Doing Well in Buffalo—A Journalist and Politician.

In the current number of Frank Leslie's Weekly appears the following reference to an old Peterborough boy:—The probabilities are that the Republican State Ticket in New York next fall, with the exception of Governor Black, will be made up wholly of new names and it is not improbable that it will include at least one promotion in the person of Hon. Wm. J. Morgan, of Buffalo, as candidate for comptroller. Mr. Morgan is at presently deputy-comptroller and has richly earned promotion to the higher post by faithful and efficient service in his present office and by other valuable services rendered to the State in various public offices, as well as by his labours in the useful field of journalism. Mr. Morgan was born in Peterborough, Canada, in 1840, but has lived in Buffalo since he was ten years of age. He served with credit throughout the civil war, rising from the ranks to the commission of captain. He lead the fascine carriers who volunteered to form the advance of the assaulting column in the desparate attack on Port Hudson, May 27th, 1863, and was wounded four times. Since the war he has ever been one of the most prominent citizens of Buffalo, and has occupied many positions of honour and responsibility, civic, political and official. For three years he was chairman of the board of canal appraisers, and afterwards, in 1889, was appointed collector of customs for the District of Buffalo Creek. Mr. Morgan is also an experienced newspaper man, having been a member of the editorial staff of the popular and influential Buffalo Commercial-Advertiser, from 1869 to 1889. He has been secretary of the Buffalo Grade Crossing Commission from its inception, and for many years was active in connection with the Commercial Union organized to secure canal improvements and the abolition of tolls. He was appointed as Deputy by Comptroller Roberts in 1894.

CRICKET.

The match on Saturday afternoon between the Grove team of Lakefield and the Peterborough Colts was very interesting and resulted in a victory for the Colts by 10 wickets.

The Lakefield boys went to the bat first and ran up a score of 28. The Colts put together 31 in their first. The second innings for the Grove only netted 4, which left the Colts only 2 runs to make to win, which they did with the loss of one wicket.

The Grove players all showed good form and should have done better in the second innings. Labatt, Smith and Sibbald did the bowling. The Colts fielding was especially good, as a wicket keeper Harry McKee would be hard to beat. In Bradburn, Stapleton, Fessenden and Bradd the Colts have four good bowlers. In the first innings Stapleton took four wickets for five runs, and in the second Fessenden took four for two runs and Bradd five wickets for two runs. After the match both teams were very handsomely entertained to tea by Mrs. R. B. Rogers and the boys all fully appreciate her kindness.

LACROSSE.

Alex. Turnbull, who formerly played with the Peterborough's, is playing the cover point position for the New Westminster team.

Great excitement prevailed in Winnipeg over Tuesday's lacrosse match between the two local teams, the Victorias and Winnipegs. The Victorias won by 8 goals to 0, but it is understood a protest was filed with Referee W. J. McLean, charging that the six new men brought from Ontario and other points had not resided in the Prairie City sufficiently long as to qualify under the residential clause of the W.C.L.A. rules.

The Orillias promise to give the Peterboroughs the best match on the home grounds that they will have this year. The match is on Thursday at 2 p.m.

The team which plays in Peterborough on the morning of July 1st, can get on a game with Madoc the same afternoon.

THE MISSION TO MEN BEGAN YESTERDAY.

LARGE CONGREGATIONS IN ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Rev. Father O'Bryan, S.J., Delivers a Masterly and Most Eloquent Sermon to an Audience Composed Entirely of Men.

The special services for men began at St. Peter's Cathedral last evening in connection with the mission which is being conducted there.

Rev. Father O'Bryan was the speaker for the evening, and he opened his sermon by stating that all should be prepared to answer the question early in life "Why am I here?"

We have an immortal soul, explained he, that is the mainspring of all we do, and if we wish the culmination of our lives to be in the service of God we must think out the answer to this question for ourselves. It is a question that underlies the whole superstructure of our spiritual lives.

You remember an occasion on which the enemies of the Saviour came to Him to to entrap Him, saying: "Lord, is it lawful for us to pay tribute to Cæsar?" Jesus gave them an answer that is applicable to the subject in hand. "Show me a coin," said He. "Whose image and inscription is this?" It is Cæsar's," was the answer. "Then render Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's," etc.

We are living in a world in which our minds are filled with everything that pertains to our natural lives. Our Maker has marked us and inscription and we belong to Him. If we find any part of our being that has the imprint of the world, then give that to the world, but is not the entirety of our being—body and soul, stamped with His inscription?

In our body every member harmonises and is adapted to some of man's special needs. All the parts are brought together under one directing power—the will. It speaks to us of a Being in which order and harmony reign supreme.

What mark do we find on the will?

It is endowed with marvellous evidences of understanding. It speaks to us of one in whom intelligence is essential. It speaks to us of God. Written across the soul is a law—the law of justice. It impresses upon us the obligation to repair wrong. It impresses upon us the law of purity and the inclination to shrink from that which is base and vile. It impresses on us the law of truth that warns us against over-reaching by falsehood and inclines our hearts to the law of mercy, bidding us to do unto others as we would be done by.

What is that four-fold law? It is the reflection of that four-fold truth that is represented in Him who has created us and placed us in thr world. It is conscience—the voice of God in the soul.

Here we have enough to prove that we

BELONG TO GOD.

Everywhere we find the traces of our divine origin, and we should never be at rest until our whole being is united to that great Being from whom man issued forth.

Man needs many things for his natural life; whence come all these things? They bear the same stamp and image that we ourselves bear.

Man rebelled against God, and would be like unto Him. Did God abandon man? No; He came to him, and said: I have loved you with an everlasting love. I will build you up again. Has this promise been realized? We have only to think how He came int the world to ransom man, paying the great price of His own precious blood. This gives him yet another title to ourselves.

He has destined us for an end.

The church came from Him and is here to sanctify us. Take the whole machinery of sanctification in the church and we will find a new title of ownership. Anything of sanctification comes to us from God.

Thus we see how ownership of us is established by creation, conservation, redemption and sanctification. What is the conclusion we draw from this four-fold title of ownership?

He has given us a work. It is to praise, reverence and serve God, and by so doing to save

OUR IMMORTAL SOULS.

That is the aim and object of man in this mortal world.

Nature is beautiful, but we are of a different grade than nature. Mortal man's destiny is not here, he is created for higher things. The poet says:

I've tried wine and women, war and fame,
And find them all in vain,
And now I've settled down to nothing.

So it is with a man not anchored to God. The world gives a man power, wealth, pleasure, and gives him name and fame, but it cannot give him rest. Where, then, is a man to find his happiness? Let our hearts turn to Him. Let our lives be lived according to the lines laid down by Him. Praise, reverence and serve the Lord.

Praise is the least part of a man's duty towards God. It is compelled and therefore is no credit to us. If we see a fine picture or some great piece of mechanical skill we admire and praise it. In nature we see everywhere the power and the greatness of God. We admire nature. Praise, however, in this case must compel the reverence, the recognition and adoration of God and the practical knowledge of our dependance upon Him. By our reverence we are bound to obey the church, and bound to keep our lives spotlessly clean. Reverence means the pouring out of the heart before God. Reverence leads to the service of God. This is the hardest of the duties. It means the keeping of His commandments, the striving after noble ideals the effort to attain the highest and best part of life, the endeavour to be true men in every sense of the word, gentlemen of the highest type, merciful and tender, patient and long-suffering. In a word—Christian gentlemen. The one motive of a Christian gentleman must be Christ's law and Christ's love.

The speaker closed his address with an appeal to his congregation to beware of the evils of infidelity, heresy and the bad example of those within the church, who had strayed from the path.

During the week a mass for men will be sung each morning in the cathedral at five o'clock, followed by short instruction. Another mass will be sung at 8 a. m. and and at 7 30 in the evening there will be a sermon and benediction. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday an afternoon service will be held at four o'clock.

"THE HOLY CITY."

A Pleasing Musical Event—Peterborough and Lindsay Vocalists Combine in the Cause of Charity.

The Lindsay Post says:

A fairly good sized audience greeted the singers of the Oratorio on Thursday evening. The attendance was not what it should have been in numbers, considering the quality of the music rendered; but the appreciation shown by those who were present must have been gratifying indeed to all interested in it.

The opening number was an orchestral introduction to the grand chorus, 'No Shadows Yonder." The solo in this chorus was sung by Miss L. Jackson, and the quartette by Mrs. Hamilton, Miss Montgomery, Mr. G. K. Martin and Mr. F. Turner. The phrasing was good and the shading well defined. In the soprano solo, "My Soul is Athirst for God," Mrs. Parker's flute-like voice re-echoed with a sweetness almost touching the angelic. No. 4 was an unaccompanied trio, "At Eventide It Shall be light," well rendered by Mrs. Parker, Miss Cooper and Miss Montgomery. The full chorus, "They that Sow in Tears," was at first rather a little lacking in spirit, but gradually gained animation and was brought to a grand close. "Eye hath not Seen," a contralto solo, was sung with a good deal of feeling by Mrs. Seward, and displayed careful study on the part of that lady. The full choruses, "For Thee, O Dear, Dear Country," and "Thine is the Kingdom," brought the first part to a close.

The second opened with an intermezzo by the orchestra, which was followed by one of the gems of the evening, viz., the solo, "A new Heaven and a new Earth," by Mr. Mulligan, who is the possessor of a fine, rich baritone voice of great power and sweetness. A grand chorus (double choir) "Let the Heavens Rejoice," was well rendered; the attack was good and the phasing well marked. The tenor solo in this, "To the Lord our God," was sung by Mr. G. K. Martin. The contralto solo, "Come ye Blessed," was beautifully sung by Miss Cooper, who is sure to become a favourite. Her voice is rich and clear and her enunciation markedly distinct. In the soprano solo, "These are they which Came," Miss Clara Belleghem seemed to make a favourable impression on the audience by her rendition. A very pleasing number was a duet, "They Shall Hunger no More," by Mrs. W. A. Sanderson and Miss K. Phillips, who are the possessors of good voices and show much cultivation. The ladies' quartette, "List, the Cherubic Host," was sung by Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Mrs. Seward, Miss L. Pascoe and Miss A. Belleghem. The obligato solos were given by Mrs. Parker and Mr. Mulligan. The finale was a grand chorus, "Great and Marvellous are Thy Works." The work in this chorus was very good; there were well marked cadences and plenty of spirit. Perhaps the bass and tenor support should have been a little better, but on the whole it was a good piece of phrasing and the fugue passages were well rendered.

The whole rendition was a great compliment to the ability of the director, Mr. Percy Owens, in conducting such an undertaking. The music was difficult, and considering the youth of Mr. Owens, we can only predict for him a brilliant future. Certainly the people of Lindsay can appreciate the kindness of their Peterborough friends in their efforts to present to the public of both towns a treat in which it has not hitherto been our pleasure to participate.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The choir of the Murray street church sang Excel's Evening Hymn last night as an anthem.

Miss Sophie Cameron sang Greig's "Oh Happy Day," at St. Paul's church yesterday morning, with her usual good taste.

During the offertory last evening in the Charlotte street church Mr. Bert Cox sang a most acceptable solo.

A trio from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was sung yesterday morning in the Murray street church by Mrs. Dykeman, Mrs. Scott and Miss Hutchinson.

The morning anthem in the Park street church was entitled "We have Drunk the Living Waters." Mr. Steers and Mr. Might took the duet.

Mark street Auxiliary of the W.M.S., will meet on Wednesday, June 1st, at 3 o'clock in the church. All ladies will be welcome, whether members or not.

"Seek ye the Lord" was the title of the evening anthem in the Charlotte street church. Miss Florence Hall took the solo and Mr. A. L. Davis the solo obligato.

Next Sunday Rev. Jas. Thom, B. A., will preach in the Mark street church. His many friends will be pleased to meet him again as he was deservedly popular when stationed there some years ago.

Bethany Mission held their first open-air service in Inverlea Park yesterday afternoon, and attracted a large attendance. In the evening at their hall on Water street six persons were publicly baptized by immersion.

At St. Paul's church yesterday evening Miss Bertram, of Toronto, sang "Hosanna," by Granier. Miss Bertram is the possessor of a fine clear voice of considerable power, and her rendition of the above selection was admirable.

Mr. Geo. E. Williams, of New Brunswick, first general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Peterborough, delivered an address yesterday afternoon to the Sunday school of the Park street Baptist church.

Rev. J. E. Moore, Ph. B., occupied the pulpit of the Mark street church on Sunday in his usual satisfactory style. In the evening he gave a report of the church work for the past year, showing affairs to be in a very satisfactory condition.

The sermon at All Saints last night was by Rev. Mr. Armitage on the subject of waiting and submission from the text, "Be still and know that I am God." The anthem was singularly appropriate, "Heart be still," by Warren," and was excellently sung,

In St. Andrew's yesterday morning Mrs. Martin's pleasing contralto voice was heard with fine effect in the solos of the anthem, "How Long Wilt Thou Forget Me?" In the evening Miss Faulkner took the solo in "Now the Day is O'er," in excellent voice.

Rev. O. C. Elliott, Mr. A. L. Grover and Mr. John Rome have been selected as the delegates from the Park street Baptist church to the Peterborough Baptist Association, which meets at the Haldimand township church. While the Association is in session the 100 h anniversary of the erection of the church will be celebrated.

Mark street Sunday school picnic will be held per Clay of Peterborough to Jubilee Point on Tuesday, July 5th. Hot water and tea will be provided. Low rates have been secured, and it is hoped that all will avail themselves of the opportunity for a pleasant day's outing. A good programme of sports will be given to members of the school.

YOU CAN IF YOU WISH.

RESTORE THE SNAP, VIM, ENERGY AND STRENGTH YOU HAVE LOST.

Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have been a great boon to my daughter Maggie. Prior to taking them she had been suffering from excessive nervousness for a long time, and her nerves were in a terribly shattered condition. The action of her heart was so weak that it did not have strength to perform its functions, causing violent palpitation and smothering after retiring. Frequently, on account of this suffocating sensation she was afraid to go to bed. Slight exertion exhausted her and caused shortness of breath. Her blood was impoverished and lost vitality, and she had no appetite. She was wasting away and was very hypochondriacal, feeling dejected all the time. Last December she began taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills, and she improved at once. Her blood became healthy and strong, and in six weeks her impaired nervous system was restored to its normal healthy condition. Her heart responded to the healthy condition of her blood and nerves and resumed its strong and healthy functions. She now sleeps without any of the dangerous, distressing, smothering and choking spells; her appetite is good, and she has gained in flesh. Healthy color has replaced pallor, and she is now well and strong, thanks to Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. I thank you, gentlemen, for the remedy that has restored my daughter to health. A. GUNN, Baggagemaster, Grand Trunk Railway, Oshawa, Ont. Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. per box, 5 boxes for $2.00, at druggists, or mailed on receipt of price by THE DR. FARMER AND MEGAPHONE.

How a Pilot on a Boat Stopped a Horse in a Cornfield.

I was on the upper Ohio once when the river was low, and was much amused over the use to which a pilot put a megaphone. He bought the thing to call ashore any message that might have been given the boat to carry. This was to save time, for those little boats in the local trades are a great deal like the old fashioned mail carriers—anything to accommodate the people along the bank.

"We were in the pilot house, and the boat was running up a shoot near the West Virginia side of the river. In a cornfield was an old farmer, who was following a plow behind an old, flea bitten gray that only needed a half invitation to stop at any time. The pilot put the megaphone to his mouth and shouted 'Whoa!' and the old gray whoaed.

"The farmer heard the sound, and he thought, evidently, that a neighbor was there or thereabout, for he looked around to see whence the sound came. Then he tossed a clod at the old horse and started him up.

"'Whoa!' said the pilot, and again the old horse stopped. Then the old Rube went to the river bank and looked down in the willows, but not a soul could he see. He looked up and down and then at the steamboat and scratched his head in surprise. He couldn t afford to waste any time in looking for the ghost, for he went back to the plow and started on with his job.

"Once more the joking pilot said 'Whoa!' and again the horse stopped dead still. You could see from the boat that the old fellow was all mixed up, for he looked up and down the river and then at the hillside behind him to see if he could find the man who was working him and his old horse. He made up his mind that he would take it out of the old gray, and to fix for the occasion he went to the underbrush and cut a stick that was 10 feet long. He started the horse with a vengeance. When the pilot hollered 'Whoa!' again the old man gave the gray a lick that sounded clear to the boat. We could almost hear him say:

"'Thar, gol darn you! I'll teach you to stop when you hear a spook hollerin at you.'

"But the pilot kept up the good work and hollered 'Whoa! Whoa! Whoa!' and again and again the old man hit the gray. Finally it looked as if he had caught on, for he let the old horse stop while he watched the boat.

"Then the pilot thought he had had enough fun and he called out:

"'Feed the old gray! Feed him! He's so hungry that he can't work. That's all the matter with him.'

"Then old Rube got his voice and we heard him say: 'You go to thunder with your old voice! It'd stop a railroad train anywhere!'" — Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The old man who looks out at the world with clear and healthy eyes cannot help feeling great gratification at the thought that his children have inherited from him no weakness nor tendency to disease. The healthy old man is the man that has throughout his life kept his digestion good and his blood pure. Not one in a thousand does do it. Germs go through the healthy body without effect. Let them once find lodgment or let them find a weak spot, the will develop by the million and the blood will be full of them. Instead of giving strength to the tissues it will force upon them innutritious matter, and the man will lose flesh and the more susceptible he is to disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is he only medicine that absolutely and infallibly cures all blood diseases, and almost all diseases are blood diseases. It isn't a medicine for some one particular so-called disease. It is a medicine for the whole body. It forces out all the germs of disease and replaces impurities with rich, red blood.

Sores Gone. Skin Clear.

Mrs. Philip Mitchell, St. Mary's, Ont., says:—"My little boy, aged 10, was a complete mass of sores, caused by bad blood. We could find nothing to cure him. Finally I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and before half the bottle was gone he began to improve, and by the time the bottle was finished he had not a sore on him."

THE BEARS PREVAIL.

Declines in American and European Markets—American Visible Expected to Show Another Increase—Prices.

Friday Evening, May 27.

Wheat continued to show weakness on the wheat markets of the world to-day. The lack of foreign buying, the probability that the American visible supply will show an increase for the week, and the continued excellent prospects of bountiful harvests, combined to create a bearish situation in Chicago, with the result that the July option declined to $1.05 on that board, September to 84½c, and December to 80½c. A slight reaction caused the three futures to close at $1.06⅝, 84⅝c and 80⅞c, representing, respectively, losses of 3½c, 1⅝c and 1½c per bush for the day.

Other American markets proved correspondingly weak, and at Toronto Ontario red was nominally quoted down to about $1.05 to $1.07, middle freights.

In Liverpool, spot wheat fell 3d per cental, July ¾d, September 1⅝d and December ⅝d for the day.

At Paris, wheat closed at a decline below previous close equal to 2½c to 2⅝c per bushel. At Antwerp, the cereal advanced 25 to 30 centimes.

Toronto Grain and Produce.

Flour—Quiet and steady. Straight rollers in barrels, middle freights, are quoted at $3 to $3.15.

Wheat—This has been a very quiet day on the local market. There is no export demand, and millers are not anxious. Prices are, therefore, nominal, with No. 2 red Ontario around $1.05 to $1.07, middle freights. Spring may be quoted a cent or two higher, and goose a couple of cents lower. There is little change in Manitoba hard wheat, which is held at $1.33 to $1.34 afloat at Fort William.

Ramsay's Death.

Brampton, Ont., May 28.—The Clarke investigation was continued yesterday. Miss Howes, the Clarke servant girl, said the old gentleman was properly cared for and well fed. Little or no interest is taken by Bramptonians in the investigation. The trial is likely to last three or four days, unless the case collapses.

The afternoon was taken up by Mr. Justin in his cross-examination of Miss Chester. At its conclusion Mr. Main said he could not find sufficient evidence on which to commit the accused for trial, and dismissed the prisoners.

MASSACRE OF MISSIONARIES.

Mr. Burtner, and the Others Who Escaped, Return to Liverpool and Tell the Tale.

London, May 28.—The American missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. Burtner, Mr. and Mrs. Minshalt, Mr. Ward and Miss Mullen, members of the United Brotherhood of Christ, who survived the recent massacre in the Sherboro district of Sierra Leone, West Coast of Africa, arrived at Liverpool yesterday from Freetown, Sierra Leone. They gave thrilling accounts of their escape at the time the mission house at Shanghe was destroyed in the riotings that grew out of the dissatisfaction of the natives with the hut tax.

The Governor of Sierra Leone, Col. Sir Frederick Cardew, advised them to return to America, believing, they say, that it would be impossible to do any further effective work for a year or two.

Mr. Burtner says that in addition to the white missionaries a number of native missionaries, some educated in the United States, were massacred, including Mr. A. B. Wilberforce, Mr. Cole, Prof. Clements, who was from the United States, all of whom were stationed at Danville, and the entire Hughes family, who were stationed at Avery.

In the opinion of Mr. Burtner several hundred fell victims to the wrath of the natives. The entire party return to the United States by the Etruria.

A Chapter of Accidents.

Toronto, May 28.—Yesterday Mr. Edward Bourne, chief engineer of the Toronto Electric Light Works, and William Stewart came into a bicycle collision, with the result that Mr. Bourne is sure to die, and Mr. Stewart had his nose, face and head badly smashed. William Chipman had his hand nearly torn off in a lithographing press, and William Gleason was thrown from Laura K, in the fifth race, and had his collar bone broken and his head terribly cut and bruised. Minnie Switzer fell and broke her leg. A man named Butler, now in the Western Hospital, had his leg broken twice and Hotelkeeper Hammell of New Toronto was badly cut about the head by his horse running away and throwing him out of the buggy. There were numerous other minor accidents, the results of which will keep their victims indoors for some days.

A STRONG ARGUMENT.

Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, N. A. L., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Please accept my thanks for your cheque just handed to me, for $3,901.98, in settlement of my $3,500 Fifteen Year Endowment Policy in your Company. Such a result as this, after the risk on my life has been carried for fifteen years, beginning from forty-five years of age, argues one thing strongly, namely, that the management of the North American Life must be in competent hands. The other options you have offered me, viz.: a Paid-up Life policy for $6510.00, or a Life Annuity for $401.90, are, I presume, equally liberal, and it affords me much pleasure to recommend your Company to my friends or any desiring insurance.

Every woman should know that there is a great home medical book that tells all about the reproductive physiology of women, and all about the home-treatment of diseases peculiar to the sex. This book contains 1008 pages and over 700 illustrations. It is called Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It used to cost $1.50. Over seven hundred thousand people purchased it at that price and over 1,200,000 people now own copies of it. For a limited time copies will be given away free.

This great book contains the names, addresses, photographs and experiences of hundreds of women who were once hopeless invalids, but who have been restored to robust womanly health by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This marvelous medicine acts directly on the delicate organs distinctly feminine. It makes them strong, healthy, vigorous, virile and elastic. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. It banishes the usual suffering of the expectant months, and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It robs motherhood of its perils. It insures the robust health of the little new-comer and a bountiful supply of nature's nourishment. It transforms weak, sickly, nervous invalids into healthy, happy wives and mothers. For a paper-covered copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of customs and mailing only, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. For elegant French cloth binding, 50 stamps.

Miss Edith Cain, of Clinton, Allegheny Co., Pa., writes: "After two years of suffering, I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and am now entirely cured. I had been troubled with female weakness for some time and also with a troublesome drain on the system, but now I am happy and well."

In cases of constipation and torpid liver, no remedy is equal to Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They regulate and invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. They never fail. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. An honest dealer will not urge a substitute upon you.

FADED BEAUTY.

The poet to the contrary notwithstanding, there are occasions when "it might have been" are joyful words. Most men, upon meeting again in after years their first loves, realize this and offer up prayers of thanksgiving.

It was so with Hurlburt.

In the early days of the Pacific coast Hurlburt was stationed at San Diego. It was a picturesque little town. Its streets were not much more than cowpaths, and its houses were mostly of the good old pattern—adobes, one story high, and built around a patio. In such a house as this lived Manuela Lopez, and in one of the cowpath streets Hurlburt first met her. It was upon a Sunday. Hurlburt had just come from inspection and was on his way to take dinner with friends in town. He still wore his regimentals and was a very gorgeous sight indeed. He was also tall and yellow haired and blue eyed—quite the figure to strike the fancy of a pretty little Mexican girl who was coming home from mass.

She had read no books that could have told her that it was the accepted thing to do. She had probably never given such subjects a moment's thought. But when the mind of a child becomes the mind of a woman it is at one bound, not by slow degrees. Inspiration struck full upon Manuela's brain, and she dropped her rosary, from which it may be inferred that the love of the fathers and the wisdom of ages have taught woman nothing now in affairs of the heart. The impulse of the intrigante and of the child of nature are the same.

Hurlburt, of course, was close to Manuela when the rosary dropped. He returned it to her. If she had not been with a servant, he might have spoken. As it was he observed more narrowly what he had been observing for some moments as he approached, that she was graceful and pretty. Then he raised his helmet and passed on.

You can count upon any one but the typical Anglo-Saxon. You expect men of Latin and Slav races to make fools of themselves, but the Anglo-Saxon is such a thoroughly logical, reasonable, clear headed person that the bottom of your universe drops out when he deviates from the path of common sense. And when he does it is never a mere digression. He goes, a flaming comet, whirling through space and carrying all your stellar system of plans and beliefs before him. The last thing any one would have expected of a big, quiet, rational youth such as was Hurlburt was that he should wax romantic over a street meeting with an immature ruse to attract his attention. Nevertheless that same day after luncheon he said to his host as they sat smoking, "Who lives in the house on the next street, where the two mocking bird cages hang on the wall?"

"You must be more explicit," his host said. "There are a number of houses on the next street, and one and all have mocking birds."

"Yes," said Hurlburt, "but there is a hedge of red and white geraniums in front of it."

"I saw you meet her," the civilian told him. "Her name is Lopez—Manuela, I think."

Hurlburt became very red. When your phlegmatic man grows embarrassed, he is badly embarrassed. It was some time before he regained speech and came floundering out of the sea of silence. When he did, he changed the subject.

Not that he abandoned the cause; far from it. It took him two weeks, but he got himself introduced to Senor Lopez and had then taken to call upon him. The senor was a well educated man, and the most hospitable of his hospitable race. He made Hurlburt free of the house at once and showed him everything it contained, save only Manuela.

"You must come again often," he said as they parted. Hurlburt replied that he would and went again in three days. Neither did he see his lady of the rosary upon this occasion. He addressed himself to Senora Lopez, who was handsome and well preserved.

"You have a daughter, have you not, senora?"

Senora Lopez understood only just so much English as she chose. She did not choose to understand this. She turned her soft eyes upon her husband, and he answered for her.

"We have a daughter," he said, "but she is very young."

Hurlburt understood that he had offended a semioriental prejudice.

It having thus been made obvious to him that Manuela would not be produced by her parents, he went to an early mass at the church, met her and introduced himself. It chanced that she was alone.

"May I walk home with you, senorita?" he said. "I have the pleasure of knowing your father."

"Yes, sir," said Manuela.

It was but a few hundred yards to her home, but he made the most of his time. Manuela answered in monosyllables and raised her eyes but twice. Hurlburt's infatuation was complete. Senor Lopez was angry. He was very civil to the officer, but he sent the girl to her room at once.

"I met the senorita at mass," Hurlburt explained.

"Are you, then, a Catholic?" inquired the Mexican.

"No," said Hurlburt and determined to pursue the policy that sages who know nothing of mankind tell us is invariably the best. "I went to the church on purpose to meet your daughter. I saw her on the street the other day"—he refrained in a moment of diplomacy from speaking of the dropped beads—"and I admired her very much. That is why I came to call upon you. I thought I would see her openly under her own roof. As I did not I encountered her elsewhere. Now," said Hurlburt, leaning back in his chair in an easy pose that did not meet with the punctilious Mexican's approval, "I should like to ask you to be allowed to pay my court to your daughter."

Senor Lopez had no objection to the officer's suit, but he did object to his fashion of advancing it. He incased himself in perversity.

"My daughter, sir, is too young."

He rose to his feet by way of suggesting that Hurlburt would do well to take his leave. Hurlburt rose, too, but not to go.

"May I ask her age, senor?"

"She is 16 years old."

"You have told me that you married the senora when she was but 15."

"That was in the old times. We do not do so any more."

"But I will be willing to wait for a year if Senorita Manuela will love me."

"Sir, we will talk no more concerning this. My daughter is too young to be married, and I do not wish to give her to an American," which was not in the least true. Up to then it had been his plan to do so, but his obstinacy was roused.

The result was one that any one, most of all a Mexican, should have foreseen. Hurlburt embarked upon an intrigue. He sent notes to Manuela and got them from her in return. The notes led to meetings by night. The meetings led to infatuation. Warm southern nights and a soft eyed, soft voiced girl can work mischief within the mind of a man, and a tall, blond officer saying the first words of love she has ever heard can turn the head of any woman.

The clandestine interviews continued for several months. Then Hurlburt made one last attempt at frankness. He went to Senor Lopez again and renewed his request to be permitted to pay his daughter court. The senor had conceived an unreasonable and great dislike for him and refused.

Whereupon Hurlburt arranged another meeting with Manuela. He began to realize that they were both running terrible risks. Senor Lopez was quite equal to killing one of them if they should be discovered, but he did not suggest that to Manuela. Instead he asked, "Do you love me, chiquita?"

"Yes, yes. Must I tell you so always?"

"Do you love me enough to leave your home for me?"

"I do not understand." The gentle eyes looked into his, perplexed.

"Will you marry me?"

"I would, but how can I?" she said. "My father will not consent to it."

"Do you love me enough to run away from your father, to disobey him and go over to Mexico, across the border, with me? We can be married there and then come back."

Hurlburt was an impassive, unemotional man, but his nerves were upon a fearful tension as he waited for the answer of an irresponsible child. She appeared to consider and ended by agreeing. Hurlburt was beside himself with happiness.

A week later they went across the line and were married. They returned immediately and had an interview with Senor Lopez. The Mexican was enraged. Hurlburt, having obtained what he wanted, was not inclined to be conciliatory, but Manuela and her mother patched up a peace. Manuela behaved beautifully, and Hurlburt was more enamored than ever. He took her back to his home and for three days dreamed of a lifetime of bliss. Then Manuela decided that she had had enough of living on honeycomb and that she had tired of scented time. With no explanations and no reason that she wanted to go, she went. Her father, charmed with Hurlburt's discomfiture, refused to make her return to him and guarded her closely. Hurlburt begged for one final interview, and it was granted. He was a sorry sight, pale and haggard and self abasing. But Manuela was unmoved. She stood meekly before him, her folded hands holding a rose, her father and mother on either side of her. She was not in the least unhappy and no grief had marred her prettiness.

"Manuela," said Hurlburt, "have you not changed your mind? Will you not come home with me?"

She shook her head. "No," she said.

"Why not? Was I not kind to you? Did I not love you?"

"Yes, you were very kind. But I like better to be with my father."

It was useless to threaten, implore or reason. Manuela was gently stubborn. She would never go back to him; she did not like Americans.

When Hurlburt finally went away, he decided that his heart was broken. He thought of suicide. He could never bear up under the disgrace, and it was not so great as his wretchedness. This frame of mind lasted for a year; then he became resentful; then he obtained a divorce; then he was ordered east, and it was ten years before he returned to the coast. He had with him his wife—a woman of his own people, very charming, very well suited to him in every way. She knew the story of his first marriage, and she knew that, whatever he might say to the contrary, he still regretted deep down in his heart the sweet, soft Mexican wife of his youth, of his season of dear beliefs and illusions. The knowledge was the one grief of her life. It threw a shadow of sadness over her eyes. But she kept it to herself, and for this unfeminine virtue the gods in due time rewarded her.

They went one day by ambulance from Wilmington, where Hurlburt was stationed, to Los Angeles. One of their mules got lame, and they had to spend the night at a roadside ranch. A crowd of dirty Mexican children played around the adobe; several yet dirtier men lounged about the door; a fat, beshawled woman waddled across the yard; a yet more untidy one welcomed them.

Her greasy face was still rather pretty and young, but she was thick and heavy and stupid. When she looked full at Hurlburt, she gave a little cry that was more of a grunt.

"Come in. I will tell my husband," she said and shuffled away with her bare feet.

Hurlburt turned to his wife gravely. "I am sorry to have brought you here," he said, "but it is all we can do, unless you prefer to sleep in the ambulance tonight. That—woman was my wife."

"So I supposed," she said. She laid her delicate hand on his arm. "Don't let it trouble you, dear. I do not mind." She smiled into his eyes, and the shadow was forever gone from her own.—Gwendolen Overton in San Francisco Argonaut.

DYING BY INCHES!

But Dodd's Kidney Pills will Yet Renew Life.

Thousands of persons die in the prime of life because doctors think Bright's Disease and Diabetes incurable. But Dodd's Kidney Pills cure them both. They have cured thousands of cases.

These diseases and other Kidney complaints are as common as ordinary colds. But people don't realize that they are afflicted till the disease has eaten deep into the system. Even then, Dodd's Kidney Pills will positively cure.

Thousands of people are dying on their feet, but do not realize it. They notice one or more of these symptoms: shortness of breath, loss of memory, failing sight, ravenous appetite, pale or reddish urine, with brick-colored deposit, scalding when urinating, constipation, nervousness, pains in the loins. Their only hope is Dodd's Kidney Pills. They won't fail. They never do.

A MOTORMAN'S VICTORY.

Over Diabetes. Gained by the Power of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto, May 23—In a large city like Toronto, there is always much sickness, kidney diseases largely predominating. The street railway employees, exposed as they are to all the inclemencies of the weather are particularly liable to kidney disease. But they all know how to conquer this enemy.

For instance: Mr. T. H. O'Reilly, 27 Niagara Street, motorman, No. 624, was for three years a great sufferer from Diabetes. Every remedy failed to help him, till he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him.

It is cases like this, where the patient and the cure are equally well known, that are the test of a remedy, and Dodd's Kidney Pills have always stood it successfully. They cure all kidney complaints.

A Mean Trick.

When Queen Victoria paid her visit to the Emperor Napoleon III, 43 years ago, Baltard asked Baron Haussmann to present him to the British queen. The baron promised to do so if Baltard would shave off his beard, pretending that Victoria had a great prejudice against whiskered faces. Baltard had a beautiful beard, but he made the sacrifice. He appeared at the fete clean shaven and took up his place near the prefect, who, however, paid no attention to him, despite Baltard's frantic attempts to attract his attention. At last the ceremony of presentation came to an end, and Baltard had not kissed the queen's hand. Haussmann, instead of taking notice of his gesticulation, had deliberately looked the other way, and, finally, when the queen moved away, asked Baltard, haughtily, "what he meant by it?"

"What I meant by it!" was the irate reply. "You promised to present me to the queen."

"Who are you?"

"I am Baltard."

"I am sorry," said Haussmann, "but, my dear fellow, I did not recognize you; you look like a scarecrow." Baltard never forgave him.—Argonaut.

Executions In England.

The number of executions during the present reign has been much smaller than formerly. Coke in the time of Queen Elizabeth remarks on the large number of persons hanged. In 1750 a great increase of crime occurred, and in the following year 63 persons were hanged in the small London of those days. But many more were sentenced than were actually hanged. In England in 1785 there were 242 sentenced and 103 actually suffered. Townsend, the Bow street runner, said that between 1781 and 1787 he had seen as many as 13, 16 or 20 hanged at one execution. Twice he had seen 40 hanged at one time. In the 55 years ending 1894 there were 736 executions in England and Wales, or between 13 and 13 per annum. In the first ten years there were 100, in the last ten 164—which, though actually more, is in proportion to the population, less than in the first ten, as the population doubled between 1837 and 1894. The largest number in any one of these years was in 1877, when there were 23, and the smallest in 1871, when there were 4.—Chambers' Journal.

Uses For Old Boiler Shells.

When the old boiler is so worn out that it is of no further use as a boiler, it may be that before it goes to the scrap heap, the final estate of all things iron, the shell—the tubes and heads having been removed—is made to serve as a part of a smokestack. The iron used in the boiler is heavier than that used in making stacks of a corresponding size, and so the old boiler shells make good smokestacks.—New York Sun.

A GREAT BLOOD MAKER.

Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills.

GENTLEMEN,—I most heartily endorse what has been said in the public print in regard to the merits of Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. For 15 years my blood has been in a weak impoverished condition—I had so little blood that the veins in the back of my hands could not be seen. I had no physical strength, was run down and felt tired all the time. Two months ago I saw in the papers a testimonial signed by the Messrs. Holden, of Omemee, giving in detail what Dr. Ward's Pills had done for them. Knowing these gentlemen well, also knowing that they would not put their names to an untruth, I commenced taking Dr. Ward's Pills with astonishing and pleasing results. They have filled my veins with plenty of rich blood, and healthy at that, so that they stand out prominently. They have given me strength instead of weakness. In consequence of taking them I am well, Strong and feel first rate. They are a great blood maker and strength restorer.

CANADA LIFE
Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,093.05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3,066, for the sum of $6,185,996, of which, however, 266 for $521,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $373,360 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5,291,636, under 2,609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $798,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,168 45, and Endowment policies for $128,846 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $218,481 29 for profits, $145,411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,953,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,272,486 05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,678,915.67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company, I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, he prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Merritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

BURLEIGH AND ANSTRUTHER.

An Historical Sketch of Their Early Settlement.

Mr. Alex. Brown, of Burleigh township this morning sent in to Mr. J. B. McWilliams the following accounts of the early settlement of Burleigh and Anstruther townships, containing a number a nnch interesting facts as the County Historical Society will be glad to possess :—

TOWNSHIP OF BURLEIGH.

The Burleigh road which opened a way to the settlement of the Township of Burleigh was commenced in 1860. The first twenty-three miles of it was constructed by James Walsh. The settlement of the township began in 1861 by Giles Stone entering and settling on lot 7, concession 5, near little Cedar Lake, South Burleigh, followed in 1862 and 1863 by Wm. Myers, Richard Spencer, Edward Sanderson, Isaac Meers and Layfette Reid; in the same years, 1862 and 1863, the following settled in North Burleigh :—James Golborne, Henry and Thomas Giles, Peter Phelan, Alexander Brown, Ephraim Burt, John McConnal, Atwood Brooks, John Coones, Robert Clifford, Christopher White and others. In 1864 James Golborne built a sawmill on Eel's creek on lot 15, concession 12, and in 1866 he put up a gristmill on the lot. The first postoffice in the township was opened on the same lot, James Golborne being postmaster. In 1864 Thomas Eastland carried the mails from and to Peterborough once a week. Two school houses were built and opened in 1866. Burleigh, Chandos, Anstruther, Cardiff, Monmouth and the English Company townships in Haliburton county were separated from Dummer in 1865 and were formed a separate municipality, when the following councillors were elected :—Giles Stone, Jas. Golborne, D. R. Castidy, Caleb Loneley and Patrick Scott; C. J. Vizard being clerk.

In the early days of the settlement. John Coones in clearing his farm, lot 21, con. 13, near Eel's creek, came upon the skeleton of a man, two or three inches below the surface. It was thought at the time that the man was about 50 years of age when he died, by the smoothness of his teeth. Near the same place was found the flint lock of a gun, also a bayonet.

John McConnal, when he settled in North Burleigh in 1862, carried on his back at one time from Julian's Landing to his place, 14 miles, 100 of flour, one sugar kettle (iron) one heavy logging chain, and got to his place the same day.

In the eary years of the settlement the wolves were very numerous, making the nights hideous with their howlings around the settlers' dwellings. A great number of them was poisoned by the settlers, which thinned them out considerably, but they were still troublesome to the settlers who kept sheep. In the eighties a gentleman by the name of Payne, who used to take his outing at Trout Lake, stated that one of their number would howl any night and the wolves would answer. He hunted towards where the wolves answered, and came on a swamp full of mossy beds. In the runway going to the swamp it went over a large pine tree overturned, and the log was worn level with the ground, showing it to be the home of a pack of wolves for hundreds or thousands of years.

TOWNSHIP OF ANSTRUTHER.

The settlement of the township of Anstruther commenced in 1862, when the following settlers came in : Thomas Stewart, William Wilson, Edward S. Hall, D. R. Castidy, C. J. Vizard, Capt. Bloss, Dr. Clegg, Caleb and Philip Lousley, John Young, Thomas Harris, John Steene.

Thomas Stewart kept tavern on lot 31, con. 1, Anstruther; C. J. Vizard built a sawmill on Eel's creek, lot 35, concession 2, Anstruther. In 1864, also a store in 1865, when a post office was opened at his place. D. R. Castidy built and opened a store where Apsley now stands in 1866.

One school house was built in 1866 and opened next year.

The Most Prominent are Fashionable.

Dyspepsia or indigestion has become a fashionable disease. There are very few individuals who have not at various times experienced the miserable feeling caused by defective digestion. No pen can describe the keen suffering of the body, and the agony and anguish of mind endured by the Dyspeptic. Dr. La Londe, of 236 Pine Ave., Montreal, says, "When I ever run across cronic cases of Dyspepsia I always prescribe Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pill, and my patients generally have quick relief."

VICTORIA CHEESE BOARD.

The Price Realized During the Last Two Years Falls Far Below That of Peterborough.

President Thos. Robertson, Dunsford, Treasurer D. Sinclair, Cambray, Secretary Eugene Shine, Downeyville, and about 20 salesmen, representing factories which sell on the board, attended the meeting of the Victoria County cheese board on Thursday last. The buyers present were Messrs. Whitton and Flavelle.

As many of the factories affiliated with the board did not begin manufacturing early, the quantity of cheese offered was very small—only 109 boxes, made up as follows; Star 13, Cameron 11, Janetville 15, Omemee 10. Reaboro 12, Maple Leaf 25.

Before calling for offers President Robertson thanked the members of the board for having re-elected him president at the annual meeting in his absence, which had been due to accident. The number of cheese boarded was smaller than he had anticipated, but he was not displeased, as the patrons had been advised not to open up to early. He also felt it incumbent upon him to say that he was not satisfied with the prices paid by the buyers during the past two summers—there had been too great a difference as compared with Peterborough prices. The factories had incurred the expense of an instructor, and as much of the product was first-class the sales of the two boards should compare better. He had been informed by parties who handled the Lindsay cheese that it sold as readily as any cheese manufactured in Canada, and he was inclined to think that buyers made it a point to bid too high in Peterborough, feeling they could even up in Lindsay.

In reply to one of the salesmen President Robertson said the buyers gave two explanations as to the difference in price—one was the extra cost of inspecting the make of a number of small factories (but which he thought should not make a difference of more than a sixteenth of a cent at any time); and the second reason given was that owing to the large number of buyers on the Peterborough board some of them got excited and ran the price up.

Mr. Flavelle pointed out that many of the Peterborough factories boarded large quantities and their make had gained a reputation in the old country markets; dealers were frequently cabled for the cheese of a certain factory, and were willing to pay a trifle more for it owing to the uniform quality of the lot. Beyond question some of the Lindsay factories made beautiful cheese, but some few were inferior. Leaving Peterborough out, he thought the prices paid on the Lindsay board exceeded the average of Barrie, Ingersoll, Stirling, Campbellford and other places.

Buyer Whitton pointed out that nearly every cheese exporter in Eastern and Western Ontario had lost money last season, and some had been ruined. In Peterborough he could get 1,500 boxes of cheese in a nest of factories which he could inspect in half a day; then he secured uniform lots, which he considered were worth at least one-eighth more than broken lots. Last fall he had been instructed to buy a large lot of cheese at 9½c, but the sale was not closed and he had purchased the lot later on at 8c, but there was no money in the deal for his firm. As for the Peterborough prices, Mr. Clurton, a dealer, had stated that the money lost last year by the Peterborough buyers would pay for six of the best farms in the county.

President Robertson next called for offers for the cheese boarded.

Mr. Flavelle (to Mr. Whitton)—"Let us clear the board at 7c."

Mr. Whitton—"It's not worth the trouble; I came prepared to pay 7c for a quantity, but the few boxes offered may as well be held over."

The salesmen agreed, and later on it was decided to change the day of meeting to Tuesday, the next board to be held on June 14th, when the whole of the May make will be offered.

BAY OF QUINTE CONFERENCE

It Goes into Session this Week at Lindsay—The Stationing Committee Now Meeting.

The Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist church will hold its session this week in the Cambridge street church, Lindsay.

The stationing committee meets to day to prepare the first list of stations, which will probably take them two days.

On Wednesday morning the ministerial part of the Conference will meet, to examine reports on ministerial character, on the standing of probationers for the ministry, and determine what shall be done with those who are candidates for work in the church.

The whole conference will meet on Thursday, and continue its meetings daily until the conference business is transacted. The conference will probably end on the Wednesday following.

Those wishing to visit the conference will find Friday probably the most interesting day, as in the evening the young men who have finished their probation will be received into full connection with the conference. On Sunday morning they will be ordained.

LIFE AND WORK OF CONDUCTOR SNIDER.

The many friends of the late Conductor Snider, than whom few in Ontario have enjoyed wider popularity, will be pleased to learn that a memorial volume on "The Life and Work of Conductor Snider," is shortly to be issued by William Briggs, giving an admirable biographical sketch by Rev. D. W. Snider; a number of tributes, personal, and from various societies, etc.; two of the Conductor's best sermons, "The Blessed Invitation," and "The 'Railway' Sermon," and his well-known lecture on "Life on the Rail." Rev. Dr. Griffin, who contributes an Introduction, observes that "No more popular conductor ever took charge of a railway train," and that his "affable treatment of the travelling public made him a universal favourite."

THE INVASION OF CUBA

Will go on Unless Some Part of the Plan Miscarries.

TROOPS ARE BREAKING CAMP.

About Twenty-Five of the Largest and Fastest Ships Available Have Been Secured to Transport the Invading Force—Successful Attack by the Insurgents Under Gomez—War News.

Washington, May 31.—The military invasion of Cuba has begun, unless the orders of the War Department miscarry. At an early time yesterday the troops that have gathered at the Gulf ports began to break camp and march aboard transports waiting to carry them to the enemy's territory. About twenty-five of these ships—the biggest and fastest that could be obtained, suitable for the purpose—had been gathered, ready to receive the troops. They will accommodate 80,000 men, for in a short voyage like that from one of the Gulf ports to Cuba it is possible with safety and comfort to carry a much larger number of men aboard ship than would be admissible in the case of a cruise to the Philippines for instance.

Miles on the Move.

General Miles and his staff, making a party of 34 persons, left Tampa last night on a special train over the Southern Railway.

The Harvard Sailed.

Kingston, Jamaica, May 31.—The Harvard has sailed to find and join Commodore Schley's squadron. She took a pilot familiar with the south coast of Cuba.

GOMEZ TAKES REMEDIOS.

Loots the Town, Kills 32 Spaniards and Captures Stores of Supplies.

London, May 30.—A despatch to the Standard from Key West says: "Intelligence has been received from Cuba that a portion of the army of General Maximo Gomez, consisting of 300 cavalry and 500 infantry, on Saturday at daylight attacked, captured and held for two hours the town of Remedios, in the Province of Santa Clara.

"The Cubans were under the command of Carillo, and the object of the attack was to capture a supply of provisions sent three days before for the Spanish troops, who numbered 3,000 men.

"General Carillo, hearing of their arrival, sent to General Gomez for reinforcements and, having received 100 infantry and 200 cavalry, decided to attack at dawn. His camp was formed Friday night about three miles from Remedios; no fires were permitted and all orders were given by word of mouth instead of bugle.

"At 3.55 a.m. on Saturday the troops formed for attack, the cavalry under General Castillo being in front and the infantry, under Colonel Borra, constituting the second line. They were almost in the town before a sentry gave the warning. The cavalry charge practically decided the capture; and the infantry, following at double quick, looted the place of everything edible, which was sent to General Gomez, as well as 304 Mauser rifles and 30,000 rounds of ammunition, under an escort of 50 cavalry and 100 infantry.

"The loss of the Cubans was four killed and three wounded. The Spaniards lost 32 killed and 63 wounded. The Cuban troops had eaten nothing but 'jnita' for weeks and had no bread or coffee. Consequently they are reveling in the canned beef, sardines, coffee and other edibles of the capture.

"Two hours after the town was taken the Spanish troops, who had been reinforced, returned and recaptured Remedios. Five Cubans were killed or wounded in the second engagement. The Spanish loss is unknown."

CERVERA IS COOPED.

The Undesirable Fix the Spanish Admiral Is in at Santiago de Cuba—How Schley Trapped Him.

Mole St. Nicholas, Hayti, May 31.—The following despatch has been received here from the correspondent of the Associated Press with the American fleet off Santiago de Cuba:

Off Santiago de Cuba, May 30.—Commodore Schley and the flying squadron have the Spanish fleet bottled up in the harbor of Santiago de Cuba. By the most clever manoeuvring the Commodore allowed the Spaniards to think he had left in disgust. They took the bait and ran into the harbor. Commodore Schley moved down yesterday and at 6 o'clock, going close to the harbor, he saw the Cristobal Colon, the Maria Teresa and two torpedo boats. He believes the entire fleet is there.

Commodore Schley has acted upon his own information and judgment for the past six days. He sat on the after triangle of the Brooklyn in the morning until after the discovery of the fleet and he then went to breakfast saying: "I have got them, and they will never get home."

The United States auxiliary cruiser St. Paul arrived here and was sent to the Mole St. Nicholas with despatches. She captured a coal ship, which was sent to Key West by Captain Sigsbee in charge of a prize crew. The coal was undoubtedly intended for the Spanish fleet. It is believed there is not much coal at Santiago de Cuba.

The officers and men of the flying squadron are jubilant over the fact that the location of the Spanish fleet has finally been definitely established.

The temperature here is 110 degrees in the shade, and in the steel turrets the heat is actually beyond endurance.

The American ships here are the Brooklyn, Texas, Massachusetts, Iowa, Marblehead and the Vixen, an auxiliary torpedo gunboat.

A Slender Difference.

New York, May 31.—A despatch to the World from Kingston, Jamaica, says: Cervera depends upon the Cadiz squadron to uncork the bottle into which he is shut. He is believed to know of the coming of that fleet. The cable is censored rigidly and no ships are allowed to leave the harbor.

Santiago believes it impossible for the American ships to dash inside after Cervera, because, in addition to the line of forts, the channel has been thoroughly mined.

Meanwhile the insurrents are drawing all available forces around the city and are prepared in the event of an American naval victory outside the harbor to attack the city on the land side and try to take this last stronghold of the Spaniards in the eastern part of Cuba.

DEWEY AT MANILA.

He Will Hold the Spanish Responsible if They Shoot the Surrendering Captain—Price on His Head.

Hong-Kong, May 31.—The British second-class cruiser Pique has arrived here from Iloilo and Manila. She reports all quiet at both places.

The Spanish garrison at Iloilo numbers 100 men and the place has no defences. The foreigners there are safe.

Supplies are reaching Manila plentifully from the surrounding country. There is no panic at Manila.

The Spaniards are working upon the fortifications, but their guns are old and useless and they are short of ammunition.

Rear-Admiral Dewey has informed the authorities at Manila that he will hold them responsible for the life of the captain of the Spanish gunboat Calloa, captured by the United States fleet. The Spaniards have been threatening to shoot him for surrendering, although confronted by the whole American fleet.

All the American ships are at Cavite, in Manila Bay. Salt provisions are plentiful, but fresh provisions are not obtainable. There is no sickness on the American fleet.

In reply to the Spanish attempt to win over Aguinaldo's men, the insurgents are said to have informed the Spaniards that they are neutral and will await events.

The Spanish gunboat El Cano, which captured the American barque Saranac, loaded with coal, and owned by William Simpson, jr., of New York, has left Iloilo and gone to the Samoangan River.

It is asserted that the Spaniards released the Saranac owing to the fact that the steamer hoisted the British flag prior to her capture.

The Americans have captured the Spanish gunboat Leyte, which was attempting to run despatches into Iloilo.

A steamer is reported to have landed 6,000 rifles at Cavite, for the use of the insurgents.

The Spaniards have offered $25,000 for the head of Aguinaldo, the insurgent leader.

The Governor of Hong-Kong has prohibited the United States auxiliary cruiser Zafiro from taking war stores to the American fleet, but he has permitted her to ship "officers' " luxuries. The Zafiro sailed from here for Manila yesterday.

IN A BAD WAY AT SANTIAGO.

Cervera Had no Supplies and His Arrival Deepened the Gloom.

Port au Prince, Hayti, May 31.—Two Italians who set out from Santiago de Cuba in a small boat on Thursday, May 19, and landed near Mole St. Nicholas on the 22nd, arrived here Sunday, bringing information as to the situation at Santiago.

The state of affairs there is critical, particularly so because of the lack of food. A great many of the unfortunate people, especially the reconcentrados, are dying of starvation. The whole population is terribly discouraged and keenly desirous of peace.

The arrival of the squadron under Admiral Cervera without food supplies for the city deepened the general despondency.

The squadron has disembarked 800 men, artillerymen and engineers, and landed twenty thousand Mauser rifles, a large quantity of ammunition and four big guns, destined for the fortifications.

In spite of the strict silence maintained by the officers and crews, the general opinion was, when the Italians left, that the squadron would set out for San Juan de Porto Rico to land arms and ammunition there. For several days the rain had been falling in torrents and many cases of yellow fever had broken out among the Spanish troops.

A DARING BLOCKADE RUNNER.

British Ship Restormel Captured at Santiago de Cuba.

Key West, May 31.—The British steamer Restormel was brought in here yesterday under her own steam, manned by a prize crew of American seamen. The Restormel was captured by the St. Paul, under the guns of Morro Castle, at Santiago de Cuba. She was loaded with 3,400 tons of the best Welsh coal, evidently intended for Admiral Cervera. Not a line was found in the ship's papers relative to the ship's destination or owners of her cargo. When brought into port here the Restormel was leaking badly.

The British steamer Restormel was built at New Castle in 1882. She has a gross tonnage of 2,030, is 286 feet long, has 36 feet 3 inch beam and is 23 feet 7 inches deep. She is owned by the Restormel Steamship Company, Limited (J. Corry & Sons) of Cardiff.

Spanish Cruiser Escaped.

Key West, May 31.—The unknown steamer, supposed to be a Spanish auxiliary cruiser, sighted by the Wilmington and Bancroft about 15 miles off Key West early on Thursday morning, was not captured. The Bancroft gave up the chase.

The Fleet at Cadiz.

New York, May 31.—A despatch to the Herald from Gibraltar says that it may be positively stated that there has been no movement from Cadiz of the Spanish reserve squadron.

Roosevelt's Rough Riders.

San Antonio, Texas, May 31.—Roosevelt's regiment of rough riders left for Tampa last evening, and 100 cars were required to transport them. The officers expect to reach Tampa early Wednesday morning. All the soldiers are in good health and eager to get to the front. All surplus baggage has been discarded, and the soldiers left here in light marching order and will be ready to embark for Cuba immediately upon arrival at Tampa. The regiment numbers 1,065 men and 1,258 horses and mules.

THREE YEARS FOR KILLING.

Walter Frankum Receives His Sentence for Shooting James D. Rankin—Mrs. Stevens Was Acquitted.

Bracebridge May 31.—At the opening of the Assize Court yesterday, prisoners Walter Frankum and Margaret Stevens were arraigned on the charge of killing James D. Rankin. The tragic end of James D. Rankin was the outcome of a family quarrel. Deceased had for a number of years been at enmity with many of his neighbors, and had been tried on criminal charges. At one of those charges his sister, the prisoner Stevens, was a witness on his behalf, but later on, when he was again tried on a charge of stealing oats from one Jennings, the prisoner espoused the cause of Jennings (who now lives with her) as against her brother. Since that time there has been trouble in the family.

David Rankin, father of deceased, was the chief Crown witness. He said that twenty years ago he made a private road from the main road to his house. It had been used by the Stevenses. Two years ago he forbade them to travel over it, but this did not stop them. On Dec. 21 last witness and deceased, James Rankin, were loading tanbark on this private road. The sleigh was standing in the middle of the road, with a pile of tanbark on each side. He saw Mrs. Stevens and Walter Frankum, the two prisoners, coming towards them with a one-horse sleigh. He ordered Mrs. Stevens to go back and find her way home by the other road. She refused to do so, and sent the boy "away home for the gun and Mr. Jennings." While the boy was gone deceased and prisoner were quarreling. The boy came back with the gun, and two younger boys brought axes. Walter pointed the gun and fired. The charge entered James Rankin's leg between the ankle and knee. He went to a neighbor's and bathed the wound and then was taken to the Huntsville Hospital, where he died in four days.

Doctors Struthers, Howland and Hart of Huntsville were examined, and told of the treatment of deceased while in the hospital, and agreed that death was caused by gangrenous poisoning from soiled clothing coming in contact with the gunshot wound. It might here be stated that deceased bathed the wound with his sock at the hotel he went to before being taken to the hospital. The dying deposition of deceased was read and put in evidence. In this statement he said he was shot by Walter Frankum, and that Margaret Stevens sent the boy for the gun

For the defence a number of witnesses were called, amongst them being J. J. McCarthy, father of the widow of deceased. He manifested extreme bitterness against the Rankins, and admitted that he was glad that Rankin was shot. In the course of his evidence he said that prisoner, Mrs. Stevens' first husband, had helped David Rankin build this road in 1883, and it was understood between them that both families were to be allowed to use it. David Rankin and McCarthy's daughter were recalled, and denied this statment about the road.

Witness Jennings, who has been living with Mrs Stevens, said he was present when the gunshot was fired, that Rankin made a rush at the boy with an ax, and said he would cut him to pieces, and did cut him on the hand when the gun went off.

David Frankum, a young brother of Walter, largely corroborated the evidence of Jennings.

The case was given to the jury at 6.30 p.m., and at 9.10 they brought in a verdict of not guilty as against Margaret Stevens and guilty as to Walter Frankum, with a recommendation to the merciful consideration of the court. The Chief Justice sentenced the boy to three years in the Reformatory.

THE QUEEN'S MESSAGE.

A Message to Mrs. Gladstone Which Proves Her Majesty's Tenderness of Heart.

London, May 31.—On Saturday last the Queen sent the following message to Mrs. Gladstone:

"My thoughts are much with you today when your dear husband is laid to rest. To-day's ceremony will be most trying and painful for you, but it will be at the same time gratifying to you to see the respect and regret evinced by the nation for the memory of one whose character and intellectual abilities marked him as one of the most distinguished statesmen of my reign.

"I shall ever gratefully remember his devotion and zeal in all that concerned my personal welfare.

(Signed) "Victoria, R.I."

PROVINCIAL RIGHTS IN FISHERIES.

A ready-made Federal constitution, so to speak, like that of Canada, being the work of human minds, and not, like the British constitution, the result of experience, must necessarily give rise to some misunderstanding as to jurisdiction. This has been the result, and from time to time recourse has been had to the highest court in the Empire to settle disputed points of claim. Our readers are familiar with many of these, and with the fact that the contention of Ontario has been almost invariably upheld, as in the case of the disputed point in respect to the ownership of the fisheries, in which a decision was given in the Privy Council a few days ago in favour of the Provinces.

The question at issue in that trial was the ownership of the fish, mineral and other products of the inland waters of the Dominion, and has been in dispute ever since Confederation. During that time the proprietorship of the waters has been claimed by the Dominion, and to the Federal Government has gone the money paid in by licensees, although, under the protest of the Provinces, and which has amounted to a very large sum, more especially in western Ontario, where the export of fish is many times greater even than the export of minerals. The effect of the decision is that the proprietory right of the products of the waters is all vested in the Provinces, except the harbours, which are, of course, always under the jurisdiction of the Dominion. This will mean a great addition to the revenue of the Provinces by means of licenses, but it will probably also mean considerable expenditure if the Dominion Government, deprived of the revenue to be derived therefrom, withdraws the protection it affords by means of the fleet of cruisers, thus forcing the maintenance of these upon the Provincial authorities. The natural result of the decision will be a demand on the part of the Province for an indemnity from the Dominion for the losses they have sustained through their not receiving the revenue which all these years has gone to the Federal power.

The effect of the judgment is to hold that the beds of all lakes, rivers and other waters within the territorial limits of the several Provinces, and not granted before Confederation, become under the British North America act, the property of the Province in which the same is situate, and that there is no distinction in this respect between the various classes of waters, whether salt waters or fresh waters, tidal or non-tidal, navigable or non-navigable, or between the great lakes, such as Lake Huron and Superior, or the rivers, such as the St. Lawrence and other rivers, that all go to the Provinces, except public harbours, which are held to belong to the Dominion. The Privy Council holds that the question of harbours is a matter of fact in each particular case. The act of the Dominion respecting works in or over navigable rivers is held to be intra vires. The Privy Council also confirm the Supreme Court in holding that riparian proprietors before Confederation had the exclusive right of fishing in non-navigable lakes, rivers, streams, and waters, the beds of which have been granted to them by the Crown.

One of the most important, practically, of the conclusions of the Privy Council is that the Dominion has no jurisdiction to make a grant giving the exclusive right of fishing in any waters, whether navigable or non-navigable, except harbours, though they have the right and jurisdiction to license and regulate fisheries; or, in other words, the effect of the holding that the beds of the rivers belong to the Provinces, is that the Province owns the fish, and has the right to the revenue, though the Dominion has the right of regulation. The act of the Provincial Parliament allowing the Province to grant the beds of all navigable waters, except harbours is held to be within the powers of the Province.

INCREASE IN TRADE.

The trade returns for the ten months ending April 30 show so great an increase over the same period of 1897 as to be as to be worthy of more than passing comment. An increase of forty million dollars, or about twenty per cent., is not by any means a common experience in this country. The fact that this short period has witnessed an expansion of exports to the amount of $27,000,000 and of imports $13,000,000, must be taken as a proof of the power of Canada to recuperate from severe depression. What is especially worthy of note in regard to the gain in exports is that twenty-one of the twenty-seven millions gained in exports are for farm products of one kind or another. The increase in the value of manufactures exported, $1,164,000, while very gratifying in its way, and highly encouraging to the manufacturers who are evidently finding larger markets for their wares, is yet small when compared with the increase in farm products. It is altogether likely that the advantage derived by the manufacturers from increased exports has been much less than that which by this time has come as a result of the good fortune of the agricultural community.

The increase in the volume of imports has also been remarkable, and it is interesting to observe that rather more than one-half of the increase is made up of goods on which no duty is paid. This in itself might be regarded as a forceful answer to the charge that the Liberal administration has done nothing in the way of remedying a tariff grievance. But a yet more striking illustration of the effectiveness of their work is to be found in the customs return for April, which shows an importation of $10,127,634, as against $8,395,838 for the same month last year, an increase of a million and three-quarters, while the duties collected were actually $18,000 less in April, 1898, than in April, 1897.

It is thus to be seen that while with one hand the Liberal administration is reducing the burdens on such necessaries of life as can be influenced in price by importation from abroad, and with the other is providing cold storage and other facilities for obtaining command of the British market for the highest grades of farm products the country is going rapidly ahead, more confident than ever of its future.

HOW TO LIVE A HUNDRED YEARS.

Sir James Sawyer, an English physician, is one of those who thinks that if a man takes proper care of himself he ought to live to be at least 100 years old. For the sake of those who would like to try experiment, the nineteen rules prescribed by Sir James are given:—You are to take eight hours' sleep; sleep on your right side; keep your bedroom window open all night; have a mat to your bedroom door; do not have your bedstead against the wall; no cold tub in the morning, but a bath at the temperature of the body; exercise before breakfast; eat little meat and see that it is well cooked; (for adults) drink no milk; eat plenty of fat to feed the cells which destroy disease germs; avoid intoxicants, which destroy those cells; daily exercise in the open air; allow no pet animals in your living rooms, they are apt to carry about disease germs; live in the country if you can; watch the three D's—drinking water, damp and drains; have change of occupation; take frequent and short holidays; limit your ambition and keep your temper.

THE GRAND TRUNK.

Whatever else may be said about Charles M. Hayes, there is no doubt at all about the fact that he is a great railroad manager. He took charge of the road when it was losing money right and left, and has already brought it to a point where revenue and expenditure meet. This is a great feather in the cap of the manager, for no one had ever succeeded in doing it before.

One of the great troubles with the Grand Trunk used to be that the concern was managed from England. The manager in Canada had to write or cable home whenever there was anything to be done that was at all out of the ordinary, and the consequence was that important moves were delayed so long that opportunities were always being lost.

When Manager Hays took charge of the road he stipulated on having autocratic authority to follow out his own ideas in his own way. There was some demur at this, but the power he sought for was finally conceded to him, and the result is seen.—The Province.

A WAY OF ESCAPE

From the Endless and Terrible Tortures of Dyspepsia.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets the Cure—The Only Cure—They Cure Naturally and for All Time—And They Never Fail.

Why is it that women suffer more than men? The question has been asked hundreds of thousands of times, but no satisfactory answer has ever been given.

Meanwhile, gentle, loving, patient woman goes on, bearing her heavy load.

You can see the ravages of ill-health on hundreds of otherwise lovely faces, every day. That sallow, weary-looking woman is enduring the miseries of dyspepsia; that one whose face is prematurely wrinkled, whose eyes have lost their brightness, and who bears, unconsciously, a look of continual pain, is a victim of indigestion.

In the majority of cases, women suffer needlessly. They are like the occupants of a burning house, who, although the doors are open refuse to make their escape.

This is true of all who suffer from Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Flatulence, Nervous Debility, Catarrh of the Stomach and digestive organs. It is true because there is a way of escape from suffering.

This way of escape—and there is no other, remember—is through the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They prevent or cure these diseases by removing their cause,—imperfect digestion. They digest the food, tone and strengthen the stomach, and stimulate the bowels. They clean out the system, supply pure blood, establish perfect digestion.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or sent, on receipt of price, by The Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

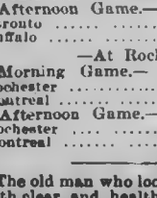
The old man who looks out at the world with clear and healthy eyes cannot help feeling great gratification at the thought that his children have inherited from him no weakness nor tendency to disease. The healthy old man is the man that has throughout his life kept his digestion good and his blood pure. Not one in a thousand does do it. Germs go through the healthy body without effect. Let them once find lodgment or let them find a weak spot, they will develop by the million and the blood will be full of them. Instead of giving strength to the tissues it will force upon them innutritious matter, and the man will lose flesh and the more susceptible he is to disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is he only medicine that absolutely and infallibly cures all blood diseases, and almost all diseases are blood diseases. It isn't a medicine for some one particular so-called disease. It is a medicine for the whole body. It forces out all the germs of disease and replaces impurities with rich, red blood.

Worms Can't Stay

When Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup is used. It's death to the worms, easy on the system and nice to take. Contains sufficient laxative so that there is no need of giving castor oil or calomel afterwards.

DON'T CHIDE THE CHILDREN.



Don't scold the little ones if the bed is wet in the morning. It isn't the child's fault. Weak kidneys need strengthening—that's all. You can't afford to risk delay. Neglect may entail a lifetime of suffering.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

Strengthen the Kidneys and Bladder, then all trouble ceases.

Mr. John Carson, employed at M. S. Bradt & Co.'s store, Hamilton, Ont., says:

"My little boy seven years of age has been troubled with his kidneys since birth and could not hold his water. We spent hundreds of dollars doctoring and tried many different remedies, but they were of no avail. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured him."

Doan's Kidney Pills never fail to cure Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, Pain in the Back, Rheumatism, Urinary Troubles or Bladder Weakness.

Sold by druggists at 50c. a box or 3 for $1.25. The Doan Kidney Pill Company, Toronto, Ont.

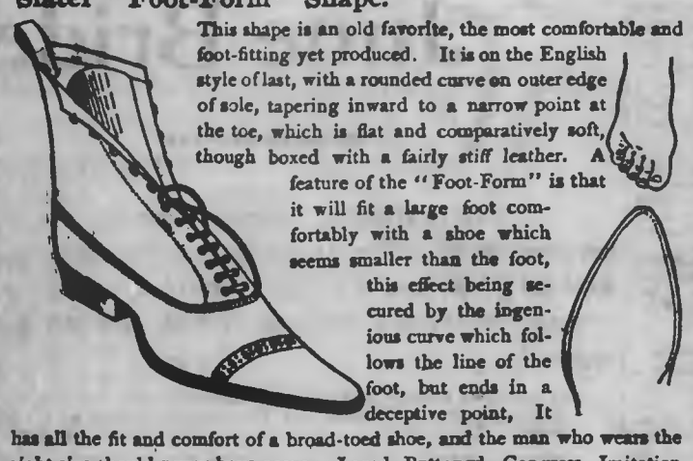
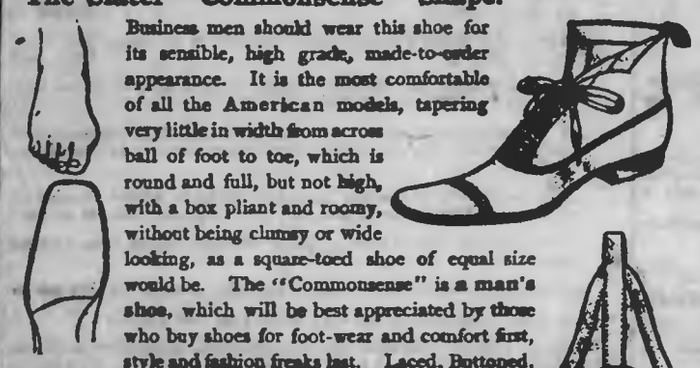
Foot-Fitters' Convention

Slater "Foot-Form" Shape.



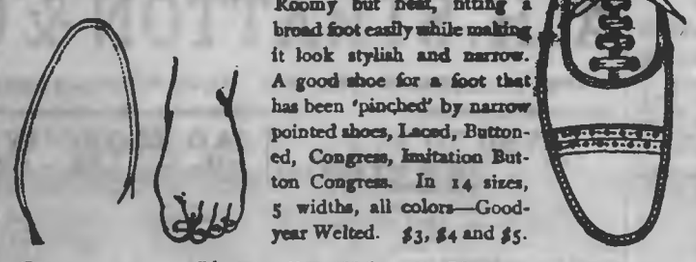
This shape is an old favorite, the most comfortable and foot-fitting yet produced. It is on the English style of last, with a rounded curve on outer edge of sole, tapering inward to a narrow point at the toe, which is flat and comparatively soft, though boxed with a fairly stiff leather. A feature of the "Foot-Form" is that it will fit a large foot comfortably with a shoe which seems smaller than the foot, this effect being secured by the ingenious curve which follows the line of the foot, but ends in a deceptive point, It has all the fit and comfort of a broad-toed shoe, and the man who wears the right size should never have corns. Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Button Congress, and Oxford. All colors, 14 sizes, widths B to E. Goodyear Welted, Slater method. $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00.

The Slater "Commonsense" Shape.



Business men should wear this shoe for its sensible, high grade, made-to-order appearance. It is the most comfortable of all the American models, tapering very little in width from across ball of foot to toe, which is round and full, but not high, with a box pliant and roomy, without being clumsy or wide looking, as a square-toed shoe of equal size would be. The "Commonsense" is a man's shoe, which will be best appreciated by those who buy shoes for foot-wear and comfort first, style and fashion freaks last. Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Button Congress, all leathers, all colors, 14 sizes, 6 widths. Goodyear Welted—$3, $4 and $5.

The Slater "Natural" Shape.

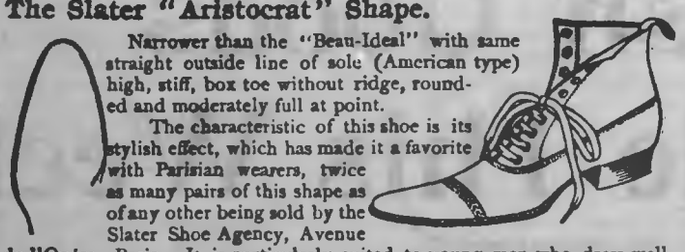


A new comfort shoe without clumsy looking toe. Roomy but neat, fitting a broad foot easily while making it look stylish and narrow. A good shoe for a foot that has been 'pinched' by narrow pointed shoes, Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Button Congress. In 14 sizes, 5 widths, all colors—Goodyear Welted. $3, $4 and $5.

Slater "Bulldog" Shape.

An English fashion freak—relief for corny toes cramped into a bunch by narrow shoes. The long and stiffly boxed tip gives ease. "Foot-form" shape only. Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Buttoned Congress, and Low Cut Laced. Light Mediun and Dark Tan, Seal Brown, Wine and Black. All sizes and widths. Goodyear Welted—$3.00, $4.00 and $5.00.

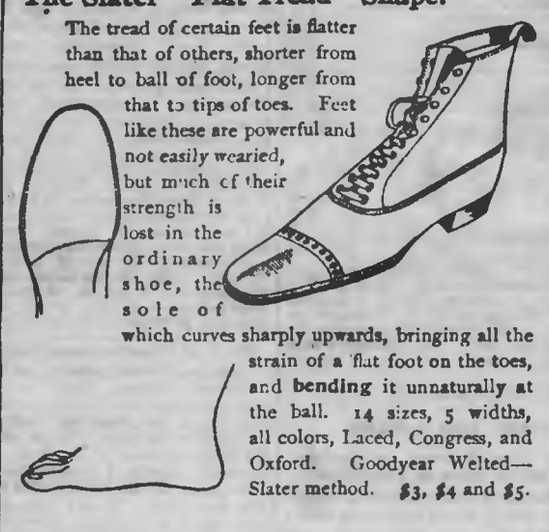
The Slater "Aristocrat" Shape.



Narrower than the "Beau-Ideal" with same straight outside line of sole (American type) high, stiff, box toe without ridge, rounded and moderately full at point.

The characteristic of this shoe is its stylish effect, which has made it a favorite with Parisian wearers, twice as many pairs of this shape as of any other being sold by the Slater Shoe Agency, Avenue de l'Opéra, Paris. It is particularly suited to young men who dress well, and realize that the finishing touch consists in wearing a shoe which has in its shape that peculiar atmosphere of style and slenderness which marks the "Aristocrat." Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Oxford, all leathers, all colors, 14 sizes, Goodyear Welted, Slater Method. $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00.

The Slater "Flat Tread" Shape.



The tread of certain feet is flatter than that of others, shorter from heel to ball of foot, longer from that to tips of toes. Feet like these are powerful and not easily wearied, but much of their strength is lost in the ordinary shoe, the sole of which curves sharply upwards, bringing all the strain of a flat foot on the toes, and bending it unnaturally at the ball. 14 sizes, 5 widths, all colors, Laced, Congress, and Oxford. Goodyear Welted—Slater method. $3, $4 and $5.

MAN has been wonderfully and curiously made, but his feet were never intended to be the curiosities which many of them are.

Modern footwear (read foot-prisons) has transformed his feet from sources of comfort and support to painy, distorted nerve centres.

They have been forced into shoes modelled on ideal lasts, the conceptions of workers in wood, who never studied the peculiarities of feet.

To complete the work of destruction these "ideal" shoes (save the mark) are varnished with waxy dressings which close up the pores of the leather, and in these dank, ill-fitting dungeons, man's feet have sweltered and absorbed poisons thrown off by perspiration, which should have escaped through the leather pores plugged with wax and varnish.

Then came the "Slater shoe" made to fit these distorted feet and to preserve the shapes of the few that remain normal.

Every kind of men's feet were studied—a general average of classified distortions was struck and after months of study special lasts were made modelled to fit real human feet not merely the ideal of a last designer's conception.

Allowances for style and changing fashions must be made but the interior—foot shape—of the "Slater Shoe" never varies—like a room that may look longer or narrower, larger or smaller according as it is furnished and decorated—but it is always the same sized and shaped room.

After the shapes had been selected, the dressing was studied. You could not live in a house with the doors and windows all sealed up.

Neither can your foot remain healthy in a shoe coated and air proof with the wax and varnish of common dressings.

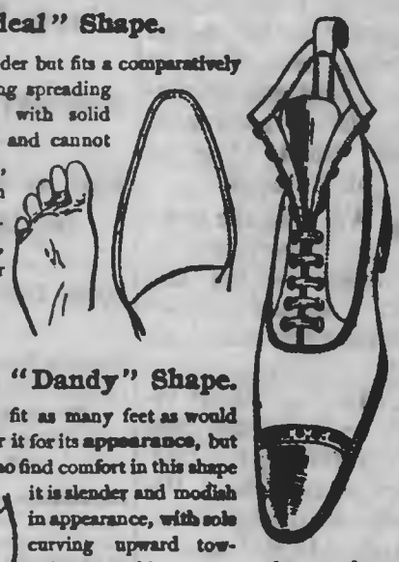
"Slater Shoe Polish" is made to protect "Slater Shoes" and the feet they cover.

It is a thin oily fluid that sinks into the leather, feeds its fibres, slakes its thirst—the plague of fine leather—and leaves a fine powder (not a wax paste that cracks the leather as soon as it is thick enough) that burnishes the actual leather like emery does steel.

These then are the homes in which you are invited to comfortably install feet with corns, or bunions or bad nails or calloused soles or painy joints, and they fit the first time they are worn, and always after, because the shrink and stretch has been forever taken out of them by remaining six days on their lasts. (N. B.—Common Shoes are only on the lasts one day.)

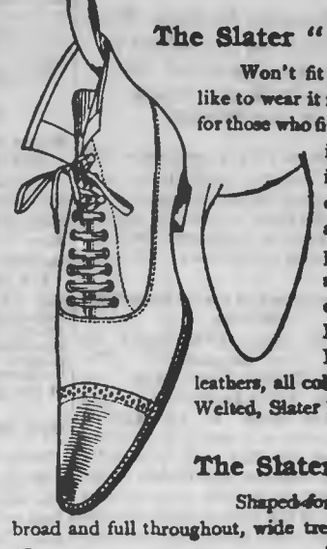
Matchless, footfitting, Goodyear welted — tackless, lumpless soles.—

The Slater "Bean Ideal" Shape.



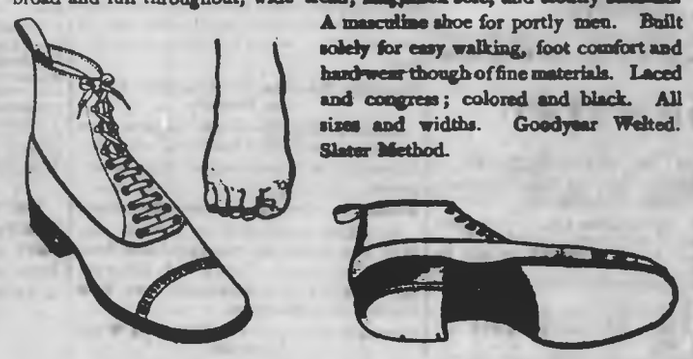
—A shoe that looks slender but fits a comparatively wide foot—comfortable for long spreading toes. The ridge toe, boxed with solid sole leather gives greater room and cannot break down. Made in Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Button Congress and Oxford. All leathers—all colors—14 sizes, 5 widths, Goodyear Welt—Slater Method. $3, $4 and $5.

The Slater "Dandy" Shape.



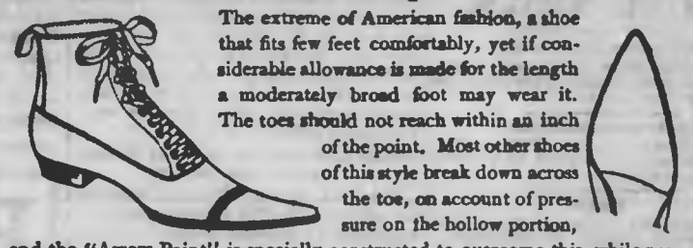
Won't fit as many feet as would like to wear it for its appearance, but for those who find comfort in this shape it is slender and modish in appearance, with sole curving upward towards toe, and long, narrow, but not sharp pointed box. Grace in its every curve—style in its every line—the most elegant conception amongst this season's designs. Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Buttoned Congress and Oxford. All leathers, all colors, 14 sizes, widths C to E, Goodyear Welted, Slater Method. $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00.

The Slater "Broadfoot" Shape.



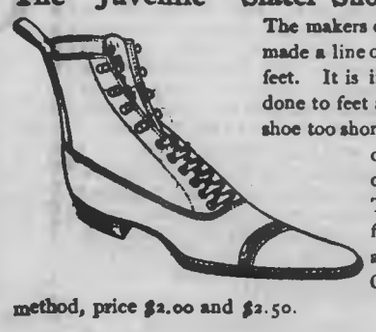
Shaped for short thick feet, wide English model, broad and full throughout, wide tread, flat, thick sole, and stoutly stitched. A masculine shoe for portly men. Built solely for easy walking, foot comfort and hard wear though of fine materials. Laced and congress; colored and black. All sizes and widths. Goodyear Welted. Slater Method.

The Slater "Arrow Point" Shape.



The extreme of American fashion, a shoe that fits few feet comfortably, yet if considerable allowance is made for the length a moderately broad foot may wear it. The toes should not reach within an inch of the point. Most other shoes of this style break down across the toe, on account of pressure on the hollow portion, and the "Arrow Point" is specially constructed to overcome this, while permitting the free use of toe joints. Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Button Congress, Oxford. All leathers, all colors, 14 sizes, 6 widths, Goodyear Welted, Slater method. $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00.

The "Juvenile" Slater Shoe.



The makers of Slater Shoes have designed and made a line of shoes to protect young developing feet. It is in youth that the greatest injury is done to feet and the worst ills contracted. A shoe too short for a tender foot will produce a bunion in a couple of days, and it stays for life. The Slater "Juvenile" shoe fits young feet perfectly, is as well made as its elders, Goodyear Welted, Slater method, price $2.00 and $2.50.

The "SLATER SHOE"

SLATER SHOE DEMONSTRATION.

A demonstration of the "Slater Shoe" will be held in this town for a week when you will have an opportunity of seeing and comparing the "Slater Shoes" and finding out just which shape will fit YOUR foot and how to care for the shoe, which leather to wear, its durability—in fact you can absorb in one half hour the information you NEED to know about shoes to last you for your life time.

The Archbishop of Ontario, Rev. Dr. Lewis, has agreed to the selection of a coadjutor bishop to perform the active work of the diocese, giving His Grace that rest which a service of forty years, his advanced age and not always perfect health entitle him to. MISCHIEVOUS BOYS.

They Start Cars Moving on the Grand Trunk in the Village.

This morning three boys named Nelson Smith, Edward VanCamp and Benjamin Curtis, all residents of Ashburnham, were before County Magistrate Edmison for having, Sunday before last, removed the blocks holding some cars on the Grand Trunk siding in Ashburnham, just above McAllister's flour mill and allowing them to run down the grade until brought to a stop by several others, which were fortunately firmly blocked between them and the end of the siding. But for these cars holding firm the entire lot might have been precipated down into the street from the end of the track and considerably damaged, as the drop is quite high.

As the boys are not of a class which usually appears in the police court they were allowed to go on payment of the costs and a small fine. Smith and Vancamp pay $4 00 each and Curtis $3 00.

The Most Prominent are Fashionable.

Dyspepsia or indigestion has become a fashionable disease. There are very few individuals who have not at various times experienced the miserable feeling caused by defective digestion. No pen can describe the keen suffering of the body, and the agony and anguish of mind endured by the Dyspeptic. Dr. La Londe, of 236 Pine Ave., Montreal, says, "When I ever run across cronic cases of Dyspepsia I always prescribe Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pill, and my patients generally have quick relief."

The Tale of the Ring.

A flour merchant in a western town let the story get out that while he was stooping over his flour bin a $150 diamond ring had slipped off his finger into the flour. He appeared to be greatly exercised over the loss, got a notice in the local paper, but finally announced with a sigh that he would have to give it up; that the ring was in the flour somewhere; that he supposed it would turn up in a sack of flour, but he had no idea what one. Well, you ought to have seen the boom that guileless man had in the flour trade. For the next week he had to hire extra help to fill sacks out of that bin. One man, who never bought a sack of flour from him before, came in and laid in a winter's supply. And the smooth merchant whistled softly as he filled the sacks and winked his other eye. —Printers' Ink.

LACROSSE.

Reports are received every day of the way that Orillia has strengthened up its team to make an effort to defeat the Peterboroughs on their own grounds here on Thursday. The game will be the hottest of the season. The Peterborough's will out play none but their own men, although the visitors have been importing lacrosse players into their town all spring.

The Juniors go to Jubilee Point to-morrow to play against Hastings there. There will be an excursion run down from town on the Eclipse, and the Catholic Order of Foresters, of Hastings, are taking up a big crowd from there. Commodore Calcutt is offering a silver cup to the winners. The Eclipse leaves the Wolf street wharf at 9 a.m.

A general practice of both seniors and juniors will be held this evening. The senior team to play against Orillia will be chosen afterwards, as will also the junior twelve to play against Hasting at Jubilee to-morrow.

The Toronto News says: Boulton R. Kean of the Orillia Lacrosse Club, is in the city to-day. He expects the greatest game in the history of the Northeastern District when his team and Peterborough comes together next Thursday. Ex-president Harry O'Loughlin will referee.

WRESTLING.

Sporting Editor of The Examiner:

SIR,—I notice in a recent issue of your paper a challenge from one Thomas Doyle to wrestle me. I would like to say that I have notified Mr. Doyle, through the Toronto papers that I would not wrestle him till after my match with the "Terrible Turk" which takes place on June 25. But I will match an unknown weighing 150 pounds at ringside against him for $200 a side, catch-as-catch-can, two falls out of three, and will cover the deposit of $50 now held by Mr. J. W. Smith any time he is ready. If this does not suit Mr. Doyle I will wrestle him myself a Graeco-Roman match any time after June 25.

Yours truly,
R. N. HARRISON.

THE CANADIAN FORESTERS

Receive the First License to Carry on Insurance in Quebec Under the New Law—Splendid Record of a Staunch Canadian Organisation.

The Canadian Order of Foresters was the first fraternal society to conform to the insurance law recently enacted in the province of Quebec and have been granted the first license to carry on an insurance business there.

This staunch Canadian Society is forging ahead and will no doubt continue to prove as successful as it has during the past nineteen years.

This order now has a membership of 28,000 with a surplus of $618,365 75 on hand May 1st, to pay death claims. This amount is deposited in some of the best monetary institutions in Canada, and as the business of the society is economically managed and the rates are in accordance with safe insurance, the policy holders can rest content in possessing a membership in one of the best and most stable organizations doing business in this country.

During 1897 the Order paid out in death claims $152 353 53 and in sick and funeral benefits $30,633 89. Over a million and a half of dollars have been paid out to its members and their dependents since its organization in 1879, notwithstanding which it has a larger surplus on hand for each $1,000 risk than any other society of the kind in Canada. Owing to the careful medical selection, the death rate for the 18th year of its history was only $5.44 per thousand. The Order possesses these excellent features which should appeal to everyone interested in safe insurance: It is purely Canadian and is therefore national in its character; the age limit is 18 to 45; it has a fixed premium and no death assessment; its investments are perfectly secure, not a dollar of the surplus being invested outside of Canada, and the premiums and interest accruing therefrom are used only for payment of death claims.

REDUCED REPRESENTATION.

Notice has been given of the introduction of a bylaw to be submitted to popular vote by which it is proposed to reduce the number of the members of the town council, such reduced number to be elected by vote of the whole body of electors in the same manner as the mayor is now elected. The bylaw will provide for a reduction of the number of councillors from twelve to nine, and for the abolition of wards; that is, every elector will, if the bylaw is approved of, have the opportunity of voting for nine instead of three councillors, in addition to the vote for mayor. In other words, councillors will be elected in the same manner as the mayor, and by the vote of the whole body of electors, so that a councillor will represent the whole town instead of a single ward, and will be responsible to all the electors instead of to those in his own immediate ward.

It is to be hoped that the bylaw will be submitted and liberally supported, because it, doubtless, is a move in the right direction. The tendency of democratic institutions is to over-government; that is, too many representatives, which of course involves a greater expenditure of public moneys, for it is inevitable that every representative must, in order to show that he is doing something for his constituency, whether it be a ward or a riding, inaugurate something that will, of course, involve expense, no matter, perhaps, whether it is or is not in the interests of the public. Under the new system, if it should be adopted, each councillor would be independent of local influences. If he does his best in his representative capacity for the welfare of the town he will meet with general approval. The greatest good to the greatest number will be the motto of the councillor with a right view of his duty; if he discharges his duty accordingly he will earn and secure the approval of his constituency which is the entire town; but if he should subordinate the general interests of the town to the advancement of purely sectional interests he must expect condemnation at the hands of the electors. A councillor will thus have a position of greater independence and if he does justly by the town in general, he need not fear the opposition of any section which might have an antipathy against him on account of some fancied neglect of a sectional matter, incompatible with the general interests, and a matter of favour to that particular section.

A large constituency is more favourable to a councillor than a small one. If he represents a ward, he can be held to stricter account, and he will be called upon to do things which are in some special interest, and if he fails, as the rest of the council will see that he does do, he will be in bad odour with his ward. Neither is a small constituency in the interests of the town. If a councillor can solidify the support of a ward, he is left free to attempt questionable acts without being reached by the rest of the town, whereas with the whole town as his constituency, if he does his duty faithfully, he will be able to count upon the general support, and need have no fear of the solidest ward influence adversely exercised.

The proposed system of election is in conformity with sound business principles. Practically, the town of Peterborough is a joint stock corporation, and the councillors are virtually the board of directors. In financial, and other institutions, the shareholders have a vote for the whole board. Then why should the ratepayers, equivalent to shareholders, have a vote for only three of the twelve directors who are to carry on their business? Every ratepayer has an interest in the election of every councilor, for it is the council collectively that manages his investment in the town. Now, a ratepayer, as a rule, only votes for three out of twelve councillors. He has no voice whatever in the election of the other nine members, a majority that, if so disposed, can neutralize the efforts and influence of the little trio he is now entitled to vote for.

The new system will be more just to the great body of electors. The great bulk of municipal electors are the small property owners or tenants. Each of them has now only one vote. Now, a man possessed of property in every ward, as many have, has a vote in each ward, which means twelve votes for councillors, whereas the ordinary citizen has only three votes. Under the proposed system every man will be placed upon an equality in this respect. The class with the largest number of votes can elect the men they consider best suited to look after their interests.

The idea of reduction of the number of councillors and election by the entire vote of a municipality is being favourably discussed in a large number of towns, in fact the permissive legislation of last session of the Ontario Legislature, providing that corporations may make the change if they so desire, was largely based on petitions presented by municipalities. The advantage of the change in every respect is almost self-evident, and it is to be hoped that the town council will place the bylaw proposed before the people, and there can be no doubt that it will strongly commend itself to popular approval. It is expected that the matter will be dealt with at the meeting of the town council next Monday night.

MOTORMAN O'REILLY CASE.

He was Cured of Diabetes by Dodd's Kidney Pills| Everything Else Failed.

Toronto, May 30—(By telegraph) With reference to his experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills, and Diabetes, Mr. T. H. O'Reilly, Toronto Street Railway motorman No. 624, writes corroborating the report of his cures.

Mr. O'Reilly says: "For three years I suffered horribly, in spite of all the medicines I tried. Not one of them gave the least relief. I endured the torture of scalding pains while urinating, and all the other agonies of Diabetes.

"Finally I was induced to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. The first dose did me good and I got better and better with each succeeding dose. Three boxes worked a thorough and complete cure."

LINES

Written in memory of Patrick, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hickey, of Galway township, who departed from this world April 21st, 1898, and was laid at rest by the side of two infant brothers, who preceded him:

Two precious ones lay side by side,
The mother's joy and father's pride;
And dearest Patrick, a gift of God,
Sleeps with them now beneath the sod.

Pain and sorrow filled our heart,
Darling boy 'twas hard to part.
From brothers fond and sisters dear,
For you they've shed affection tear.

Parents fond your hearts were riven,
No hope but to meet in heaven;
True you will miss your loving son,
God's holy will it must be done.

And in the business of this life
He was upright and true,
Avoiding every cause of strife;
He helped the needy too.

With every ill life still held claims,
He battled hard to stay,
But while upheld in loving arms
He swiftly passed away.

Each fireside has a vacant chair,
No flock but one dead lamb is there,
The good Lord gives and takes away,
Blessed be His holy name this day.

Parents, dear, for him don't mourn,
To God his spirit did return,
The rarest gift to him was given—
To live in those sweet realms of Heaven.

Young people all who read this rhyme,
Prepare for death while there is time,
Repent in time—make no delay,
For in his youth he was called away.

Rest in Peace.

—A SISTER. B. H.

A LETTER TO MADRID.

The Spanish Prosecution of Detective Kellert at Montreal, Que.

Montreal, May 31.—The Kellert letter-stealing case was called yesterday in the Police Court, but the prosecution was not ready to proceed, as they are trying to get hold of the two other men who, they allege, accompanied the accused to the Tupper street residence. Senor Carranza states that the stolen document was a letter he had written to the Department of Marine, Madrid. On the other hand, Joe Kellert says he will abundantly prove an alibi, and then he will go for the Spaniards for all he is worth.

CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES.

An Agreement for a Commission for Settlement Arrived At.

WHAT THE DIFFERENCES ARE.

Sir Louis Davies and the British Minister at Washington Successful in Their Efforts—The First Meeting of the Joint Commission Will Probably Be Held at Quebec.

Washington, D.C., May 31.—The Canadian negotiations which have been in progress here for the last week were concluded last night, when a definite agreement was reached for the creation of a commission which shall consider all the subjects of controversy between the United States and Canada, and frame a treaty between the Imperial Government and the United States for the complete adjustment of these controversies. The agreement is now to be submitted to the British Government for its approval, and when this is given the organization of the commission will be completed.

For the present the agreement is confined to the one point, that the commission shall be created, the time and place for the commission to begin its work being left for future determination. It is understood, however, that the first meeting will be held at Quebec, probably during the coming summer.

The membership of the commission will be determined by the executive branches of the two governments. The discussions during the last week have proceeded in a manner most satisfactory to all parties concerned, it being stated last night by those participating that the spirit of good will was marked throughout. The purpose was not to arrive at final conclusions, but rather to pave the way for a commission which could effect the conclusions by complete examination of all the details of the several questions involved. These include the Behring Sea, North Atlantic and lake fisheries, border immigration, reciprocity, mining regulations in the Klondike and British North America possessions, and also the determination of the Alaska boundary line. While these were gone over in the conference just closed, it was a preliminary discussion, and no final agreement was reached on any of the subjects involved. The expectation is that the commission will now accomplish this general work, offsetting concessions of one question by equal concessions on other subjects involved. Those participating in the conference were Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Ambassador; Sir Louis Davies, Canadian Minister of Marine; General J. W. Foster, special commissioner in charge of Canadian affairs, and Reciprocity Commissioner Kasson.

Sir Louis Davies left last night for Ottawa. The British Ambassador will forward the agreement to the British foreign office, and it is expected that it will be received as to the approval of the Imperial authorities in about a fortnight. After that the commissioners will be named and the time and place of meeting definitely determined upon.

The Chronicle on the Situation.

London, May 31.—The Daily Chronicle, commenting upon the despatch of its Washington correspondent as to the Canadian agreement, says:

"The news that the agreement has been signed will be received throughout the country with keen pleasure and entire satisfaction. The foundations have been laid, and we are convinced that the fabric of Anglo-American unity will reach its appropriate crown."

With reference to the probability of a protracted warfare, owing to the weakness of the insurgents in Cuba, the article continues:

"The United States must act as their own high destiny bids them. If a policy of expansion is forced on America, it cannot be doubted that a period of great trial, perhaps of prolonged warfare, is before us. We have no doubt whatever of her success. No people of tougher grit ever fought for their place in the world, but it will greatly shorten and simplify their task, assisting the work of civilization, if they are assured that British diplomacy and the British navy are acting as their reserve force."

ALLIANCE MEASURES NOT AFOOT.

Nothing Official Has Been Done to Further Anglo-American Alliance.

Washington, May 31.—Careful inquiry at the State Department and at the British Embassy fails to develop any substantial basis for the supposition that negotiations are afoot looking to a close compact between the United States and Great Britain covering all possible subjects of future differences, concerning special trade privileges on both parties, providing for the joint use of the Nicaraguan Canal, and embracing what would amount to an alliance, offensive and defensive, to the end that Great Britain might enjoy in peace her Asiatic possessions, while the United States would have a share of the trade in that quarter and will be secured also in the application of the Monroe doctrine. All of these subjects have been discussed from time to time in the past in the press of the United States and England, and the probable basis for the collation at this time is to be found in Mr. Chamberlain's speech, recently delivered, which has aroused so much interest on both hemispheres.

The descent is certain from weak lungs, lingering coughs, throat troubles or bronchial affections through bleeding lungs, to consumption, if the first stages are neglected. Thousands of people who are now in their graves would be alive and well to-day if they had heeded the first warnings of those troubles which lead to consumption and death.

The hacking cough, spitting of blood, weak lungs, and all similar troubles of the organs of breathing, will surely lead to consumption, if they are not already the signs of it. Then there are the other indications of the approach of consumption, such as night-sweats, emaciation, or wasting away of flesh from bad nutrition, which, if neglected, lead to certain death.

Ninety-eight per cent. of all the cases of weak lungs, bleeding lungs, lingering and obstinate coughs, and other bronchial and throat diseases, which have been treated with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, have been cured by it. Do not wait until your throat trouble becomes serious. All bronchial and throat troubles are serious. The time to take the "Golden Medical Discovery" is right at the start.

Even if your throat trouble has been neglected until it has been pronounced pulmonary disease or consumption, do not hesitate to use the "Golden Medical Discovery," for thousands of letters from the sufferers themselves, who are now well, bear evidence that the "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure, even after good physicians have pronounced the disease pulmonary consumption.

"I had been troubled with bronchitis for several years," writes Mrs. Orlin O'Hara, Box 114, Fergus Falls, Ottertail Co., Minn. "In the first place, I had sore throat. I doctored with different physicians and took various medicines, but got no relief. I raised from my throat a sticky substance like the white of an egg. Could not sleep, and had made up my mind that I would not live through the winter. I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription' alternately, and in a few days began to see that I was better. I took eight bottles. I have not felt as well in years as since using these medicines."

Unfailable—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for constipation and biliousness.

A PUGILISTIC BLUFF.

HOW A SPARE, QUIET MAN BESTED A GIANT IN A FIGHT.

A Quarrel Over the Wire That Had to Be Settled by a Personal Encounter—The Transformation of Clark and His Office and How It Worked.

Returning from a month's hunting in the Teton mountains, three of us who had come in over that trail 30 days before were immensely glad to see the little red station building at Beaver as it lay away down there in the basin, looking in the vastness of space like some kind of tired bug. We were glad, for Clark, the telegraph operator and station agent, had proved himself to be a worthy citizen during the two days we had waited there on our way in—two of us—for the third of the hunting trio. Clark was a spare, peaceful looking man of about 30, who seemed to delight in doing good turns to his fellows, and he was the last man on earth to suspect of nursing combative tendencies. We were therefore vastly surprised when on our return trip the door of the little red depot opened and a fierce looking creature stepped out to welcome us.

The unrecognized man had his hair clipped close to his skull; his mustache was shaved off to a stubble; a thick sweater in defiance of the heat of the day climbed up to his chin. With one hand he held the rope which ended in the form of a vile looking bull pup. The strange man was smoking a very short and stubby cigar. Altogether he looked tough, very tough, pugilistically tough.

"Hello!" he yelled. Then we knew it was Clark.

Clark's own transformation was immense, but greater was that of his office. In the days of our lounging there waiting for Hawkins we had been enabled to strike a rather fair inventory of the furnishings, and we knew them all, from coal box to water cooler and oil can. Now, however, there was a great metamorphosis.

"Why, what does all this mean?" Johnson inquired.

"Them?" said Clark. "The boxing gloves and punching bag and Indian clubs?"

"And the pictures? When did you take up the prizefighting business? Who are all these bruisers you have hanging on the wall?"

"Well," said Clark, "I'm blessed if I know. I wrote to a man in Pocatello and sent him $15 and told him to ship the worth of it in secondhand things that had to do with prizefighting. As a fact, I don't know a blessed thing about fighting, prize or any other kind, but them make a daisy bluff, don't you think?"

"I should say so. Why, any one coming in here would take you, in that outfit and with these surroundings, to be the champion middleweight of the universe."

"That's what I thought," said Clark. "You see, I'm waiting for a man."

Then he explained. Three weeks before he had had trouble over the telegraph line with the new operator down the road at Canyon, and the debate over the wire had ended on Clark's part by telling the other operator that he was several kinds of a liar and on the part of the Canyon man of promising to drop in about the end of the month and beat the life out of Clark. "And he's a big stiff, with arms like flour barrels, I have heard," said the agent. "So I decided that as a thin, miserable man like me couldn't lick him one way I'd try it another. He thinks I'm just what I am, a common scrub railroad operator. All right. When he gets off No. 71 here and walks up the platform and sees a man like me looking like the fellow who is going to whip Corbett, and when he sees these sporty furnishings and pictures, and especially when he lights on the pup—well, I kind of think he'll decide he ain't got any business in my neighborhood after all. Notice the padded soundness of this sweater."

We were loafing at Marcy's general store when No. 71 rolled up from the southward the next morning. We walked idly over to the station, talking on the way of Clark's queer plan of impressing and bluffing the enemy, when suddenly Johnson cried: "By George, who's that walking up the platform? It's the man from Canyon. Well, the slaughter of the innocent is about to begin."

The Canyon operator, a big thewed villain, opened the door of the telegraph room and looked fiercely in. Clark wasn't there, but his sporting garnitures were. The man stared at them in some surprise and then started toward a chair, doubtless intending to sit down and wait. We were at the window and saw it all. Clark stepped cheerily in from the baggage room, sweater, stub cigar, bristling head and all. The pup followed.

"What do you want?" Clark called loudly. "Can't a man take a 20 mile run to keep in training without some big dub coming in and occupying his office? Have you monkeyed with any of this athletic apparatus? If I thought you had, I'd pick you up and throw you out over the tracks and into the ditch just as I threw the 'Cherry Hill Chicken' out of the ring in San Francisco three years ago. Get out of here, you big tramp! What? You don't move? Take that!" And he landed a crack alongside the Canyon man's head. The visitor dropped off his chair in fright and crouched on the floor.

"Say! Quit that, mister!" he cried. "I don't mean any harm to you. I come up here to lick a ham operator named Clark. I"—

"Oh! You did! Well, get up. I'm Clark!"

"You?" gasped the other. "Why, I didn't know—you—were a fighter, or—say!" as an idea came to him. "Is this town Granite?"

"No. It's Beaver."

"That's it! That's it! There, now, don't hit me. It's all a mistake. My man Clark works at Granite. I'm awfully sorry, mister, and if you'll be kind enough to accept my apologies and let me go out so I can catch No. 71 and ride up to Granite I'll promise you'll hear of a fight that'll remind you of your old ring days. Thank you." And he bolted for the train, which was now leaving the station.

He really did go to Granite, the next station north, but instead of making any hostile demonstration at the agent, a man named McPherson, he bought a ticket and took the passenger train back to his own town, Canyon. The conductor said that when the train was passing Beaver the big man from Canyon hid under a seat.

The next day Clark sold his pugilistic effects to the proprietor of a newly started saloon. "I hate to see an go somehow," he said to Johnson, "for they did their part nobly, especially the pup. I think it was the sight of the pup that added the last straw to the bluff that bluffed him," meaning the man from Canyon.

Hawkins, however, insisted that it was Clark's own short cropped hair and tough, stubby mustache curling scornfully over the butt of a cigar.—Chicago Record.

A RELIABLE OFFER.

Honest Help Free to Men.

The (Peterborough Examiner) is authorized to state by Mr. D. Graham, Box 138, Hagersville, Ont., that any man who is nervous and debilitated or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from overwork, excesses or abuse, such as nervous debility, exhausted vitality, lost vigor, unnatural drains and losses, lack of development, etc., can write to him in strict confidence and receive free of charge full instructions how to be thoroughly cured.

Mr. Graham himself was for a long time a sufferer from above troubles and after trying in vain many advertised remedies, electric belts, etc., became almost entirely discouraged and hopeless. Finally he confided in an old clergyman, whose kind and honest advice enabled him to speedily obtain a perfect and permanent cure. Knowing to his own sorrow, that so many poor sufferers are being imposed upon by unscrupulous quacks, Mr. Graham considers it his duty as an honest man and a firm believer in Christian sympathy and kindness, to give his fellowmen the benefit of his experience and assist them to a cure. Having nothing to sell, he asks for no money, the proud satisfaction of having done a great service to one in need, he rightly considers an ample reward for his trouble. If you write to Mr. Graham you can rely upon being cured and upon absolute secrecy as well.

Address as above, enclosing a stamp, and refer to the (PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER). No attention, however, will be given to those writing out of mere curiosity, therefore state that you really need a cure.

Case of Necessity.

Dinguss—Old man, you've accommodated me a great many times, and I wouldn't strike you now if it wasn't a matter of absolute need. I am suffering for the lack of $10.

Shadbolt (reluctantly handing it over)—What's the trouble, Dinguss?

Dinguss—My wife has got her heart set on a wheel, and I need the $10 to make the first payment on it. Thanks, old fellow.—Chicago Tribune.

Contrary to All Precedent.

Railroad President—What does this mean, sir? You have one of the suburban trains leaving a station at 8 o'clock.

Superintendent—I—I thought that was right.

President—Right? Whoever heard of such a thing, sir? You must be crazy. The idea of any suburban train anywhere leaving a station exactly on the hour! Make it 7:59 or 8:01.—New York Weekly.

How She Viewed It.

Perhaps she was jealous, perhaps she wasn't; anyway, she had just heard of the engagement, and she could not help noticing the engaged girl's pride in her captured youth.

"Really," she said, and her lips curled scornfully, "there's no accounting for tastes, is there? Some people think they have won the game when they get the booby prize."—Chicago Post.

The Bertillon System in Canada.

Ottawa, May 28.—In the Senate yesterday, in moving the second reading of a bill to provide for identification of criminals, Hon. David Mills explained that the object of the bill was to introduce the Bertillon system of identification, which was in vogue in most countries. By this system any prisoner could be identified after he was discharged from prison, no matter what his disguise was. The bill was read a second time.

The Halifax War Alarm.

Halifax, N.S., May 28.—A small force of the British regulars taken to the harbor fortifications at yesterday's sudden mobilization is still manning each post of defence. Capt. Colborne, A.D.C. to General Montgomery Moore, Commander-in-Chief of the British troops in North America, describes the unexpected and warlike movement as exactly what would occur in case of a call to arms for actual fighting operations.

Many of the convicts in French prisons are paid for their labor and earn about 1s. 5d. a day. Half of this they are allowed to spend for extra food, postage, etc., and the rest is saved, to be given to them on their discharge.

Every day 300,000 cigars are smoked in London.

THE SURGEON FOILED.

Wanted to Perform an Operation.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS RENDERED IT UNNECESSARY.

Too many doctors are too ready to use the knife. Many a one is sacrificed on the altar of a surgeon's ambition to operate who could be saved by the use of Dr. Chase's K.-L. Pills. The case of MRS. W. B. AIKEN, of Zephyr, Ont., is one in point. Her husband says that she had been doctoring with several doctors for Inflammation of the Bladder for over a year.

"The last bottle I got from the doctor he said if that did her no good she would be compelled to have an operation performed. I luckily picked up a sample of Dr. Chase's K.-L. Pills in Mr. Dafoe's store, and my wife took one pill that night and one in the morning, and she has never felt the least sign of pain since. I will always keep Dr. Chase's Pills in my house for all our family complaints."

A STRONG ARGUMENT.

Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, N. A. L., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Please accept my thanks for your cheque just handed to me, for $3,291.95, in settlement of my $3,500 Fifteen Year Endowment Policy in your Company. Such a result as this, after the risk on my life has been carried for fifteen years, pertaining from forty-five years of age, argues one thing strongly, namely, that the management of the North American Life must be in competent hands. The other options you have offered me, viz.: a Paid-up Life policy for $6510.00, or a Life Annuity for $401.80, are, I presume, equally liberal, and it affords me much pleasure to recommend your Company to my friends or any desiring insurance.

Yours truly,

CANADA LIFE
Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,098.05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3,066, for the sum of $6,185,996, of which, however, 266 for $521,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard, which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $373,300 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5 291,696, under 2 609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $798,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,400 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,168 45, and Endowment policies for $128,846 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $218,481.29 for profits, $145 411.16 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,963,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,272,486 05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,678,915.67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company, I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company reaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, be prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compliation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Macritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes, Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? In DEATH. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK IN THE CHURCH.

REV. P. K. DAYFOOT SPEAKS ON THIS SUBJECT.

A Large Number of Those Interested in Young People's Work Assemble in the Murray Street Baptist Church.

A large audience of those interested in the work of young people in the church assembled last evening to hear Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, of Port Hope, speak on that subject in the Murray street Baptist church. Rev. A. T. Dykeman, the pastor, occupied the chair, and the opening devotional exercises were led by Rev. O. C. Elliott, of the Park street church, after which the choir sang the anthem, "Wake the Song."

Rev. Mr. Dayfoot proved to be a clear and forcible speaker, and his remarks were listened to with the closest attention. It is not the first time that he has addressed a Peterborough audience, and consequently the attendance was large.

He opened by stating that he would have preferred not to have had his address styled a lecture, as naturally some might attend expecting to hear something amusing and funny, whereas his remarks would not be at all humourous. Funny things were generally connected with young people, it was true. He knew this by experience, as he had of boys, numbering forty each, whom he instructed in Port Hope on Friday afternoons and evenings. His object, however, this evening would be to present the Young people's work in connection with the church in such a manner that all would go away with a feeling that hereafter they would be more diligent.

In the first place, he stated, he would speak of the work in a general way. The general aspect of the Young People's work suggested a new era in church life. Many present were old enough to remember when there was not much calculation made on the efforts of the young people in the church. Great excitement had prevailed in his own congregation when the Young People held their first meeting. The old deacons thought the degenerate days had come when the meetings of the older members of the congregation was not good enough for the young folks. The meeting was characterised as a sparking school. What if it was a sparking school? He would rather have his daughter find a husband in the Baptist Young People's Union than anywhere else. Better that she should pick her helpmate from an assemblage called for prayer than from some strange place of which her parents knew nothing. Where could she find better companionship or better associations?

There was a time when it was thought the young people and modestly in the train of their elders. Instances were cited where the societies had gone wrong. It was because that in these cases the Christian Endeavour spirit was forgotten. The best institutions on the face of the earth go wrong sometimes.

SHOULD FOLLOW MEEKLY

The title suggests the setting free of a great power.

The world was just finding out why the Lord created Niagara Falls. For years people wondered for what purpose they were made. They are beginning to understand that for many years there has been a mighty power waiting for someone to put it into harness. Electric power is now being transmitted all over the country from it.

At last it is beginning to dawn on the churches that a great power has been long going to waste in the children. To-day we have the great Christian Endeavour Society with its one and a half million members, the Epworth League with its hundreds of thousands, the Episcopalian Brotherhood of St. Andrew and Daughters of the King, and last, but not least, the Baptist Young People's Union.

Again this title suggests a very great power for the future.

On the first of July, some years ago, in Toronto, there was a monster procession of societies of every nature. Foremost came a large company of little boys. They were Foresters and bore a banner with the motto "The Hope of Our Order" inscribed on it.

THE OLDER MEMBERS of the Order followed. They knew that if they were to perpetuate their Foresteric life they must enlist the interest of the younger boys.

It is time that the church of Jesus Christ woke up to the same fact. Every pastor in the land understands this. The mass of the people settle down in a rut after they reach a certain age and the hope of the church and the pastor is in the young people who are coming up with eyes open to every opportunity to advance the interests of Christ's Kingdom.

Leaving the general character of young people's work in the church, the speaker called the attention of his hearers to the progress made by the Baptist Young People's Society. Although various societies of the same nature had been in existence for some time the first regular convention was held in Chicago in 1891, when 2,900 delegates were in attendance. From this good beginning the convention held the following year in Detroit had an attendance of 4,117. It dropped a little in Indianapolis in 1896, as only 3,500 reported, but at Toronto in 1894 there were 5,700 present. At Baltimore there were 6,000, and in 1896 at Milwaukee 8 000 were in attendance. Last year 10,600 were present at Chattanooga, and on July 14th in Buffalo this summer arrangements are being made for the accommodation of from 15,000 to 20,000.

The speaker then went into the details, characteristic of the different conventions held, and closed with an appeal for encouragement for the young people.

The Report of the Drummond County Railway Committee.

WILL EXONERATE EVERYBODY.

Major-General Gascoigne's Reply to the Charges Made Against Him by Sir Charles Tupper—A Complete Denial—Morning Sessions Now to Begin—Prorogation Next Week.

Ottawa, May 31.—The report of the Drummond County Investigation Committee will be presented to Parliament to-day. The report will show that by the testimony of both Liberals and Conservatives on the committee there was no wrong or corrupt act in connection with the whole affair. The evidence of Mr. Haggart and Mr. Powell even went further, and said that the Conservatives never charged that there was corruption.

Mr. Lister, chairman of the committee, will present the report. The only charge that is open to Conservatives at all to make is that the bargain was not so good a one as it ought to be, but how they can do so, in view of the evidence that the late Government was to give more, had it succeeded in the elections, it is difficult to see.

Like in all other so-called scandals, this session, the Opposition have suffered more than the Government in the evidence submitted. Indeed, an opportunity was afforded of showing how the present Government was getting the work of the country done very much more cheaply than the late Government was doing it.

Proceedings in the House.

Ottawa, May 31.—The Premier read a letter in the House yesterday from Major-General Gascoigne, replying to certain criticisms made by Sir Charles Tupper a couple of weeks ago. The Major-General denied the statement of Sir Charles that in the event of a certain civil action being pushed he would have been driven from the Imperial service, and took exception to other charges made by the Opposition leader, which he said, though unfounded, might be damaging to his character.

Mr. Fielding laid on the table the supplementary estimates before the House adjourned.

Prorogation is expected about the middle of next week if nothing again turns up to interfere with it. The first morning session will begin to-day. The House will also sit on Saturday next.

WOMEN UNJUSTLY TREATED

When Dealers Sell Them Common and Deceptive Dyes.

There are thousands of women who have heard of the great saving that can be effected by home dyeing when the Diamond Dyes are used, and have decided to experiment for themselves.

Many of these women, thoughtlessly, will simply ask for a package of dye of the needed color when buying. This request will allow the wary dealer to foist on the unsuspecting customer some imitation or soap grease dye, worthless as colouring agents, but on which they realise a large profit.

Dealers who do this kind of business are treating and serving their customers unjustly. The dealer knows well that the Diamond Dyes are necessary for his customer to achieve success in her new work.

The Diamond Dyes are the only dyes that reputable dealers handle and sell. The wise merchant keeps a full stock of Diamond Dyes, because the daily demand is so great for these guaranteed and world-famed coloring agents.

The woman who uses Diamond Dyes for her first dyeing operation will never use other makes. Bright, strong, clear, lasting and fashionable colours are obtained only from the Diamond Dyes.

Special Effort in Paris.

Paris, May 31.—With a view to check the blatant pro-Spanish feeling here and enlist the sympathies of Frenchmen on the side of America, a special effort was made by the American colony yesterday to do honor to the memory of Lafayette. A big gathering proceeded to his tomb in the Picpus Cemetery, which was decorated with wreaths and flags of both nations. The United States Ambassador, General Horace Porter, deposited the American wreaths and, in an eloquent speech, referred to America's debt to Lafayette and the "unbreakable ties between the two peoples." He was warmly applauded.

M. Bartholdi followed in the same strain, but he said he deplored the fact that it had been revealed that there existed a new spirit among modern Americans, which, he added, "differed from the traditions of the founders of the republic."

Continuing, M. Bartholdi said Frenchmen looked upon General Porter and Americans like him to "keep the United States faithful to the great principles of liberty and justice which presided at the birth of the Republic."

Delicate children! What a source of anxiety they are! The parents wish them hearty and strong, but they keep thin and pale.

To all these delicate children Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites comes with the best of news.

It brings rich blood, strong bones, healthy nerves, and sound digestion. It is growth and prosperity to them.

No matter how delicate the child, it is readily taken.

SCHLEY'S SQUADRON

Attacked the Forts of Santiago de Cuba on Tuesday Afternoon.

CERVERA WAS ALSO ENGAGED.

The News Was Discredited in Washington, But London Thinks the Americans Bombarded the Forts to Cover the Laying of Mines or the Blocking of the Channel.

Cape Haytien, Hayti, June 1.—Advices just received from Havana say that since 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the American fleet at Santiago de Cuba has been cannonading the batteries of Morro Castle, La Zocapa and Punta Gorda. At the same time, it is added, the American ships have been engaged with the Spanish warships. The firing was extremely heavy. At 2.45 p.m., the cannonading became less heavy against the fortifications, but was more accentuated in the locality where the fleets were engaged.

Morro Castle is at the entrance of the harbor of Santiago de Cuba, La Zocapa, also shown on the maps as La Zocapa Castle, is a short distance inside the harbor entrance, and Punta Gorda is situated on a point well inside the harbor at Santiago de Cuba, showing that the American fleet has entered the harbor, according to the Havana advices via Cape Haytien, and has engaged the Spanish fleet in those waters.

At 6.40 last night the Santiago cable was still working from Santiago. Private messages intimate that there has been a severe fight between the American fleet and the outer fortifications and the Spanish fleet. The fight lasted the greater part of the afternoon. The advantage appears to have been with the Americans. According to the latest advices, the combat is still in progress.

No News at Washington.

Washington, D.C., June 1.—The significent statement was made by a Cabinet officer after the regular Tuesday meeting of the Cabinet yesterday that no news had been received since Monday morning from Schley directly, and that now it was believed that nothing would be heard for two or three days at least. It was plainly anticipated, however, in some quarters that he might, through the possession of some information that would tend to neutralize the strength of the enemy's position, make a bold attempt to enter the harbor of Santiago and destroy or capture the Spanish squadron. With the assistance of a single regiment of regular United States troops, which it is believed even now to be on the way to his support, the officials are confident that the fleet can reduce the forts at the entrance to Santiago harbor and make untenable the position of the Spanish squadron within. Of course this plan is based upon the theory that Cervera will not attempt to make his escape by a desperate sortie at night.

Discredited at Washington.

Washington, D. C., June 1.—No advices of an engagement at Santiago have reached the Navy Department, and officials discredit the report.

What London Thinks.

London, June 1.—The news of the fighting at Santiago de Cuba has revived the dwindling interest in the war. It is suggested that the Americans may be bombarding the forts in order to cover the laying of mines or the sinking of hulks to block the channel.

Credence is given the report that Admiral Cervera tried to run the blockade before the arrival of General Shafter's expedition. It is not believed that Commodore Schley would venture to imitate Dewey's feat at Manila.

Everything, so far as Spain is concerned, is now held to depend on Admiral Camara's movements, and unless, as is unlikely, he is able to display masterly skill, it is evident that the bold strategy of the Spaniards will only result in the destruction of the fleet in detail.

A second reserve squadron could not be prepared for months, as the vessels recently mentioned by the Madrid press are all in a backward state at Ferrol, Cadiz and Cartagena, except the Numancia, the Vitoria and the Don Carlo de Molina, which could be ready in a few weeks.

An Expedition Landed.

Key West, June 1.—The steamer Florida returned here at 7 a.m. yesterday from Cuba, having successfully landed a most important expedition on the island.

Nearly four hundred men, with a pack train and a large quantity of arms and ammunition, sailed for Guatanamo on the Plant line steamer Florida on the night of May 21. These men and the equipment constituted an expedition able to operate independently and to defend itself against any body of Spanish troops which might oppose it.

The expedition was under the command of Col. Jose Lacret, formerly insurgent commander in Matanzas Province. He assumed the direction of affairs immediately upon landing the expedition.

This is the most powerful anti-Spanish expedition ever sent to Cuba.

About 300 of the men are Cubans. The others are Americans. The engineer corps of the expedition is composed entirely of Americans, under Aurelian Ladd, and includes experts in explosives. Three American physicians are with the party.

The expedition was convoyed by the cruiser Marblehead, the torpedo boat destroyer Eagle and other warships.

Dewey's Men Suffering.

London, June 1.—A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Manila, dated May 26, via Hong-Kong, says: "The American warships are still in the bay, except a couple of the smaller ones, which are being used on patrol duty outside. Rear-Admiral Dewey is losing men from disease almost daily. Smallpox and dysentery are said to be rife in the American squadron.

Aguinaldo, the insurgent chief, reached Cavite from the interior, and soon after his arrival went on board one of the warships. He is working hard to gain over the rebels to the side of the Americans, with a view to active co-operation when Dewey's reinforcements arrive."

Putting in New Guns.

Gibraltar, June 1.—Advices received here from Cadiz say that all the guns of both the batteries and the forts are being replaced by heavier guns.

It is reported that the departure of Admiral Camara's fleet has been delayed by defects discovered in the torpedo boats.

THE POSITION AT SANTIAGO.

A Porto Rican Gives Information Regarding Eastern Cuba.

Washington, June 1.—A prominent Porto Rican has given most valuable information regarding Santiago de Cuba. He pointed out that the Province of Santiago was the easternmost section of Cuba and completely isolated from General Blanco, so far as railroad connections were concerned. The Spanish are under General Pando, with headquarters at Holguin, about 100 miles northwest of Santiago de Cuba. Pando has a force of about 5,000 troops with him, and is strongly entrenched. A short railway connects them with the small seaport of Gibara, on the north coast, where there are about 1,000 Spanish troops. But while Pando is strong at Holguin, he is harassed by the presence of small Cuban bands at Cuaga and other points surrounding Holguin. Besides Holguin and Gibara, General Pando has small garrisons of from 1,000 to 3,000 men at Mayan, Tanamo and Baracoa, on the north coast, and at Guantanamo, Santiago and Manzanillo on the south coast. These points are said to be the only ones held by the Spanish, for Santiago is the one province overrun throughout the interior by the insurgents. The Cuban commander, General Garcia, has his headquarters at Bayamo, 75 miles west of Santiago. Garcia has about 3,000 men under his immediate command and about 5,000 scattered in bands around Holguin and other points. Aside from their offensive strength, the Cuban forces hold the interior and keep the Spanish garrison penned up in the six or seven seaport towns. For this reason, it is said to be impossible for General Pando to move his forces from Holguin down to Santiago de Cuba.

More Newspaper Men Nipped.

Madrid, June 1.—An official despatch from Havana says that two American correspondents from Key West named Widan and Robinson (probably Mr. Phil Robinson) have been arrested near Matanzas.

They Are British Subjects.

Key West, June 1.—Messrs. Phil Robinson and H. J. Whigham, British subjects, and well-known newspaper correspondents, left Key West Thursday last on a steamer bound for the Cuban shore. On Saturday, when some miles off shore at a convenient spot, they were lowered overboard in a small boat, rowing themselves ashore. With the aid of glasses it was seen from the steamer that they made a safe landing. Their intention was to go to Havana; but they expected some difficulty and possibly detention, until the real character of their undertaking was understood by the Spanish officials in Cuba. Mr. Robinson is an experienced English war correspondent, and Mr. Whigham is the well-known amateur golf player and author of "How to Play Golf."

Dewey Makes a Move.

London, June 1.—The owners of the British ship Genista, which has been loading at Manila, have received a cable despatch dated May 24, saying Rear-Admiral Dewey has ordered the vessel to leave port, from which it is conjectured that the American commander contemplated some action.

Cut the Santiago Cable.

Key West, Fla., June 1.—News received here yesterday from Santiago de Cuba says that the auxiliary cruiser St. Paul has cut the cable off that port.

Date of the Toronto Exhibition.

Toronto, June 1.—The Toronto Industrial Exhibition will be held this year from the 29th of August to the 10th of September, being the usual two weeks. His Excellency the Governor-General and the Countess of Aberdeen will formally open it on Tuesday, the 30th of August, and this will probably be their Excellencies' last visit to Toronto previous to their departure from Canada. The prize lists for the exhibition have been printed and will be ready for distribution in a day or two.

RACES AT HAMILTON.

Opening Day of the Jockey Club's Spring Meeting.

A FATAL RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

The Grand Orange Lodge in Session—Mr. N. Clarke Wallace May Be Re-Elected Grand Master—A Belgian Prince in Toronto—Mrs. Sternaman Will Sue for Insurance.

Hamilton, June 1.—Fine weather favored the opening day of the Hamilton Jockey Club's annual spring meeting yesterday. The crowd was a good one, the majority being from Toronto, over 500 arriving on the two specials at noon, and Hamilton's fairest society turned out in good style, the members' stand presenting a pretty sight. The track was in the best of condition and fast, a good day's racing being the result, four out of six favorites winning. Although there were a number of scratches, the fields were all good, and the starts were all first-class. The surprise of the day was Mr. Murphy's Estaca being beaten out by Mr. J. P. Dawes' Defender. Summary:

First race—¾ mile; purse, $250. Lord Zent 1, Takanassee 2, Dumbarton 3. Time 1.16¾.

Second race—½ mile; purse, $250. Ben Mitchell 1, Ergo 2, Flying Belle 3. Time .50¾.

JAMES PRENTICE KILLED.

A Flat Car Passes Over a Toronto Railway Section Foreman's Head.

Toronto, June 1.—A train of flat cars shunting at the foot of Bathurst street shortly before 6 o'clock last night crushed the life out of James Prentice, a section foreman, employed by the Grand Trunk Railway. The man's body, horribly mangled, was taken in No. 3 patrol wagon to the Morgue, where an inquest will be held to-night.

Prentice was about 45 years of age, and had been in the employ of the Grand Trunk for 11 years. He lived at 520 Front street west, with his wife and nine children. His tragic death seems to have been purely accidental. With about a dozen other section employes and Road-master James Piper, Prentice had come on the flat train from Parkdale. He was on the end of rear flat car, and several men were standing close beside him. The conductor's car had been uncoupled and was being shunted on a siding, while the flat cars were to be shunted on to another siding for the night. The train was therefore going backwards. Some men had alighted from the train by stepping into the conductor's car and then dropping off the step. It seems that Prentice was about to follow their example when the train, with a jolt, increased its speed a little to give more impetus to the conductor's car. Not being coupled, the car shot ahead and the unfortunate man stepped or was jolted into space. The wheels of the car he had been on passed over his head and body, and he was dragged a car length before the train could be stopped. Death must have been instantaneous.

The dead man carried no insurance excepting $250 in the Grand Trunk Company and a funeral benefit in the L.O.L.

ORANGE GRAND LODGE.

Mr. N. Clarke Wallace Likely to Be Re-Elected Grand Master.

Ottawa, June 1.—The Grand Orange Lodge of British North America met yesterday at 2 o'clock. The Black Chapter have concluded their business, Major A. J. Armstrong being again elected G.M., and Lieut.-Col. J. H. Scott Deputy.

Last night the delegates were shown around the city, after which they held a meeting at Victoria Park, Aylmer, at which Clarke Wallace and Sam Hughes, M.P., spoke.

The principal interest of the session here enters on the election of Grand Master. It is likely that Mr. Wallace will again be re-elected for the 12th time. It is reported late last night that he has consented to stand, owing to the urgent request of a large number of members.

Distinguished Visitors.

Toronto, June 1.—Registered at the Queen's is Count de Retty, who is Prince Albert, the son of Philippe, Count of Flanders, a brother of King Leopold II. of Belgium. Prince Albert has been on a tour over the American continent, and is visiting Canada before returning to Belgium. There are six in the party, including Colonel H. Jungluth, who is in the Belgian army, L. Miles and M. Zorston, the latter Consul-General to the United States from Belgium. The Prince was born in 1875. Yesterday morning M. Jules de Bernard de Fanconval, Belgian Consul-General at Ottawa, arrived in Toronto and met the distinguished party. It is the intention of the Prince to take a trip by boat to Montreal, Quebec and up the Saguenay, and the Belgian Consul-General will accompany him. The party will leave to-day by the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company's steamer Corsican for Montreal, staterooms having been reserved for them.

Mrs. Sternaman Will Sue.

Buffalo, June 1.—According to a statement made by Attorney Wallace Thayer, representing Mrs. Olive Sternaman, Mrs. Sternaman will begin an action in a short time against the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to get possession of the $1,000 insurance on the life of her husband, whose death she was charged with causing. It is stated that the insurance company will endeavor to show that Mrs. Sternaman was responsible for her husband's death.

That Tired Feeling

An exceedingly common and dangerously significant condition.

A warning which must be heeded, or, as with the express train which fails to regard the danger signal, disaster must follow.

A sure indication of thin, weak, impoverished blood. A certain admonition that the blood is not properly feeding the nerves, tissues and organs of the body.

An imperative demand for the tonic, vitalizing effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla upon the blood.

Weak, nervous, tired men and women are found everywhere. Men strive too hard to "keep their ends up," women too anxiously work "on their nerves" to meet the demands of home and society, all have too little sleep, and the excessive drain on strength and nervous energy will soon completely ruin health.

The strength must be built up by pure blood, and the nerves must also find in pure blood the proper nerve food. For this purpose nothing equals Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The thousands of wonderful cures it has accomplished, the like of which no other medicine and no combination of medicines can show, prove its curative merit; prove that it has never been equalled as a blood medicine; prove that Hood's Sarsaparilla is indeed the ideal spring medicine, the best nerve and stomach tonic, the one true blood purifier.

"I was feeling tired all the time, as tired in the morning as I was at night. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and it has helped me so that I have no such feelings now. My little girl suffered with pain in her stomach, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured her." JAMES T. MANN, Hubbardston, Mass.

Weakness and Loss of Appetite.

"Last spring my little girl had no appetite and was weak. I gave her one-half bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which cured her. We will now take no other medicine but Hood's Sarsaparilla, and recommend it to everyone for weakness and loss of appetite." WM. F. HAMES, Bryson's, Pa.

All Tired Out.

"My husband was all tired out and run down in health. He felt the need of something to build him up, and he began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills and the result was very satisfactory. We regard Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills as excellent medicines." MRS. H. L. MOWRY, Towanda, Pa.

Tired and Worn Out Feeling.

"I have been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and cannot say too much in its favor. It has done me more good than any medicine I have ever tried. I have advised my friends to use it for a tired and worn out feeling, as I know that it gives relief." WILLIAM T. HURDLE, Hollyville, Del.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is sold by all druggists. Price $1, six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. It is the One True Blood Purifier.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 1, 1898

THE SESSION.

The departure of Sir Charles Tupper for England, together with announcements in the House of Commons, may be taken as sufficient indication that the present session of Parliament has nearly run its course. That the session has not been one to excite a high degree of interest as compared with some past sessions, is probably due to the fact that it has been used largely to give effect to measures upon which the country had already passed its judgment, and not because the Administration have been in any way backward in proposing such legislation as the needs of the country required. When we recall the struggle that took place when the old franchise bill was introduced, the prolonged sittings that were necessary before it could be passed over the prosests of the Liberals and the frantic appeals of Conservative leaders for support in putting it through, it may appear strange that the repeal of that act and the substitution of a new one should be allowed to take place with scarcely any criticism. That such has been the case can only be accounted for by the knowledge that the old franchise act was condemned years ago, and only awaited its turn to be wiped out of existence. Similarly, the introduction of a measure for the taking of a plebiscite vote on the question of prohibition, while it embodied a new feature in our plan of government, was yet suffered to pass without protest because it was rightly regarded as the fulfilment of a policy that had already been decided when the people, by their votes, endorsed the platform adopted by the Liberal convention of 1893.

Of the measures proposed by the ministers, several have been of great importance and interest. Mr. Blair has been able to announce the completion of his plans for bringing the Intercolonial Railway into Montreal over the Drummond County and Grand Trunk systems. When the plans to this end were announced a year ago, the Conservative press spent itself in heaping charges of corruption and extravagance upon Mr. Blair and the Government and the Liberal party generally. A Conservative majority in the Senate, always ready to respond to such clamor, pounced on the bill introduced last session and demanded that the matter be left over until an investigation could be held. Now, the investigation has been held and has ended in nothing more satisfying to the hopes of the assailants of the government than a denial by Mr. Haggart that corruption was ever charged.

Mr. Mulock has again proved himself a hard-working minister, aggressive and progressive. He has made two important alterations in the working of his department, one making newspapers subject to postage except in the case of weekly newspapers delivered within twenty-five miles of the place of publication, and the other intended to give increased facility to the dead letter branch of the service, by establishing branch offices at Vancouver, Winnipeg, Halifax, Toronto and Montreal, by means of which it is expected the public will be served with greater expedition than heretofore. The good work begun last year to assist the development of Canada's agricultural resources has been continued by Hon. Mr. Fisher this year. The grants for cold storage have been maintained, and arrangements have been made to renew the attack upon the British markets by Canadian perishable products which was so well begun last year. In the department of the Interior, Hon. Mr Sifton has been active in arranging for a very large immigration to the Northwest Territories, the indications of which were already at hand before the season of navigation opened.

The one legislative act of the session which commanded attention outside the Dominion was the provision introduced by Hon. Mr. Fielding in the financial plans for the coming year, whereby a preference was extended to sugar imported from the British West Indies. This has been accepted both in Canada and in Great Britain as a recognition by Canada of the interdependence of the various portions of the British Empire.

The prominent feature of the session, however, was the action of the Senate in rejecting the Yukon Railway bill. That bill was designed to furnish the means of entry to the newly-discovered gold fields of the Klondike region. It was based upon an agreement in which the Government had carefully guarded the interests of the people, refusing to advance money for the project and determined to make the Klondike pay for its own development. It was an administrative measure pure and simple, and as such received the approbation of the House of Commons. The Senate assumed the responsibility of throwing it out, leaving the Yukon territory to its own resources, and, so far as can be seen, giving the American coast cities and transportation companies a great advantage over those of Canada. It was an act for which the Senate will be held to account, should the result be, as there seems to be little doubt it will, to the material disadvantage of the people of this country. Probably nothing else will be so long remembered of the present session of parliament as this act whereby the irresponsible, appointive Senate showed how completely it is swayed by the desire to serve the ends of the party to which the vast majority of its members belong.—Montreal Herald.

By the present appearance of affairs it looks as if there was danger of war between Spain and the United States. The relations between the powers are in a state of dangerous tension, and it would not be surprising if we heard almost any day of actual hostilities breaking out.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

Council Meeting and Court of Revision.

The members of the Court of Revision on the assessment roll of the Township of North Monaghan held their first sitting on Friday evening the 27th, at 2 p.m.

There were two appeals, Wm. Spilsbury, overstaave on land, and Toronto Real Estate Investment Co., overcharge on land. In both appeals the assessment was confirmed.

The assessor filed several appeals against clerical errors in the roll, and the court adjourned until June 11th.

The members of the court, who were also the members of the council, resolved into session for the transaction of municipal business, the Reeve, Mr. McIntosh, in the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Communications were read from the following:

From the Board of Trade, Peterborough, asking the council to attend a meeting in the interest of the Trent Valley Canal to be held in Peterborough on June 1st.—Received.

From the Peterborough Bicycle Club asking that no work be performed upon the gravel road throughout the township until after July 1st.—Received.

From Peck & Stevenson asking the council to take action to relieve Samuel Bennett from the damming up and overflow of water caused thereby upon his property?—Received.

The Crown Lands department, drawing attention to the provision of the Municipal re establishing lines and posts along public highway.—Received.

H. Rush, asking to have the special drain tax against his property equally divided amongst those portions assessed for the sub-division made since the levy of the tax.—Received.

From Thos. Brown, tendering his resignation as collector of taxes.

The following accounts were presented:

Frank Brown, repairing culvert on Buckley's lane	$5 80
Harry Mooneif, filling in washout on drain road	2 62
Wm Anderson, filling hole in road	1 00
Peterborough Hardware Co, old account	2 25
J J Bennett, repairing roads and culverts on div 3	6 25

John Johnston, repairing culvert on 8 con.	2 25

These accounts were each properly certified to, and on resolution of Messrs. Bradburn and Madill were passed and orders issued in payment thereof.

Mr. May, chairman of the committee to whom the petitions for and against the dog tax were referred, presented his report as follows:

To the Reeve and Council of North Monaghan:

GENTLEMEN,—We your committee, to whom the matter of petitions for and against the dog tax was referred, beg leave to present our report as follows:—

We have considered the dog tax as at present enforced by the act relating to dogs and sheep, and in force in this municipality, and find that, although it protects to a limited extent the sheep raising industry from damage by dogs, yet we are of opinion that as this municipality lies adjacent to other municipalities which have no restriction upon the running at large of dogs, it would be well for us to further restrain and legislate them from so running at large and to give power to kill any such as may be running in contravention of these regulations.

We recommend that the tax as at present enforced be continued, and that this municipality supply tags, said tags to be numbered and dated and to be given by the assessor each year to those ratepayers who are the owners or harbourers of dogs. The assessor to register the number of the tag opposite the name of such ratepayer so supplied, and that the bylaw to be passed in accordance therewith shall so provide that it may be lawful to kill dogs which may be running at large at any time without this tag worn on a small strap or chain in a conspicuous manner attached around the neck.

We also recommend that a bylaw to this effect be prepared by a solicitor and passed, and enforced at such date as the council deem expedient.

(Signed) GEO. H. MAY, Chairman.

Mr. May reported having let the job of reconstruction of the culvert on Brickley's road to Messrs. Brown & Beavis for the sum of $5.50. The account for which was received and certified.

Moved by Messrs. Madill and May that report re dogs be received and adopted and that the clerk is hereby instructed to have a bylaw prepared in accordance therewith.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. May and Bradburn that the communication of the Board of Trade be received and that this council attend the said meeting in a body.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Hunter and May that the request of Messrs. Dennistoun, Peck & Stevenson be received and the clerk is hereby notified to inform them that this matter will receive the due consideration of this council to the satisfaction of the complainant, Mr. Beattie.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Bradburn and May that the commissioner of Road Division No. 1 be instructed to have the small stones raked off the gravel road before July 1st.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Bradburn and Madill that in the opinion of this council the boundary road between this township and the township of Cavan should be divided so that each township shall be liable for the care of a certain portion of said boundary and that Messrs. Hunter, Madill and the mover be a committee to confer with Cavan council respecting said division and that a copy of this resolution be sent to Cavan council.—Carried.

The clerk was instructed to send for repairs for the road grader. The commutation lists of the several road districts were revised and are now ready for the commissioners. The council then adjourned.

The old man who looks out at the world with clear and healthy eyes cannot help feeling great gratification at the thought that his children have inherited from him no weakness nor tendency to disease. The healthy old man is the man that has throughout his life kept his digestion good and his blood pure. Not one in a thousand does do it. Germs go through the healthy body without effect. Let them once find lodgment or let them find a weak spot, the will develop by the million and the blood will be full of them. Instead of giving strength to the tissues it will force upon them innutritious matter, and the man will lose flesh and the more susceptible he is to disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is he only medicine that absolutely and infallibly cures all blood diseases, and almost all diseases are blood diseases. It isn't a medicine for some one particular so-called disease. It is a medicine for the whole body. It forces out all the germs of disease and replaces impurities with rich, red blood.

BUNDLE WITH MOCK CEREMONY

The Quebec Harbor Bill Read a Third Time—Other Bills Read a Third Time—The Soulanges Canal—A Landslide That Costs the Country $30,000—Committee Work.

Ottawa, June 1.—In yesterday morning's session of the House General Gascoigne's affair was again taken up, and the property considered of the [illegible] during the General's letter to the [illegible] the day before.

Mr. Fraser read from Hansard that letters written or unwritten, even newspaper extracts, could not be read unless a motion was before the House. While [illegible] no objection to General Gascoigne putting himself right before the House, the speaker had no right to read his letter. Mr. Foster also expressed surprise [illegible] so conversant with the rules would [illegible] such a breach of the same.

Speaker Edgar, in defence, said the [illegible] connected with a motion to have [illegible] on the table of the House. As the Speaker made such a suggestion.

[illegible] Mr. Fisher could only say that if such a course is to be followed the rule becomes of no[illegible] inoperative.

Mr. Bourdon regretted that Sir Charles Tupper was not present when the letter was read. Now that his attention had been called to the rule he would say that he seemed to forbid the practice he [illegible] in reading General Gascoigne's letter and suggested that Mr. Speaker [illegible] the matter and at a later date [illegible] ruling.

Mr. Ouimet brought down a copy of the [illegible] Berne Convention, a [illegible] which, with a humorous [illegible] of ceremony, he presented to the House, on whose request it was produced.

Quebec's Harbor.

Mr. Ouimet moved the third reading of his bill regarding the Quebec harbor commission. He said that the gross revenue from the harbor was $67,000 in 1893 and the net revenue $36,000. In 1897 the gross revenue was $75,000 and the net revenue $39,000. There was $18,000 expended in dredging the basin in 1897, which explained the decrease in the net revenue. The bill was read a third time.

The Winnipeg & Great Northern Railway bill and bill respecting the amendment of the Canadian Evidence Act were read a third time.

The Soulanges Canal.

The House went into Committee of Supply on an item of $1,610,000, chargeable to capital for work on the Soulanges Canal.

Mr. Bergeron said it was a mistake, the undertaking of the construction of the canal, though he could not blame the present Government for the error. The canal, he said, would not be finished before 1900.

Mr. Blair explained that the landslide down there would cost the Government in the neighborhood of $30,000.

There was much talk over the Thorold cement bought for use on the canal, some $20,000 worth, which, through some alleged defect, was left unused. The Opposition claimed that the Government must take full responsibility for the loss of money involved.

William McCleary spoke up for the cement of Thorold, which, he said, had proved its excellence and had an everlasting monument to its worth in the Welland Canal. The House adjourned to meet at three o'clock.

The Afternoon Session.

All the afternoon was given up to a discussion of the merits of McLeod Stewart's canal and waterway from Lake Huron to Montreal via the French River, Lake Nipissing and the Ottawa River. Mr. Haggart made a very good speech in favor of the project. Sir Wilfrid Laurier said it had much to commend it, but that sufficient information was not yet forthcoming to justify the Government in taking it up.

In the evening the discussion on the cement was resumed, and kept up until nearly 1 o'clock.

The Supplementary Estimates.

Ottawa, June 1.—The Government has brought down the supplementaries for 1898-99. The total amount to be voted is $3,058,376; of this $1,130,482 is chargeable to capital and $1,861,953 to income. The following are some of the items of the estimates: Increase in salary of J. M. Colmer, High Commissioner's office, $300; introducing the Bertillon system for the identification of criminals, $1,000; for the expenses of the plebiscite, $250,000; to Mr. Kingsford, to assist him in making historical researches, $1,000; new rifle range at Hamilton, $5,000; new camping ground at London, $25,000; for Fenian raid medals, $5,000; gratuity to Col. John Gray of Toronto, $1,426; Dominion building at Bisley, $5,000; Dominion Artillery Association grant, $4,100; 10,000,000 pounds of ammunition purchased from England, $15,000; Yukon military force, $140,000; to Intercolonial Railway, $1,002,900; repairing Port Dalhousie piers, $20,000; for renewing Dunnville dam and bridge, $39,000; railway commission, $5,000; summer service fortnightly between Montreal, Quebec and Manchester, and a winter service between St. John, Halifax and Liverpool, $38,000; marine observatory on the St. Lawrence for the Royal Society, $7,000; magnetic observatory at Agincourt, $3,000; dredging Kingston harbor, $15,000; dredging and repairing at Oakville, $7,500; dredging Goderich harbor, $10,000; surveying and deepening Stikine River, from Fort Wrangel to Glenora, $16,000; trail from Edmonton to the Yukon district, $15,000; launches and steamboats for the use of the Government officials in the Yukon, $25,000; balance of judgment and cost of litigation in the cases of the Canada Sugar Refining Company and the Toronto Street Railway Company, $28,000; Manitoba school litigaton, $10,907.

The Plebiscite Bill.

Ottawa, June 1.—In the Senate, Hon. Mr. Scott moved the second reading of the Plebiscite bill yesterday.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, while not opposing the bill, accused the Government of an attempt to shirk responsibility. Their attitude on the question made him believe the whole thing to be a broad farce. If the Ministers were not trying to humbug the people, they would say whether a majority of the votes polled or a majority of the electors would decide the question, and would assure the people that if the vote were favorable prohibition would be enacted.

Hon. David Mills defended the Government's course on the ground that it would determine whether public sentiment would support prohibition. He accused the temperance element in the Senate of being more loyal to party than to prohibition. The bill was read a second time.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

The Committee Discovers From a Civil Servant That He Charged for Railway Fare When He Had a Pass.

Ottawa, June 1.—The Public Accounts Committee met yesterday morning. Mr. Munroe, Chief Government Engineer on the Soulanges Canal, was examined with regard to the charge that he had paid a hotel bill of $1.75 per day at the Russell House in Ottawa and charged the Government $4 per day. The witness admitted that he had only paid $1.75 per day for his meals, but that he had a room at the hotel for which he paid a monthly rental. In charging $4 a day he charged for meals and room as well. He also admitted having traveled on a pass and charged the Government his railway fares.

The Auditor-General urged that all civil servants be prevented from using or accepting railway passes.

Dr. Sproule and Hon. A. F. Wood thought the same rule should apply to members of Parliament.

Mr. Foster said the Government had undertaken to make this enquiry and advised the committee to allow the Government to apply the required remedy.

The Auditor-General was then examined in connection with the payment of $5,000 to the Lake St. John Railway repatriated Canadians to the Lake St. John district, where they proposed to settle. The Auditor-General's contention was that there was no Parliamentary authorization for the work, that there was no proper evidence that the expenditure was made and that there was no evidence that the people it carried were all repatriated Canadians or bona fide settlers. He thought that payments of this kind should not be made by the Government without direct authorization of Parliament.

H. M. Howell, Q.C., of Winnipeg was re-examined by Sir Hibbert Tupper in connection with the Manitoba ballot-box stuffing cases.

The witness refused to put in as evidence a brief used by him in the prosecutions as Crown counsel, on the grounds that it was against the interests of the administration of justice.

Sir Hibbert Tupper moved that the witness be compelled to put in the evidence. The motion was defeated on a vote of 13 to 4, after which the committee adjourned until to-day.

The Drummond County Railroad.

Ottawa, June 1.—Chairman Lister of the special committee appointed February 18 to inquire into the expenditure of the Drummond County Railway subsidies and into all transactions relating to the acquiring of the railway by the Government, will lay his report on the table to-day. Sixteen witnesses were examined, says the document, but the honor or integrity of no member of the Government was affected. From the evidence given and statements made by the Conservative members of the committee, the report adds, the only difference between the parties is as to the price to be paid for the extension. The 132½ miles of road had cost $2,100,000, but nothing would be better calculated to make the Intercolonial self-sustaining. The sum of $287,956 had been voted by the Government in subsidies and had all been spent on construction. In portions the new road was superior to the standard of the Intercolonial, and while Mr. Wainwright had sworn that other Quebec railways had cost from $17,000 to $19,000 per mile, the Drummond County road would cost the country, in the event of the completion of the purchase, only $12,000. Legislation to sanction the deal is recommended.

HUMAN SACRIFICES

On the Altar of Diabetes, Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? IN DEATH. A premature, horrible, agonised, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

HANDS ALL ROUND IN ALASKA.

The Much-Talked-Of Anglo-Saxon Alliance in Practical Effect.

Vancouver, B.C., June 1.—According to advices from Alaska, brought in the steamship Athenian, the much-talked-of Anglo-American alliance is in practical effect at the American town of Fort Wrangel. Queen Victoria's birthday was celebrated there with more enthusiasm perhaps than at any town in the British Empire. The celebration was participated in by the Americans, Canadians and British in the Alaskan port. A large number of programmes were printed, on which were the words of patriotic songs and the following:

"Sung at the celebration in Fort Wrangel on May 24, 1898, in honor of the inauguration of the war between the United States and Spain for freedom in Cuba and in memory of the patriots who perished on the Maine, and in honor of the 79th anniversary of Her Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria."

Half the town wore badges bearing an inscription to the same effect.

Reformers in Session.

Dungannon, June 1.—The meeting of the Reform Association was held here yesterday and was largely attended. The president, Mr. D. McGillicuddy, addressed the meeting, giving a statement of events that have occurred during the past year, and outlining a policy to win that should be adopted in the future. A thorough organization was set in motion, after which the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

President—William Proudfoot, Goderich.

First Vice-President—Robert Holmes, Clinton.

Second Vice-President—James Young, Auburn.

Third Vice-President—Morgan Dalton.

Resolutions were passed, endorsing the Dominion and Local Governments.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL MATTERS.

A Big and Representative Meeting held this Afternoon in the Interest of the Completion of the Work.

A very largely attended meeting of delegates from municipalities along the entire route of the Trent Valley Canal, and adjoining municipalities, assembled in the Council Chamber this afternoon. The primary object is to give fresh impetus to the matter of construction. To this end the Trent Valley Canal Association was revived.

This work is of so great importance to the carrying trade, especially of the great Northwest, to the district through which it passes, and particularly to Peterborough, that the completion of the Canal is a matter of pressing local interest, and the extended report of the proceedings of this afternoon's meeting, which will appear in to-morrow's issue, will be read with much interest.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The Appropriation Discussed in the House of Tuesday.

The Globe says: This evening the House was in supply. Mr. Osler protested against the vote of $650,000 on construction account for the Trent Valley Canal, which he described as a six-foot ditch which would never pay the wages of the men who operate it. He hoped that the Government would cease sinking money in that useless work.

Mr. Bennett protested against Mr. Osler's hostility, and asked the Minister what the proposed expenditure was for.

Mr. Blair stated that $3,000,000 of the amount was required to complete work already under contract, and the remainder would be employed to construct a hydraulic lift lock on the model of some locks in Belgium, which cost no more to build and would be cheaper to operate than the other locks. The work is on the Peterborough & Lakefield sections.

Mr. Hughes resented Mr. Osler's interference in a matter about which he knew nothing, and criticized the conduct of the authorities at Toronto. He said that they had quarreled with the C. P. R. and drove 20,000 people to the city of Montreal by the bungling stupidity and incapacity of the authorities of the City of Toronto. Then when the Ottawa, Arnprior & Parry Sound Railway applied for a charter, the gentlemen from the City of Toronto put on their silk hats and came down, and asked for a charter to be given to that road, simply to take away the trade from the back door of the City of Toronto. Every move that the gentlemen in connection with the city had made recently had been calculated to reduce it to the standing of a village, and unless the sensible people of the city interfered and put an end to such management on the part of the Board of Trade and the City Council, the city would depreciate to the level of a country town or village.

Mr. Blair in answer to Mr. Britton, said it was estimated that to complete the canal would take about $1,000,000 in addition to the present appropriation.

TOWN COUNCIL REFORM.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

SIR,—Now is the time for the long suffering inhabitants of this town to get back at the monopolists of municipal favours. Too long have the patient and tax-paying electors been waiting for an even distribution of repairs and improvements. If a man happens to live in an obscure ward which had indifferent representatives in addition to its obscurity, he had to do his own snow-cleaning in winter or go knee-deep. The grass grows and the weeds loom up but no relief comes. Why this sort of thing should be tolerated in a town like this it is hard to say. No longer, if the ward system is abolished, will a clique be able to send a man to council who, by scratching this one's back and that one's, can get what he wants. Let everybody get fair play. Down with ward politics. When the town moves let it move as one man and not as a hetrogeneous crowd, pulling and hauling in forty different ways.

Yours, etc.,
CIVIS.

MAY WEATHER NOTES.

Although the weather during the first half of May was cool, and vegetation generally was somewhat backward, warm showers and the higher temperature that prevailed later on in the month brought vegetation forward, and at the close of the month it was perhaps further advanced than usual.

There were fourteen days on which rain fell, and the amount was 2 inches and 78-100, as compared with 3 inches and 67-100 during May of last year.

The highest temperature was on the 31st, namely 82 degrees; the lowest was on the 6th, 34 degrees. Though there was white frost on several occasions, the freezing point was not touched. The extremes for last May were 74 and 34 degrees.

The average daily temperature was 57 degrees. This is four degrees warmer than last May, and about two degrees above the average.

GRAFTON & CO. on Bargain Day, Thursday, will sell 25 dozen Summer Shirts and Drawers in Grey and Flesh Colour, worth 20 and 25c. each, Thursday for 12½c. See our north window.

DAILY TEMPERATURE RECORD.

The following are readings of the official thermometers for this morning, as well as the highest and lowest yesterday—shade temperature:—

	Highest.	Lowest.
Yesterday	82°	46°

For the first time this year the temperature yesterday rose above 80° in the shade. Only on four days during last June did the mercury rise above that figure.

OBITUARY.

Demise of Miss Katie Allen in Galway on Sunday Last.

It is with feelings of deep regret that we record the death of Miss Katie Allen, which occurred last Sunday afternoon. Deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Allen, and one of the most popular young ladies of this township. That she was universally beloved and esteemed by all her acquaintances, and especially her cousins who untiringly waited upon her day and night during her illness, is evidenced by the sympathy extended the sorrowing family by friends of every denomination who followed the remains with sixty vehicles to the Roman Catholic cemetery. A few moments before her death the deceased called the members of family, who were all present excepting her two sisters, Mrs. John Craig and Mrs. Sims, who reside at Grand Rapids, to her bedside, and told them that the end was near at hand, and that bye and bye she she would meet them in the land where parting is no more.

THE LAKEFIED PICNIC.

Aftermath of this Unusually Successful Event.

In the ticket selling contest at the Lakefield and Young's Point picnic for special prizes donated by Misses Cahill, Miss Rudkins, Miss Annie Simons and Mr. Martin McFadden, there were five contestants, but the struggle narrowed down between Miss McFarlane and Miss Lottie Kearney, of Young's Point. The finish was very close and the two come down the home stretch neck and neck, but Miss MacFarlane forged ahead and came under the wire a winner of the $5, with Miss Kearney a good second. The drawing has not yet been decided, nor the prizes given by Messrs. Gough Bros. and Mr. James Lynch for the largest family on the grounds, the census not having yet been completed.

The Lakefield picnic, in financial results, was by long odds the best of the series and Rev. Father Fitzpatrick has good reasons to be well pleased with the outcome of his energetic exertions.

TOWN COUNCIL REDUCTION.

Great minds move in the same channel. The EXAMINER is pleased to see that The Review takes a position similar to our own in relation to the proposal to reduce the number of town councillors to nine, and to elect councillors by the whole vote of the town, thus giving each ratepayer an opportunity of voting for nine councillors, instead of three, as at present. The principles underlying the proposed change are sound, and all who have an interest in the real progress of the town, will assent to these principles.

FOOTBALL AT SELWYN.

Selwyn is again coming to the front in football, after a dull season last year. The last match Selwyn played was against Young's Point at Lakefield on May 24th, 1897, when Young's Point defeated them by one goal. This season the Selwyn team has secured good local men and are prepared to play any team in the vicinity. They would like to hear from the surrounding teams as soon as possible, as they wish to have considerable practice before July 1st, when they will again hold their annual picnic at Braden's Point on the shore of Chemong Lake, at which time they would like to have a match with one of the crack teams of the district. Send correspondence to Captain Ernest McIlmoyle, or Secretary-Treasurer Ephraim McIlmoyle.

Weigh Yourself before Taking Them.

GAINED 22 POUNDS.

I have more faith in Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills than anything else I have ever used. Since using them I have recommended them to several of my friends who were troubled as I was, and now they are in splendid health. I had been a sufferer, like a great many other women, with a disease peculiar to my sex. I tried everything I could read or think about to help me, but was getting worse instead of better. My condition was terrible—I was losing flesh and color and my friends were alarmed. I consulted a doctor of this town and he said I would never get better; that I would always be sickly and delicate, and that medicines were of little use to me. Hearing what Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills had done for others, I determined to try them myself, and to-day I weigh one hundred and forty pounds, while before I weighed only one hundred and eighteen pounds, and now I have a constitution that is hard to beat. I have not suffered any pain in months, and earnestly hope that Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills will reach every woman suffering as I did. Sincerely yours, MAY COLE, Simcoe, Ont. Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. per box, 5 boxes for $2.00, at druggists, or mailed on receipt of price by THE DR. WARD CO., 71 Victoria St., Toronto. Book of Information free.

WHEAT IN ONTARIO.

No. 2 Red Is Now Offering Freely at $1.05 High Freights Influencing the Situation—The Prices.

Monday Evening, May 30.

This being observed as Decoration Day in the United States and as a Whitsuntide holiday across the water, the English and American Grain Exchanges were closed.

There was quiet on the Toronto Board. Ontario red is offering freely at $1.05, high and middle freights, with little or no demand either for export or from millers.

As for No. 1 Manitoba hard, it may still be nominally quoted at $1.34 afloat at Fort William, equal to $1.40 on track at Toronto. Though there is nothing doing at present there will be a considerable movement of this wheat east from Fort William all this week, under export sales made some days since around $1.36 afloat at that port. This movement will reduce stocks at that point to about 500,000 bushels, and little of the cereal is believed to remain in Manitoba.

AMERICAN WHEAT.

Break in Leiter's May Boom—July Delivery Declined 10c. Per Bushel—The Latest Quotations.

Tuesday Evening, May 31.

To-day saw the bottom drop out of Leiters' famous May wheat market, and the later deliveries slumped sharply. The chief cause of the heavy condition of wheat was to be found in the statistical news of the day. During the past week the world's wheat shipments were enormous, aggregating about 13,000,000 bushels, or more than double those for the corresponding week last year. Russia and India especially sent unusually large quantities to Europe. The visible supply in Canada and the United States increased 587,000 bushels during the week, and the quantity on passage increased over 3,000,000 bushels. On top of all this came reports indicating a big American wheat crop. The opening on the Chicago board was weak, and from $1.75 on Saturday May wheat dropped a clear 50c per bushel and closed at $1.25. The July delivery declined nearly 10c a bushel and closed at 97½c, 6½c below Saturday's final figure. The September option fell to 80⅝c, but recovered to 81½c, 2c below the last closing. The December option touched 78⅝c and closed at 79⅝c, a loss of ½c for the day.

Corresponding losses occurred in the other United States markets, and at Toronto Ontario red was weak at $1.05, with Manitoba hard nominally quoted at $1.38.

The British grain markets were closed.

Visible and Afloat.

As compared with a week ago, the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States has increased 587,000 bushels; that of corn has decreased 611,000 bushels, and that of oats has decreased 917,000 bushels. Following is a comparative statement for the week ending to-day, the preceding week and the corresponding week last year:

	May 31,'98.	May 23,'98.	May 31,'97.
Wheat, bu.	23,672,000	23,085,000	26,897,000
Corn, bu.	20,115,000	19,504,000	12,494,000
Oats, bu.	7,191,000	8,114,000	8,070,000

There are on passage to the United Kingdom 22,320,000 bushels of wheat and 8,240,000 bushels of corn. There are on passage to the European continent 23,280,000 bushels of wheat and 9,840,000 bushels of corn. Thus the total quantities of cereals afloat to-day with comparative figures for a week ago are.

	May 23.	May 31.
Wheat, bu.	42,320,000	45,600,000
Corn, bu.	17,080,000	18,080,000

Thus the wheat on passage increased 3,280,000 bushels last week, and corn on passage increased 400,000 bushels. The amount of wheat afloat a year ago was 18,560,000 bushels; corn 10,160,000 bushels.

To recapitulate, the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States, together with that afloat to Europe, is 69,272,000 bushels, against 65,405,000 bushels a week ago, and 45,457,000 bushels a year ago.

Toronto Live Stock.

Receipts of live stock at the Cattle Market to-day were fairly large—78 car loads, composed of 1280 cattle, 141 sheep, 1000 hogs and 35 calves.

The bulk of the cattle were for export; the quality was generally good, and two or three loads were extra.

Although the market was fairly active for exporters, prices were practically unchanged at $4.10 to $4.35, with the exception of two loads of extra quality, which brought a little over $4.50, the bulk going at from $4.10 to $4.30 per cwt.

Butchers' cattle were scarce—not more than enough to supply the local demand. Prices firm at Friday's quotations.

Only six milk cows were offered, selling at $25 to $40 each, averaging about $35 each. A few extra good cows wanted.

The market for stockers was easier on account of prices being lower at Buffalo. They sold from $3.75 to $3.90 per cwt.

Feeders remained firm at last week's quotations—$3.90 to $4.

Calves sold at $2 to $6 each for general run, and $6.50 to $7.00 for veals of extra quality and weight.

Hogs, deliveries of which were not heavy, sold at $4.90 to $5.10 for very choice selections, the general run going at about $5; thick and light fats at $4.75 per cwt.

East Buffalo Live Stock.

East Buffalo, May 31.—Cattle—The supply of sale cattle was quite liberal on Monday. The market ruled with a good demand, and all the good butchers' and handy steer grades were sold at fully 15 to 20 cents more, while the heavy shipping and export grades were strong to a shade higher, and all were sold at the close of the day. Stockers and feeders steady, milch cows and springers in light supply and lower for all but best ones. Extra fat export steers, $4.95 to $5.05; good shipping steers, $4.75 to $4.90; coarse, rough steers, $3.90 to $4.40; green steers, $4.10 to $4.45; choice fat heifers, $4.35 to $4.70; mixed butchers' stock, $3.90 to $4.40; fair to good butchers' cows, $3.70 to $4; fair to good handy bulls, $3.50 to $3.85.

Stockers and Feeders—Receipts were about the same as a week ago of Canadas and lighter of natives. The market was active and stronger for all kinds. Good to best stock steers, $4.40 to $4.64; common to fair, $4 to $4.25; good to best feeders, $4.40 to $4.75; fair to good, $4.10 to $4.45; yearlings and stock calves, $4.05 to $4.05.

Veals and Calves—The offerings on Monday were about 375 head, but to-day not a hoof was on sale. There was a good demand and prices were stronger. Top veals sold at $6.50 to $6.75; common to good, $5.50 to $6.25; others, $4.50 to $5; no sales of cattle to-day.

Hogs—Receipts were light on Monday, and about 20 cars less than a week ago. The market opened with a fairly good demand, and all the offerings were sold. Yorkers brought $4.33 to $4.40; light mixed, $4.15 to $4.30, mostly $4.25; mixed packers, $4.40 to $4.45; good mediums, $4.45 to $4.50; pigs, $3.00 to $4; stags, $3 to $4.25. To-day's receipts were exceedingly light, only one load of good medium-weight hogs coming to hand, which brought $4.52½.

Sheep and Lambs—The receipts of sale stock on Monday were just one-half those of a week ago. The market ruled fairly active and higher on liberal buying, but there was no warrant for the strong advance obtained, taking the state of the market at both Eastern and Western points into consideration, but all were sold that were on offer here at fully 25c to 30c stronger prices for lambs and full strong to 10c higher than Saturday's closing prices for sheep of all kinds. The pens were bare of sale stock to-day, and the market remains nominally unchanged from yesterday's closing prices. The best handy lambs sold Monday at $5.55 to $5.65; culls to good, $4 to $5.50. The best handy mixed sheep brought $4.30 to $4.65; culls to good, $3.25 to $4.40; handy wethers and yearlings, $4.70 to $4.80; heavy sheep, $4.50 to $4.60; heavy export lambs, $4.90 to $5.10.

Decoration Day Services Held All Over the United States—A Canadian Girl's Tribute.

Chicago, May 31.—Miss Eve Brodikque, erstwhile of the Canadian newspaper press, but now of the Herald of this city, has written the following poem in tribute to the United States naval heroes who died in the Maine and it was very often quoted as a new chapter yesterday in the Decoration Day ceremonies. Truly Anglo Saxon hearts beat in unison:

Some comfort this—that flowers of May
Weave wreaths on honored graves to lay,
While mourners kneel beside to pray.

But thou, oh, late-time dead, they bore
To rest beside a distant shore,
Where winds and waves alike deplore.

Thy wreath the hot wind winnoweth
From tropic blooms with sighing breath,
To scatter on thy place of death.

Thy dirge is but the endless croon
Of waters by that sandy dune,
Stirring to-day in sight of June.

No wreath of ours, nor flower, nor leaf,
Only those thoughts in drooping sheaf,
Culled from our hearts and twined by grief.

At the Capitol.

Washington, May 31.—The observance of Memorial Day in Washington was even more general than usual, and the programmes of the ceremonies at historic Arlington, the Soldiers' Home and other cemeteries where rest the soldier dead, yesterday, were more elaborate than for many years.

The President, who left the White House at 11.30 o'clock, accompanied by Vice-President Hobart and Secretary and Mrs. Gage, arrived at about 12 30 o'clock, and proceeded at once to the amphitheatre, where they were joined by other distinguished guests. An elaborate programme was here carried out, of which the principal feature was an oration by Senator John W. Thurston of Nebraska.

At New York.

New York, May 31.—The celebration of Decoration Day in this vicinity, charged as it is this year with added significance, is the most notable since the nation has had graves to decorate. Organizations which ordinarily take no part in the exercises yesterday turned out, and in addition to the Grand Army men there were auxiliaries of school cadets and other military organizations.

The usual procession through the city was reviewed at the grand stand near the Worth monument at Madison Square by prominent officials, civil and military, and viewed along the line of march by thousands of persons.

The memorial services of the Grand Army of the Republic were held last night at Carnegie Hall. Last evening there was a celebration at Prohibition Park, S.I., in honor of the victory of Admiral Dewey at Manila.

A vivacious woman's fan can frequently speak in more eloquent language than any known to the tongue of man. It can invite or repel, sigh or smile, be meek or haughty, tear a passion to tatters or humbly seek forgiveness.

It can also tell the story of health. A woman who suffers from weakness and disease in a womanly way sits in sorrow and dejection while her healthy sisters enjoy themselves. She may be naturally beautiful, naturally attractive, naturally interesting and animated and witty, but the demon of ill-health is gnawing at the very vitals of her womanly nature, and she soon becomes a withered wall flower in comparison with her brighter and more healthy sisters. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a wonderful medicine for women who suffer in this way. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in wifehood and motherhood. It tones and builds up the shattered nerves. It restores the glow of health to the pallid cheek. It gives springiness and trip to the carriage. It makes the eyes sparkle with returning vivacity. It imparts animation to the mien and gestures. The fan that long lay listless and idle in the lap of an invalid again speaks the eloquent language of a healthy, happy woman. Thousands of women have testified to the marvelous merits of this wonderful medicine.

"For several years I suffered with prolapsus of the uterus," writes Miss A. Lee Schuster, of Box 12, Rodney, Jefferson Co., Miss. "Our family physician treated me for kidney trouble, and everything else but the right thing. I grew worse and worse. My body was emaciated, hands and feet clammy and cold, stomach weak, with great palpitation of the heart. I would suffer with nausea all night. I began taking your 'Favorite Prescription' and I began to improve right away. I have taken three bottles and now I am very nearly well and am very happy and thankful to you."

Keep your head up and your bowels open. The "Golden Medical Discovery" will put steel in your backbone, and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure constipation.

SUBMARINE LANDSCAPES.

Prof. Boutan's Photographs Made Under the Surface of the Sea.

Submarine photography is a branch of science full of tempting possibilities, particularly to the zoologist, but a branch which hitherto has been very little explored. Some attempts at it have been made, however, by Professor Louis Boutan, lecturer on zoology at the Sorbonne, who thus describes his experiments.

His first incentive was the discovery that the bottom of the sea is not flat and monotonous, but presents the most picturesque and varied landscapes. As it is impossible for a diver to make a sketch or drawing under the water, the professor determined to see what could be done photographically. "When I tried to pass from the dream to the reality," he writes. "I experienced some difficulties. I first had constructed a rather imperfect apparatus, composed of an ordinary photographic chamber inclosed in a metal case provided with glass and made watertight. At the start the results obtained were not what I had hoped for; though I took advantage of the most favorable conditions, and observed the most minute care, my efforts were fruitless. When I developed the plates which had been exposed under water, I obtained only shapeless images, irregular undulations, which in no wise reproduced the landscape on which I had turned the objective. The plates, which were only slightly affected by the light coming from the submerged objects, were uniformly beclouded, as if the action of the light had been produced equally over their whole surface. On this account, the landscapes which I had sought to reproduce presented an extremely vague outline that was unsatisfactory in every way. It was in vain that I varied the method employed. The length of time during which the plate was exposed was modified. I used the most sensitized plates, or those called 'isochromatic.' But the results obtained were always the same; a uniform cloudiness still enveloped the indistinct images.

"Finally, by interposing in front of the objective a perfectly homogeneous blue plate, I succeeded in producing a series of negatives, with the outline of objects clear-cut, and with great delicacy of detail. The cloudy appearance was quite eliminated, at least in the foreground. But there still lingers in the background of the proofs a slight mistiness.

"Here is the modus operandi of taking a submarine photograph at the Troc cove. Our boat being solidly anchored, I put on the diver's costume, and go down into the water at the point chosen for the operations. Once at the bottom, and at the desired depth, I signal to the captain to send me down the different parts of the photographic apparatus. The iron stand is let down at the end of a rope, followed by the photographic box and a cast-iron weight for steadying the whole. Then I look about me in order to select the exact spot to be photographed, which having been done, I leisurely set up the stand, and place the box on it, waiting for the disturbed water to become clear. A new signal is now given to the captain by means of the safety-rope which he holds in his hand. This signal tells him that the exposure has begun. I now wait patiently till a return signal from above tells me that it is time to stop. It will be easily understood that it is quite impossible, or at least very difficult without some special arrangement, to carry in a diving-bell a watch which can give the length of an exposure."

The Underlying Faith.

What is it that all the sweet and true-hearted and deeply religious men and women, whose lives go down to the great taproot of reality, are coming to agree in caring for more than all the differences that separate them? They agree in their underlying faith—that this is somehow God's world, that it is a world in which it is safe, and only safe, to do right, that its supreme law is good will, that in concrete terms the type of life known as "Christlike" is the imperative and winning type, to conform to which lifts every son of man to be a child of God. Here is the consensus of the competent. Here is the common faith of the new century, destined to merge needless and petty denominational lines into a larger unity as surely as the old provincial and colonial jealousies are already merged in the absorbing and grander life of the nation.

Plum Pottage.

Plum pottage, or plum broth, was the old form of plum pudding. It was made by boiling beef or mutton with broth, thickened with brown bread. Raisins, currants, prunes, cloves and ginger were added, and the whole mess was then thoroughly boiled.

A SISTER SAVED.

Sickness Banished—Health Restored—Peterborough People Speak.

GENTLEMEN,—Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have done my sister so much good that in grateful appreciation I told Mr. Tully, the druggist, I would gladly give a testimonial, unsolicited, as to their merits. My sister, (15 years of age) caught a violent cold—since then she has been in very poor health, lost all colour, was anemic, her blood had no vitality, and she had no physical strength, she became extremely nervous, so much so that she could not stand any exertion or excitement, and it was impossible for her to get restful sleep, she lost her appetite, her heart became very weak, palpitating so violently that she could hardly breathe at the slightest exertion. When she commenced taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills two months ago she was in a state of complete physical and nervous prostration. Her blood was scanty with no more strength than water. Since taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills she has been rapidly mending, her appetite has returned, she sleeps well, her nerves are stronger, and her heart gained strength so that it is able to fulfil its functions. Prior to taking Dr. Ward's Pills she had taken many medicines without any special benefit. Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are certainly the only medicine that has done any good. Before taking them she was getting weaker, her heart and nerves losing strength daily. Since she has began taking them she has daily and continuously gained health and strength.

ALMOST A MIRACLE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9th, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Co., Ltd., Ottawa:—

GENTLEMEN,—I hardly know how best to express my appreciation of your valuable rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline. My son Gordon, who is 9 years old, has been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for the past two years; was so bad at times that he had to be carried about on a mattress; was attended by two city doctors apparently without the slightest benefit; spent 10 days at Caledonia Springs, came home with no marked improvement; took three bottles of a Homeopathic remedy now being extensively advertised, which did not relieve him in the least. I was beginning to give up all hope of his recovery, when by chance I mentioned the case to a friend who strongly advised me to give Phrenoline a trial.

I did so, with the result that when my boy had taken only half a bottle he was able to get on his bicycle and ride like any other boy around the block.

I certainly feel that I cannot say too much in praise of your medicine, and shall do all I can to make known its value to others.

Yours very sincerely,

Her Impressions of Angels.

The wife of a well known senator took her little daughter, a 4-year-old damsel, to a matinee once to see "Jack and the Beanstalk." A week or so afterward she was discovered pirouetting and lifting her petticoats before a cheval glass. Her father reproved her and told her it wasn't a pretty way to do.

"Why," said the child, "I saw the angels do it."

"The angels!" exclaimed her father. "Why, where!"

"When mamma and I went to heaven that day," said the child.

The father explained that the fancied heaven was only the theater. The little girl's face fell.

"And wasn't they angels?" she asked.

"No," said the father; "they were just girls."

The child put on an air of intense disgust.

"Well," she said, "I fink they ought to be taked home and spanked, 'cause they wasn't dressed any more than angels."—Lewiston Journal.

Queen Victoria's Marked Poem.

Here is a funny story told of a happening at the English court: Sir Theodore Martin had been requested by Victoria to read aloud from "The Ring and the Book." Sir Theodore was courtier enough to make a cautious study beforehand of the poem, and he placed marginal notes as danger signals against passages of doubtful propriety.

The marked copy chanced to come into the hands of a rather thoughtless court lady. "I have so enjoyed this wonderful work," she said to a friend, "and it has been such an advantage to read it after the queen, for she has placed marks against the most beautiful parts, and, oh, what exquisite taste the dear queen has!" she added, pointing to the danger signals of Sir Theodore Martin.—Quiver.

A MOTORMAN'S VICTORY.

Over Diabetes. Gained by the Power of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto, May 23—In a large city like Toronto, there is always much sickness, kidney diseases largely predominating. The street railway employees, exposed as they are to all the inclemencies of the weather are particularly liable to kidney disease. But they all know how to conquer this enemy.

For instance: Mr. T. H. O'Reilly, 27 Niagara Street, motorman, No. 624, was for three years a great sufferer from Diabetes. Every remedy failed to help him, till he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him.

It is cases like this, where the patient and the cure are equally well known, that are the test of a remedy, and Dodd's Kidney Pills have always stood it successfully. They cure all kidney complaints.

The Undertaker's Chairs.

"I see in the windows of undertaking shops," said Mr. Staybolt, "a placard which says that campstools and folding chairs are to hire there, delivered by express wagon. I infer from this that chairs must be hired out for other than funeral purposes, for festive occasions, in fact, as indeed I know of no reason why they should not be.

"But they must lead a varied life, the chairs—funeral one day and wedding, it may be, the next. They know when they start where they're going—that is, they know the nature of the occasion. They can tell that by the wagon they go in. If when they are carried out they find themselves put into the black wagon of the undertaker, they know it's a funeral they're going to. If they are put into just a plain, ordinary delivery wagon, they know that they are going to a wedding or a party or some gathering of more or less gayety, but they cannot tell what will happen next.

"Well, I don't know that there's anything so very remarkable about this after all. The experience of the chairs is like that of the people who sit on them. They have their days of smiles and their days of tears."—New York Sun.

"You were right about it, my old friend. I believe that it would be impossible for me to avoid spending at least two or three hours a day on 'change, but my time is completely taken up, and I haven't looked at a market report for a month."

"Wouldn't believe it if any one else told me. How do you exist?"

"I'm having young trees set out, getting a garden ready, superintending the building of a barn, watching them pave the street and having a continued kick with the assessors, who seem to think that my property is worth all I paid for it."

Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, N. A. L., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Please accept my thanks for your cheque just handed to me, for $3,901.98, in settlement of my $2,500 Fifteen Year Endowment Policy in your Company. Such a result as this, after the risk on my life has been carried for fifteen years, beginning from forty-five years of age, argues one thing strongly, namely, that the management of the North American Life must be in competent hands. The other options you have offered me, viz.: a Paid-up Life policy for $6510.00, or a Life Annuity for $401.90, are, I presume, equally liberal, and it affords me much pleasure to recommend your Company to my friends or any desiring insurance.

CANADA LIFE

Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,093.05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3,066, for the sum of $6,185,996, of which, however, 266 for $521,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $373,360 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5 291,636, under 2 609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $798,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,169 45, and Endowment policies for $128,846 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $218,491 29 for profits, $145 411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,953,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1 272,486 06, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,678,915.67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company. I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, he prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Barrett, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

THE ONLY HOPE!

For Victims of Bright's Disease is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Not a day passes on which the newspapers do not record the death of one or more persons from Bright's Disease. Already its victims number hundreds of thousands. Day by day the awful total grows larger. No class is safe from this destroyer.

War and intemperance, with all their miseries and fatalities, are not responsible for as many deaths as have been caused by Bright's Disease. Yet, there is a way of resisting it; of drawing its poisoned fangs, and making it as harmless as a summer breeze. That great medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills, has cured thousands of the worst cases. It never fails to cure, hopeless as the case may seem.

Would you save yourself and loved ones from the fatal grip of this curse of mankind—Bright's Disease? Then use Dodd's Kidney Pills, the only cure on earth for this disease.

WARSAW.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Peterborough "Thunderer" has spoken. Let no dog bark. It has been appointed by the Young's Point "innocents" to demoralize us with one mighty sweep of its editorial pen. It is amusing to watch the contortions which it goes through in last Friday's issue in an article headed "A Warsaw Cry." We think that if the author of this had lived in Biblical times Balaam's ass would never have attained such prominence. We would be greatly obliged to him if he would do us the kindness not so mutilate what we do write. First he starts out by stealing a paragraph which we wrote for the EXAMINER two weeks ago and attributing it to their Lakefield correspondent. Then he quotes what we did say. Next comes several sentences of his slush, of which he says "It is perhaps needless to say that this was written by the Warsaw correspondent to the Peterborough EXAMINER." We wish that this fall brother of Ananias would allow the office devil to make suitable corrections in what he writes before it is published. If it is necessary for the "Thunderer" in its efforts to increase its circulation in Young's Point and Lakefield to abuse the surrounding villages to furnish "guff" for their reading, they have chosen a good "mark" in Warsaw. He says "the Young's Point team has never been known to lose a game to Warsaw." We now make him an offer. We have five five-dollar bills in our sanctum and if we cannot prove that Warsaw has defeated Young's Point we will invest them in buying a new county map for his instruction.

He should go to some really first-class bookstore and buy a city map of Warsaw and then come and see the town; but it would be to his advantage to bring someone with him who will not allow him to get lost and will keep him in out of the rain; or, perhaps, he would be like Top's colt, which ran into the river to get out of the rain. Perhaps he judges the population of the town by the circulation of the Thunderer out here. We have at least an intelligent reading public who read the EXAMINER. If there is a post office and three houses in Warsaw there must certainly have been a jag-factory in the town where that outburst was written. There have been several other howls coming from Young's Point, and even Warsaw, but we have no time to waste to pay any attention to these—we take them for what they are worth. He wants us to "step out" and name ourselves, "to relieve the tension," etc. We do not make any such public exhibitions of ourselves as this Baron Munchausen IL has done. All we have to say to remove his burning curiosity is that we are not the football player and that we do not play football. We will let him remain in his ignorant bliss and believe us to believe us to be a farmer. But we will give him one conundrum to answer before closing: Which is the most verdant, a city man in the country or a country man in the city? A house and lot is offered for the first correct solution.

Where Specialists Failed Dr. Chase Cured Catarrh.

James Spence, Clachan, Ont., writes:—"I had been a sufferer from Catarrh for 15 years. It became chronic and I had given up hopes of ever being cured when advised by a friend to try Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. I at once started and am pleased to state three boxes effected a complete cure, and I heartily recommend it to anyone suffering from catarrh."

MINISTERS IN SESSION.

Fifteenth Annual Meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist Church—The Statistical and Stationing Committees Still in Session.

Nearly all the ministers in connection with the conference assembled in Lindsay have arrived, and as the work of the stationing and statistical committee involves a great deal of labour, no report will appear until to-morrow. The general session will not open till Thursday morning at ten o'clock, while the ministerial session opened to day at 10 a.m. for the consideration of the characters of the young men to be received into the ministry. The report of the billeting committee does not yet appear owing to the non-arrival of a few of the brethren.

The Statistical Committee met at the Cambridge street Methodist church at 8 o'clock. Rev. J. S. McMullen is the appointed chairman, while Rev. N. D. Drew was elected secretary. Following are the members of the committee:

Belleville—Rev M E Sexsmith.
Napanee—Rev W Limbert.
Picton—Rev H V Mounteer.
Brighton—Rev H B Kenny.
Cobourg—Rev W Elliott.
Bowmanville—Rev W H Adams.
Whitby—Rev J C Anderson.
Cannington—Rev W B Tucker.
Lindsay—Rev J Barnes.
Peterborough—Rev N D Drew.
Campbellford—Rev F W White.
Madoc—Rev G Nickle.
Tamworth—Rev M W Leigh.

The Stationing Committee will complete its first draft to-night. It will probably affirm the principle of sending ministers back to where they have been invited a fourth year. In fact, it is stated that practically this has been done. It is reported that the following appointments will be in print for the view of the Conference Thursday morning, subject, of course, to possible change later:—Rev. Caleb Parker, appointed to Cobourg, left vacant by the death of Rev. Jas. Kines; Rev. D. N. McCamus, to Napanee West; Rev. C. W. Watch, to Port Perry; Rev. Leonard Phelps, to Metcalf street church, Oshawa; Rev. J. C. Wilson, Brighton; Rev. D. S. Houck, Tweed; Rev. G. W. Houck, to Belleville West. A full list of appointments will be given later. Two ministers are receiving each large support for the presidency, Rev. W. R. Young, B.A., and T. W. Jolliffe. Both are good men and true and perhaps evenly divide Conference support. There are peculiarities in this Conference that make it an interesting study. Its territory was the scene in 1884 of the union of a hitherto divided Methodism. At least three of the joining bodies were very largely and almost equally represented. Since then peace, with a few local irritations, has brought a continuously increasing prosperity, indicated, after a decade and a half of trial, by good reports and by the great interest taken in and about Lindsay by the advent of the fifteenth session of the Bay of Quinte Conference. Dr. Carman, venerable, but splendidly able, was given to the church from this Conference. His absence in Japan will no doubt be felt, as his presidency for a few hours or a day has been a feature of the sessions of other years.

"QUACK" GRASS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR.—Could you give me the correct name of a very troublesome grass, commonly called "quack," and oblige.

Yours very truly,
LEARNER.

Smith, May 30th, 1898.

[In reply we may say that its name, like its bad qualities, is legion. It is the most pestilent and most perfectly pestilential example of the radix repens or creeping root. It propagates, both by seed and by its roots, every joint of the latter, throwing out a root which forms a new plant and an endless source of reproduction. Its many names appear to be a corruption of the word "quick"—from its quick manner of growth and multiplication—such as "quack", quitch, twitch, couch. Its botanical name is Agropyrum Repens. As to its qualities and almost indestructible vitality every farmer and market gardener can furnish a feeling report. About the only certain means of destroying it is to dig it clear of the soil, burn it to ashes and enclose the ashes in a hermetically sealed cast iron cylinder. If this is kept in a dry place about a hundred feet distant from soil of any kind, there is not much danger of the ashes taking root and growing.—ED. EXAMINER.]

A Woman Killed.

Lucan, June 1.—A freight train going west through here about 9 o'clock last night, when near the crossing in the village, struck Mrs. Theresa Barnes, killing her instantly. The train did not stop, the train hands evidently not noticing the accident.

The unfortunate woman was at times slightly demented and was frequently seen passing along the street talking to herself. It appears she was in this condition when she was passing over the crossing and did not notice the approaching train.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL COMPLETION

This is the Battle Cry of the Revived Trent Canal Association.

THE CONVENTION TAKES A FIRM STAND.

The Completion of a Canal Two-Thirds Finished is Demanded

IN A DETERMINED AND EARNEST SPIRIT.

The Canal, the Whole Canal and Nothing but the Whole Canal—The Association Revived and Reorganized — Strong Staff of Officers—Energetic Work Outlined—A Splendid Spirit of Co-operation Independent of Party Lines.

At a public meeting held yesterday afternoon, in the council chamber, to reorganize the old Trent Valley Canal Association, there was an attendance comprising representatives from the larger number of the municipalities interested in the progress of the canal from end to end. Amongst those present were:—

Messrs. A. L. Davis, mayor of Peterborough; J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., West Peterborough; John Carnegie, president of the Peterborough Board of Trade, D. W. Dumble, J. B. McWilliams, G. W. Hatton and A. P. Pousette, of Peterborough; Mayor Morrison, M.P.P. West Hastings, of Trenton; R. Weddell, Trenton; W. J. Leatherdale, reeve of Medonte. Chas. E. C. Newton, reeve of Tay; Archibald Macfarlane, reeve of Eldon; H. S. Ferguson, reeve of Stirling; W. H. Casement, district councillor, Lakefield; Messrs. Lillicrap, C. J. Burgess and Dr. Fraser, Lakefield Council; J. T. Robinson, reeve, W. T. C. Boyd, councillor, and Messrs. John Braden, W. J. Reid and W. A. Davis, Bobcaygeon; R. R. C. Strickland, Lakefield; Alex. McRae, reeve of Thorah; John Adams, reeve of Rama; W. H. Hall, Harvey, and Geo. E. Elliott, Smith, H. S. Macdonald, town, secretary of the Board of Trade.

Mr. John Carnegie, President of the local Board of Trade, called and stated that this effort to revive the Trent Valley Canal Association was made at the request of the Joint Committee of the Peterborough Town and County Council. He then asked those present to select a chairman and also a secretary pro tem.

Mr. Carnegie was requested to preside, and Mr. H. S. Macdonald acted as secretary by the wish of the meeting.

In addressing those present Mr. Carnegie stated that doubtless all present understood the position of affairs in regard to the canal. No new contracts had been let on the work this year and it was apprehended that none would be unless the municipalities interested woke up. Although contracts had been let for all the work to be done in the vicinity of Peterborough, the town was just as anxious as ever to see the entire canal pushed through to completion as soon as possible. The chairman then read letters from the following gentlemen acknowledging invitations to be present and regretting their inability to comply: Hon Geo. A. Cox, Toronto; Geo. McHugh, M.P., South Victoria; John Lang, M.P., East Peterborough; W. H. Bennett, M.P., Simcoe; Col. Deacon, Lindsay; F. S. Taylor, Mayor of Lindsay; W. T. Craig, Reeve of Somerville; D. Gillespie, M.D., Reeve of Cannington; A. G. Shearer, Reeve of Harvey, and Hon David Mills, Minister of Justice.

On motion of Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., and Mayor Davis, the letters were received and ordered to be filed.

THE FOLLOWING RESOLUTION was moved by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., seconded by Mr. W. H. Casement, of Lakefield: That this meeting deem it advisable in the interest of the agitation for the completion of the Trent Valley Canal system to resuscitate the Trent Valley Association, and that the necessary steps be forthwith taken to organize an Association similar in aim, scope, and composition to that which performed such an effective and important work in practically enlisting the interest of the late government in the prosecution of the work in which we, as representatives of the several districts on the route of the proposed and partially constructed canal, as well as in the interests of the carrying trade of the country at large, are so deeply concerned.

In speaking to the resolution, Mr. Stratton stated that it was hardly necessary to dilate on the importance of completing a work which was already over half finished. All present knew the benefits which it was confidently expected would be derived from the completion of the canal. Its merits had not only been decided upon by a Royal Commission, but it had received the approval of the Minister of Railways and Canals in the present government. Yet the work in the manner which those interested hoped to see and the present meeting was called for the purpose of concentrating the forces along the line and showing the Government thereby that the completion of the work was a matter of the highest importance and that a large section of country was anxious to see more contracts given than were being worked upon at the present time. He was strongly of the belief that the sums which had already been voted for the canal were due to the influence brought to bear by the old Trent Valley Canal Association, which had been allowed to lapse after the Government had begun to show an active interest in the scheme. Apparently it was now necessary to again impress on the Government the importance of the work, so that the reorganization of the Association was a matter of necessity. The object in calling the meeting was to get representatives present from all the municipalities along the line and consider the best line of action to adopt under the circumstances and to enlist the sympathy of all the districts affected. Subscriptions would be needed to carry along the work of the Association as before. It was for the meeting to decide how the subscriptions would be raised.

Mr. D. W. Dumble strongly endorsed the resolution. He called the attention of those present to the "dead set" Toronto had made against the canal scheme. Toronto thought that all the Province should be tributary to her, and any scheme which would not benefit the city was promptly given the cold shoulder. In urging for the the Association would have to pull against Toronto, the Welland Canal and Ottawa, which latter city was pushing along a canal scheme of its own. Modesty had hitherto been the bane of those advocating the Trent Valley Canal. They had not asserted themselves sufficiently. If they had not sent deputation after deputation to the Government, the work would not have progressed even as far as it had already done. The Government, it was true, had a great many matters of a similar nature to provide for, but as reasonable men they could understand the necessity of going on with a work on which so much money had been spent and which another million dollars would complete. The Trent Valley Canal was not a local scheme, but of national importance. In England there was nearly 5,000 miles of internal navigation in operation, many of the canals only having nine foot locks—mere ditches, yet they did heavy work. In Belgium and France canals were not obsolete but as much was spent on their development as on railways. They kept down the cost of railway freights. The Erie Canal did the same. If the Trent Valley Canal was constructed all the grain from the North West Territories would come through it at a cheaper rate than if it went to the seaboard by the more round about way.

Mr. Charles Newton, Reeve of Tay, before voting on the resolution, stated that his municipality was rich in which it was desired to get to the front. If the canal was constructed along the route as now proposed, with the outlet at Midland, the shipping facilities for the district would be all that could be required but he understood that there was an agitation on foot to change the route to pass through Barrie, which would result in the district which he represented being cut off from communication with the canal. He asked what attitude the meeting proposed to take in this matter.

The chairman stated that so far the plans of the engineers had not been interfered with in any way. These matters were all settled by them, but he had always understood that Midland was to be the outlet.

Mr. W. J. Leatherhead, Reeve of Medonte, spoke in the same strain as Mr. Newton, his municipality being placed in the same position.

Mr. Stratton had not heard of any change being contemplated, but repeated that the engineers had never been interfered with as regards the route to be followed.

Mr. John Adams, Reeve of Rama, did not care what route was followed as long as the CANAL WAS COMPLETED.

He thought the engineers could be trusted to follow the best route.

Mr. A. Macfarlane, Reeve of Eldor, wanted to see the work pushed forward as speedily as possible. Five miles of excavating had been done on the Balsam lake section, and if eight or nine mile more were completed it would join Lake Simcoe and would be of some use. At present it was no good, when by a small expenditure it would prove of great value to that district.

Mr. R. C. Strickland was confident that no pressure could be brought to bear which would result in the altering of the plans of the engineers. The representatives from Tay and Medonte could rest easy on that point. Lakefield citizens wanted a swing bridge, but the plans of the engineers called for a high level bridge, and that was what they got.

Mayor Morrison regretted that the old Association had been allowed to die out. A new government was now in power and the probabilities were that the whole ground would have to be gone over again for their benefit, whereas, if the Association had been kept alive the interest in the work would never have flagged. He was in perfect accord with the resolution.

The resolution was then carried unanimously.

On motion of Messrs. D. W. Dumble and J. R. Stratton, the Association

WAS FORMED. THE MEMBERSHIP COMPRISING

the members of both Houses of Parliament from the constituencies along the line of the canal, the wardens of counties, reeves of townships and villages, district councillors, mayors of towns and representatives from the Boards of Trade interested, the Association to have power to add to its number.

The matter of the election of officers was then taken up. Mr. Stratton nominated Mr. John Carnegie for the presidency of the Association.

Mr. Carnegie declined, stating that personal reasons would interfere with his acceptance.

Mayor Morrison, of Trenton, stated that as the Government had changed recently he would advocate putting a strong supporter of that Government in the president's chair. It was urgent that one having the ear of the Government should be chosen, and, therefore, it gave him great pleasure to propose the name of Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P.

Mr. R. C. Strickland, of Lakefield, whilst regretting Mr. Carnegie's retirement, felt that the association needed a man of broad views for the position and he thought Mr. Stratton was well fitted for the chair. In seconding his nomination he felt that if Mr. Stratton had been in the House yesterday he would never have allowed Mr. Osler's to pass without instant denunciation. Mr. Osler had aspirations for the party leadership, but this speech had condemned him. He and others of the same mind would find that they had lost a great deal of influence by their remarks.

Mr. Stratton thought that there were others in the Association better qualified for the position, but if it was the general wish that he should take the presidency, he would do what he could to advance the interests which they all had at heart. He felt that Mr. Carnegie was the best man, having independent means, his own time and the ability and energy for the position, but as Mr. Carnegie had declined he would do his best for the Association.

A standing vote resulted in Mr. Stratton being elected unanimously to the Presidency, and in tendering him the chair Mr. Carnegie assured the meeting that the best possible selection had been made.

Mayor Davis, of Peterborough, stated that Trenton had always taken a most lively interest in canal matters and that he thought the town should have a representative amongst the officers. Therefore it gave him great pleasure to nominate Mayor Morrison for the first vice-presidency. Mr. Carnegie seconded the nomination, and in the same resolution W.T.C. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, was nominated for the second vice-presidency. Both gentlemen were ELECTED UNANIMOUSLY.

Mr. J. R. Stratton suggested the name of Mr. S. R. Armstrong for secretary-treasurer, and on motion of Mr. Strickland, of Lakefield and Mr. McRae, Reeve of Thorah, he was elected without opposition.

On motion of Messrs. Strickland and Morrison, a standing vote of thanks was tendered Mr. John Carnegie for his past services as secretary of the Association.

After thanking the meeting for its vote of thanks, Mr. Carnegie hoped that the Association would continue to work along the old lines in urging forward a project in which his heart would still continue to be bound up. He then recounted a number of the vicissitudes through which the canal had lived, and urged the members never to be dismayed as to the ultimate result of the work.

The following resolution was then moved by Mayor Davis, of Peterborough, and Reeve Adams, of Rama: That the people of those Midland counties having during many years considered the merits of the Trent Valley Canal scheme as a great national highway, as well as a local work, hereby reiterate their faith in the scheme as one that will do much to keep the carrying trade of the west in our own country, and will keep down freight, and will more than justify the trifling expenditure required to open up a water route of which nature has provided nearly two-thirds in open navigable waters, and we urge upon the Dominion the pressing need of putting other sections of the work under immediate contract.—Carried.

Mr. Lillicrap, of Lakefield, thought the Association should take the stand that the stand that the Government were fully aware of the advantages of the route and were committed to the scheme.

Mr. Dumble explained that a large number of the members of the present House had no idea of the great stretches of open water which existed along the route enabling whole flotillas of barges to be towed along together. What was wanted was canal literature. Montreal should be awakened and the country flooded with pamphlets setting forth the advantages of the canal. Money would be needed and small grants would have to be solicited from the municipalities. When Montreal ascertained what a large amount of trade would be brought to her doors by the canal she would become sufficiently interested to offset Toronto's enmity.

On motion of Messrs. W. J. Leatherdale, of Coldwater, and Charles Newton, of Victoria Harbour, the following resolution was carried: That the several municipalities be asked to contribute to the funds of the Association to enable it to present its claims effectively before the country, and as about $2,000 will be required, that contributions to make up that amount be solicited.

The Association then adjourned, accepting an invitation from Mayor Davis to ride over to the canal in carriages which had been provided.

An Important Judgment.

At Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on May 28th, on application of G. T. Fulford & Co., proprietors of the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., a perpetual injunction was granted by Chancellor Boyd restraining Theodore Sweet, druggist of St. Catharines, from selling a pink coloured pill in imitation of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It seems necessary to again impress upon the public the fact that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can only be obtained in packages the wrapper around which bears the full, law-protected trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Pills offered in any other form, and notwithstanding anything the dealer may say, are fraudulent imitations and should always be refused. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., will be glad to obtain (in confidence) the name of any dealer offering for sale any imitation of their pills, as the company is determined to protect the public against this species of fraud.

THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1898.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Miss Florence Dafoe, Belleville, is spending a few weeks with Miss Nellie Squire.

Mrs. Gormley, of Toronto, is visiting with her mother, Mrs. A. Tucker.

Mrs. Munn and Miss Munn, Peterborough, are spending a few days with Mrs. Michel.

The following were in Norwood on Thursday as delegates to the Women's Foreign Missionary meeting:—Mrs (Rev) Liddy and Mrs (Dr) Harrison, Keene; Mrs (Dr) Jeffs, Havelock; Miss Peake, Norham; Miss Totten, Warkworth. Rev Mr and Mrs Campbell, Campbellford: Mrs (Rev) C R Campbell and Mrs (Rev) Jewell, Hastings. Mrs Anderson, Hastings.

Mr. J. McKellar, formerly of Norwood, passed through here on Tuesday last on his way to Havelock, where he is to take the position of day operator.

Mr. Geo. Cummings was in town on Monday last.

On Thursday last a fire broke out in an unoccupied dwelling opposite the station, and before aid arrived the blaze had gained too much headway to be extinguished. In half an hour from the discovery of the fire the building was completely destroyed. Mr. Robb, the owner, was the only loser, as there were no other houses in the vicinity. The fire is supposed to have been caused by some tramps leaving a fire in the woodshed behind the house.

Another small fire started in the rear of Mr. A. R. Anderson's residence, Spring street. This was, however, put out before much damage was done.

The seventh annual convention of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, Campbellford district was held here on Thursday, May 26th.

The morning session was conducted by Mrs. (Rev.) Campbell of Hastings. The meeting opened with devotional exercises, after which a number of Bible readings were given. Mrs. T. J. Howson, Norwood, was elected secretary.

The afternoon session was conducted by Mrs. (Dr.) Harrison, Keene. Mrs. A. R. Campbell in a brief address reviewed the work of the district during the year. The amount raised in the district during the year was $429.58, an increase of $131.29.

An address of welcome was then read by Mrs. J. A. McCamus of Norwood, and responded to by Mrs. (Dr.) Jeffs of Havelock.

Papers were read on "The World's need the Church's duty' and "The Church's opportunity" by Miss Totten, Warkworth, and Miss Beavis, Norwood. Reports of work in India, China, Japan and France were then delivered, and discussion followed on "Mission circles."

Rev. Mr. McCamus took the chair at the evening session, and gave a short address. A letter of greeting was read from the Presbyterian church, and short addresses were given by Mr. Carter, Keene, Mrs. (Rev.) A. R. Campbell and Mrs. (Rev.) Jewell, Hastings, and Mrs. (Rev.) T. M. Campbell, of Campbellford. A musical programme followed, in which Mrs. (Rev.) Liddy and Mrs. (Dr.) Harrison, of Keene ably assisted. The meeting then adjourned for a year.

A pretty children's service was held in the Methodist church Sunday, conducted by Rev. Mr. Bartlett, of Madoc. He addressed the children in the morning and the parents in the evening. The church was nicely decorated with flowers. The children took part in the singing, both morning and evening.

The council is taking steps to have the shade trees in the village sprayed in order to rid them of the worms which are destroying them.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. and Mrs. Sands, of Kingston, are the guests of Mrs. J. L. Smith.

Miss Garbutt, of Smith, was in the village Tuesday.

Miss Jas. Rankin, of Paisley, was the guest of Mr. Alex. Calder for a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Madill spent Sunday in the village.

Mrs. J. E. Kelly and children are visiting Mrs. Wm. Roxburgh, of Smith.

Mr. E. Longley Taylor is the guest of Mr. F. J. Tate.

Mr. Robt. Stone, of Kinmount, was in the village for a few days visiting his father, Mr. L. F. Stone.

A number of Peterborough ladies on Tuesday wheeled up and made a call on Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Stone.

Mr. Beaby, of Christ church, New Zealand, arrived here Thursday, and when leaving will take away one of Lakefield's fairest daughters.

Mrs. Phelan, who was injured in a runaway last week, was able to sit up on Tuesday.

Mr. Thodore Headrea, aged 17 years, son of Mr. Abel Headrea, died on Tuesday afternoon aftering a lingaring illness. He was an exceedingly fine young man and will be greatly missed by all who were privileged to know him. The funeral took place Thursday afternoon to the Hillside cemetery.

New salmon, tomatos, corn and peas, pumpkin, pickles, relishes, horse radishes, etc., in the grocery department of R. Graham & Son.

Mr. Everett Griffin is improving.

On Sunday afternoon the members of Exeter Lodge, Sons of England, headed by the Sons of England Band, Peterborough, and accompanied by a large number of Peterborough brethren, paraded the streets and proceeded to St. John's church, where the chaplain, Rev. Mr. Warren, preached a very appropriate sermon to the occasion.

The Foresters meet on Thursday evening of this week. On Sunday next the members of Court Lakefield, No. 43, will assemble at their court room at 10.15 and proceed in a body to the Baptist church, where an appropriate sermon will be preached to the members by Rev. H. S. Erb.

R. Graham & Son are showing some nice bicycle suits, stockings, etc.

The Farmers' Gristing Co., of Lakefield, will hold a meeting in the town hall on Friday afternoon at two o'clock. A good attendance of farmers is expected.

Next week is society week.

Everybody here is fighting the caterpillar pest. They are worse this year than we have ever experienced. Now is the time to make a good hard fight to get rid of them.

A court of revision of the assessment roll for 1898 was held in the town hall on Wednesday evening, May 25, Reeve Lillicrap in the chair and the members all present, who took the statutatory declaration.

Mr. S. Wallace appealed that he was too high assessed for farm property.—Assessment confirmed.

Mr. John Isbister claimed a reduction, as the Government had moved his house for canal purposes.—Assessment confirmed.

Dickson Company complained of an error. None could be found, so assessment was confirmed.

The assessor had change made in Robt. Graham's property, as house was removed from Water to Regent street.

Mr. W. H. Casement appealed against his assessment, as part of his property was used for Government purposes (post office). A letter from the village solicitor was read, stating that the property used was exempt, so the assessment was reduced $200

Mr. J. F. Fortin was assessed for lot on Burnham street, lately occupied by Miss Mooney.

Roll as revised and corrected was on motion adopted and the court adjourned sine die.

THE PRESS APPROVES.

English Papers Favor the Proposed Settlement With Canada.

London, June 2.—The Chronicle, in an editorial on the Washington Commission, hopes that it will not merely discuss and report, but decide pending disputes. The less time, it says, that elapses before the commission meets the better.

The Morning Post also discusses the commission. Its task, it says, is comparatively an easy one, as fortunately no really serious question is in dispute.

The Daily Mail, under the heading "First Fruits of Friendship," declares the commission to be one more sign of American good-will toward England.

The Times says the agreement as to the commission is a source of great satisfaction, as it is the first step towards the settlement of certain disputes, not in themselves of cardinal importance, but capable of producing a disproportionate amount of irritation.

The Evening Globe and Pall Mall Gazette both express the hope that great good will result from the agreement to hold the commission.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

A daughter of Charles Miller, age four years, was drowned in the Muskrat River at Pembroke, Ont. The body has been recovered.

H. R. Stanbury, the alleged defaulting cashier of the Shedden Cartage Company, Montreal, has been arrested at Detroit. He is charged with embezzling $500 from the Shedden Cartage Company some time in April.

Alex. Ewing, aged 74, an old and well-known resident of the Township of Pilkington, was found dead on the street at Salem. It is supposed that his horse ran away and he was thrown out from the buggy.

One thousand 'longshoremen employed along the Delaware River front have gone on strike, demanding that they be paid time and a half for night work and double time for work on Sunday. Edward McHugh, president of the 'Longshoremen's Association, was arrested while making a speech for breach of the peace and inciting to riot.

The Most Prominent are Fashionable.

Dyspepsia or indigestion has become a fashionable disease. There are very few individuals who have not at various times experienced the miserable feeling caused by defective digestion. No pen can describe the keen suffering of the body, and the agony and anguish of mind endured by the Dyspeptic. Dr. La Londe, of 236 Pine Ave., Montreal, says, "When I ever run across cronic cases of Dyspepsia I always prescribe Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pill, and my patients generally have quick relief."

Hagyard's Yellow Oil is prompt to relieve and cure coughs, cold, sore throat, pain in the chest, hoarseness, quinsy, etc. Price 25c.

A MOTORMAN'S VICTORY.

Over Diabetes. Gained by the Power of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto, May 23—In a large city like Toronto, there is always much sickness, kidney diseases largely predominating. The street railway employees, exposed as they are to all the inclemencies of the weather are particularly liable to kidney disease. But they all know how to conquer this enemy.

For instance: Mr. T. H. O'Reilly, 27 Niagara Street, motorman, No. 624, was for three years a great sufferer from Diabetes. Every remedy failed to help him, till he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him.

It is cases like this, where the patient and the cure are equally well known, that are the test of a remedy, and Dodd's Kidney Pills have always stood it successfully. They cure all kidney complaints.

Kingston News.

Kingston, June 2.—William Robinson has been appointed clerk of the First Divisional Court, Kingston, vice William J. Robinson, deceased.

In regard to the allegations of Elisha Fulton that $7,300 had been given by the Consumers' Cordage Co., a subscription for the election of Hon. William Harty, in Kingston, Mr. Harty denies emphatically the receipt of any subscription, even a dollar from the Cordage Company and does not believe any was given to his political or personal friends.

George Palmer, Toronto, has bought the steamer Cambria for $15,000 from the Donnelly Wrecking Company. The boat goes to Buffalo.

The heat yesterday was intense. Thermometer 85 degrees.

Grand Trunk New Rules.

Toronto, June 2.—It was learned here yesterday that the Grand Trunk men are holding meetings all over to protest against the new rules going into force on July 1 without their being heard. It is likely that a deputation will ask permission of the Minister of Railways to wait upon him, and to state their case to him. If, however, the rules go into force without their being heard there are grave rumors afloat that a strike will take place, as soon as the laws of the several brotherhoods will permit.

INDOLENCE OF OFFICE

Government Employes Admit They Have Nothing to Do.

THE REPORT OF JUDGE SENKLER

The Kingston Post-Office Inspector's Office to Be Closed Up—One Man Could Do the Work Upon Which Five Were Engaged —The Proceedings in the House.

Ottawa, June 2.—An investigation made by Judge Senkler of St. Catharines into the working of the post-office inspector's office at Kingston has been submitted to the Government, and shows that establishment to be altogether unnecessary in the public interest. The officials admitted that they had little or nothing to do, that one hour a day did all their work, and, as a matter of fact, one man could have done all, which an inspector, an assistant inspector, chief clerk and two other clerks were paid to do. It is more than likely that the inspectorate will be wiped out at an early date. It is understood that the Postmaster-General intends to overhaul other offices in his department in much the same way.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

Mr. Fielding Declined the Proposition of the Protectionist Tempter.

Ottawa, June 2.—On a motion to go into supply yesterday morning Mr. Monk urged the Government to enlarge the duty on shirts and collars from 35 to 55 per cent. ad valorem, or to impose a specific duty.

Mr. Fielding declined to acquiesce.

Mr. Bell Charged Murder.

The House was then awakened from the rut of estimate discussion by Mr. Bell of Pictou. The Acadian member told the gruesome story of the inhuman treatment accorded the two young men from his riding, named Fraser and Macdonald, at the hands of the contractors on the Crow's Nest Pass Railway. Be the responsibility on the C.P.R., or on whom it may, the accredited facts are that the young men were allowed to die like dogs, and by reason of certain red tape regulations their remains were buried without inquest. They were taken down with diphtheria while on the job, and for two weeks were denied medical treatment of any kind. Then they were sent a distance of over 100 miles in an open conveyance in January weather and left in a box car. A passerby heard their groans, and Dr. Meade, when summoned, found the car filled with smoke from an impoverished fire in a box stove. The men were dying. One gasped for relief from pain, and morphine was injected. Both subsequently died. Dr. Bell says they were murdered. Dr. Meade called an inquest, but was delayed and obstructed, and was finally notified by Judge Rouleau of Calgary to stop proceedings, because he had been in attendance upon the men.

Mr. Bell demanded an investigation by a Government commission, and was supported from the Government benches by Mr. Fraser of Guysboro. Mr. Fraser was a relative of the young men. He gave both of them a good character, and stated that they were sons of well-to-do parents, who, had they been wired, would have sent funds to guarantee the boys decent treatment.

The Minister of the Interior said that the House was entitled to an explanation from the deputy. As to the case under discussion the report of the commission to enquire into the treatment of the men on the C.N.P. contract corroborated everything that had been stated. He considered the railway company or its manager of construction responsible, but could not state just what legal action the Government could take.

Mr. Richardson of Winnipeg hoped for a searching investigation, but Solicitor-General Fitzpatrick challenged the Opposition to suggest a course of action.

The Premier promised the Government would endeavor to see the ends of justice met.

The Mission to Washington.

In the afternoon Mr. Foster, noticing Sir Louis Davies in the House, asked for a statement as to his mission to Washington.

The Minister of Marine, in reply, gave an account substantially as it was published. Both the President and General Foster had evinced the most cordial spirit, and negotiations were carried on in a most amicable manner. A tribunal was to be appointed to sit at Quebec city, to settle if possible all existing differences between Canada and the United States.

In reply to Mr. Foster, Sir Louis added that Canada would be represented on the commission.

Mr. Foster congratulated the Government on the success of their preliminary action, and wished them every success.

At Mr. Foster's words the Premier expressed appreciation and gratitude. He hoped the past between the two countries was to be forgotten, and that the present cordial relations would extend to every British colony.

Sir Hibbert Tupper asked if the Alien Labor Law was one of the bones of contention to be crunched. Sir Louis declined to say until he had reported to the Government, but the answer came from the Premier. Sir Wilfrid was asked by Mr. McPherson if Hamilton was to have a "De Barry" appointed. The Premier could not say, but added that he hoped that in a few months such officers would be no longer necessary.

In the evening the House was treated to a legal argument between Mr. Borden of Halifax and Sir L. Davies as to the merits of the Government's commutation of the death sentence of a 17-year-old boy named Lyman Dart, who killed an Armenian pedlar near Truro, and, after his conviction, had confessed to having done it accidentally.

The steamship subsidies coming up in supply. Dr. Montague and Mr. Foster enquired as to the result of Mr. E. E. Sheppard's mission to Latin America to promote Canadian trade.

Sir Richard Cartwright, in reply, said that Mr. Sheppard's report gave no encouragement as to the prospect of doing any trade excepting with the Argentine Republic. Here he hoped to do business in agricultural implements, but even there there was no very great apparent opening. Political complications had disorganized the Brazilian markets, while trade along the western coast would be handicapped by the cheap freight rates of German steamers. On the whole, Mr. Sheppard's explorations were not encouraging enough to warrant any attempt at subsidizing new steamship lines for the purpose of trade development in that direction.

THE SENATE.

Ottawa, June 2.—At the evening session of the Senate the adoption of the report of the committee appointed to inquire into the probable cost and feasibility of opening up direct communication between the railway systems of Canada and the navigable waters of the Yukon was passed.

The Franchise Bill was also passed in committee, with certain amendments.

The old man who looks out at the world with clear and healthy eyes cannot help feeling great gratification at the thought that his children have inherited from him no weakness nor tendency to disease. The healthy old man is the man that has throughout his life kept his digestion good and his blood pure. Not one in a thousand does do it. Germs go through the healthy body without effect. Let them once find lodgment or let them find a weak spot, the will develop by the million and the blood will be full of them. Instead of giving strength to the tissues it will force upon them innutritious matter, and the man will lose flesh and the more susceptible he is to disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is he only medicine that absolutely and infallibly cures all blood diseases, and almost all diseases are blood diseases. It isn't a medicine for some one particular so-called disease. It is a medicine for the whole body. It forces out all the germs of disease and replaces impurities with rich, red blood.

A MURDEROUS TRAMP.

Demanded a Night's Lodging, and on Being Refused Shot Mr. McKeough.

St. Mary's, Ont., June 2.—Mr. S. McKeough, a G.T.R. employe, was shot here last night by a tramp giving the name of James Dudley. Dudley demanded a night's lodging from Mrs. McKeough; being refused, he became insolent, and Mr. McKeough, who was in bed, got up and ordered him away. Dudley drew a revolver and shot McKeough in the neck. McKeough caught him and held him until assistance came. Dudley is under arrest. The doctors have not found the bullet.

Oil Strikes in Lambton.

London, June 2.—The people in and around Inwood, Lambton County, are very much interested in a couple of oil strikes which have been made in the vicinity lately. Two wells, yielding 40 barrels a day, are already in operation two miles from the village, and syndicates are being formed among the residents of Inwood and the farmers thereabouts for the purpose of sinking other wells. The Standard Oil Company has secured bonding privileges on more than 500 acres of land, and the Imperial Oil Company also has a considerable area bonded. Both corporations have expert drillers at work.

Caterpillars Block Trains.

WHEAT SLUMPS.

Liverpool Responds Tuesday's Chicago Decline—No Demand in Continental Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Wednesday Evening, June 1.

Tuesday's slump in wheat by no means discounted present bearish conditions, and a further decline occurred to-day in American markets. On the Chicago board the June delivery fell 1⅞c during the day's session, July 5¾c, September 2⅝c and December 2⅛c. The day's clearances from Atlantic ports were enormous, but were regarded as simply adding to the immense quantity afloat for Great Britain and Europe, which is already three times the amount on passage at the same time last year. Other bearish factors are the fine crop weather in the west and the commencement of harvest in the southwest with some new wheat already moving. Other American markets declined in sympathy with Chicago.

The Liverpool board, which has been closed for three days, to-day responded to the decline recorded in Chicago during the triple holiday. As compared with Friday's close spot wheat to-day closed 3d lower, July 7¼d lower, September 3⅜d and December 1d lower. Paris showed a slight reaction to-day. Wheat closed steady to 15 centimes lower, and flour steady to 50 centimes lower. The small decline is, however, insignificant, compared with yesterday's advance in the market. Antwerp wheat was steady to 25 centimes higher.

Canadian wheat was very weak to-day, Ontario red offering for export at $1 on the line, or $1.10 afloat at Montreal. Cabled offers to Liverpool at these prices were refused, and continental points replied simply "No demand." No. 1 Manitoba was not in evidence to-day, but it is nominally held at $1.32 afloat at Fort William.

SANTIAGO SORE BESET

"Greatest Warship Massing in Modern History."

BIG FIGHT EXPECTED SOON

Sampson Takes Command in the Santiago Naval Operations.

SPAIN WANTS POWERS TO SECURE PEACE.

The Santiago Affair Something Like Another Manilla—Santiago on the Verge of Starvation—Cardenas Looking Out for its Harbour.

Spanish Version of the Santiago Affair.

Madrid, June 2—Official circles ridicule the American pretension to treat the Santiago affair as a simple reconnaisance. The truth is as the official circles see it: That the Americans tried to force an entry into the bay and were repulsed.

Desperate Condition in Santiago.

Cape Haytian, June 2—The condition of the population of Santiago since the beginning of the blockade has grown rapidly worse, and it is now said to be nearly desperate. Food is very scarce, and poor people can't obtain any on account of the enormous prices. It is expected that Santiago must soon fall.

Is Santiago Another Manilla?

Port Antonio, June 1 (delayed in transit).—The squadron commanded by Commodore Schley attacked the batteries at Santiago de Cuba yesterday afternoon and also engaged the ships of Admiral Cervera, which were lying inside the harbour. The Spanish flagship Cristobal Colono was struck twice by shell fired from the Massachusetts and the Spanish batteries were badly damaged. The Spanish fired about 300 shots, the Americans about one-fourth that number. No American vessel was hit and no one on board injured. The Spanish loss was not heavy.

The Powers Asked to Intervene.

London, June 2.—The Madrid correspondent of the Morning Post says:—Senor Leon Castillo, the Spanish ambassador to France, at his recent conference with the Queen Regent and Senor Sagasta was officially charged to ask the powers to intervene to obtain peace on such terms as would protect the honour of Spain. The ambassador will urge for a reason for such intervention, the danger of a loss of trade to the powers themselves in the event of the continuance of the war. Political and diplomatic circles in Madrid believe that Castillo will succeed.

Decisive Engagement Expected.

Cape Haytien, June 2.—A decisive battle is expected to take place to-day at Santiago de Cuba.

Cardenas Harbour Blocked with Hulks.

Key West, Florida June 2.—The Spaniards are filling Cardenas Harbour with old hulks, boilers and other obstructions, in order to prevent any effective entrance of the American ships.

Sampson Takes Charge at Santiago.

New York, June 2.—A Kingston, Jamaica, despatch says: Admiral Sampson has assumed command of the fleet off Santiago. News is momentarily expected telling of a movement of great import before that place. The strength of the fleet now before Santiago is greater than that of any massing of warships in modern history.

More U. S. Warships for Santiago.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 2—Advices received from Port Antonio to-day says: Commodore Schley has been notified by the Navy department that the battleship Oregon, the first-class armed cruiser New York and another cruiser, and two colliers have been sent to Santiago de Cuba.

Spanish Naval Strength at Santiago.

London, June 2—The Spanish ambassador here contends that the Christobal Colon is the only important Spanish vessel at Santiago de Cuba.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The convention, of whose proceedings a full report appears in another part of this issue, affords evidence of the fact that the friends of this great national waterway are determined that its completion from end to end shall be an accomplished fact at as early a date as possible. There is no reason why the Government should fail to carry out with reasonable promptitude this project, which has had the sanction of the late Government, at whose instance a Royal Commission thoroughly investigated the problem of its feasibility and unequivocally and positively pronounced in its favour, as well as the approval of the Minister of Railways and Canals in the present Government—a work which has in it the elements of contributing to the solution of the problem of keeping down railway freight charges and of facilitating the transport of the yearly increasing large output of the wheat fields of the Northwest to the seaboard, enroute to the British market. Of the feasibility of the canal and the desirability of its completion there is no longer any question. If only to prevent waste of public moneys the canal should be pushed to a finish. The larger part (nearly two-thirds) of its cost has been already expended, and if, as Hon. Mr. Blair stated in the House on Tuesday, it would only require a million dollars to complete it, there seems to be no reasonable excuse why the expenditure should not be made at once to permit the country to enjoy the benefits arising from the use of the canal. It is urged by the opponents—interested opponents—of the scheme, that it does not pay. How in the name of common sense can a partly finished canal, beginning nowhere and ending nowhere, be expected to pay? If only the central thousand miles of the Grand Trunk or the Canadian Pacific railways were constructed and in operation, it would be folly to expect that either line would be of a tenth part of the use it would be with the termini finished and in operation. Open the Trent Valley Canal from Georgian Bay to Trenton and one would see what the traffic would be; what the benefit would be. One can easily understand the difficulties that have beset both governments in the face of the bitterest opposition from interested corporations, cities and individuals. If the canal did not promise to be a serious opponent, in the matter of cheaper transportation, to existing traffic routes; if it did not promise to furnish a shorter and cheaper route from the Northwest, it would not be worth while to oppose its completion so strongly. Its very importance is the excuse for the hostility excited against the scheme. Considerations of economy do not explain the opposition the scheme incurs. The very persons who are denouncing the Trent Valley Canal are prepared to vote millions in railway subventions and to assist chimerical ship railways. The Government can afford to act in this matter. Their policy in relation to furnishing transport facilities by canal and rail is a broad and progressive one, and the future will amply justify action looking to the early completion of the canal. Without completion, the expense already incurred will, from a national point of view, be largely wasted. Of course the local interests at stake are benefitted by the construction work that has already been done, but they are not selfishly content with that; they wish to see the completion of the canal as a national highway, and only that will satisfy their aspirations. The spirit of the convention yesterday showed that the prominent residents along the route of the canal are in deep earnest. The gathering had no party political significance. It was composed of members of both parties with a common aim, and that the early completion of the Trent Valley Canal. Whatever Government is in power can expect no peace upon the subject till the Trent Valley Canal is completed from Georgian Bay to Trenton.

GAOLBREAKERS CAUGHT.

McDonald and Fobes are Under Arrest in Windsor—The Chief Goes After Them.

The Chief of Police received a telegram from Windsor this morning which delighted him greatly. It announced the capture there of James McDonald and Fobes, the two Peterborough gaol breakers. The message read as follows:

James McDonald and Fobes arrested here.

E. WILLIS,
Chief Constable.

Chief Rozel left on the 1.18 C.P.R. express for the west to bring the prisoners to Peterborough.

Mr. H. Nesbitt, gaoler, was even more pleased than the chief by the news, and it is safe to predict that when once the pair of gaolbreakers are lodged in limbo again it will have to be by some other means than breaking out that they will regain their liberty.

BAY OF QUINTE.

Meeting of the Conference at Lindsay.

THE LIST OF STATIONS.

Difficulty Caused by too Many Ministers—Decision in the Case of Rev. J. C. Ash—The Conference's Legal Adviser—Dr. Brigg's Report.

Lindsay, June 1.—The ministerial session of the Bay of Quinte Conference, met in the Cambridge street church this morning ing at 10 o'clock. A large majority of the members answered to their names. The doors were closed for the examination of ministerial character. The case of Rev. J. C. Ash, who last year was given notice of location, to go into effect this year, was dealt with. When a minister is so unacceptable, inefficient and secular as to be no longer useful in his work, the conference may request him to ask a location, and if he refuse to comply the conference shall bear with him till the session next ensuing, at which time conference may locate him without his consent. This action places a minister back into the ranks of local preachers, and he can no longer exercise the functions of an ordained minister. Mr. Ash was located, after prolonged debate, by a resolution which was drawn up, evidently under the supervision of a solicitor. The conference incidentally was informed that it had now retained the services of Mr. R. J. McLaughlin of Lindsay, as its solicitor. The body was nearly unanimous in its action.

In the afternoon Rev. Dr. Briggs presented his annual report. In a reference against smoking there was a slight applause. Dr. Briggs said that evidently there were many smokers in the conference by the silmness of the assent given to the publication. Much pleasure was expressed by resolution at the hearing of the report, the best yet given, of the Methodist Book Room, and renewed and increased support was promised.

ACCEPTED AS MINISTERS.

The following men have completed their probation of five years, and will be received into full connection with the conference and ordained: J P Berry, E A W Dove, W P Rogers, Prosper H Neville, Hamilton S Spence. A large number of probationers for the ministry were advanced in their work one year. Before the reception of candidates for the ministry Dr. Crothers introduced a resolution, which prevailed, asking that seven be appointed a committee before which all documents relating to the candidates should go. There is a growing difficulty from the continually increasing number of young preachers. It is next to impossible to find fields of work for all these in Canada. The following is the committee: T M Campbell, W J Jolliffe, B C L, J C Wilson, S J Shorey, J P Wilson, Wm Johnston, W P Dyer, D D. Rev. W. G. Huggins was asked to commute his claim on the superannuation fund some time ago, but as he was more than 28 years a claimant on that fund it was the opinion of the authorities that he need not comply with the demand. The whole matter was placed in the hands of the Committee on Conference Relations. It consists of Revs S J Shorey, T M Campbell, W R Young, B A, W J Crothers, D D, J W Totten, T S McKee, O R Lambly, D D, C Parker, J J Rice. Revs Jas Anderson, S Sing, Jos Kilgour and S Ferguson have long served the church, and are seeking for a superannuation relation.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs Joseph Saunders.

The sad death of Mrs. Rachael Saunders, wife of Mr. Joseph Saunders, took place on Wednesday afternoon at the family residence, No. 103 Romaine street. The deceased had been in delicate health during the past winter. Although she was safely nursed through her confinement about three weeks ago, her strength was taxed by subsequent serious complications, to which she succumbed. She leaves three young children—one aged six years, another aged three years, and an infant of three weeks—just at a time when a mother's care is most needed.

Mrs. Saunders was the daughter of the late Alex. Stewart, of Otonabee. She was a member of the congregation of St. Andrew's church and much beloved by all who knew her.

Mr. Saunders is inconsolable under his sudden bereavement. The loss of his faithful partner at the present time is particularly distressing, and will call forth the genuine sympathy of his friends and the public.

The funeral took place to-day at 3 o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery.

Remember the Half Social in Unity Hall, over Matthew's store, under the auspices of City Lodge, No. 404, I O.G.T, to-night. Admission 10 cents.

LACROSSE.

The Juniors went to Jubilee Point yesterday and didn't do a thing to the Hastings junior team, beating them by five straights to nothing. The boys feel very much elated over their victory and have challenged the Hastings seniors to come up to Peterborough for a game. The local team was composed of Messrs. T. Dineen, Victor McWilliams, King Dillon, Miles McDonough, Harry King, Harry Halpin, Fred McGrath, Arthur McClelland, Fred Logan, M. S. Whitcroft, Harry Overend and Bert Dolan. Mr. Percy Rubidge acted as field captain and a few of the seniors went down to look on and encourage the boys. The defence field is stated to have been a veritable stone wall, whilst the home proved to be very fast. Bert Dolan scored all five of the games for the juniors. Commodore Calcutt kindly placed the Eclipse at the disposal of the local team and took them to the Point free of charge.

BRITISH IN AMERICA.

It Is Estimated That They Own Twenty Million Acres Here.

How much property do British subjects own in America? The aggregate, based on absolute facts, is known to be at least 20,000,000 acres, asserts Tit-Bits.

The largest of all is probably the Texas possession of the syndicate which includes in its membership the Dukes of Beaufort and Rutland, Earl Cadogan and the Baroness Burdett-Coutts.

The total amount of land held by this association is 3,300,000 acres. It is, as is the case with most of the Texas land, largely composed of what is called range country—that is, land that is better adapted for cattle raising than anything else.

Cattle and wheat are what the British investor seems to think money should be made on in the United States. That is why the syndicate represented by the British capitalist Vincent Scully owns 3,000,000 acres of land in Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois. This property is situated in the heart of the wheat growing section.

Two American girls, who now wear, by virtue of their marriage with English peers, two of the highest British titles—the Duchess of Marlborough and Lady Randolph Churchill—are interested with Sir Edward Reed in a syndicate that owns 2,000,000 acres situated in Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico. This is purely a cattle country, and on it range thousands of head of live stock.

There is another syndicate which includes among its members the Earl of Dalhousie, as well as Viscountess Cross, Lady Hamilton Gordon, the Marquis Cholmondeley and several others.

There is a holding in a still different part of the country, for the lands of the syndicate comprise 1,800,000 acres in Mississippi, including cotton plantations, acres and acres of sugar cane and enough swine to stock 1,000 farms.

Lord Tweeddale is a syndicate in himself and owns 1,800,000 acres. Like most individual land owners with large holdings, his property includes a vast territory which, like that of the syndicate spoken of, includes immense tracts of grazing lands. Nearly all of this immense possession is devoted to stock.—St. Louis Republic.

A RELIABLE OFFER.

Honest Help Free to Men.

The (Peterborough Examiner) is authorized to state by Mr. D. Graham, Box 133, Hagersville, Ont., that any man who is nervous and debilitated or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from overwork, excesses or abuse, such as nervous debility, exhausted vitality, lost vigor, unnatural drains and losses, lack of development, etc., can write to him in strict confidence and receive free of charge full instructions how to be thoroughly cured.

Mr. Graham himself was for a long time a sufferer from above troubles and after trying in vain many advertised remedies, electric belts, etc., became almost entirely discouraged and hopeless. Finally he confided in an old clergyman, whose kind and honest advice enabled him to speedily obtain a perfect and permanent cure. Knowing to his own sorrow, that so many poor sufferers are being imposed upon by unscrupulous quacks, Mr. Graham considers it his duty as an honest man and a firm believer in Christian sympathy and kindness, to give his fellow-men the benefit of his experience and assist them to a cure. Having nothing to sell, he asks for no money, the proud satisfaction of having done a great service to one in need, he rightly considers an ample reward for his trouble. If you write to Mr. Graham you can rely upon being cured and upon absolute secrecy as well.

Address as above, enclosing a stamp, and refer to the (PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER). No attention, however, will be given to those writing out of mere curiosity, therefore state that you really need a cure.

NEW YORK LANDLORDS.

Let Their Houses Remain Vacant While Demanding High Rentals.

A newcomer who has been looking for a home nest large enough to accommodate out of town furniture remarked today: "What's the matter with rents in this town anyway? I see thousands of flats and offices tenantless, but as most of them are beyond my means I'm curious to know why the landlords don't come down a peg or two and give a poor fellow a chance to locate within reasonable reach of his business." And so are others. A friend of mine up in Harlem is one of three occupants of a flat house built for ten. The seven apartments have been empty a year, but the agent refuses to lower the rent when any one of the three threatens to change his address, nor will he scale down the monthly figure in order to fill the vacant and profitless rooms. And this isn't a solitary case of this sort, by any means. Another real estate agent has been holding a row of fine flats for nearly three years because nobody feels like squandering $1,000 on any one of them. If he had knocked off $300, he could have rented every one of them. Just why the metropolitan landlord prefers loss to gain is one of the secrets of the real estate business that outsiders can only juggle with mentally.

Another peculiar feature of the business is the way in which the tenants who can put up a good bluff manage to enjoy all the comforts of an up to date home without paying scarcely anything for the privilege. I know one man here who doesn't pay over $200 a year for a $600 flat. He got behind in his rent, and then he jollied the janitor, who did the collecting. The janitor, in turn, smoothed down the landlord, and as a result the tenant got in deeper and deeper. Now he pays a month's rent once in a while and puts up such a bold front that he gets a receipt on his promises. In the same house is another tenant who pays $65 a month, but he shuts up his apartments for two months every summer and goes seaward. He flatly refuses to pay rent while doing the grand, and the landlord hasn't as yet done a thing to him. Still another high flier puts up $75 a month for the pick of the premises. He's in about four months now, but as yet care hasn't carved any wrinkles on his broad brow. All of which leads to the conclusion that rents are high here in order to cover losses of the sort cited.—New York Letter in Pittsburg Dispatch.

He Could See Through Them.

Carl Hertz, the well known conjurer, once entertained a company at a friend's house by performing some of his cleverest tricks. One of the parlor maids, who had been passing cups, cakes, glasses and so on, was much interested, and when the hostess gave a sign that nothing more was needed the girl still lingered to see the completion of the trick just begun.

"Will some one oblige me with a heavy shawl or cloak?" Hertz said. "Now," he went on, selecting a big cashmere shawl, "you observe the thickness of the shawl?" They all did, including the maid at the door. "Now, will one of you be good enough to write a number of three figures on a piece of paper, being careful not to let me see what is written?" One of the ladies did so, while the maid at the door leaned forward and began to breathe hard.

"Now place the written paper, with the figures on the upper side, under the shawl as I hold it." It was done, the thickness of the shawl being between Herts and the paper as he looked down toward it. There was breathless silence. Then he said, "Surely the number is 761." It was. He had apparently seen right through the thick shawl. Every one was amazed.

Then upon the silence broke the shriek of the maid at the door. With one final gaze at the shawl and one at the handsome conjurer she hid her rosy face in her hands, yelling at the top of her voice, "What's the good of me clothes?" and fled.—Argonaut.

MOTORMAN O'REILLY CASE.

He was Cured of Diabetes by Dodd's Kidney Pills! Everything Else Failed.

Toronto, May 30—(By telegraph) With reference to his experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills, and Diabetes, Mr. T. H. O'Reilly, Toronto Street Railway motorman No. 624, writes corroborating the report of his cures.

Mr. O'Reilly says: "For three years I suffered horribly, in spite of all the medicines I tried. Not one of them gave the least relief. I endured the torture of scalding pains while urinating, and all the other agonies of Diabetes.

"Finally I was induced to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. The first dose did me good and I got better and better with each succeeding dose. Three boxes worked a thorough and complete cure."

Word Sketch Which Scored a Member of the Hogarth Club.

There is in London an institution called the Hogarth club, the membership of which is restricted to artists and litterateurs. It is something on the lines of the old Bohemian club, and both business men and American millionaires are strictly interdicted. Whistler is a member, and, of course, shines by his witticisms. The lines being strictly drawn there is always an effort being made by some outsider to force an entrance, and in the case of Baron Grant it met with success. Grant was a treble millionaire who had made his fortune in Turkish contracts and had invested in an Italian title on his way back to London. He was a particularly notorious person and quite the last man whom the Hogarths should have admitted. However, by dint of buying pictures he got in and proceeded to make his friends happy.

One night a big dinner was organized in his honor and Whistler invited. Though the great artist had refused, he happened into the club on the important evening and a deputation of his friends finally persuaded him into the supper room. He appeared, was wildly cheered and was at once asked to make a speech.

"Gentlemen," he said, "it is on the subject of titles I should like to speak. There are several kinds of titles. Some men are born into them—these are inherited titles; others are conferred by the sovereign and have been earned by distinguished service; a few are attributes of the government, of the law or of the church. All this you know most of you. But a title which is not inherited, nor yet bestowed for merit, nor even the sign of a position, is but a barren grant."—San Francisco Wave.

How She Viewed It.

Perhaps she was jealous, perhaps she wasn't; anyway, she had just heard of the engagement, and she could not help noticing the engaged girl's pride in her captured youth.

Carried Down Stream.

When a man crossing some difficult place in his working career; spurring all his energies to accomplish some critical passage in his business journey, suddenly finds his health giving way and feels himself swept out of the saddle by the swift-running current of disease—then is the time when the marvelous rejuvenating properties of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will prove an unfailing means of rescue and restoration.

It is a very simple though eminently scientific medicine. It is not a mere stimulant like so many malt extracts. It restores healthy power by reviving the innermost sources of vitality in the nutritive system. It enables the digestive and blood-making organism to manufacture good blood abundantly and rapidly, so that the immense waste of tissue and nerve fiber entailed by hard labor is offset by a speedy upbuilding of fresh energy and strength.

A prominent and venerable Illinois physician, D. W. Vowles, M. D., of Fowler, Adams Co., writing to Dr. Pierce, says: "I send herewith thirty-one (31) cents in stamps for 'The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser' in cloth binding. With this pittance for so valuable a work (truly a gift to the public), I must express my high appreciation of the vast amount of good that you have rendered the public. A correct measure of your usefulness never has been, and never will be estimated by the public; no, not even by the multitude of afflicted humanity that has been relieved and cured by your medicines. Wherever I go or have been in the United States, I find persons who have used, and are using Dr. Pierce's medicines with satisfaction, for all conditions for which they are recommended. Never has one spoken disparagingly of their action, and from having seen so often their good effects, I am also enthused with confidence in their action in cases and conditions for which they are recommended. It is not common for regular physicians to endorse and recommend proprietary medicines, but in this case I have no equivocation or hesitancy in so doing."

The quick constipation-cure — Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Never gripe.

THE CELLO.

When late I heard the trembling cello play,
In every face I saw sad memories
That from dark secret chambers where they lay
Rose and looked forth from melancholy eyes.
So every mournful thought found there a tone
To match despondence. Sorrow knew its mate;
Till fortune sighed and mute despair made moan,
And one deep chord gave answer, "Late, too late."
Then ceased the quivering strain, and swift returned
Unto its depths the secret of each heart.
Each face took on its mask where lately burned
A spirit charmed to sight by music's art.
But unto one who caught that inner flame
No face of all can ever seem the same.

COUSIN MORRIS.

To awaken at a second rate London hotel with a splitting headache, knowing you have come to the end of your resources through folly and extravagance, is not a pleasant reflection. And Morris Seymour sighed, but could blame none but himself.

He was an American, well educated, 28 years of age, a sturdy, good looking young man, whose chief fault was too much generosity, which his London acquaintances took every advantage of as long as his money lasted. After a light breakfast Morris proceeded to a newspaper office.

One of the clerks (with whom he was slightly acquainted) advised trying advertising. This suggestion was not only acceptable, but put to the test, and it did not take Morris long to write out the following:

"Situation Wanted—By capable newspaper clerk, whose many qualifications include honesty of purpose and strict attention to business, where employer's interests are concerned. Apply —— ——."

The clerk affixed the number T 830.

Punctually at noon the next day Morris presented his ticket at the newspaper office, receiving one answer. Judge of his astonishment when he read the following:

"X. Y. Z.—Meet me tonight at 8 o'clock at the entrance to St. Catherine's docks. Fail at your peril. This is to our mutual advantage."

Examining the envelope, he discovered that it was addressed "T 830," but the figure 8 looked more like an 8. So it was a mistake. He had been given some one else's letter. Out of mere curiosity he made a copy and, procuring an envelope, correctly readdressed it, putting it in the basket on the counter.

Looking through the personal columns of the paper, he came across the following:

"X. Y. Z.—Where can I see you? Answer at once to T 830."

So here was the solution. Morris had been so preoccupied reading this communication that he had not noticed a young lady standing by the counter, who was visibly surprised when she noticed the envelope he had placed in the basket. She then produced a ticket, and this same letter was safely placed in her pocket, while now, standing unobserved in an isolated part of the office, she was watching him in a peculiar and expressive manner.

He was too much disappointed to notice any one and felt like giving way to despair; so, trying to walk off his depression, he must have gone a considerable distance, for, looking around, he found himself in the vicinity of Russell square. While meditating whether to return, a young lady who was passing gave a faint cry and half sunk to the footpath, evidently overtaken by illness. Morris hastened to her assistance.

"Would you help me home?" she said in a weak voice, indicating one of the largest houses.

"Certainly," and taking hold of her arm he half carried, half led her across the square to the palatial mansion indicated, giving a vigorous pull to the bell. The door was immediately opened by a footman, who called to a trim maid, requesting Morris to wait a few moments, ushering him into a small apartment. The room was magnificently furnished, there being an abundance of old china, valuable curios and beautiful oil paintings.

He was not left long in suspense. An old gentleman entered quietly, carefully closing the door. He was trembling with excitement, and, holding up a warning finger, exclaimed:

"Morris, why have you caused me all this trouble? I'm perfectly innocent. A few more weeks of this worry will kill me. No explanation now. When I die, you will not be forgotten. I never thought Ebenezer's only son would have threatened me.

"Two questions only for the present: When did you leave New York? And what steamer did you come by?"

To say that he was astonished at being called by his Christian name would be a poor way of describing his feelings, but his reply was straightforward:

"I left New York, sir, three weeks ago today on board the B——, but I fear you are laboring under some unfortunate mistake."

"Hush! Not another word!" said the old gentleman, producing a roll of bank notes, which he thrust into his hands. "Put those in your pocket quickly. Some of the servants might overhear us. Ah, here comes Alice!" And the young lady entered the room, looking none the worse for her slight faintness.

"Alice, my dear, kiss Cousin Morris. He is coming back this evening to stay with us."

How lovely she looked as she shyly approached, saying in a low, musical voice, "I'm so pleased to meet you, cousin," holding up her sweet face in a modest, natural manner.

What could he do under the circumstances? He was almost intoxicated with the strangeness of the position and kissed her not once, but twice. He felt as though he could do anything for her sweet sake. How he had scoffed when hearing of a man falling suddenly in love! But here he had accidentally met a pure and beautiful woman with large, wistful blue eyes who had spoken to him kindly. Her presence made him feel a different being, happier than he had ever been in his life before. She had a truly sympathetic nature, and his heart went out to her at once with a passionate longing, an intensee desire to do something for her sake, and Morris for the first time in his life knew what it meant to fall suddenly and desperately in love.

There was an awkward silence on his part which was broken at last by her gentle voice:

"You will come back tonight, Cousin Morris, as father wishes, and do exactly what he desires by letting the past be forgotten!"

Before he could reply or think of an answer there was a knock at the door and a footman appeared.

"The carriage is waiting, Miss Alice," he said respectfully.

"Thank you, Reuben. Goodby, cousin, till this evening. Tell the coachman where to leave you and in the meantime I will practice some songs for your especial benefit." And, gently pushing Morris, she led the way to the front door, the old gentleman warmly grasping his hand, giving him a significant glance to keep silent.

In a half dazed condition he entered the carriage, telling the coachman to drive to Fleet street. Dismissing the conveyance close by the Bank of England, he hurriedly walked to Holborn, entering the hotel and going directly to his rooms.

"What did it all mean?" he soliloquized. "Evidently they have mistaken me for some one else. "Cousin Morris"—how the name seemed to ring in his ears! Like a flash of lightning it crossed his mind that he had been taken for the person who had answered the advertisement to the personal, and, drawing from his pocket the copy, he again read it.

"X. Y. Z.—Meet me tonight at 8 o'clock at the entrance to St. Catherine's docks. Fail at your peril. This is to our mutual advantage."

"That sounds like a threat. I will never believe that the old gentleman and that beautiful young girl have ever done anything wrong. I will keep this appointment."

It was a cold, damp night, with plenty of mud and fog, but exactly at 8 p. m. Morris was standing close by the entrance to St. Catherine's docks. It was so dark that he could scarcely distinguish the faces of passersby, most of them being sailors and dock hands, who had been drinking.

At last a young man, similar to himself in height and appearance, took up such a position that he knew it must be the person he was looking for.

Suddenly he was startled by a great commotion. Cries of "Stop him!" "Runaway!" resounded on all sides, and a horse and wagon came thundering along. The man he was watching sprang forward, attempting to stop the terrified animal, but slipped and was dashed aside. It was so quickly done that no one noticed the accident, and Morris immediately went to his assistance.

"Are you much hurt?" he said, helping him to his feet.

He groaned and in a dazed manner said: "My arm is broken. Help me to a cab, there's a good fellow. But who are you?" he gasped suspiciously. "I had the pleasure of your company on the steamship about three weeks ago."

"I remember you now. I wish now that I had never left New York city."

Morris hailed a cab, and they were driven to a boarding house at Black Heath, and it was found that a severely sprained arm was the full extent of his injuries.

"Supposing I stay for tonight. There are two beds, and you and I are not strangers, both hailing from New York," said Morris.

His offer was thankfully accepted, and after half an hour's chat the bandages were carefully arranged, the sleeping draft administered to allay the pain, and Morris had the pleasure of seeing him sink into a deep slumber.

This was just what he desired and thought it no harm to make a careful examination of this individual's papers and effects.

In an hour's time he had possession of the true facts of the case. This impostor was formerly a bank clerk whose correct name was Robert Moore. The president of the institution, one Ebenezer Burton, had persuaded his brother to sign a bill of exchange for £15,000 as an accommodation. A forgery had been perpetrated, the figure having been raised to £40,000. In the meantime the bank went into liquidation. The president committed suicide when he discovered that his son, Morris Burton, had committed the forgery.

This young man then attempted to make his uncle, Erastus Burton of Russell square, London, pay the full amount of his forged bill. A number of the true facts coming to light during an investigation, the nephew absconded to parts unknown, but wrote a letter charging his uncle with the full offense.

This communication was never sent, being in the possession of Moore, who in some manner secured all these documents and came to London to act the part of the nephew and endeavor to get a large sum of money from Erasmus Burton.

In the morning Morris made very short work of this impostor, who, being threatened with speedy arrest, gave up everything. Later in the afternoon he drove up in a cab to Russell square. Alice met him at the door. She looked worn out and there were traces of tears on her sweet face.

"Cousin Morris, you never kept your promise. We had almost given you up, and father is seriously ill."

"May I see him, Miss Alice? I could not come before."

She glanced at him shyly, and, without further comment, led the way to her father's chamber.

The old gentleman was in bed, seemingly ill and careworn; but, seeing Morris, cheered up wonderfully.

At last he had told his story, every minute detail was gone over and the papers handed to the old gentleman, and Morris prepared to depart.

Alice was softly crying tears of joy, while the old gentleman grasped his hand in a vigorous manner, more expressive than anything he could have said.

Needless to say, Morris staid the remainder of the day and in a few weeks secured a splendid position.

Six months later he married Alice, his first and only love, who often laughingly remarked: "Ah, Morris, I examined you thoroughly in the newspaper office—the afternoon I fainted, you silly boy—and I told father that you were not a bad man. You were too good looking and gentlemanly."—Chicago News.

A Two Handled Hammer.

People who stood around looking at men clearing up the debris of a torn down building were interested in the manner of wielding a two handled hammer which they saw in use there, and in the hammer itself, which was bigger than any one man could have handled. Its two handles were inserted in it like the spokes of a wheel in a hub, and they spread out like them. The handles were held each by a man, the two men standing side by side.

The big hammer was used here in breaking up stone so that it could be handled. When the hammer had been let fall, two men standing by the stone lifted it and bore it back by the handles as two men might raise a ladder by bearing back against the side strips while two men held the foot of the ladder on the other side. Here the two men were each holding a handle of the hammer.

When by the united labor of all the big hammer had again been poised in the air, the men in front stood aside and it was again let fall upon the stone.—New York Sun.

Have you Kidney Disease? Is your skin hot and dry; memory failing; breath short; urine, reddish, or pale colored; does it scald when passing; is your appetite changeable; do your ankles swell; have you bitter taste in the mouth on getting up mornings; is there a brick-dust deposit in your urine?

His Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine a Precious Boon.

MRS. A. T. STEWART, Folgar, Ont., says: "From the 7th of January to the 30th, we were up night and day with our two little boys, employing doctors and trying every kind of patent medicine we ever heard of. At this time we did not know of Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine until after the 30th, when our youngest darling died in spite of all we could do. Sometime in February the doctor told us our other boy couldn't live till spring. We were about discouraged, when I got my eye on an advertisement of Dr. Chase's Syrup.

"I tried at once to get some, but none of the dealers here had it. A neighbor who was in Kingston managed to purchase two bottles which he brought straight to us, and I believe it was the means of saving our only boy.

"One teaspoonful of the Syrup stopped the cough so he could sleep till morning. Our boy is perfectly well now, and I would not be without Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house."

Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, N. A. L., Toronto:

Dear Sir,—Please accept my thanks for your cheque just handed to me, for $3,901.98, in settlement of my $2,500 Fifteen Year Endowment Policy in your Company. Such a result as this, after the risk on my life has been carried for fifteen years, beginning from forty-five years of age, argues one thing strongly, namely, that the management of the North American Life must be in competent hands. The other options you have offered me, viz.: a Paid up Life policy for $630.00, or a Life Annuity for $401.90, are, I presume, equally liberal, and it affords me much pleasure to recommend your Company to my friends or any desiring insurance.

CANADA LIFE
Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $407,098.05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3,066, for the sum of $6,185,996, of which, however, 266 for $521,008 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $373,360 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5,291,636, under 2,609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $798,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,168 45, and Endowment policies for $128,846 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $218,481.29 for profits, $145,411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,953,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,272,490 05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,678,915.67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company, I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, the prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Barton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Barton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Merritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

UNCLE SAM'S PURPOSE

Appears to Be to Grab Considerably More Than Cuba.

PORTO RICO AND PHILIPPINES.

The Plan of Campaign Has Been Given Away in a Letter From Secretary Alger to the Speaker—Admiral Sampson Is Now in Command in Front of Santiago.

Washington, D.C., June 2.—For the first time since the beginning of hostilities there appears to be something in the nature of an official statement of the plan of campaign of the United States Government. This is contained in a letter of Secretary Alger to the Speaker of the House, transmitting certain recommendations and statements of General Ludlow, which disclosed the purpose of the War Department to send 70,000 men to Cuba, 20,000 to start at once, and the remainder just as soon as they can be made ready for departure. Then there was an estimate for establishing electrical communication in connection with the army "in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines," showing for the first time officially an implied intention on the part of the Government to land troops in Porto Rico.

Sampson in Command.

New York, June 2.—A Washington special to the Herald says: Rear-Admiral Sampson has succeeded Commodore Schley in command of the naval force in front of Santiago de Cuba and the Spanish fleet. At the same time the number of American men-of-war cruising off that port has been increased to 15, so that it is now practically impossible for Cervera's squadron to escape destruction or capture.

Great Events Hourly Expected.

Cape Haytien, June 2.—The Spanish Government, according to advices received here from Havana, intends to cut the cables which connect that city with Key West, if the other Cuban cables are cut by the Americans.

The Havana papers, the same advices say, publish a despatch from Madrid, declaring that the Americans intend to attack Santiago by sea while the insurgents are making an attack by land, and also to land reinforcements at Guantanamo, east of Santiago.

A despatch from Santiago says: "Great events are expected hourly at Santiago. The Spanish authorities have taken extraordinary precautions and have placed in the narrow pass at the entrance of the harbor special contrivances which permit the closing and opening of the port at will."

A SPANISH VIEW.

They Want to Get the Yankees Landed—Think They Can Whip Them.

Havana, June 2.—Admiral Cervera, it is reported here, was not at Santiago de Cuba day before yesterday, during the bombardment by the American squadron. Had he been there, the Spanish warships would have entered the combat against the Americans confident of a victorious exit.

The Spanish troops have orders to make an energetic, a slight or no resistance, according to circumstances, with a view of facilitating the landing of American forces, so that the latter may go into the interior of the country, where the Spanish are convinced they will defeat them.

The Spanish army and navy are anxious to measure arms with the Americans, trusting for the result to the courage of the Spanish soldiers and sailors, to their better organization and to the greater skill of the commanding officers.

STORMING OF SANTIAGO.

A Somewhat Circumstantial Account of the Bombardment Which Favors the American Side.

New York, June 2.—The Journal has a despatch from Cape Haytien purporting to give details of the Santiago fight. It says: The torpedo boat Porter arrived at St. Nicholas at 1 o'clock this morning with despatches for Washington. She left immediately, but before going to sea the following story of the bombardment of Santiago de Cuba, the refuge of Cervera and the Spanish fleet, was obtained by your correspondent at the Mole.

The American squadron, augmented by the torpedo boat Porter, the auxiliary cruiser St Paul, and the protected cruiser New Orleans, formerly the Amazonas, approached the entrance to the harbor of Santiago, at about 12.30 p.m., the Iowa leading.

Inside the entrance to the harbor was seen one of the warships of Cervera's fleet, stripped for action.

As the American fleet drew nearer the New Orleans was detached and steamed forward ahead of the Iowa, Texas and Massachusetts. One of the forts opened fire on her and she replied, the other two ships directing their fire at the battery on the Punta Gorda within the harbor and to westward of the position occupied by the Spanish ship. The latter replied to the fire, and immediately became a target for all the American ships engaged in the battle. She retired behind a protected headland and was not seen again during the engagement.

The Iowa, directed by Captain "Fighting Bob" Evans; the Massachusetts, Captain Higginson; Texas, Captain Phillips; and the New Orleans, Captain Folger, kept up their terrific fire against the Morro, Socapa and Punta Gorda forts for two hours, their projectiles, of enormous size, doing tremendous damage to the defences of the harbor.

The masonry on Socapa and Morro was battered almost into dust, and the forms of Spanish artillerymen and infantry could be plainly seen flying for safety behind the neighboring hills.

The auxiliary cruiser which joined Schley's fleet just before the battle took place was hit by shells from the forts, and it is thought she has been seriously damaged by the shells.

After seeking the protection of a jutting headland, the Spanish warships continued to fire projectiles over the hills toward the fleet; but they had no range, not even direction, to their shots, and the shells fell harmlessly into the sea.

That the number of killed and wounded on the Spanish side is enormous no one doubts, for time and again the American shells hit the batteries squarely, and amid the flying masonry and demantled guns the forms of men were discerned.

The damage done to the American fleet cannot be learned, but it is not thought any person was killed, if, indeed, any one was wounded.

SPANISH OFFICIAL REPORT.

The Claim Is Made That the American Fleet Was Repulsed.

Madrid, June 2.—The following undated official despatch from Havana has been received here: "The American squadron commanded by Commodore Schley, composed of large ironclads and cruisers, attacked the fortifications at the entrance of Santiago de Cuba. Our ironclad, Cristobal Colon, closing the mouth of the port and supported by the fire of the forts, repulsed the attack, causing damage to the enemy. (Signed) Manterola."

Admiral Manterola is the officer in command of the regular Spanish fleet in Cuban waters.

The Minister of Marine, Captain Auson, on leaving the palace this afternoon after a visit to the Queen, said: "The American squadron has bombarded and tried to force the Santiago forts, which replied vigorously. The Cristobal Colon advanced to the mouth of the harbor, exchanging shots with the enemy, who fired 70 shots against the forts. The damage done is not reported. The Colon hit an auxiliary American ship, damaging it. The Colon was not hurt. Further details are withheld."

Spaniards Were Worsted.

Port au Prince, Hayti, June 2.—Additional details have been received from Spanish sources at Havana of the engagement reported off Santiago de Cuba the day before yesterday.

The Spanish batteries at first answered the fire of the American squadron in a lively manner. After 20 minutes of firing, directed in a superior manner upon the part of the American fleet, the Spanish batteries began to weaken their fire and the American ships concentrated a violent fire upon El Morro, destroying it completely. The forts at Socapa and Punta Grodia fired the last shots.

The Spanish losses must have been considerable. Details are lacking as to the American losses.

The Spaniards pretend to have struck the American vessels several times, but this is accepted here under reserve.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the American squadron ceased firing. At that hour there was no Spanish vessel in sight. No news has been received here from the despatch boats.

Specially Interesting Consecration Service on Monday Night.

St. Andrew's consecration service was well attended Monday evening last, nearly every member being present in response to their name at the roll call, one very important feature on consecration night especially. The topic by Mr. Will Potter was Christian Growth, which, if developed in the right way, should be a beautiful growth. He showed how many privileges the Christian has of manifesting that growth in active work for the Master. The more you grow into Christian likeness the more active you will be on committee work and will have such an interest for the church and society at heart, your desire will be, Lord make me more fruitful in the future than I have been in the past. During the meeting two solos were sung by Misses Porter and King, making the meeting throughout very profitable to all present. The meeting closed in the usual way with the Mizpah benediction.

It became chronic and I had given up hopes of ever being cured when advised by a friend to try Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. I at once started and am pleased to state three boxes effected a complete cure, and I heartily recommend it to anyone suffering from catarrh."

BANGING AT SANTIAGO

Sampson and Schley Said to Have Renewed the Attack.

FIRST BOMBARDMENT A FEELER.

Fleets Are Supported by a Land Attack on the Part of Insurgents—Details Could Not Be Obtained—Santiago to Be Captured and Made Base of Supplies.

Port au Prince, June 3.—It is reported that the American fleet and the insurgents are attacking Santiago.

Expecting Attack Momentarily.

New York, June 3.—A Port au Prince, Hayti, cable says: Advices from Santiago report that 3,000 rebels are within three miles of Santiago, and that the town is in a panic, expecting momentarily an attack by land as well as by sea.

More mines have been laid in the channel by the Spaniards. Tuesday's bombardment did great damage in the town around Almeda, Michaelson and St. Thomas. It is reported that Blanco threatens to cut the cable between Havana and Key West.

The Attack Begun.

Later.—It is now reported from Santiago that the rebels from Siguano Camp have attacked the city in three columns, starting from Camino Real, San Antonio and Cani, and a bloody and determined fight is now in progress.

It Was a Small Fight.

On board the Associated Press despatch boat Dandy, off Port Antonio, June 1.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The squadron commanded by Commodore Schley attacked the batteries at Santiago de Cuba yesterday afternoon, and also engaged the ships of Admiral Cervera, which were lying in the harbor.

The Spanish flagship Cristobal Colon was struck twice by shells fired from the Massachusetts, and the Spanish batteries were badly damaged by the fire of the United States cruiser New Orleans.

The Spanish fired about 300 shots and the Americans fired about one-fourth of that number.

No American vessels were hit, and no one on board the American ships was injured.

The Spanish loss was not heavy.

The Indefatigable on Hand.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 3.—A despatch from Port Antonio says that the British second-class cruiser Indefatigable returned there from Santiago de Cuba on the 1st. The cruiser has been ordered to Santiago to assist the wounded in the expected naval battle. The ship's surgeon was on leave of absence and a Government medical officer was taken.

From the bridge of the Indefatigable 17 ships were counted through binoculars in Santiago Bay. This is supposed to be the full strength of Cervera's fleet, and some of the 17 were probably merchantmen.

Six American ships lay off Santiago harbor and ten were circling around. Commodore Schley moved the blockading fleet close in shore.

On Sunday Admiral Cervera sent out two torpedo boats, one of them the Pinton. After exchanging shots with the Brooklyn, Commodore Schley's flagship, and the battleship Texas, they returned safely into harbor.

SCHLEY'S SANTIAGO FIGHT.

Graphic Account of the Bombardment of Santiago de Cuba—A Small and Not a General Engagement.

On board the Associated Press despatch boat Dandy, Port Antonio, Jamaica, June 1.—(7 a.m.)—For an hour yesterday afternoon the Massachusetts, Iowa, New Orleans and Vixen of Commodore Schley's squadron exchanged shots with the Spanish fleet, under Admiral Cervera, and with the land batteries guarding the harbor of Santiago de Cuba, behind which the Spanish fleet is hiding.

The engagement was the first which has occurred between the two naval forces and was but a prelude to serious work in the latter part of the week.

No attempt was made by the American commander to bring on a general engagement, it being merely his desire to locate the batteries on the hills above the harbor and to determine the location of the Spanish forts.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Commodore Schley left the Brooklyn for the Massachusetts, on board of which battleship he remained during the fighting.

At 1 o'clock the signal to form column was hoisted on the Massachusetts, and the New Orleans, Iowa and Vixen fell in in the order named.

The Massachusetts steamed slowly until about five miles west of the harbor entrance, when she turned in toward the shore, and, when about 5,000 yards off, turned east again and bore down on the harbor, the New Orleans being close up and the Iowa half a mile behind.

The flagship gradually increased her speed, and she was soon running through the water at the rate of 10 knots an hour. She drew closer and closer to the batteries, and when she passed the harbor entrance by 500 yards a great cloud of white and yellow smoke burst from two 13-inch guns in her after turret, and two shells rose over the hill, one of them striking the Spanish flagship Cristobal Colon full and fair, as she lay at anchorage, and the other falling close alongside.

The two guns in the forward turret were then fired, and their shells, in exploding, threw up great jets of spray close to the Colon.

Effective Gunnery.

All the shore batteries thereupon turned their guns on the New Orleans. This cruiser had been directed to pay attention to the batteries. She had been ordered to draw their fire as much as possible, and she obeyed her instructions to the letter. Her first shot located a large battery on the hill above the Morro. It flew straight into the fort and must have caused much damage, as a great cloud of dust and debris rose as the shell burst. A couple more shots sent part of the walls of Morro flying into the air, and then the New Orleans confined herself to the batteries, her fire being rapid and extremely accurate. Every shot she fired made trouble for Spain.

The Iowa came next, and, like the Massachusetts, devoted her attention to the ships lying within the harbor. Her 12-inch shells made the water fly all around that part of the harbor in which the Cristobal Colon lay. The latter, however, was not seriously damaged, and kept up her fire until long after all the American ships had steamed out of range.

After the Iowa came the little Vixen, which, apparently, had no business in a fight where battleships were engaged, but she scudded along after the Iowa, like a fox terrier following a mastiff, and, when at the proper point, she let fly with her one six-pounder and glided away, proudly conscious of having done her best.

After the Vixen had passed the forts, the Massachusetts turned again to the westward, followed by the other ships in the same order, with the exception of the Vixen, formerly a yacht, which was ordered to keep out of trouble. The ironclads then bore down on the harbor once more. The flagship kept in until less than 4,000 yards from the shore, and then her shells again began to heave up the waters of Santiago harbor. This time the shore batteries were better served, and the Spaniards replied to the warship's fire in energetic fashion, but nearly all the shots from the batteries fell short.

Then came the New Orleans once more, her long, black guns doing fearful work and tearing up the ground all around the batteries in the most savage manner.

Spaniards Fire Wild.

The Spaniards dropped several shells close to the Iowa as she came by for the second time, sending a stream of shells into the harbor as she did so. The Spanish ships, with the exception of the Cristobal Colon, were behind the hills, and could not see the enemy, who threw shells around them with such rapidity that they knew he was somewhere on the other side of the hill, and they hopefully raised the muzzles of their guns and banged away. The result was what might have been expected. Their fire tore the bosom of the Caribbean Sea, but it harmed nothing else.

After the Massachusetts had passed the point where she could fire into the harbor with advantage, she turned to the open sea, the other vessels following her. That fight was over as far as the Americans were concerned. Spanish honor, however, demanded that some further destruction of gunpowder be made, and the Spanish ships boomed and the batteries roared long after the American vessels were entirely out of the range.

The affair soon became ridiculous, as nearly all of the Spanish shells fell from two to three miles from the vessels at which they were aimed. Worse gunnery was never seen. One lusty man with a basket of brickbats would be capable of as much destruction as the Spaniards seemed capable of creating. Not an American vessel was struck, and not a sailor injured although fully 300 shots were fired by the Spaniards, the Americans firing over one-fourth of that number in return.

It is likely that the latter part of the week will see more serious work. The dynamite cruiser Vesuvius is coming down, and an attempt will be made by her to explode the triple row of mines extending across the harbor mouth. With these out of the way Commodore Schley will sail into the harbor for a death grapple with the fleets and batteries.

The Restormel Released.

New York, June 3.—A Mail and Express despatch from Key West says Judge Locke released the British coal steamer Restormel yesterday, declining to entertain any evidence as to the ship's movements before her capture off Santiago, because she left England before President McKinley's blockade proclamation.

Removing the Sick.

Key West, June 3.—The hospital ship Solace sailed for New York last night, having on board 86 sick and wounded sailors and marines from the hospitals here. The patients will do better in a cooler climate and the Key West hospital room is likely to be all needed as soon as the forward movement begins.

SIR WILFRID'S STRONG WORDS.

The Report of the Crow's Nest Pass Commission Brought Down and Reveals a Disgraceful State of Affairs and Points Out Remedies for the Wrongs Suffered.

Ottawa, June 3.—The public will be in a measure prepared for the findings of the report by the strong words of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the House on the death of the two young men in the Crow's Nest Pass Railway contractor's employ, in which he said: "It is beyond doubt that the most lamentable occurrence has taken place; that these two young men have been brought to premature death by ill-treatment, and it is possible that there may be ground for a charge of murder or of manslaughter. There has been wrong done; we do not know by whom. If the report is not sufficient the Government will be well prepared, will be ready, to investigate the facts and bring the proper parties to the justice they deserve." The report of Commissioners Judge Dugas, Frank Pedley and Mr. Appleton of Winnipeg amply justifies the Premier's language. This will be apparent from the findings of the Commissioners, which are substantially as follows:

1. The company and its contractors have not lived up to their agreement with the workingmen.

2. No arrangements were made to receive the men upon their arrival at MacLeod.

3. The men were compelled to sleep on frozen ground in the open air without blankets or shanties, open cars or tents, without fire of any kind.

4. No measures were taken to keep the men clean; in fact the surroundings were simply disgusting. They were kept in filthy hovels, swarming with lice and vermin, and without ventilation or light.

5. The contractors were undoubtedly to blame for having allowed the men to sleep under tents in January, with the thermometer down to 30 and 40 below zero.

6. The food given the men was in many cases frozen and in many cases bad.

7. The men were subjected to all kinds of bad treatment when they dared to complain.

8. The men were charged for the transportation of mail they never received.

9. The men were left at Fort MacLeod many weeks without work, and when put to work were charged for board during the time they were idle.

10. They were made to pay railway fare both from and back to the east, in contravention of the contract by the agents.

11. Some of the contractors and subcontractors charged exorbitant rates for the food and goods furnished the men.

12. It is clearly established that the men were deprived of medical care when sick.

13. The men were dismissed without any reason given, and were left hungry, cold and moneyless to find their way home.

14. Sick workingmen were refused food, and in some cases sub-contractors, when they refused to work when ill, dismissed them.

15. The wages paid the men were not high enough to meet their expenses.

16. The men were arrested without giving cause, and in many cases, notably that concerning Keith & Co., when they sued for wages due, the contractors pleaded that the company, and not themselves, was responsible. Some of the men were so aggravated as to commit assault on some of the sub-contractors, and were arrested. These men have not been paid yet.

17. There is no doubt but that the men had reason to complain of the prices charged them for supplies furnished by the contractors. They were compelled to buy soap, light, tobacco, medicine, etc., were charged 50c a month for medical care and 25c for handling their mail even when they sent none. The evidence establishes that a man in good health could not work on the Crow's Nest Pass more than 20 days per month, and that, at the rate of from $1.25 to $1.50, wages paid per day, would have nothing left at the end of the month.

Remedies Suggested.

The report of the commission concludes by suggesting six remedial regulations. They are:

1. To have agents engaging men under Government supervision, and to stipulate that men must be in good health.

2. To have employers protected from frauds by agents.

3. Stringent rules ought to be adopted to protect honest laborers against tyranny and ill-treatment by contractors; to fix wages, price of supplies, and of transportation.

4. The company or officer in charge ought to be held responsible for the men's wages, and the agents should examine carefully all contracts between contractors and men. The minimum rate of wages should be $2 or $2.50 per day, and not more than $4 or $5 per week should be charged for board.

5. The sale of liquor should be prohibited where work is going on.

6. Officers should be appointed and empowered to remedy any grievances and so enforce the regulations.

HOPING AGAINST HOPE.

The political wheels in the head of the Toronto World have ground out the idea that there is a probability of an immediate dissolution of parliament and a general election, It urges that the Liberals are being raided with the idea that their chances of carrying the country lessen the longer they hold office. Bye elections are a pretty fair barometer by which to estimate the conditions of the political weather. Let us try the World's opinion by this standard, placing one side the bye-elections won by the Liberals since 1896. and on the other the elections that have gone to the Conservatives. The column will look like this :

LIBERAL.	CONSERVATIVE.
Saskatchewan,	East Simcoe,
Brandon (ac.),	Champlain,
Cornwall and Stormont,
Quebec East (ac.),
Kings, N.S. (c)
Queens, N.S. (ac.),
North Ontario,
North Grey,
Queen's-Sunbury,
Portneuf (ac.),
South Brant,
West Queen's, P.E.I (ac.),
Brome (ac.),
West Prince, P.E.I.,
St. John's-Iberville (ac.),
Bonaventure,
South Oxford (ac.),
North York (ac.),
Wright,
Colonel-ter,
Temiscouta (ac.),
Rimouski (ac.),
Drummond and Arthabaska,
Macdonald, Man.,
Winnipeg, Man.,
Toronto Centre,
Nicolet,
Quebec Centre,
West Prince, P.E.I.

This looks very much as if the slump was going towards the Conservatives, doesn't it? Before our political brethren can count, with any confidence, on success they must find a leader that can lead. Sir Charles Tupper is only accepted under protest, till some of the other squabblers settle which shall hold down the premiership.

BRANTFORD builds more bicycles than Peterborough and bakes more Paterson biscuits, but it hasn't yet got a Historical Society. A movement is now on foot to establish a society to work the rich historical ground that lies in the vicinity of this brisk and pretty city.

QUEBEC can fairly well support a claim to furnishing a large proportion of our "understandings." A careful estimate just made shows thirty-two boot and shoe factories in operation in Quebec and Levis, and at Lorette, near the city, turn out thirty thousand pairs per day, or about 9,000,000 pairs a year, which, at an average price of one dollar per pair, represents a total value of $9,000,000.

THE COMING CONFERENCE.

Sir Louis Davies and Sir Julian Pauncefote appears to have succeeded in convincing the American Government that the plan of refarring all difficulties between the Dominion and the United States to an international commission for settlement in bulk, if found feasible, is a good one. This is an augury for success when the time for settlement comes. The matters in dispute between these two countries are seldom of a character which lends itself to a give-and-take compromise when they are considered alone ; but, considered together, it is often possible to get a concession on one point over against an advance on another. It is always exceedingly difficult for a Government—and especially a popular Government—to recede ; but it is infinitely easier to make a trade. No British Government could ever have given up Heligoland to Germany as an unrelieved concession ; but the exchange for territory in Africa was made without much protest.

The characteristic of international bargaining has argued all along for the Canadian plan of bringing all our differences together and endeavouring to piece out an agreement. Settlement by detail has always been regarded by good judges as little short of hopeless. Consequently we have now made the first and an important step in advance in securing a promising basis for negotiation ; and the mutual kindly feeling which has made this possible, will, if it happily persists, help along the negotiations tremendously. Opportunity smiles encouragingly upon the Liberals in this respect ; and they apparently will have the chance of a quarter-century to carry out the reciprocity part of their programme. Since the abandonment of unrestricted reciprocity, there has been little difference between the professed policies of the parties in this matter ; but the Conservatives always met hostility at Washington where now any Canadian representative would probably get a friendly hearing.

The questions which it is proposed to settle have been discussed to the point of weariness on both sides of the line. The Americans want pelagic sealing stopped, transhipment of fish across our territory and access to our markets. We want an effective bonding privilege across the strip of Alaska that bounds the Yukon district, the protection of our rights in the Behring Sea and the Atlantic fisheries, the cessation of the alien labour petty war, and a reasonable reciprocity. Then there are such other questions as the Alaskan boundary, mining regulations, etc. The commissioners will face a task of some delicacy and vast importance when they meet ; but determined good-will and a spirit of justice are great problem-solvers. —Montreal Star.

GENERAL GASCOIGNE'S PROTEST

Sir Wilfrid Laurier brought down in the House on Monday a letter from Major-General Gascoigne in which the late commander of the militia forces appeals to the sense of justice of members of the House and the country against the malignant and unjustifiable attack made upon him by Sir Charles Tupper. It is possible to read in the letter a realization, on the part of General Gascoigne, of the enormity of his offence in procuring the retirement from a lucrative position of a family connection of Sir Charles Tupper. Knowing that he had thus given offence to Sir Charles, and having doubtless learned of the violence of language which Sir Charles sometimes permits himself ; the General had decided to leave Sir Charles' language to the sense of fairness and good judgment of Parliament and country. When, however, he found in the report of Hansard that he was accused of having resigned his position in order to avoid a civil action which "would have resulted in his expulsion from the Imperial service," he thought it incumbent upon him to make a public protest against the injustice done him by the publication of such a statement.

In his letter to Sir Wilfrid Laurier General Gascoigne says : "Sir Charles is reported further to have said that I was 'able to avoid this disgrace (expulsion from the Imperial service) by getting my resignation accepted.' This is altogether untrue, as you yourself are aware. My resignation was sent in after the threatened civil action was unconditionally and unreservedly withdrawn ; it had no bearing on or reference to that action whatever. Indeed, I had spoken to the Horse Guards in England fully twelve months ago as to the possibility of my applying to resign, and I emphatically repeat that my resignation had no bearing on or reference whatever to that civil action. I sent in my resignation on purely personal grounds."

This categorical denial will be accepted by every fair-minded man. Possibly if Sir Charles were now in his place in the House instead of being on his way to England he would be able to repair some part of the mischief he has done by a suitable apology, but even that, while it might be accepted by General Gascoigne, could not be construed as sufficient by the people of Canada, whose sense of hospitality, as well as their sense of justice, has been outraged by these attacks upon one who has faithfully discharged his duties as an Imperial military officer loaned by Great Britain to Canada for the improvement of our militia. Violence of language has become so much of a habit with Sir Charles Tupper that not much attention is ordinarily paid to his diatribes by those who hear them or read them. But this protest, so moderately worded, is a reminder to Sir Charles Tupper that the amenities of private life ought not to be lost sight of even by the most vigourous politicians, although there is not much hope that the lesson will have much affect.—Montreal Herald.

The Most Prominent are Fashionable.

Dyspepsia or indigestion has become a fashionable disease. There are very few individuals who have not at various times experienced the miserable feeling caused by defective digestion. No pen can describe the keen suffering of the body, and the agony and anguish of mind endured by the Dyspeptic. Dr. La Londe, of 236 Pine Ave., Montreal, says, "When I ever run across crouls cases of Dyspepsia I always prescribe Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pill, and my patients generally have quick relief."

THE WAY THE WIND IS BLOWING.

Uncle Sam Makes a Sly Bid for the Suspension of Pelagic Sealing.

Washington, D.C., June 2.—The Canadian negotiations recently concluded here led to the signing of a protocol which formally agreed to the exact subjects to be submitted to an international commission. While the protocol makes no preliminary agreement on the several questions, yet it is the general understanding among officials that the Behring Sea question will be adjusted and finally settled by the complete termination of pelagic sealing. This has been a source of controversy for many years, the United States seeking to put an end to pelagic sealing, and Canada, through the Imperial Government, contesting against this termination of an industry very profitable to many citizens of the Canadian Pacific Coast. During the recent negotiations, however, it developed that this industry was practically extinct, and was no longer profitable to any considerable number of Canadians. It was stated by those well versed in the matter that only two Canadian vessels were engaged at present in sealing operations in Behring Sea. Heretofore the Canadian sealers have gone to Behring Sea by the hundreds, and it was impossible for Canada to stop the industry without paying these sealers a very considerable sum, running into the millions, for the extermination of their industry. Now, however, under the changed conditions, it is said that Canada has only a few sealers to deal with, and that she is therefore in a position to meet the contentions of the United States without seriously injuring a large established industry. While no agreement toward giving up pelagic sealing was reached during the recent meeting, the discussion was along lines indicating that the coming commission without difficulty, and with due regard for the interest of both Governments, could put an end to the Behring Sea controversy by agreeing to a complete suspension of pelagic sealing. It is understood also that the protocol specifically recites that there shall be three representatives from each Government in the Canadian-American commission.

A MOTORMAN'S VICTORY.

Over Diabetes. Gained by the Power of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto, May 23—In a large city like Toronto, there is always much sickness, kidney diseases largely predominating. The street railway employees, exposed as they are to all the inclemencies of the weather are particularly liable to kidney disease. But they all know how to conquer this enemy.

For instance : Mr. T. H. O'Reilly, 27 Niagara Street, motorman. No. 624, was for three years a great sufferer from Diabetes. Every remedy failed to help him, till he began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him.

It is cases like this, where the patient and the cure are equally well known, that are the test of a remedy, and Dodd's Kidney Pills have always stood it successfully. They cure all kidney complaints.

THE YUKON R'Y POLICY

Minister of Railways Makes an Announcement.

THE GOVERNMENT'S DECISION.

There Will Be No Legislation This Session and No Surveys During the Present Year—The Judges' Bill in the House—Yukon Administrative Bill Passed.

Ottawa, June 3.—The Railway Committee yesterday morning threw out the bill to incorporate the Yukon Overland Transportation Company. This company proposed to construct a toll road from Lake Bennett to Dawson City, but the proposal to exact tolls met with very strong opposition and the bill was lost on a division of 31 to 27.

On the consideration of the Alaska & Northwestern Railway Company, the Minister of Railways made an announcement of Government policy in reference to this and a couple of other bills which proposed railways from the Alaska boundary into the Yukon. He reminded the committee that these bills had been dealt with by the committee on the understanding that they would not be considered as approved until the Government had considered whether it would be advisable to allow the construction of any roads from the intersection of the international boundary. He continued, "I am authorized to state to you, gentlemen, to-day that upon very mature consideration of all the interests likely to be affected by the passage of such legislation as this, the Government does not deem it advisable to recommend Parliament to approve of the passing of these bills. That is the conclusion that the Government has arrived at, that during the present session of Parliament there shall be no such legislation. It seems best that the question should be kept open. There will be surveys made during the coming year and at all events the question is a very large one, involving interests not merely local, but national, and which render it advisable that we should hold our hands until further information is placed in our hands and these questions settled and the case cleared for action."

The bills were then dropped, Mr. Gillies explaining that the Alaska & Northwestern was not a Hamilton Smith bill.

Mr. Casey, in view of Mr. Blair's statement, withdrew the Yukon part of the Alberta & Yukon Railway Company's bill, asking only for charter rights from the international boundary to the Saskatchewan River. Mr. Saunders opposed the bill on the ground that it would interfere with the Calgary & Edmonton road. The bill was reported.

Proceedings in the House.

On Solicitor-General Fitzpatrick's bill relating to the judiciary being called for second reading,

Mr. N. F. Davin said that what was wanted was a re-distribution of judicial districts, and not any increase in stipends.

Mr. Foster said he was opposed to the bill from start to finish. He felt that the present expenditure of $792,000 annually on salaries of the judiciary was enough to spend on that department. Judges, and especially in Quebec Province, were tumbling over one another, and many of them were not earning an honest year's salary. The duty of the Parliament of Canada was to check the extravagance of the Provincial Legislatures, which had been installing party friends on the bench at the country's expense.

Mr. Fitzpatrick Defends His Bill.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, speaking in defence of his bill, said that some of the judges might be superfluous, but recalled that they could not be removed excepting by a total reorganization of the judiciary, which must be the work of the Local Legislatures. He reminded the House that the strongest Government Quebec ever had, had one time tried to enact such a plan, but had been forced to withdraw their bill. The bill would rather diminish than increase expenditure, because the extra salaries would be counteracted by the reduction in amounts allowed for travelling expenses. He informed Mr. Foster that the salary list would be increased by $26,900. Among the additions were: One judge of the Ontario Court of Appeal, at $5,000 salary; one judge of the Yukon district, at $4,000, and increases of $400 each to 18 junior judges in Ontario.

Yukon Bill Read a Third Time.

In the afternoon Mr. Sifton's tentative measure for the government of the Yukon district received, among other bills, its third reading. In moving the second reading in the morning, the Minister of the Interior expressed the expectation that between 50,000 and 60,000 people would be in the district by next winter. There were, he understood, over 40,000 immigrants there now.

The balance of the afternoon was taken up in debate on the judiciary bill, and the second reading carried.

In Committee on the Bill.

The House went into committee on the bill in the evening, and Sir Hibbert Tupper took exception to the clause which made retroactive the clause providing for the compulsory retirement of County Court judges at 75 years of age. Assurance was given that only two judges would be affected.

The debate continued, the leading feature of it being the zeal with which the legal members of the House sprung to the protection of the bench. Mr. Campbell, however, was radical enough to wish the measure to apply to the Supreme Court judges.

Sir Hibbert's amendment giving effect to his views was lost by an aye and no vote of 44 to 28.

The Superannuation Fund.

In committee on the bill for the abolition of the civil service superannuation fund, Mr. Mulock withdrew the retroactive clause, which thus exempts present civil servants from the operation of the bill.

Another Government amendment allowed members of the service of ten or less than ten years standing to come under the provisions of the bill.

Mr. McMullen moved in amendment to have the interest rate to be paid by the Government on deposits on the increment fund 3 per cent. instead of 4. The member for Wellington deemed it unfair that the civil service man should receive 4 per cent. on their money, while the poor man who put his savings in the savings bank drew only 2½ per cent.

Mr. Rogers, the Patron, seconded the motion, and when the yeas and nays were taken the twain stood up alone. The vote stood 51 to 2.

The Government rate standard of 4 per cent. was then adopted.

THE OTTAWA PROTEST.

A Portrait of the Countess of Aberdeen to Be Painted for the National Council of Women of Canada.

Ottawa, June 3.—W. H. Funk, a well-known artist of New York, arrived in Ottawa yesterday to accept a commission offered him by Lady Laurier, Lady Thompson, Lady Ritchie and Lady Tilley, on behalf of the National Council of Women of Canada. The commission is the painting of a full-length portrait of the Countess of Aberdeen, wife of the Governor-General of Canada.

The latest development in connection with the Ottawa election protests is a summons which has been issued calling upon C. B. Powell, M.P.P., to appear before the Local Master for examination for discovery. Mr. Powell will be required to produce his cheque-books, etc., and will be questioned as to any knowledge he may have as to the disposition of funds in connection with the election.

Major Sherwood, Chief of the Dominion Police, received a wire yesterday notifying him of the arrest of James Macdonald, alias Marshall, at Windsor, the man who was arrested on the charge of robbing the post-office at Norwood, and who escaped from the Peterboro jail on the 25th inst.

WHEAT AGAIN DECLINES.

Canadian Feels the Influence of the World's Markets—Chicago Down and Up—Break at Liverpool—Prices.

Thursday Evening, June 2.

On the Chicago market this morning wheat suffered another decline, the June delivery selling down to $1.05, July to 87c, September to 77⅞c and December to 76¼c. The slump was simply a continuation of yesterday's downward movement, and was caused by further reports of the approach of a bountiful harvest. The reaction later in the session was only to be expected after the sharp fall of the past few days, and it was helped out by buying by millers in the Northwest. At the close the June delivery stood 1c higher than at yesterday's close. July was unchanged, while the later options were each ⅝c higher for the day.

The Liverpool market was very weak. Spot declined 3d per cental, July 8¾d, September 2⅝d and December 3d. At Paris a decline of 25 to 30 centimes was recorded, while Antwerp was off ½ to 1 franc.

On the Toronto board wheat to-day continued its downward trend. There were anxious sellers at $1, middle freights, but buyers were not offering much above 95c per bushel. Though there is little Manitoba wheat to come forward it is quoted variously at $1.20 to $1.25 afloat at Fort William.

Leiter's Profits.

Leiter's big May wheat deal, which closed a couple of days ago, was one of the most remarkable in grain market history. Leiter's profits are estimated at $4,000,000, or $7.50 a minute since April, 1897.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Special 3 p. m. dispatch to the Examiner.

Commodore Schley's Biggish Contract.

Port Antonio, Jamaica, June 3.—Commodore Schley's test of the batteries of Santiago de Cuba on May 31st, revealed the fact beyond a doubt that the Spaniards have fortified Santiago very carefully and well. There are a number of modern guns there, evidently of English or French make, and they use smokeless powder, which makes it difficult to locate or destroy them. It will take a heavy bombardment to dislodge the batteries and the Spanish fleet.

HOW THEY WERE CAPTURED.

Details of the Arrest of the Peterborough Gaol Breakers.

The following are the particulars received from Windsor regarding the capture of James McDonald alias Mart Marshall and Frank Fobes in that city on Wednesday last:

"Mart Marshall and Frank Fobes, who broke gaol at Peterborough, have been arrested at Windsor. Wednesday night Sergt. Nash and Officer Reid arrested a man who answered to the description given of Fobes, and after some questioning he confessed. He said that they were beating their way, and that, as he was not so well known to the police as Marshall, he had been the one to get out and look for food. The whole force turned out to look for Marshal, and about 3 o'clock Thursday morning they found him at the Tecumseh road. Marshall is awaiting trial on a charge of burglarizing the Norwood post-office, and Fobes was serving a sentence for theft."

An Old Man Disappears From Ashburnham After Threatening to do Away With Himself.

Last evening an old man with only one arm called at the residence of Mr. Wm. Guy, Lake street, Ashburnham, and stating that he had been three days coming from Toronto, and had eaten nothing for two days, asked for something to eat and a night's lodging. Mr. Guy offered him food, and although he would not keep him in his house for the night, generously stated that he would pay for his bed in a hotel. This didn't suit the old man, however, and he retired under an apple tree and drawing a knife stated that he was going to end his life.

Mr. Guy promptly told him he wasn't going to end it there, and taking him by the arm walked him down to Hogan's hotel. He would not stay there, however, and left with the statement that his body would be found in the river in the morning. As nothing more was seen of him many are under the impression that a suicide may have been committed.

The Olympic Club held its annual excursion yesterday, taking a Grand Trunk special to Lakefield and embarking on the Majestic, with Capt. Scollard, for Burleigh. A number of the members of the club remained at Burleigh until the return of the steamer from Deer Bay, where some of the party were taken for a trip. At about six o'clock a number of wheelmen who were unable to get away earlier in the day, arrived at the Falls, and after all had enjoyed a substantial supper, the homeward trip was commenced, the party arriving in Peterborough again during the evening.

The Fire Brigade Band was in attendance and furnished music throughout the day.

Mr. W. E. Loch, Chief Agitator of the club, is to be congratulated on the pleasant results attendant on his efforts to make the affair the success which it was unanimously voted to be.

BADLY BURNT

By a Flash of Electricity from a Dynamo in the Wm. Hamilton Company's Shop.

Mr. Robt. Baker, jr., of Brown street, Ashburnham, was badly burned by electricity whilst operating the dynamo in the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Co.'s machine shop last night.

It is surmised that the belt slipped, but however it happened the unfortunate man was almost blinded by a sudden flash of the electric field, which scorched both hands and his right arm so severely as to incapacitate him from work for a week or so.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

A Resident of Chandos has a Heavy Fall Against a Telephone Pole.

Mr. Mace, of Chandos, had a narrow escape from serious injury yesterday, through the running away of his team.

He was loading some hardware into his waggon from Micks & Co.'s store on Hunter street, and was standing just at the front wheel when the team suddenly started. He jumped to seize the lines, but missing them was thrown up against a telephone pole, one of the rear wheels of the wagon passing over the heel of his boot and crushing it off. Strange to say although the wheel also passed over one of his legs it did not injure it to any extent. The team ran up Hunter street, and were somewhat out before they were caught. Mr. Mace continued his loading and started home.

A LAKEFIELD WEDDING.

Celebration of the Nuptials of Miss May Blomfield and Mr. R. N. Bealey.

A very pretty wedding took place in St. John the Baptist church on Thursday morning, being the occasion of the marriage of Miss Isabel May, third daughter of Mr. C. J. Blomfield, to Mr. R. N. Bealey, of Christchurch, New Zealand.

The church was beautifully decorated for the happy event with ferns and white and mauve lilacs. A large floral bell of lilacs hung immediately over the altar steps, and the seats reserved for guests were designated by floral wreathing, which also marked the reserved portion of the aisle. The chancel was a veritable floral bower, and the entire church looked more than usually beautiful.

The incumbent, Rev. George Warren, officiated, the service being choral.

The bridegroom, attended by Mr. E. R. Tate, entered to the strains of the Wedding March, which also announced the arrival of the charming bride, who was conducted by her father to the chancel where her future husband awaited her. The bride was attended by Miss Ethel Blomfield and Miss Gwynneth Tate as bridesmaids, and Miss Kathleen Blomfield as flower girl.

The bride was gowned in cream with a cream picture hat of chiffon and feathers, and carried a sheaf of cream roses.

The bridesmaids were attired in white muslin with pale green sashes, leghorn hats trimmed with pale green chiffon and large bunches of mauve lilacs, carried clusters of roses, and looked especially charming, though the pretty bride was, of course, the centre of attraction.

The beautiful and impressive ceremony concluded, Miss Atwood continued the Wedding March, to the strains of which the bridal party withdrew to the vestry for the customary registration, and afterwards repaired to the family residence, where the newly-wedded couple received their friends for a short interval before leaving for their future home.

They will go to England on their honeymoon trip before going to New Zealand.

Y. M. C. A. ANNIVERSARY AT HOME.

Under Auspices of Ladies' Auxiliary on Tuesday, June 28th.

There was a good attendance at the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday. Mrs. Sheriff Hall, the President, occupied the chair.

The principal business discussed was the anniversary which takes place on the 28th of June. It was decided that an "at home" be held on that evening. The affair is to be conducted on a similar plan to the successful one which characterized the opening of the new building a year ago. A nominal admission fee will be charged at the door.

The building will be decorated on a grand scale and a first-class musicale will be one of the features of the programme for the evening.

Committees were appointed to take charge of the different sections in connection with the arrangements and fuller announcements will be made at a later date.

Everyone should note the date and plan to attend the "at home" on Tuesday, June 28th.

Y. M. C. A. BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Regular Monthly Meeting Held in the Board Room Last Evening.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A. was held in the Board room last evening. There was a larger attendance of directors than at any previous meeting since the new year, which indicates the deep interest they have in their work. President Parker occupied the chair.

Several important items of business were discussed. By motion of the Board the privileges of the building are extended to the C.W.A. wheelmen who visit the town on July 1st and 2nd. The resolution will be communicated through the local Meet Committee of Arrangements.

The business of the meeting was conducted with much despatch, in order to allow the members to attend the Y. W. C. A. garden party at "Castleknock."

LAST NIGHT'S GARDEN PARTY.

Held at Castleknock Under the Auspices of the Y.W.C.A.

The grounds at Castleknock, the picturesque home of Mrs. Dennistoun, looked like fairyland last night, being all aglow with Chinese lanterns.

It was the occasion of the Young Women's Christian Association garden party for which Mrs. Dennistoun had had kindly loaned the grounds. The affair was attended with great success, the attendance being large and the receipts from the refreshment tables very satisfactory.

PETERBOROUGH WINS A CHAMPIONSHIP GAME.

ORILLIA DEFEATED BY EIGHT GOALS TO FIVE.

A Very Fast Game Witnessed on the P. A. A. A. Grounds Yesterday Afternoon—The Attendance Not as Large as it Should Have Been.

The Orillias came and saw, but they did not conquer yesterday afternoon when they ran up against the Peterboroughs in the first game of the championship series. The Peterboroughs played a team composed of players, all of whom were "born and raised" in the town, whilst the Orillias came down confident of winning, because their team was reinforced by Mickey Connors, of last year's Torontos, and Wilkinson and Armstrong, who were with Markham in 1897.

The visitors certainly have a fast home field, but their defence is not up to the mark, and but for the wild shooting on goal done by the local team, the score would have been much larger in favour of the Peterboroughs. Still, 8 to 5 is not to be sniffed at, especially when the fact is taken into consideration that the Orillias came down confident of winning.

The match was an interesting one to watch as it was fast from start to finish. Owing to the fact that the Orillias tried to play a few underhand tricks previous to the game created some ill feeling between the teams and worked up a which resulted in there being a snap and dash to the play which might not otherwise have been witnessed.

The Peterboroughs showed an improvement over the form displayed on May 24th, but the defence men have not yet quite overcome the tendency to "reef" the ball when they get it instead of passing it out to the home. This fault was not as noticeable as in the last game, but it still crops out on occasions. The home field men have not yet got their combination working in together close enough, but their passing and catching was very accurate yesterday.

The teams lined up in the following positions:

Orillia.		Peterborough.
R Watson	goal	F Dobbin
B Quinn	point	J Brown
G Trask	cover point	F Lynch
D Connors	1st defence	J Mein
C Hammond	2nd defence	Jim McCabe
T Thompson	3rd defence	M McDonough
W J Dunn	centre	L King
C Boyd	3rd home	P Rubidge
F Grant	2nd home	R M Glover
G Armstrong	1st home	Jack McCabe
T Wilkinson	outside home	B Rickey
M Connors	inside home	G Lipsett
M J Yates	field captain	Bert Dolan
B Kean	umpire	E Wasson

Referee—H O'Loughlin.

The ball was faced at 2.27 o'clock, and from the face off was carried down on the Peterborough goal, but Brown relieved to Rubidge, who passed to Glover, and for a time it looked as if the Orillia fish net would scoop in the ball. Peterborough's flags were again threatened, but through Jim McCabe's close checking and Lynch's stick work the goal was relieved. Again the ball came back and Lynch had to make a sensational catch to save the flags. The attack was renewed again on the local goal, and the ball passed in behind the net to Micky Connors, who bobbed it over in front to Grant. The latter sent it between the sticks.

SCORING FIRST BLOOD

for the Orillias. Time 6 minutes.

When the ball was drawn in the next game, it travelled down on the Peterborough goal, but did not stay in that vicinity long. After a pretty piece of combination work between Jack McCabe, Glover and Lipsett, the latter was able to even the score. Time, 2 minutes.

The third game opened with another rally on the Peterborough flags, and Dobbin had to stop a hot one to save the net from being entered. Lynch relieved and started a running combination on the field, which resulted in Jack McCabe scoring on a pass from Glover in two minutes.

Lynch had to stop a shot and Dobbin two more before the Peterborough flags were relieved at the opening of the fourth game. Then an attack was made on the Orillia goal and the Peterborough defence in their eagerness to assist the home, wandered too far away from their own flags with the result that as soon as the Orillia goal was relieved the ball was quickly passed up the field and the visitors evened the score. Time, 3½ minutes.

The fifth game opened with a smart rally on the visitors' net but operations to the other end of the field. Miles McDonough did some good work on the defence, and Brown relieved. In five minutes Glover scored from a pass by Rubidge. Score 3—2 in favour of Peterborough.

WERE SOON TRANSFERRED

Both teams entered the sixth game with a vim which made the play very fast. Glover made a couple of good shots, which however were stopped, and on the defence Mein showed up well. On a pass from Glover, Rickey tallied. Time 9 minutes. Score 4—2 in favour of Peterborough.

In 4 minutes Orillia changed the score to 4—3.

The game then grew very fast, as Orillia tried to tie the game, and King finally did the trick for Peterborough in 8 minutes. Score 5—3.

In three minutes more Peterborough added another goal to its tally, making the score 6—3.

Honours now looked easy for Peterborough with a lead of three goals, but when Orillia scored two goals in one and four minutes respectively a different complexion was put on the matter. Both teams awoke to renewed energy and the checking was closer than in any previous portion of the match. The crowd drew a long breath of relief when Glover scored in five minutes, thus giving the Peterboroughs a lead of two goals.

The next game started out with a hot attack on the Peterborough flags. The Orillia home man opened out suddenly and gave one of their number a chance to shoot on goal. In came the shot like a bullet and up went the umpire's hand, but he was too quick. Lynch neatly caught the ball and although three Orillia players closed on him instantly, he dodged through them all and relieved, making probably what was the most sensational play seen on the grounds for many a season. Lipsett scored in six minutes, giving the Peterboroughs a lead of three goals, and as there was only four minutes left to play, which rendered it impossible for the visitors to tie the score, the match was called at this juncture.

NOTES.

King was a success at centre, where he played for the first time. It was noticed that when the ball was passed out to him by the local defence it generally started a combination going.

Two juniors were on the team yesterday, viz., Bruce Rickey and Miles McDonough. Both acquitted themselves with credit.

Jimmy McCabe was on the defence yesterday, and played such a fine game as to convince the spectators that it was his true position on the field.

Dobbin made some great stops yesterday, actually blocking one shot with his head.

"Dot" Browne was greatly in evidence when there was a scrimmage in front of the goals.

Glover, Jack McCabe, Lipsett and Rubidge worked a great combination between them at times.

Jack Mein seems to be getting younger and playing faster in every match in which he participates.

Messrs. Harry King and Chris. Graham took a number of snap shots of those who viewed the game from the fences without paying an admission fee. The photos will be placed on exhibition.

The game was most satisfactorily refereed by Mr. Harry O'Loughlin, of St. Catharines, past president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association. His firmness kept some of the rougher Orillia players in perfect submission.

Lionel King has been asked to referee the St. Catharines-Elms game on Saturday in St. Kits.

FOR WEAKNESS AND DEBILITY.

Consumption is often caused by a weak state of the blood, permitting the germs to obtain a foothold. That Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills cure disease and make the system safe, the following evidence amply proves:

I suffered for two years with what the family doctor claimed was an incurable case of consumption and debility, telling me that my life was but for a few months at the best. As I was about to give up, I picked up your advertisement and resolved thereupon to give Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills a trial. The first box of them worked such a wonderful change I felt that at last I had struck a medicine that would help me. I continued the use of the Pills, receiving from them day by day flesh, strength and vigor, in fact friends of mine that had not seen me for some time hardly knew me, so great was the change that Dr. Ward's Pills worked. Out of the fullness of my heart in the joy of my being rescued from the grave, comes this testimonial. I shall, as long as God permits me to live, herald forth their usefulness and life-saving power to all afflicted by that monster of disease that almost claimed me for its victim, thereby repaying you in a small measure for the grand, new lease of life Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have given me. Yours truly, JOHN P. THORP, Cork St., Guelph, Ont. Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. per box, 5 boxes for $2.00, at druggists, or mailed on receipt of price by THE DR. WARD CO., 71 Victoria St., Toronto. Book of Information free.

The old man who looks out at the world with clear and healthy eyes cannot help feeling great gratification at the thought that his children have inherited from him no weakness nor tendency to disease. The healthy old man is the man that has throughout his life kept his digestion good and his blood pure. Not one in a thousand does do it. Germs go through the healthy body without effect. Let them once find lodgment or let them find a weak spot, the will develop by the million and the blood will be full of them. Instead of giving strength to the tissues it will force upon them innutritious matter, and the man will lose flesh and the more susceptible he is to disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is he only medicine that absolutely and infallibly cures all blood diseases, and almost all diseases are blood diseases. It isn't a medicine for some one particular so-called disease. It is a medicine for the whole body. It forces out all the germs of disease and replaces impurities with rich, red blood.

Zola's Proposed Lecture Tour.

It is reported that M. Zola has agreed to come to the United States and deliver about 15 lectures, relating probably to anti-Semitism in France and to the trials of Dreyfus and himself. The arrangement is asserted to have been made with Mr. Edmund Gerson of New York and to have followed immediately upon the decision of the French government to grant M. Zola an appeal from the sentence of imprisonment lately pronounced upon him. An interesting detail of this report is that a sum approaching $60,000 is promised to M. Zola for his visit. One could wish perhaps that that detail had been omitted. M. Zola would undoubtedly excite great interest here and would draw full houses, but he most interests Americans at present in his character, lately assumed, of patriot and protestant against prejudice and injustice, and interest based on grounds of that sort is hardly suitable for conversion into cash. It is possible, however, that his recent experiences have been costly, and that he has more than ordinary need of money.—Harper's Weekly.

Not Used to Fragile Pieces.

In Paris one person in 18 lives on charity.

The Three Stages.

For the early stages, Scott's Emulsion is a cure. For the second stage it cures many And for the last stages of consumption it soothes the cough and prolongs the life.

JANE GREY WRECKED

Thirty-Four Drowned Out of Sixty-One Persons on Board.

TEN MINUTES WARNING OF FATE

And Then Down to the Bottom of the Ocean in the Foundered Hulk—The Passengers Were Mostly Prospectors for the Yukon—Captain's Account of the Wreck.

Seattle, Wash., June 2.—The schooner Jane Grey, which sailed from Seattle for Kotzebue Sound on the 19th of May, with sixty-one persons on board, foundered Sunday, May 22, about 90 miles west of Cape Flattery, while lying to in a moderate gale, under foresail. Ten minutes after the alarm was given she lay at the bottom of the ocean with 34 of her passengers. The remainder succeeded in embarking in a launch and reached this city yesterday afternoon.

Those lost are: Signor Gala, Italy; Signor Busseta, Italy; Jack Lindsay, Everett; W. H. Gleason Seattle; W. A. Johnson, Seattle; V. J. Smith, Seattle; C. G. Smith, Seattle; P. C. Little, Seattle; C. M. Young, Seattle; W. D. Millan, Seattle; Horace Palmer, Lebanon, O.; F. G. Saulsbury, Minnesota; A. R Dunlap, Dwight, Ill.; B. D. Ramsey, Mexico City; B. E. Snipe, jr., Seattle; John M. Stutsman, Westfield, N.J.; E. M. Taylor, California; F. S. Taylor, California; B. S. Spencer, California; W. B. Doxey, Edward Ritter, F. W. Ginther, B. S. Frost, W. P. Lovering, William Otter, O. F. McKelvey, C. Brown, C. C. Atkins, N. Edelund, Charles Williams, V. C. Gambel, wife and child, missionary on St. Lawrence Island, in Behring Sea, One other; name unknown.

The Jane Gray's passengers were prospectors, with the exception of Rev. V. C. Gambel, a missionary, who, with his wife and child, was on his way to St. Lawrence Island in the Behring Sea. He refused to place his wife and child on board the launch, saying: "The vessel is doomed and we will die together."

Among the prospectors was a party of sixteen, headed by Major Ingraham, who were outfitted by Prince Luigi of Italy for a two years' prospecting trip in Alaska. Of this party the only survivors are Major Ingraham, L. M. Lessey, C. H. Packard and G. H. Pennington.

The survivors of the passengers suffered a great deal of privation, and for 80 hours their only food was a sack of prunes and a sack of turnips from the ship's stores. Sufficient water was caught by spreading a tarpaulin during a rainstorm.

The few survivors that could be seen had not recovered from the shock, and consequently could not give a good account of the disastor. They were unable to account for the vessel's springing aleak and sinking so suddenly.

The Captain's Story.

Captain Crockett gives the following account of the wreck:

"We were lying to, to mend our foresail. A moderate gale was blowing and the seas were running high. I had gone to bed and was sound asleep when the watchman awakened me with the announcement that something was wrong. I arose at once and found the vessel leaking. A hurried investigation showed that she would sink, and I at once notified the passengers of the situation. Most of them were asleep underneath the deck. A scene of confusion then took place, and it is impossible to give any detailed account of the events that followed. The darkness added to the confusion. The first lifeboat launched was swamped. The launch Kennoma, belonging to the Ingraham party, was successfully lowered. At this time the Jane Gray was almost under water. A heavy sea struck her, throwing her on her beams. There was no time to launch other boats. The water was over her hatches and everyone below was certainly drowned.

"As the launch drifted away from the almost submerged schooner, we saw eight or ten men standing on the lee rail clinging to the rigging. Soon they disappeared from sight. Two of them—John Johnson and C. Reilly—kept afloat by clinging to bundles of boat lumber. Two hours after they were picked up by our launch, making 27 in all we had with us. It is just barely possible that there will be four more survivors."

MOTORMAN O'REILLY CASE.

He was Cured of Diabetes by Dodd's Kidney Pills! Everything Else Failed.

Toronto, May 30—(By telegraph) With reference to his experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills, and Diabetes, Mr. T. H. O'Reilly, Toronto Street Railway motorman No. 624, writes corroborating the report of his cures.

Mr. O'Reilly says: "For three years I suffered horribly, in spite of all the medicines I tried. Not one of them gave the least relief. I endured the torture of scalding pains while urinating, and all the other agonies of Diabetes.

"Finally I was induced to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. The first dose did me good and I got better and better with each succeeding dose. Three boxes worked a thorough and complete cure."

From His Point of View.

"But you confess, father," protested the beautiful girl, when the father showed indications of a desire to withhold his consent, "that you do not know of a single solitary thing that is in the least derogatory to his reputation."

"That's just it," replied the old gentleman. "I don't like the idea of bringing any one into my family who is so infernally sly as all that."—Chicago Post.

Many of the fruits and vegetables now eaten in England were almost unknown to our forefathers. Not until Henry VIII's time were either raspberries or strawberries or cherries grown in England, and we do not read of the turnip, cauliflower and quince being cultivated before the sixteenth century or the carrot before the seventeenth century.

The need of a good Spring Medicine is almost universal and Hood's Sarsaparilla exactly meet this need. Be sure to get Hood's.

WEDDING AT GODERICH.

Miss Cameron United in Marriage to Mr. Bayly of London.

Goderich, June 2.—Society circles in Goderich were stirred yesterday by one of the most fashionable weddings ever held in the old town, the participants being Miss Mabel V. Cameron, daughter of Hon. M. C. Cameron, the newly-appointed Lieutenant-Governor of the Northwest Territories, and Mr. Richard A. Bayly, barrister, of London. The ceremony took place in Knox Church.

The happy couple were escorted to the 2.30 train by a large crowd of relatives and friends, and left amid good wishes and showers of rice on their wedding tour, which will include Niagara Falls, the St. Lawrence and up the Hudson.

What the Spaniards Claim.

Havana, June 2.—The following Spanish account of the reported engagement of Santiago de Cuba has been issued here: The American fleet, consisting of the Iowa, Massachusetts, Brooklyn, Texas, New Orleans, Marblehead, Minneapolis and another cruiser, in addition to six small vessels, took up a position on May 31 on the western side of the mouth of Santiago de Cuba channel, opening fire from the first five vessels.

The Spanish cruiser Cristobal Colon was anchored towards Punta Gorda and could be seen from the open sea.

The fire of the American fleet was answered by the Morro, Socopa and the Punta Gorda batteries and by the cruiser Cristobal Colon.

The American fleet fired 70 shots "with projectiles of 32," without causing the least damage.

The bombardment lasted 90 minutes and the American fleet retired with a trans-Atlantic steamer auxiliary cruiser damaged. Two shells were seen to explode on the Iowa's stern and there was fire on board another battleship. Several projectiles fell inside the harbor near the Spanish warships.

There is great enthusiasm at Santiago de Cuba and here.

Spain Claims Victory.

Madrid, June 2.—In the Senate yesterday, Count Casa Valencia asked if "the news of the American repulse at Santiago de Cuba was official.

The Minister of Marine, Captain Aunon, replied affirmatively, adding: "The news is a good augury for further victories, which the courage and high merit of our sailors give reason to hope for."

The Senate then unanimously "noted with satisfaction the brilliant victory of the Spanish fleet."

"Oh Promise Me!"

At some time in her life Cupid pleads in every woman's ear, and when that time comes it is a woman's duty to think twice before she answers. She should think once for herself, and once for the man who has chosen her for his life companion.

If she is suffering from a torturing, dragging weakness or disease so prevalent with her sex, she has no right to answer "Yes" until her health is restored. If she does, she will be wretched and ill herself and her home will be an unhappy one. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific remedy that cures all weakness, disease, disorder and derangement of the delicate and important feminine organs. It is not a "cure-all," but a medicine devised to correct this one class of disorders and no other. It has accomplished its purpose in tens of thousands of cases, as is shown by tens of thousands of testimonials of the grateful patients themselves. It imparts vigor and virility to the entire womanly organism, and is the best of all nerve tonics and restoratives. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. It transforms weak, nervous, despondent invalids into healthy, happy women.

"I was so weak I could scarcely walk about the house," writes Mrs. Mattie Scruggs, of Allen's Creek, Amherst Co., Va. "Was reduced to a mere skeleton. I was never free from pain in the back and head and could not sleep at night. I bought three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of 'Pleasant Pellets.' After taking these six weeks I felt like a new person; slept well and gained in flesh. I am doing all my own housework and we have nine in the family."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. All medicine dealers sell them. No other pills are "just as good."

AT POMPEII.

At Pompeii I heard a woman laugh
And turned to find the reason of her mirth.
Saw but the silent figure of a girl
That centuries had mummied into earth.

The running figure of a little maid,
With face half hidden in her shielding arm,
Silent, yet screaming—yes, in ev'ry limb—
The cruel torture of her dread alarm.

At Pompeii I heard a maiden shriek
All down the years from out the distant past.
Blind in the awful darkness still she runs.
Death in the mold of fear her form has cast—

A little maid once soft and sweet and white,
Full of the morning's hope and love and joy,
That nature, moving to the voice of time,
Shook her dark wings to wither and destroy.

At Pompeii I saw a woman bend
Above this dead, pronounce an epitaph.
The mother of a child it may have been.
Oh, horrible—I heard a woman laugh!

STOLEN GOODS.

The great dandy of our room—nay, of the entire house—was Ned Sprucington. I honestly believe, too, that he was one of the most guileless, simple hearted fellows alive. He had, however, one conspicuous weakness, which was to be taken for a man of fashion. He dressed unexceptionably, and to aid him in producing the impression which he desired upon beholders he carried about with him in all weathers a beautiful silk umbrella, scarcely bulkier than a lady's parasol, though, of course, considerably longer. Judging from the cut onyx handle, mounted in gold, it must have cost him a mint of money.

Well, this umbrella of Ned's we tried all we could think of to get hold of. But he was too wary for us—it was always left in some safe place. If we had succeeded in gaining possession of it, it would at once have taken a conspicuous position in society, such as covering the old apple woman at the corner. But it was unapproachable. At last we became so desperate that I accepted a heavy wager from one of the other fellows that I would present myself at the office the next morning, at all hazards, the proud possessor of Ned Sprucington's umbrella.

On that particular day, work being slack, every one was enabled to leave unusually early, so that by 4 o'clock in the afternoon the house was cleared of all save myself, my brother conspirator and the old soldier who lived with his wife on the premises. My friend Ned, as was his custom at such times, had announced his intention of promenading the Ladies' Mile, there to air himself, his aristocracy and his umbrella. I decided upon following him thither. As there were yet two hours of daylight, however, I thought I could not do better than fortify myself for the enterprise by taking some substantial refreshment before commencing operations, after which I would trust to the chapter of accidents.

With this object in view I was repairing toward my favorite place of refection in the Strand when who should I see looking in at the topographer's shop by Northumberland House but Ned Sprucington! He ought by rights to have been nearly two miles away at Hyde Park corner, yet here he was at Charing Cross, calmly studying some map of a "seat of war." He was so wedged in among other gazers that I could not get at him to speak or even to have a clear view of his face. But I knew him by his height, by the neatly braided coat, the delicately tinted trousers, the well poised hat and, last but not least, the umbrella. He was holding his hands behind his back, and in one of them the precious article was firmly clasped.

Yes, there it was, onyx handle, gold mounting and all. As I looked a sudden idea took possession of me—a foolish idea, I admit, as it could hardly lead to a practical result. But I thought if I could only get the umbrella out of his hand in some way and run off with it that he, seeing it in the possession of a friend, would give up the chase, knowing that he would recover his property the next day. At the worst the result would only be a day or two's coolness between us on account of my freak.

No sooner thought than done. On the pavement I espied a piece of clean straw, well adapted for the purpose I had in view. Picking it up, I proceeded to tickle with it Sprucington's right ear. The experiment answered admirably. Thinking it, I suppose, to be a troublesome fly, he raised his hand to brush off the assailant. But to do this he was compelled to shift the umbrella from his right hand to his left. The moment of the transference was enough for me. Before the fingers of his left hand could close I had seized the umbrella and the next moment was dashing madly across Trafalgar square in the direction of the Haymarket.

There was a sudden commotion behind me—a commotion which soon swelled into an uproar. I heeded it no further than to turn half round in order to let Sprucington see who I was and to flourish in the air my umbrella—I mean his umbrella. But the uproar did not relax. On the contrary, it began to shape itself into words. Hoarse shouts of "Stop thief!" followed me as I flew up the steps at the farther end of the square. The cries still ringing in my ears, I dashed helterskelter past the College of Physicians and Colnaghi's print-shop till I came to the corner of Suffolk street. Here I was brought up "all standing" by an iron grip upon the collar from behind. Turning round, I found myself in the custody of a policeman.

In the usual brief space of time the inevitable London crowd assembled about us. I was regarded with curiosity, loaded with reproaches and favored with wit of an extremely personal nature all at the same moment. This I bore with patience, if not with good humor, convinced that on the arrival of Sprucington I should get clear of my tormentors. Presently a lane was made for the approach of the owner of the stolen property. Judge of my horror on perceiving that the panting individual was a total stranger to me!

Of course all my protestations of innocence were of no avail. Clatter, clash, rumble, bang! The cell door closed upon me, and I was a prisoner.

The gloom was so great that, though it was daylight, I could at first distinguish nothing. Gradually I became aware that I was in a narrow vaulted room, as strong as brick and iron could make it. Half way up the wall was a wooden wainscoting and round two sides I could dimly see a low bench, barely two feet from a floor which was inch deep in sawdust. The iron door of this delightful apartment was of great thickness, disclosing about five feet from the ground a small grating of round holes. By pressing my face against this grating I could see into the corridor without. But the only view obtainable was a round glass window opposite, illuminated by the last lingering rays of the setting sun. It was altogether a most depressing place. The flavor suggested to me was a combined one, made up of the condemned cell in Newgate and the dungeons of the Bastille. Occasional gruff voices and heavy footsteps in the corridor deepened the impression. A mouse in a trap was a king to me.

Then I began to think seriously of my situation. That I had committed felony there could not be the least doubt, though with no felonious intention. Would the magistrate believe my explanation? Surely my manner and appearance were not those of a pick— But my heart sank within me as I remembered that the London swell mob are known to be the cleverest actors in the world—in fact, can imitate to perfection any class of society. My only hope was in Sprucington. He would be of material assistance in clearing up the mystery. And yet that umbrella—I could have sworn it to belong to none other but him! However, I had dispatched messengers to him, my employer and my friends; therefore the only thing to be done was to wait patiently till the morning.

I spare you a description of that night of horror, for such it was to one who had never before suffered an hour's deprivation of liberty; how the monotony of the long, long hours was only broken at intervals by the appearance at the grating of a stern, helmeted visage, demanding whether "all was right;" how at 4 o'clock a. m. two fellow prisoners in the shapes of a drunken scavenger and a deserter from the Royal artillery were thrust into the cell, or how in the morning all the cells were emptied and we, the occupants, with aching bones, unwashed and unkempt, were paraded through the streets in a melancholy string to an adjacent police court.

Fortunately my case came on early, so that I had not long to wait among the crowd of dirty, disreputable "detenus," each guarded by a constable, who filled an outer room.

At the cry of "Charles Blank!" (I shuddered to hear my name in such a place) I and my attendant policeman marched into the court. The jailer, a big, burly, baldheaded, gilt buttoned person, placed me in the dock. At the same moment the prosecutor entered the witness box to be sworn. He was a priggish looking man of about 45, and no more like Ned Sprucington in front than I was like the monument.

In a few calm, well chosen words he described the whole occurrence. When he had finished, I was told that I could put any questions to him that I thought proper. I declined to do so. Then, after his evidence had been confirmed by the constable who arrested me, the magistrate, an amiable looking old gentleman, asked me, "Well, my friend, what have you to say to this?"

In reply I gave the same simple and unvarnished statement which I had already given at the police station.

"That is all very well as far as it goes, but have you any witnesses to character?"

"Yes, sir—Mr. Edward Sprucington."

"Call Edward Sprucington."

Then I could hear the crier shouting the familiar name through the passages of the court.

After a few minutes' suspense the official returned, accompanied, to my great delight, by Ned. The good fellow looked so distressed to see me in such a predicament that I felt convinced he would have given a dozen umbrellas to have got me out of the scrape. As soon as he made his appearance I noticed that the prosecutor changed color. I also noticed that while taking the oath Ned kept one hand behind his back. I could not have told you why, but somehow I derived encouragement from both those trifling circumstances.

To shorten matters, I may say that if I had been a seraph I could not have received a better character than that given me by Ned. At last came the question, "Then you think the prisoner incapable of stealing this umbrella?"

"Well, sir," said Ned, who had recovered his self possession, "if, as I understand, stealing means taking property from the owner, it is impossible the prisoner could have committed the theft."

What a first rate advocate Ned was becoming!

"Impossible! Why?"

"Because that umbrella was first stolen from me!"

"It is an infamous falsehood!" cried the prosecutor, starting up.

"Is it?" replied Ned. "That person need not be so particular about words, for this is all he left me in exchange at the Cigar Divan!"

With that he produced, amid the laughter of the court, what he had hitherto concealed behind his back—namely, a wooden handled umbrella much the worse for wear, of silk certainly, but no more to be compared with the glories of the onyx handled than a costermonger's wide awake with the archbishop of Canterbury's best "shovel."

An attempt at bluster by the late possessor of his umbrella was quietly met by Ned with a request that an officer of the court should examine the initials upon the handle. This was conclusive. The stranger's initials were "T. W.," and he had not had time to take notice of the minute "E. S." cut into the onyx stone.

Of course my immediate release followed upon this discovery, accompanied by the assurance that I left that court without any stain upon my character, etc. My late prosecutor was glad to slink crestfallen away, yet not before he had received a severe rebuke administered by the magistrate.

As for Ned, he was overflowing with gratitude. He declared with tears in his eyes that I had been the means of restoring to him his lost treasure. What was more, he insisted upon paying the wager which I had lost and also of performing the part of Amphitryon at a capital dinner in the evening.—Short Stories.

THE ONLY HOPE!

For Victims of Bright's Disease is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

War and intemperance, with all their miseries and fatalities, are not responsible for as many deaths as have been caused by Bright's Disease. Yet, there is a way of resisting it; of drawing its poisoned fangs, and making it as harmless as a summer breeze. That great medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills, has cured thousands of the worst cases. It never fails to cure, hopeless as the case may seem.

WEAK, NERVOUS WOMEN

Suffering from palpitation of the heart, dizzy or faint spells, watery blood, etc., can be readily cured.

A Manitoba Lady Tells About Her Case.

There is no need whatever for so many women to be the subject of faint spells, heart and nerve weakness, anaemia, or any of those health destroying ailments peculiar to her sex. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills regulate the heart beat and make it strong and full, tone the nerves, enrich the blood, and relieve the pain and weakness from which so many women suffer.

Mrs. Alexander Better, of Pigeon Bluff, Man., writes an account of her case as follows: "I have great pleasure in giving my experience of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. For about ten years I was troubled with throbbing and fluttering of the heart. I tried five doctors and several remedies but none of them did me much good. Lately I heard of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and bought two boxes. Before I started using them I could not do my house work and gave myself up to die, as I thought I would never be cured. Now I feel really splendid since taking the pills, do my work, enjoy my meals and feel as if there was something in life worth living for."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure palpitation, throbbing, skip beats, dizzy and faint spells, nervousness, sleeplessness, weakness, after effects of grippe, female troubles, etc. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. a box or three boxes for $1.25. Hypnotism.

Hypnotism has been well styled "artificially induced somnambulism," for the phenomena of the one state are analogous to those of the other, and the actions performed by the sleepwalker run parallel to those we can induce at will in the mesmeric subject. That which we do effect in hypnotism is essentially the inhibition of the upper brain. We switch off the cerebrum temporarily from its command of the body and allow the central ganglia, under the influence of suggestion, to come to the front in the mental life of the individual.

Any rational theory of mesmerism must take such facts into account. On this basis alone is hypnotism to be scientifically explained. Rejecting some such view of its causation, hypnotism cannot be explained at all, and in the latter case it will pass inevitably into the domain of the quack, who, with his high sounding jargon, mystifies the ignorant and adds another and very considerable portion to the already lofty edifice of human folly and credulity.—Andrew Wilson, M. D., in Harper's Magazine.

Was Wasting Away.

"I could not eat, sleep, walk or sit down for any length of time. I was always in pain and was wasting away. I grew very weak and had a bad cough. I tried many different remedies, but did not get relief. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla however, I am able to attend to my business." Mamie Jaques, Ont.

Baby Brightness

Soon fades when diarrhœa seizes on the little form. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has saved many infants' as well as adults' lives. Mrs. W. Walters, Richmont Street, Hamilton, Ont., Says:—"I cured my baby of a bad attack of cholera by using Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Nothing else did any good, but the baby improved from the first dose of the Wild Strawberry."

Piles! Piles! Itchin Piles.

Symptoms—Moisture intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate becoming very sore. A STRONG ARGUMENT.

Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, N. A. L., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Please accept my thanks for your cheque just handed to me, for $3,901.98, in settlement of my $2,500 Fifteen Year Endowment Policy in your Company. Such a result as this, after the risk on my life has been carried for fifteen years, beginning from forty-five years of age, argues one thing strongly, namely, that the management of the North American Life must be in competent hands. The other options you have offered me, viz.: a Paid-up Life policy for $6510.00, or a Life Annuity for $401.20, are, I presume, equally liberal, and it affords me much pleasure to recommend your Company to my friends or any desiring insurance.

Yours truly,

CANADA LIFE
Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life shows this old established Company to be in a most flourishing condition. The annual meeting was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the Statements and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous year, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,093.05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 numbered 3,066, for the sum of $6,185,996, of which, however, 266 for $531,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other insurers should be maintained, and as 191 applications for $373,300 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5 291,696, under 2 609 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $769,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555 29 of Assurances, under 33,407 policies, upon 24,469 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $770,108 45, and Endowment policies for $128,846 92, having matured, these sums, as well as $218,481.29 for profits, $145 411.18 for surrenders, and an annuity of $400, making in all $1,263,307.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,963,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policy-holders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,272,480 05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,678,915.67.

SURPLUS.

As appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing fully for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082 05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company. I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will result more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, the prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Merritt, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

BAY OF QUINTE CONFERENCE.

DR. WORKMAN WILL BE ACCORDED A FULL INVESTIGATION.

Is the Doctor in Harmony with the Methodist Doctrine?—Rev. T. W. Jolliffe Chosen President.

Lindsay, June 2.—At last evening's session of the Bay of Quinte Conference the following candidates were received into the ministry: C. W. Barrett, Isaac Snell, C. M. Hopkins, A. W. Shaver, R. P. Cummings, W. S. Smart, G. W. Metzler, M.A., Ph.D. It was plainly evident to the Conference, and so emphatically stated by Principal Dyer of Albert College, that the young men now entering the ministry were far in advance of those of former years. The educational standard was higher, and the candidates were most excellent students. Though it was felt that fewer ministers should be admitted, yet in these cases such was the standing of each in all respects, that reception could not be denied. The last named is a man of remarkable parts, a Ph. D. of Johns Hopkins University, a splendid mathematician, and a consecrated man. The impediment of age—he is forty-four, but looks twenty years younger—was not considered a sufficient barrier to his entrance into the ministry.

After this order of business was finished Rev. W. R. Young introduced gradually a matter that for an hour or two more than held the attention of the entire Conference. As chairman of Cobourg District he had found a minister who for six years had been left without a circuit, and before proceeding farther he would call on Rev. Dr. Workman. This called forth unstinted and continuous applause. Dr. Workman, blushing, rose and expressed his pleasure at the heartiness of his reception. He then reviewed the circumstances and disabilities under which he found himself, all in the best of spirit and in the most gentlemanly manner. No utterance fell from him that in any way could be construed into a reflection upon any individual or body. All he wished to say was that he had been generally misunderstood, and if the conference saw fit he should be glad to have a most searching investigation, that, as Dr. Burwash later said, justice might be done to him—Dr. Workman—and for the purpose of satisfying the minds of the church. In the conversation which followed it was felt that such investigation must be full and searching in the extreme. Finally this resolution was carried unanimously:—"That, whereas many persons have affirmed, and many others have believed, that the teachings and preaching of Dr. Workman are not in harmony with our doctrinal standards, therefore, at the request of Dr. Workman and in order to the satisfaction of the mind of the church, it is hereby resolved that the following be appointed a committee to call for evidence and investigate the question raised and report their findings to the next Conference: Rev. Messrs. W. R. Young, B.A., S. J. Shorey, Dr. Crothers, Thos. Manning, M.A., Dr. Dyer, Dr. Lambly, W. J. Jolliffe, B.C.L.

The Conference adjourned at a rather later hour than usual. In the expressions following adjournment it was seen that the episode has brought great pleasure to all concerned.

The general session of the Conference began this morning at 10 o'clock, following a service in which Rev. Caleb Parker preached to a large congregation. This plan brought a full attendance of the delegates at the very beginning of the session. Perhaps one-third of the laymen appointed answered to their names. The election for president required two ballots. Rev. T. W. Jolliffe was chosen, with Rev. W. R. Young, B.A., a very close second. The retiring president very gracefully introduced his successor and presented him with the staff of office, a cane made from the wood of the old Hay Bay church, probably the oldest piece of Methodist property in Ontario. In doing this he assured the President-elect that the Conference would stand by him through good or evil report. He would remind him of the words attributed to the late Sir John Macdonald: "The friends I want are not only those that will stand by me when I am right, but also those that will do so when I am wrong."

Rev. Mr. Duke then rose on a question of privilege and said he believed that no such expression fell from the lips of the honoured and honourable gentlemen referred to.

When it was known that Rev. Mr. Duke referred to the late Hon. John Macdonald, the amusement was unbounded.

Rev. Mr. Jolliffe thanked the Conference for the honour, and would serve them to the extreme of his ability. Rev. D. S. McCamus was elected Secretary, and Dr. Tilley, Inspector of schools, and J. J. Rae were appointed assistants. Dr. Burwash addressed the Conference at some length upon the work of Victoria University for the year. The Conference then appointed the several committees.

LEARN TO SWIM.

A Little Advice That Might Save a Life.

The drowning of two young men in a little creek at Guelph shows the wisdom of the English school regulation, which compels boys to learn to swim before they are permitted to use small boats. Every boy and girl should be taught to swim. It is one of the easiest things to learn and it is never forgotten. One may never need it, but one never knows when it comes in handy. It can be learned in half an hour, and would prove a great deal more good than much of the ornamented studies now taught in the schools. Apropos, here is a story: A boatman was rowing an erudite scholar across a stream, and the scholar said: Can you read? "No," replied the boatman. "It is a pity," replied the scholar; "then is half your life gone." At this moment the boat began to fill with water. "Can you swim?" asked the boatman. "No," replied the scholar, "then there's all your life gone," replied the boatman, as he struck out for shore.

CYCLING.

The following from the Montreal Herald may apply with slight, and perhaps very slight, changes to Peterborough:

The rules of the road seem to be pretty well understood now by cyclists and drivers. But a few exasperating specimens of the human race still persist in getting on the wrong side of the street and collisions are sometimes seen. There are some drivers of vehicles in this city who take a fiendish delight in paying no attention to an approaching rider. But have you noticed the great change there has been since that lamentable fatal accident on Dorchester street? Cab drivers and others are more considerate of the wheelman's rights since the carelessness of one of their number cost a human life. The explanation of the driver who collided with the late Mr. Millward was sufficiently satisfactory to secure his acquittal, but the lesson was a valuable one to other drivers, who now realize more than ever before the serious consequence that can attend a collision. Wheelmen would consult their own interests by securing the arrest and punishment of anyone who does not obey the rules of the road. An eye should also be kept open for those who throw glass in the streets. Everywhere glass can be found ground into pieces of the right puncturing size.

CRICKET.

The boys from Peterborough now attending Mr. Drope's School, Lake Lodge, Grimsby, are having every side of their nature brought under culture. The school grounds afford unlimited scope for play, and cricket seems to be a favourite pastime. In a recent match with Bishop Ridley III cricket club, four Peterborough boys had a place on Grimsby shcool eleven—Masters Hall, Rush, Lundy and Burritt. In the first innings the Peterborough boys made a good all-"round" score—beautiful little ducks being placed to their credit; but in the second Hall got on for one and Rush got six notches in the tally stick. Lundy and Burritt did not bat, the Lake Lodge fellows winning the match with six wickets to the good.

James Spence, Clachan, Ont., writes:—"I had been a sufferer from Catarh for 15 years. It became chronic and I had given up hopes of ever being cured when advised by a friend to try Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. I at once started and am pleased to state three boxes effected a complete cure, and I heartily recommend it to anyone suffering from catarrh."

Dangerous Dysentery

Have it Checked and the Inflammation Allayed by Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

It is appalling how many people in the course of a year are hurried into untimely graves by attacks of dysentery.

It comes on so suddenly, its course is so rapid, its action on the system so weakening, its termination so quickly fatal, that any treatment must be administered promptly and the disease checked effectively at the outset. The only remedy that anyone would think of relying on in such an emergency as that, is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. For a generation and a half it has been curing all forms of bowel complaints of children and adults, and during that time has saved thousand of lives and many doctors' bills. Never be without it in your house. It's cost is trifling, only 35 cents, but the pain and weakness, yes, even death, it may save you from some day, or some of your family, is worth more to you than ten thousand times its price.

Mr. Richard Gilbank, Coldwater, Ont., says: "I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and found it a reliable remedy for Summer Complaints, Diarrhœa, Dysentery and Cholera Morbus. I know it to be a grand remedy in the case of children and heartily recommend it."

That Tired Feeling

An exceedingly common and dangerously significant condition.

A warning which must be heeded, or, as with the express train which fails to regard the danger signal, disaster must follow.

A sure indication of this, weak, impoverished blood. A timely admonition that the blood is not properly feeding the nerves, the tissues and organs of the body.

An imperative demand for the tonic, vitalizing effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla upon the blood.

Weak, nervous, tired men and women are found everywhere. Men strive too hard to "keep their ends up," women get needlessly worn "on their nerves" by stress the demands of home and society, all have too little sleep, and the excessive drain on strength and nervous energy will soon completely ruin health.

The strength must be built up by pure blood, and the nerves must also find in pure blood the proper nerve food. For this purpose nothing equals Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The thousands of truthful cures it has accomplished, the like of which no other medicine and no combination of medicines can show, prove its curative merit; prove that it has never been equalled as a blood medicine; prove that Hood's Sarsaparilla is indeed the ideal spring medicine, the best nerve and stomach tonic, the one true blood purifier.

"I was feeling tired all the time, as tired in the morning as I was at night. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and it has helped me a great deal. I have no such feelings now. My little girl suffered with pain in her stomach, and Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured her." JAMES P. MANN, Shubenacadie, Nova.

Weakness and Loss of Appetite.

"Last spring my little girl had no appetite and was weak. I gave her one-half bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which cured her. We will now take no other medicine but Hood's Sarsaparilla, and recommend it to everyone for weakness and loss of appetite." WM. P. HAMM, Bryceville, Fla.

All Tired Out.

"My husband was all tired out and run down in health. He felt the need of something to build him up, and he began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills and the result was very satisfactory. We regard Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills as excellent medicines." MRS. E. L. MOWRY, Townsend, Pa.

Tired and Worn Out Feeling.

"I have been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and cannot say too much in its favor. It has done me more good than any medicine I have ever tried. I have advised my friends to use it for a tired and worn out feeling, as I know that it gives relief." WILLIAM T. HUSDLE, Hollyville, Del.

DISGRACEFUL INHUMANITY.

The reports of the shockingly inhuman treatment of two sick labourers on the Crow's Nest Pass Railway construction contract, bring to one's mind the Song of the Shirt and "man's inhumanity to man." The "accursed thirst for gold" in the concrete or in the form of profit, seems, in some cases, to completely dwarf and subdue the most rudimentary promptings of human feelings. Greed of gain is held to be a purely human passion, but it is bestial and brutal in its manifestations. Two young men of Pictou, Nova Scotia, were last winter working on a contract on the Crow's Nest Pass Railway. They were attacked with diphtheria while at work, and, it is stated by Mr. Bell, of Pictou, were denied medical attendance or treatment of any kind. They were sent over a hundred miles in an open conveyance in below zero January weather, and placed in a box car, where they were left alone, half smothered by smoke from a leaky box stove, till their groans were heard by a passer by. A physician, Dr. Meade, was summoned, and found them dying, and, as a matter of fact, both did die. Mr. Bell, of Pictou, from whose constituency the men came, with justifiable indignation, says they were murdered. They were both respectable men, and had fairly well-to-do parents in Pictou, who could have sent them funds if they had been apprised of their condition. An investigation into the circumstances was made by a Government Commission, and the report of the Commission more than justifies the statements made above. Its findings show that the treatment of these two men was such as no half civilized man would give a dog, and is only a part of a systematic, unjust, barbarous and unchristian treatment of the men by the contractors. The workmen were compelled to work on the frozen ground, in the open air, without blankets, or in shanties without fire, in open cars, in tents, or housed in filthy hovels, reeking with dirt and filthy vermin. The food supplied was frozen or putrid, and the general treatment was such that if the men died or vanished, the contractors broke little with that, while several dollars were charged for each man who were deprived of medical care when sick, and dismissed without money when able, and left destitute, hungry and penniless to find their way home or to the grave. The report has seventeen paragraphs, and almost any clause would a headstone indifference on the part of the contractors, what there was no covert act against the rights of the men in their employ.

The conditions of things revealed by the report and the circumstances attending the death of the two young men mentioned are a disgrace to Canada, and justice should reach the offenders. And there is no doubt that it will. In speaking of the death of these two young men Sir Wilfrid Laurier said it was undoubted that they came to their premature death by ill treatment and that possibly there would be ground for a charge of manslaughter. The government was ready to investigate the facts and bring the guilty parties to the justice they deserve. Sir Wilfrid is noted for his "canny ways" in diplomatic dealings, but it is to be hoped that in this case no relenting will be shown, but if it is found that anybody is directly or indirectly responsible for the death by ill-treatment and neglect of these two unfortunate young men, that justice to the hilt will be exacted. One can understand how one man under great provocation and under the impulse of violent passion may deal a blow whose force he cannot at the moment estimate, and with fatal results, but it is incomprehensible how any man, or men, can be guilty of the cold-blooded, deliberative, systematic and fiendish barbarity shown by the declaration of the commissioners in their findings of facts in relation to the contractors' treatment of their men.

The report mentioned, which was printed in yesterday's issue, shows that conditions of white slavery prevailed on the railway works, which not only should not be allowed to endure for one moment, but should involve condign punishment. Such a state of things could not obtain in Ontario, where the provision of a Liberal Government has provided enactments that protect the poorest labourer in his relations with contractors, and guarantee him his full rights.

THE following from the London Daily Mail will be widely endorsed :—Lord Aberdeen's early retirement from the Governor-Generalship of Canada opens up a great opportunity to the Imperial Government. The Dominion, after a slumber of centuries, is awaking to its magnificent possibilities, and one cannot be a week in Canada now without feeling that the whole country is palpitating like nature in the springtime, with the coming development. And Canada is keenly sensitive on the subject of a worthy representative of the Crown at Ottawa. Lord Aberdeen's successor must be a man of the very first rank. Saving, perhaps, India, there is no viceroyalty in the Empire whose importance can be measured against the Governor-Generalship of Canada. Why not choose Lord Jersey? He is a first-class man. He would be a credit to the Dominion."

CANADIAN ORDER OF FORESTERS.

Twenty years ago there was some excuse for those who left their family unprotected, to-day there is absolutely none. The only question is suitable, and in this the Canadian Order of Foresters easily leads. It has a larger Surplus per head, and still larger for each $1,000 of a risk carried, and could divide up and pay back, if so desired, relatively more per shareholder than any other Society of the kind in Canada. Surplus per member, $22.80; per $1,000 of Insurance, $20.58.

The Death Rates of the Canadian Order of Foresters last year was lower than that of any of its competitors, being only 8.66 on the $1,000.

The Assessments on the Insurance Surplus paid over 20 Death Claims of a $2,000 each last year.

THE JOHN BULL DISPOSITION.

When Sir Lobbi Bulwer left Canada a few days ago on his Washington mission, a portion of the Canadian press found fault because he was not accompanied by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright, whose assistance, it was held, was necessary to the success of negotiations between the United States and Canada. The criticism was founded upon a misconception of Sir Louis' mission, which was not to discuss and decide upon the terms of the settlement of the various matters which are in dispute between the two nations, but simply to arrange for the appointment of a joint commission, to come to an agreement as to the matters which would come before the commission, the general method of procedure, as well as the place of meeting. It is understood that Washington is decidedly opposed to this proposition, although Sir Louis Davies has had no difficulty in reaching an agreement with the American delegates as to the composition of the commission, its scope, and even the details as to its proceedings. It is well known that the present relations of Great Britain and the United States are exceedingly friendly, and that members of the administration of Great Britain, the United States and Canada are disposed to do all they can to foster those friendly relations permanent. Sir Wilfrid Laurier made an exceedingly favourable impression at Washington on his recent visit there, and was favourably impressed by the personal friendliness he met with on all hands.

That the Washington administration was favourable to the appointment of a joint commission was known, and much as at the present moment that and we think Canada may [illegible] somewhat jealous of its own prerogatives and powers, did not pass the resolutions, but after criticising them somewhat adversely, allowed them to drop. It was then supposed that President McKinley might be disinclined to act without the sanction of Congress, and decline to appoint a commission upon his own responsibility, which he has the power to do. It appears that he is not so [illegible] supposed, and has decided to appoint a commission and allow it all the scope that Sir Wilfrid Laurier proposed. There is the seal protection question; the United States wants the regulations [illegible] by the Paris arbitrators made more restrictive, and as the award provided for their reconsideration at the end of a period of five years, now elapsed, it is probable that the regulations will be made stricter. The United States wants to share our shore fisheries, which, being more northern than their own, are more valuable, but Canada, demands in return for this privilege an open United States market for Canadian-caught fish. Failing this, the United States would like Canada to allow her fishermen to land in Canadian ports of Nova Scotia, land their catches and ship them in bond to the United States, and obtain supplies; in other words, make Canadian ports near the off shore fisheries in Northern waters bases for conducting the fisheries; they argue that if Canadian fishermen are allowed to ship goods in bond across the strip of Alaska that intervenes between the Pacific Coast and the Yukon District, American fishermen on the Atlantic ought to be allowed the same privilege. Then there is the boundary of Alaska to be determined and laid down.

The question of reciprocity, too, will be discussed. Canada has now to use a [illegible] "something to offer." The preferential tariff, twelve and a half per cent. lower than the ordinary tariff now in existence, which on the first of July will become one twenty-five per cent. lower in favour of Great Britain, India, and certain of the colonies, is not and will not be shared by the United States unless a reciprocity treaty to that end is negotiated by the commission. There are other questions, such as the retaliatory coasting laws, which are mutually injurious to both countries, and the alien labour laws, which are a source of irritation to both peoples, without any benefit to either, but the reverse. These questions are very knotty ones, and will not be easily settled by the commissioners, and then will not be settled, for Congress and the Canadian Parliament will have to sanction any agreements reached, and the peoples of both nations are very jealous over these matters, which have long been in dispute. The hope is that both will now be more good-humored toward one another and more inclined, therefore, to sanction an agreement in which there must necessarily be a good deal of give on either side as well as take. The attitude of Congress, however, as manifested when the resolutions were before it, was not altogether encouraging.—Montreal Witness.

THE FRANCHISE BILL.

High-Handed Action of the Dominion Senate.

PRINCIPLE OF BILL AMENDED.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell Says the Bill Is None of the Senate's Business, as:

It Was Intended to Implement a Pre-Election Pledge Given to the People at the General Election.

Matters.

Ottawa, June 4.—The Senate persists in its most high-handed and unjustifiable action of defeating the Franchise bill and in so completely hall its principle. They strike directly at that principle as elucidated by the Liberal leader when he was speaking on the bill when it was before the Commons. On that occasion he said: "I have come to the conclusion that the best method we can adopt as regards the preparation of the voters' lists for the elections for this House is the adoption of the local lists. We stand by that principle and before we depart from it we must give it a fair trial." Thus the Senate had the Government's declaration of principle before them, and Sir Mackenzie Bowell admitted that the Senate had no right to interfere with a bill intended to implement a pledge to the people. Proof that the amendment was inserted in order to kill the bill and embarrass the Government is furnished by the fact that to be consistent it had to include Ontario. Yet, the New Brunswick Senators, Conservatives as well as Liberals, voted against it on the ground that the present system was most satisfactory to that province. The majority that have passed an amendment unacceptable to the very province named, and have done so on the pretence that it improves the bill. One serious result of the Senate's action is that Assessment Bill, which provides a system (clumsy, it is) that the vote shall be taken under the Franchise Act of 1885. When the Franchise bill comes before the House for consideration it will doubtless arrive how to proceed in the amendment of the Senate, as one important to the principle of the bill. The manner will there go back to the people, and they vote will either reconsider their action or abide by it. If they abide by it, then the Liberals could not be blamed if the struggle between the two houses, which could only end in one way, for Sir Mackenzie Bowell himself held the view that a bill affecting the franchise of the House of Commons alone is none of the Senate's business.

Senator Miller moved his amendment providing for an appeal from the final revision of the lists by the revising officers of the Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Manitoba to the judiciary tribunal.

Senator Miller said he believed that a majority of the Senate were opposed to the principle of the bill. It was the intention, however, to allow the bill to pass with the principle of adopting the provincial lists for Federal purposes.

Senator Kirchhoffer, in seconding the amendment, said an appeal to the judiciary of Manitoba would preclude partisan officials for revised lists from sending a solid phalanx of Liberals to Ottawa after the next Dominion election.

Senator Power, while admitting the right of the Senate to reject any bill, objected to the principle of the details. The objection to the amendment was that it interfered with the principle of the bill. He pointed out that in New Brunswick there was a provincial coalition Government, and the lists were prepared in a fair manner, with an appeal to the judges.

Hon. David Mills said the Government had no intention of accepting the amendment, as it practically destroyed the principle of the bill. This was one of the planks of the Liberal platform, on which the suffrages of the people were sought, and the Senate had no right to interfere with the principle of the bill. The Government would not accept the amendment from carrying out their promises made to the people.

Senator Boulton said he did not think the Senate ought to insist on passing a small amendment to the bill, which it was known the Commons would not accept. Then the onus would fall on the Senate of dropping the bill altogether. He was in favor of the approval of the principle of handing the Federal franchise over to the provinces. If the amendment was passed the bill would be dropped, and, as a consequence the principle would be gone on with. He would vote against the amendment.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell said that the Senate had no right to interfere with the legislation which was intended to implement a pledge given to the people at the election. If it was not for that, he would have moved for the rejection of the bill altogether. What the Senate proposed to amend was not the franchise of the province, but the election law.

After some further debate, the committee divided upon Senator Miller's amendment, which was carried on a vote of 34 to 18. The Conservative Senators who voted with the Government were Messrs. Wigle, Macdonald (P.E.I.), Poirier, Perley and Baird.

Further amendments were made to reconcile the bill to the open voting system of Prince Edward Island.

Last night's debate in connection with the amendments to the Franchise bill carried by a vote of 31 to 11.

The Minister of Justice gave notice that on the third reading of the bill he would propose an amendment conferring power on the Governor-General-in-Council to prepare the oaths to be used in applying the laws to the provincial franchise systems.

Senator Boulton gave notice that on the third reading of the bill he would move that the amendments referring to the alteration of provincial laws be reconsidered, the three being taken virtually as one, and, as a consequence, the principle would be gone on with. He would vote against the amendment.

Proceedings in the House.

A great deal of the morning session until about 1 o'clock in the afternoon was spent debating the $2,000,000 loan for Montreal harbor improvement, but finally the resolution authorizing the loan was reported and a bill will be drafted giving it effect.

Mr. Blair introduced a bill to allow contracting railway companies to draw subsidies on their work progressed.

In the evening two bills, one to amend the Customs Act, and the other to provide for customs and fisheries, were put through their second reading and committed. Mr. Fielding explained the measures.

The latter provides for a fine upon the owner of any ship which does not bring to when required, or who resists lawful obstacle or examination by any of Her Majesty's revenue cruisers.

The ship is also liable to seizure, or if a chase has been made it shall be followed, the cruiser is authorized to fire upon her. If the cargo is thrown over the ship may be seized.

The Customs amendments are largely technical.

The New G.T.R. Rules.

Mr. Bell, M.P., has had a conference with the G.T.R. authorities with a view to having the time extended for putting the new rules in force, and expects that that will be done. Should the Board refuse to extend the time, it will probably be a matter of

The old man who looks out at the world with clear and healthy eyes cannot help feeling great gratification at the thought that his children have inherited from him a wealthy constitution or disease. The healthy old man is the man that has [illegible] the digestion good and the blood pure. Not one in a thousand dies a natural death through the healthy wear with age. Let them once find a weak spot, the slightest excess in the millions and the blood will be full of them. [illegible] of giving strength to the tissues will force upon them impurities matter, and the man will lose flesh and the more susceptible he is to disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the only medicine that absolutely and invariably cures all blood diseases, and almost all diseases are blood diseases. It [illegible] medicine for scrofulous [illegible] disease. It is a medicine for the whole body, that forces out all the germs of disease and replaces impurities with rich, red blood.

Dr. Gould's Geography.

Though the determination of the places of the fixed stars in the northern hemisphere [illegible] the attention of many [illegible] during the whole of this century and our knowledge of the places of the northern stars would therefore presumably be nearly perfect, it is a fact that Dr. Gould's work upon the southern skies practically equalized our knowledge of the two hemispheres, says Professor T. J. J. See in The Century. Such an undertaking is a veritable monument to the American [illegible] and has added new lustre to the American name. Had the American people never contributed anything beyond the labors of Gould to the world's knowledge of astronomy this magnificent contribution alone would entitle the nation to an honorable place in the ages of posterity.

And yet how little is the work of Gould known to even the best circle of American readers! So great was his devotion to the cause of pure science and to that field was he of contemporary fame that none but professional men of distinct title to appreciate his incomparable services to the sublimest of the sciences. It is certain that he has gained a place among the greatest astronomers of any age or country and that the estimate now placed on his work will only increase with the flight of centuries. If England is justly proud of her Newton and Herschel, France of her Lagrange and Laplace, Germany of her Copernicus and Kepler, Italy of her Leonardo and Galileo, well may American honor her Pierce and Gould!

INTERESTING EXHIBITION OF PICTURES AT HOME.

Now Open to Public Inspection and Purchase at 362 George Street.

Open Every Week Day Evening—Original Impression Cultivated Upon Visitors.

The mind is much influenced by paintings on the walls, and we sum up the qualities of the occupants of dwellings more quickly by their walls than through any other medium. If the paintings and pictures be well selected and well executed we are in the presence of one of superior mind qualities and taste. Nothing furnishes a home so effectively as good pictures, for you may remove almost every article of furniture out of a house but the pictures on the walls will remain inviting, but remove the paintings and leave the other articles of furniture in and there will at once seem to be something that cannot be compensated for by the most expensive and gorgeous furnishings. Good pictures, too, have a humanizing effect that nothing else possesses. We all love pictures from youth to old age and the older we get the more we appreciate their influence and enjoy the beauty of good ones. We were to-day treated to a view of some particularly choice ones in Mr. Shaw's gallery, which we learn he is going to dispose of at public auction. His collection is extraordinary for extent, variety and artistic excellence. The gem of the collection is undoubtedly Jacomuch as the paintings have all been executed by himself. They comprise local scenes and places of interest all over Canada and this circumstance, coupled with the fact that Mr. Shaw has obtained from active friends abroad sketches from scenes of many historical places and ruins of abbeys, castles and churches in England, Scotland and Ireland and on the continent, which he has finished in oils and [illegible] gives them additional interest. The lochs and brown heather hills of Scotland, the purple hills of Wales, and many of the interesting ivy-covered ruins of England and Ireland are to be seen in the exhibition. [illegible] animal pictures [illegible] in Mr. Shaw's [illegible] are worth a dozen visits to the gallery to see. In addition to the pictures [illegible] Mr. Shaw has [illegible] for the past fifteen years, Mr. Shaw choosing nothing but artistic and valuable pictures. The exhibit in Brethour's book store in the opera house block will be open to the public from now till the day of sale, Thursday, 9th inst, at 1.30. The sale will also be continued in the evening at 8 o'clock, and Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening at the same hour. [illegible] continued on [illegible] Everything is sold. The [illegible] prices nearly the pictures will be sold without reserve by public auction, commencing at 1.30 on Thursday, June 9th, and continuing until everything is sold. Mr. Shaw will [illegible] up to the day of sale.

JAIL BREAKERS

BROUGHT BACK.

Robert and Peter Hall in Limbo Again.

BOTH ISOLATED BY THEMSELVES.

They Will be Permitted to Have Converse With Not One—Their Employment the Weaving Their Time to Window-Shopt Day Time and Walking at Night.

Several hundred people were at the station last evening to meet the midnight C.P.R. express from the west, upon which Chief of Police Reesal was bringing his two prisoners from Windsor. On arriving in town the Chief placed Robert and McDonald in a hack and accompanied them and Gaoler Nelles to the county gaol where he left them. They will not appear before the Magistrate on the charge of gaol breaking just at present.

The Chief states that Robert seems to have had the heart completely taken out of him, and did not hold a brief to any of the tale Jesse. McDonald, too, was completely upset by being captured just when he thought he stood a good chance of getting completely away. He rallied somewhat [illegible] but [illegible] and [illegible] all the way down.

GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

has slipped through his fingers, and that he would now have to take his medicine.

The hardships which the two gaol breakers went through after working their way out through the bolts and bars were something which they will not soon forget. After leaving Peterborough they worked north and west, and by daylight were in the vicinity of Omemee. They lay in the woods all day and resumed their tramp at night. Proceeding in this manner they walked their way west for four days and five nights before they were seen by a living soul. When they reached Stonyville on the fifth day they were almost famished with hunger and [illegible] from [illegible].

At this point they boarded a freight and [illegible] south, as the freight was westbound they had hopes of being able to get [illegible].

THROUGH TO WINDSOR

and [illegible] for crossing over into the United States and getting to McDonald's friends. At Woodstock, however, the train branched off the main line and ran down to St. Thomas, and from here the men had to steal a ride to Windsor on a Michigan Central freight.

Just as they stopped from the bumpers they were placed under [illegible] and marched to the lock-up, the trains being watched very closely for these gentry at Windsor.

At the police station the constable was struck by McDonald's resemblance to the photograph in the circular received from Chief Reesal and called the attention of the sergeant to the [illegible]. The circular was produced and when on the left side of McDonald's face corresponding to the description, the police were certain of their man, although he had a full beard instead of Gilly's moustache as in the photo.

A GLEAM WAS NOTED

McDonald had no idea that such a pic of him as the [illegible] and he offered [illegible] as soon as he [illegible] "the game was up," and told the constables that he was the man they were after. Without the photo he is certain that identification would have been difficult, if not impossible, and the chief [illegible] the prompitude with which [illegible] picture from Elyria, Ohio, duplicates that sent out on the circulars asking for the apprehension of the [illegible].

So down-hearted does McDonald feel over his capture that Chief Reesal is of the opinion that he may possibly enter a plea of guilty when his trial comes on and thus save the country considerable expense. He was under the impression that his previous history was unknown to the Police and when he saw the circular identifying him as Mark Marshall of the famous Lowery gang, he wilted completely.

Robert and McDonald have now a cell to themselves on the ground floor of the gaol and have no communication whatever with the other prisoners. They will be thus isolated until sentence has been passed on McDonald.

Chief [illegible] and Gaoler Nelles were [illegible] very courteous whilst in Windsor. A letter has already been received from Mr. Wardell Fearce, of Norwood, congratulating the Chief of Police on the recapture of McDonald.

We are asked every day—"What kind of a Hat can I get for about $2.50 or $2.00?" or some other price named. Very frequently, of late, the question is coupled with the cautious proviso:—"Don't want a cheap hat that will not keep its colour, or fade out with the sun."

THE POET TO HIS MISTRESS.

In the dreadful long ago,
In days of damaged and bone,
Of nimble trip and wine,
Each gallant drew by lot to see
Which fine among the maids should be
His sweetheart valentine.

Sooth, Sylvia, had I prankt it then
Among those madly merry men,
And 'mongst the maidens thou,
Thy grace, thy little artless airs,
As fate would have proved us mates
That hold me tightly now!

And when the hours of trial came,
O Sylvia, had I drawn thy name
And known that thou wert mine,
With what a wealth of ardor and bloom
Would I have decked the happy room
To greet St. Valentine!

Oh, be not obdurate, I pray!
In fancy let the old customs play
With all its rites return!
Let the dull present be forgot,
And let once more each maiden's lot
Be cast into the urn!

And when—ah, happy moment—I
Behold the name I would descry,
That lovely name of thine,
Then ... my ... Sweet
Revealed—oh, joy—thou art indeed
My own, my Valentine!

A DOMESTIC EPISODE.

A Cautious Wife Prevents a Sour Stomach This Time.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to the Rescue —They Cure Sour Stomach & Acid Dyspepsia and Thus Prevent Suicide in Many Cases.

"Ugh! I've been tortured by a sour stomach until since dinner, and it has made me utterly good for nothing," grumbled the head of a family, as he sat down with the evening paper after his day's work.

"Papa, what does 'sour stomach' mean?" questioned his young heir, aged ten.

"Don't bother me!" growled his father irritably.

"Let papa alone," cautioned the wife and mother, who knew what "papa's" disposition was on occasions like this, when he was suffering from "sour stomach."

Now, if the father had known that the disease which he was feeling [illegible] would have taken means to check and cure it. To do this he would, of course, have used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, for nothing else can cure it.

Acid Dyspepsia is a dangerous ailment, for from it [illegible] which develop into the dread known as "melancholia," and which drives hundreds of persons to suicide every year.

Acid Dyspepsia is caused by food which the stomach cannot digest, remaining in the stomach, fermenting, then rotting, and creating poisonous gas.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure the complaint by digesting the heavy mass of food, and stimulating the bowels to carry off the poisonous matter that had been formed.

Besides doing this, Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets tone and strengthen the stomach, and enable it to carry on properly the work of digestion. They are the only remedy known that can do this, and they never fail.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or sent, on receipt of price, by The Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BEAR STOPPED BY ICE.

The U. S. Revenue Cutter Could Not Get Into Behring Sea.

Seattle, Wash., June 4.—The schooner Brixham brings news that the revenue cutter Bear, conveying relief to the imprisoned whalers, is at Dutch Harbor. The officers of the Bear recently attempted to form a connection with the overland party under Lieut. Jarvis, but got only 200 miles north of Dutch Harbor. There the ice was found packed solid across Behring Sea and all further plans had to be abandoned. No news has been received from Jarvis.

A hurricane, which seriously threatened the entire shipping of the fleet, swept over Dutch Harbor and Unalaska on July 22. During the storm the mission house Henel was driven ashore, though not seriously injured. The ship Wanhunt dragged her anchor and but for the steady assistance of the Bear and the barque Harry Morse, would have been hurled upon the rocks and broken to pieces.

"Finally I was induced to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. The first dose did me good and I got better and better with each succeeding dose. Three boxes worked a thorough and complete cure."

THE CLERK'S MISTAKE.

Thought She Was a Hayseed Because She Ordered a Kerosene Lamp.

[illegible] after the night clerk had come on at the hotel and retired his assistant to bed [illegible] to business.

"Kerosene lamp for 237," requested a bellboy.

"Kerosene lamp?" echoed the clerk as he whirled the register about. "Let me see. Mrs. Bloodly and wife of Plankerville in 237, I thought so. Never been in a first class hotel before. Go back and show them how to use the electric light. Wonder they didn't send for a tallow candle," and the clerk took several of the corridor loungers into his confidence.

"Lady says if this hotel can't afford to have a gas stove and send it up she will," said the bellboy, who had made the round trip in phenomenal time. "She sets pretty hot."

"Pretty cold, I should think. Go back there and open the register, show the lady how to use the water faucets and how to turn off the electricity. Thank the Lord, she didn't know it sick."

The next record from 237 came with a rush. It was brought by a vision of loveliness, dressed in bewitching style, her face flushed and her blue eyes throwing off sparks. "Make out our bill and send up [illegible] at once," she said in her dainty foot twist timer on the marble tiling. "But, Mrs. Bloodly"—

"Attend to my order, sir. Include in your bill a carriage and an express wagon to transfer us and our things and tell Mr. Bloodly when he comes in that he will find us at the other house, where we will spend the rest of the season. Understand, we must go at once. I want to go to a hotel where it will be possible to warm water with for baby before the little angel starves to death."

Then the lounger had fun with the clerk, and the best he could muster was a sickly grin.—Buffalo News.

When death has laid its cold and relentless hand upon a kind and loving husband, the wife cannot be blamed for asking herself if all her years of devotion and work and helpfulness were worth the while, when it comes no sign to this fond wife.

If men would only mind the most common sense precautions against the encroachments of ill-health, there would be fewer homes of mourning, and fewer women left alone almost helpless before the battle of life is half over. A man's liver and stomach are twin machines that work together, either to make or unmake. If they work wrong, they deplete and poison his blood. Impure and impoverished blood means sickness and death. If they work right, they purify and enrich the blood. A man whose blood is rich and pure, and whose liver is active cannot well be unhealthy. Headaches, biliousness, indigestion and costiveness, which men generally disregard, are Nature's warnings that the vital mechanism, stomach and liver, is working against, instead of for him. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine to use under these circumstances. It vitalizes corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver and fills the system with rich, healthy blood. As an invigorating, restorative tonic, it is far superior to all the malt extracts. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It does not build sickly, fatty tissue as cod liver oil does, but the firm, muscular tissues of health.

"For the last nine years" writes Wilbur Miller, Esq., of 24 Mulberry Street, Reading, Pa., "I have been very poor in health. I suffered with a pain in my left leg. I tried many kinds of different medicines, and doctors without relief. Then I used three bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and can say that I am entirely cured. I can now do as good a day's work as the best man."

Unfailable—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for constipation and biliousness.

A DOG THAT SPOILS JORKINS.

The Canine Is Tyrannical and Mrs. Jorkins Is the Sufferer.

Jorkins' owns a dog, or to be more explicit, the dog owns Jorkins, and they both live with Mrs. Jorkins, to a great deal too much to the discomfiture of that injured woman, who does not pet, or indeed tolerate dogs.

"Piper has more sense than most people," Jorkins says when expatiating on the virtues of his favorite.

"Yes," Mrs. Jorkins adds sarcastically, "he knows enough to come in when it rains, because he hates to get wet."

Piper is a fox terrier, mixed with a strain of bird dog, and a touch of water spaniel. He dislikes to get his feet wet and is afraid of fire. He seldom barks at night and would wag his tail at sight of a burglar and accompany him through the house noiselessly. He has one accomplishment, and that is to bring down three flights of the entire family paper, which Mrs. Jorkins gets from him by strategy in the course of the day after he has chewed it to pulp.

Jorkins had often intimated to Mrs. J. that it was no trouble to bring up a canine world by hand and believed that now, when he is brought up and they can neither sell, lose him or give him away, that her ministrations should continue, and that if she cannot go out and take Piper with her it is her duty to stay at home.

The other day Mrs. Jorkins struck. She had often threatened but said to a friend that Jorkins had struck the dog. That repeated to attempt to "lick" him another hour. She declared she would not live in a riverbed as to be constantly cooking rice in the flat kitchen for that dog. She said that Piper ate a gallon of boiled rice per diem.

"I'll see him further," she said in the astonished Jorkins, "before I turn myself into a Hindoo, cooking rice for him. Try it yourself and see how you like it."

Jorkins was crushed. He dated meekly where the rice was kept and spent the rest of the morning in trying to wipe the wife pestered with a bad headache. He filled every tea pan, pail and basin in the flat with boiled rice, the proportions of which appalled him. Hiding as much of it as he could, he took in a steaming mess to give Piper, who had concealed himself under Mrs. Jorkins' lounge.

"You won't give a dog redhot food," said his wife. "You must cool it for him. I always do."

Her husband looked at her with admiration. He was beginning to think her a martyr. He took the step and the dog into the kitchen, whither Mrs. J. presently followed him. She found him on his knees, with his bicycle pump, hard at work. He was cooling the rice, while Piper sat by and howled.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Sterling Gravel Lumber.

"The Story of a Pine Board" is one of the articles in St. Nicholas. Mr. W. H. Harwood, who writes it, tells of the growth of the trees, the felling of it by lumbermen, its passage to the mill and the cutting into boards. Then he says:

A system of rollers carries the sawed lumber and the slabs from the saws to the distant end of the mill, where the boards are trimmed and sorted. The rollers are revolving cylinders of steel, raised just enough from the tables in which they are set to keep the lumber in motion. Standing at the end of the rollers nearest the

On the Altar of Diabetes, Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Only.

Hardly a family in the country is free from Diabetes. Great thirst, failing sight, numbness in the thighs, bleeding gums, swollen ankles, emaciation, nervousness, pale or turbid urine, loss of sexual power, decaying teeth, pains in the loins or small of the back, are all positive signs that Diabetes is in the system.

Do you know how it ends? In DEATH. A premature, horrible, agonized, painful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of ghosts. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

blue bloused workman with his sharp picaroon directs the board in any direction he wishes, the rough slabs being sent along one set of subordinate rollers to be shaved up into shingles or ripped into kindling for city consumption, while the boards pass up a broad, inclined table, where whizzing little saws trim them and saw them into the requisite lengths. In a high cage near the top of the room a workman operates a series of levers like those in use in a railway switchyard, directing the pieces of lumber as they pass up the incline. The lumber then tumbles down the other side of the incline and is ready for piling.

Lincoln's Mardi.

In the early days of sleeping cars two men slept in one berth. Once day a tall, lanky man engaged a berth from Pullman. Pullman handed him the check and said, "I shall sell the other check so that berth to another man, of course." The lanky man wound himself up to his full height; then unwound himself again. "Mister man," he said, "this passage is the oddest bit of queer business I ever waltzed up in. It is foreign to the accommodation." This man was Abraham Lincoln.—New York Tribune.

Every Bottle Has Been Sold.

In spite of the prolific increase in the destructiveness of modern warfare the tendency of the times is to make a conflict as humane as practicable. For this reason the use of copper covered bullets has been frowned upon, and a Philadelphia physician has a plan that he claims will wonderfully mitigate the suffering of a man whose body has been perforated by the modern small caliber bullet. It is well established that the velocity and penetrating force of these bullets are so great that unless they chance to strike a bone they will pass entirely through a man's body without his knowing it. His suggestion is that to attach a small wad of antiseptic cotton to the rear of the bullet. This would, he says, be by the shelf of the cartridge and could not interfere with the flight. As the bullet passes through the person the wad will [illegible] and prevent consequent suppuration. It may be possible to so closely adjust the adhesion of the wad to the bullet that as the missile passes out it will leave the body, wiping the blood and disinfecting it. Ultimately this system might do away with the necessity of a large medical corps, as each bullet would carry medical treatment for the unfortunate it wounded.—Philadelphia Record.

SAFE FROM DEATH

Are Those Who Use Dodd's Kidney Pills for Kidney Diseases.

Peter O'Reilly, Motorman, Testifies That Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him of Diabetes.

Toronto, June 3.—There have been very many cases of Bright's Disease, Dropsy, Rheumatism, and other phases of Kidney Disease in this city during the past winter and spring. It is a noticeable fact however, that only a few resulted in death. In the great majority of cases Dodd's Kidney Pills were used, and in every such case the disease was cured. The fatal cases were among those in which Dodd's Kidney Pills were not used. Every reasoning, thinking man and woman can draw but one conclusion from these facts.

One of those who was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills was Mr. T. O'Reilly, motorman No. 621, Toronto Street Railway, and who lives at No. 27 Niagara street.

Mr. O'Reilly says: "I was for three years a sufferer from Diabetes, which defied every attempt to cure. My case was the unusually severe one, and I was afraid to test any and every remedy recommended to me. They all failed, however, until I gave Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. A few doses convinced me that I had at last found a cure. I used only three boxes, but they swept the disease entirely out of my system. I cheerfully, confidently recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to any sufferer from Diabetes, as I know they are the only cure for that complaint."

Let any person suffering from any form of Kidney Complaint, test Dodd's Kidney Pills. It will cost only fifty cents, and will prove the worth of this medicine.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists, at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or sent, on receipt of price, by The Dodds Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Position in Society.

To all those who spend their time wondering how other people live we would suggest that an examination of the plaintiff's petition in the case of Schneider versus Hosier, 21 Ohio St. 98, might throw some light on the subject. It was a suit under which damages are sought for the alienation of the affections of a husband. It alleged that the plaintiff was the wife of one Zimri Hosier, on whom good company, frugality and personal labor also was dependent for the support of herself and their seven minor children, for the proper clothing and mental training of the latter, and, to a good extent, for her own position in society. The said Zimri Hosier, when not intoxicated or laboring under the effects of intoxication, was an industrious laboring man and regularly earned and received for his labor $1.50 a day. There's management for you! Seven children and a wife supported, the children properly nurtured and morally trained and the wife's position in society maintained—all on $1.50 a day. Perhaps there may have been interesting circumstances in the intoxication of Zimri.—Law Notes.

A Bag Full of Breath.

The "pneumatophor," an Austrian invention for enabling miners, firemen, etc., to breathe when surrounded by after damp, smoke or noxious fumes of any kind, consists of an air-tight rubber bag containing a steel bottle of pure oxygen at a pressure of 100 litres and a metal protected glass bottle containing a 25 per cent solution of caustic soda. The oxygen can be admitted by a hand screw into the bag and drawn into the mouth through a rubber tube, the nose being closed by a clip. The turn of another hand screw throttles the glass bottle, allowing the caustic soda to flow out and be absorbed by a knitted network in the bag to which the carbonic acid exhaled, although the oxygen is re-breathed, the apparatus being capable of furnishing oxygen enough to last from two to 90 minutes. It has been tested by numerous experiments.

Truth and Fiction.

"Strutwelpetik," one of the pioneers, reappears in health resides, supine in bed, very ill—and no wonder—with an immense cherry tree growing out of her mouth. This was the sad result of swallowing the stones along with the fruit, in spite of all warnings. But we all know that truth is stranger than fiction, and the Lazarusgukaya Gazeta of June 24 and July 8, 1897, quotes the following [illegible] of this saying from [illegible]:

"[illegible] L., whose father worked in the lucifer mills in Belgard (Aim), was at play the other day, when she managed to push the head of a pin [illegible] her ear. Shortly after she began to experience acute pains, and it was found that the head had [illegible] the tympanic membranes of the ear and was growing apace. It is said that Miss Amelia L., now that her ear is once more in good working order, will instruct her teachers in the exhortations of her elders and will not go on planting pins [illegible] obviously uncongenial soil.—Notes and Queries.

The Christian Scientist takes her fee and leaves me. In comes my friend Brown and greets me with, "Hello, old man, you have got a nose on you," or some such vulgar and inconsiderate remark. I endeavor to assure him that he is mistaken and that the carbuncle is a creation of his diseased imagination. But Jones and Robinson speedily turn up and scout me in similar terms, until my mind becomes impressed with an uppity suspicion that all is not as it should be with my nose. The morbid delusion of my friends extends to me.

I take up the glass again, and there, sure enough, is the carbuncle as large and angry as ever. Under these circumstances it seems a clear waste of money to pay a Christian Scientist to cure my carbuncle unless the fee is to include the treatment of the whole circle of my friends, and indeed of any one whom I may meet by chance in the street.—London Truth.

A SIGHT TO BEHOLD.

Look upward to the azure dome,
Where suns and planets live at home
And where the clouds at pleasure roam.

Look underneath the billowy seas,
Where argosies for you and me
Drift rudderless and will not be Diverted to ports where we
May get their golden cargoes free.

Look yourself to the nearest top,
From which an avalanche may drop.

Look down the street a mile or so,
Where people come and people go
In such a crowding that they seem
The features of a populous stream.

Look into windows where the gold
And jewels of the rare and old
Are set in glittering array
For those who have the cash to pay.

Look at some passing carriage which
May make you wish that you were rich.

Look anywhere—that is to say,
Look anywhere except her way—
For, lo, here comes what we'd command,
A dumpy woman on a wheel!

And did you vote?
Oh, me! Oh, my!

ALMOST A MIRACLE.

Ottawa, Sept. 6th, 1896.

To the Pheneoline Medicine Co., Ltd., Ottawa:—

Gentlemen,—I hardly know how best to appreciate appreciation of your valuable rheumatic remedy, Pheneoline. My son Gordon, who is 9 years old, has been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for the past two years; was so bad at times that he had to be carried about on a mattress; was attended by two city doctors apparently without the slightest benefit; spent 10 days at Caledonia Springs, came home with no marked improvement; took three bottles of a Homeopathic remedy recommended very extensively advertised, which did not relieve him in the least. I was beginning to give up all hope of his recovery, when by chance I mentioned the case to a friend who strongly advised me to give Pheneoline a trial.

I did so with the result that when my boy had taken only half a bottle he was able to get on his bicycle and ride like any other boy around the block.

I certainly feel that I cannot say too much in praise of your medicine, and shall do all I can to make known its value to others.

Yours very sincerely,

CANADA LIFE

Assurance Company.

ANOTHER PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Large Increase in Surplus.

The fifty-first annual report of the Canada Life, one of the old established Companies to be in thoroughly flourishing condition. The meeting of shareholders was held yesterday. Following is a synopsis of the report:—

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In presenting to the Shareholders their 51st Annual Report, the Directors are gratified in announcing that the Company has fairly shared in the somewhat improved condition of the business of the country, as will be seen by the [illegible] and Accounts now submitted. By these it will be observed that the Company has transacted a larger business than during the previous years, and has increased its clear surplus by no less than $497,093.05.

NEW BUSINESS.

The applications for new assurances during 1897 amounted to $9,[illegible] for the sum of $[illegible], of which, however, 280 for $921,000 were declined, the lives not appearing up to that standard which it is in the interest of the company's other assurers should be maintained, and no 791 applications for $978,200 were not carried out, the issue of the year was for $5,891,696, under 2,049 policies, exceeding 1896 by 573 policies for $798,980.

The total business in force at the close of 1897 was $72,719,555.39 of Assurances, under 38,407 policies, upon 34,409 lives.

POLICY CLAIMS.

The claims by deaths paid during 1897 amounted to $779,[illegible].61, and Endowment policies for $139,946.93, having matured, these sums, as well as $316,481.29 for profits, $14,411.15 for surrenders, and the annuity of $406, making in all $1,208,207.84, were paid to policyholders during the year.

INCREASE IN ASSETS.

The Income receipts of the year were $2,953,272.83, and deducting therefrom all payments to policyholders for claims by death, for profits, and for matured Endowment policies, as well as other outlay, including expenses of management, there was left the sum of $1,372,466.05, which increased the Company's Assets to $18,[illegible].67.

SURPLUS.

It appears by the Abstract of Assets and Liabilities, after providing [illegible] for the necessary reserve for all policies of the Company, and for all its other Liabilities, there is shown a Surplus of $1,564,082.05.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Mr. A. G. Ramsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Directors' Report and the usual accounts and statements have for some days been in your hands, and have now been taken as read. While the report is brief, it contains, I think, along with the various published accounts, all that is required to enable those interested in the Company to judge of its progress and success in the past year. The addition during 1897 of nearly half a million dollars to the surplus or profits fund is a large and satisfactory one, and without invidiously comparing it with the figures of any other particular Company. I may say that it is more than was attained by all the other Canadian companies combined. The new business of the year was, you will observe, of satisfactory and gratifying amount, and in excess of the previous year, and you will be pleased to know that it is of that desirable class which will remain more to the profit of the Company than would a larger amount obtained at heavier expense, or from less desirable regions than the healthful climate of Canada, and the four Northern States to which we have thus far deemed it judicious to confine the operations of the Company. The existing assurances are $72,719,555 or nearly twice as much as they were 12 years ago. The death claims of the year continued of very favourable amount, and being well within what was calculated upon, that fact testifies to the care observed in the selection of the lives, and to the judicious limitation of the business to the healthful climates already alluded to.

The recent lamentable failures of some of the companies doing business on the assessment system, and the anxiety felt as to the others which are based upon the same fallacious principles lead me to point out that these occurrences are only the inevitable results, which were from the first predicted by those whose knowledge and experience enabled them to judge of what the future of companies of the kind must be. At our meeting in 1887, when concerns of the kind were making strenuous efforts to establish themselves in Canada, I alluded to the miserable failures they had been in England and in America, and I said that their "ephemeral existence indicates how useless the assessment system of assurance is as a family provision. It can only offer the uncertain hope of a cheap assurance for a few years, till the company breaks down. It cannot afford any guarantee that a definite amount of assurance will certainly be paid to a widow or children after an assurer's death, whether that occurs at an early day or a distant one, and without such a guarantee as that, which our own and other sound companies offer, life assurance must be a fraud and a delusion." I added that "I was aware that agents and managers of companies of the kind pointed to the names of prominent business and professional men who have joined them, or who act as their directors, but as some of them at all events allow their names to be employed in that way, simply because policies have been gratuitously given to them, one can judge how little weight should attach to the names of the gentlemen thus used to decoy others to join such companies." One cannot envy the feelings of the prominent gentlemen alluded to, who induced persons to take policies in companies of the kind, from which they are now driven out by their failure, or by the levy of such high payments as they are unable to meet.

As the accounts show, the year's income was within a trifle of three million dollars, and the assets of the company were increased to the very considerable amount of nearly nineteen million dollars, and yielding, after deducting liabilities of every kind, a net surplus or profit of $1,564,082 for allocation at the end of next year, along with whatever addition there may be made to it between now and that time, and as the management and other expenses by which the profits to policy-holders are very largely influenced continue to be on a more moderate percentage than that of other Canadian or American companies, the prospects for our assurers are of a favourable character.

It is anticipated that legislation will be introduced by the Government, modifying the present 4½ per cent. rate of interest prescribed by law as the basis for Life Assurance Reserves, and adopting the new mortality Tables based upon the observations and large experience of the British Insurance Companies, in course of compilation by the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain, and I may say on behalf of the Board in reference to the amendment to the charter, alluded to in the Directors report of last year, that the Directors purpose to avail themselves of the occasion of that legislation to seek such amendments to the law as may meet the Board's requirements.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, and unanimously carried. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the agents, officers, medical and legal advisers of the company, Mr. Adam Brown speaking in eloquent terms of their services rendered to the Company.

Mr. Leggat moved and Lieut.-Col. McLaren seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Company during the past year. Brief and interesting addresses were also made by Sir George Kirkpatrick and Sir George Burton, the latter of whom was heartily congratulated upon the recent honour conferred upon him by the Queen.

The retiring Directors, Chief Justice Sir George Burton, Col. Sir Casimer Gzowski, K.C.M.G., and Mr. N. Barriet, were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. A. G. Ramsay was re-elected President and Mr. F. W. Gates Vice-President.

The meeting passed off very harmoniously, every one present being gratified with the progress and continued prosperity of the Canada Life, which, as Sir George Kirkpatrick remarked, was easily leader of all Companies in the Dominion.

NORWOOD CONNUBIALITIES.

Two Happy Couples Join the Benedictine Ranks.

FARMER—McDONNELL.

St. Paul's church, Norwood, was the scene of a very happy event on Thursday morning, it being the occasion of the marriage of Mr. John Farmer, manager of Messrs. Biscocetin & Co's. general store at Havelock, and Miss Mary McDonnell, of Dummer. The interesting and pleasing ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Conway, P. P.

The bride was attired in a delicate cream silk gown, trimmed with chiffon, lace and ribbon and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Maggie McDonnell, who was dressed in cream cashmere trimmed with cliff lace and ribbon and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom was attended by Mr. George Biscocetin, of Kingston.

Miss Dunn played the wedding march as the bridal party entered the church and took their places before the altar.

After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the home of the bride's parents where a well appointed wedding dinner was served and the newly married couple were most heartily received by their friends.

About 2 o'clock in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Farmer, accompanied by a few friends and followed by the hearty good wishes of all, left the parental home for Norwood, where they took the 3.40 C.P.R. express for Toronto, Buffalo, Detroit and other cities to spend a few weeks visiting friends.

The bride's travelling dress was a beautiful green basket cloth trimmed with fancy braid. She was the recipient of a number of handsome and costly presents, among which was a very pretty gold watch and chain the gift of the groom.

On their return they will settle in Havelock.

ELLIOTT—SQUIRE.

A very quiet but exceedingly interesting and pretty wedding was celebrated in Norwood on Wednesday at "Sweet Ville," the residence of Mr. J. L. Squire, in the marriage of his eldest daughter, Miss Alice Mary Squire and Mr. John F. Elliott.

The bride was very prettily attired and was attended by Miss Beatrice Elliott, sister of the groom, and her sister, Miss Gertie Squire. The groom was supported by Mr. Erwin C. Squire, brother of the bride, and Mr. Louis Turnbull, cousin of the groom.

Miss Dafoe, organist in the Holloway Street Methodist church, Belleville, an intimate friend of the bride, presided at the piano, and the merry strains of the Wedding March pealed forth as the bridal party entered the spacious parlour, the bride leaning upon her father's arm and carrying a very handsome bouquet of roses. The bridesmaids also carried beautiful bouquets of roses.

The ceremony was performed at 12 o'clock, noon, by the Rev. J. A. McCamus, in the presence of a few immediate friends of the bride and groom.

After the ceremony the usual congratulations were extended and the company repaired to the dining room where a beautiful wedding dinner was served.

At 3.40 p.m. the happy young couple were accompanied to the station by a number of friends where they took the west bound express for Toronto and Niagara Falls to spend a few days with friends.

The bride was the recipient of many tokens of appreciation and regard in the form of gifts, useful, valuable and ornamental, a number of which were from friends at a distance.

TIRED LIVING

Ten Years of Rheumatic Torture Had Sapped all Joy From Life, but South American Rheumatic Cure Proved the Life Nectar.

"For over ten years I was a great sufferer from rheumatism. I tried many remedies and was under treatment of best medical men, but nothing gave me any hope of a cure. I procured a bottle of South American Rheumatic Cure; its effects on me were truly wonderful, for when I had taken but one bottle every pain and symptom of rheumatism had left me. I heartily recommend it to every sufferer." Morrisburg, Ont. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

The Most Prominent are Fashionable.

Dyspepsia or indigestion has become a fashionable disease. There are very few individuals who have not at various times experienced the miserable feeling caused by defective digestion. No pen can describe the keen suffering of the body, and the agony and anguish of mind endured by the Dyspeptic. Dr. La Lande, of 236 Pine Ave., Montreal, says, "When I ever run across erratic cases of Dyspepsia I always prescribe Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pill, and my patients generally have quick relief."
